Old Beer Parlors In B.C. Now On Way Out

VANCOUVER (CP) — The old-style hotel beer parlors are on their way out in British Columbia, it is reported.

The Vancouver Province in a newspage story Tuesday said B.C.'s three-man liquor commission has recommended all existing hotel beer parlor licences be cancelled and only a limited number be reissued under improved conditions.

The province said the present law demanding rooms in the same building as beer parlors will be thrown out, permitting a modified form of "tavern" in B.C.

Under the recommendation the new beer parlors will have to meet rigid standards, including the service of light lunches, music but not floor shows and maintenance of high standards of ownership and services.

Other commission recommendations reported by the Province:

Some form of local option to decide on neighborhood liquor outlets.

Cocktail lounges carefully limited in number and mostly in hotels.

Alcoholic beverages with meals in a few "high class" restaurants.

Duplessis Asks Commission Study Relations

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis proposed Tuesday the setting up of a royal commission to inquire into federal-provincial relations.

In the bill, given first reading by the legislative assembly, Quebec's Union National government proposes to set up the commission to study:

"1. The problem of the distribution of taxes between the central power, the provinces, municipalities and school corporations.

"2. Encroachments by the central power in the field of direct taxation, . . in matters of income and corporation tax and succession duties.

"3. The repercussions and results of such encroachments in the legislative and administrative regime of the province and in the collective, domestic and individual life of its people.

"4. Constitutional problems of a legislative and financial nature in general."

The proposed inquiry is another step in Premier Duplessis' fight against what he has repeatedly called "invasion of provincial rights by Ottawa."

Quebec is the only province which has not signed a taxation agreement with the federal government.

Predict 1953 Will Be Fateful For Free China

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—There is a distinct feeling in all quarters here that 1953 will be a fateful year for Free China.

The feeling was strong even before President Chiang Kai-shek recently told the Nationalist armed forces to complete preparations for a return to the mainland in 1953.

On that same day, Maj.-Gen. William C. Chase, head of the United States military assistance advisory group, hinted in a speech that the Nationalist forces might see action some place before this year is out.

The general impression is that some time in 1953 the Nationalists will be given a chance to prove whether, out of the crucible of defeat, there has been forged a new army capable of defeating the Chinese Communists.

COMMANDO RAIDS

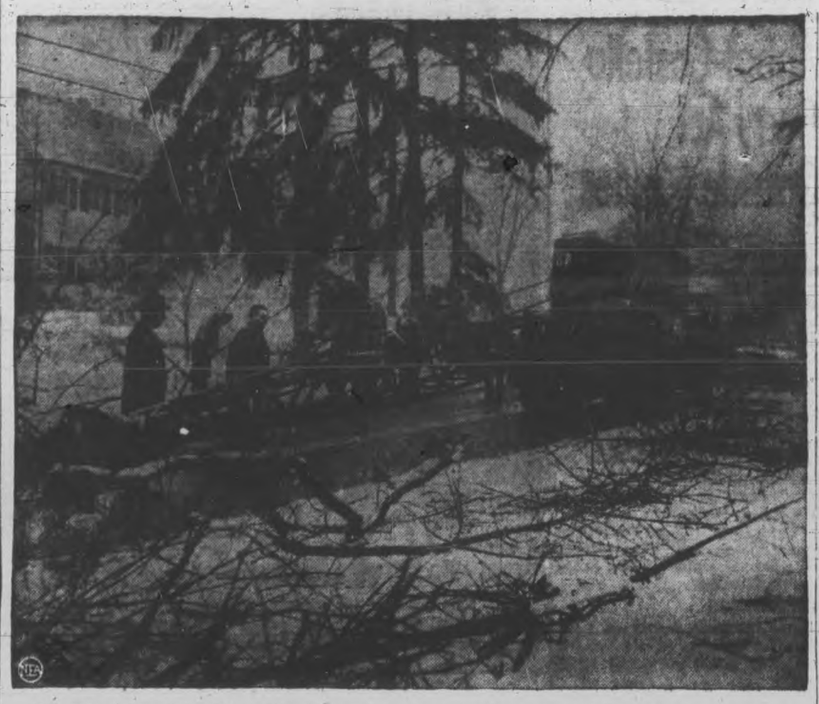
Others believe it more likely that, in the absence of United States support to launch a full-scale invasion of the mainland, Chiang's forces at least will be put in a position to make powerful commando raids along the Chinese coast.

One thing is clear: those whose business it is to train Chiang's forces are convinced that the Nationalists will acquit themselves creditably when the test comes.

Their use in Korea is regarded here as being mainly contingent on British approval—that is, if Washington first decides that they can be usefully employed there.

Most quarters here believe the British will be extremely reluctant to concur in any action that might involve breaking off diplomatic relations with the Chinese Communists, or having the Communists themselves end the existing pretense of diplomatic relations.

There is speculation that Eisenhower will make a determined effort to bring about a common Anglo-American policy in the Far East.



Whether agreement is reached or not, no one in Taipeh believes for a moment that Eisenhower or his advisers will budge an inch from the stand that Formosa is an indispensable link in America's Pacific defence chain.

WAKE OF AN ICE STORM — An emergency electrical power crew brings a crane into play at the scene of a felled power line in Chappaqua, N.Y. More than 100,000 homes in the country went without heat and power as a result of the three-day ice storm.

Long Range Weather Probs. Guesswork

SASKATOON (CP)—A meteorological expert reports that long-range weather forecasts on temperatures and rainfall have seldom been much better than guesswork, even under most favorable conditions.

Dr. B. W. Currie, head of the physics department of the University of Saskatchewan, said in an interview that a novice could give a 50-per-cent performance.

The results of a great amount of research in long-range forecasts for periods from a week to a season or a year in advance had not been encouraging.

The expert said that under the most favorable conditions the accuracy of such forecasts has seldom been greater than 55 per cent, or a little better than possible by guesswork.

A short-range forecaster is correct 90 to 95 per cent of the time. Dr. Currie said a faulty forecast bringing a scheduled flight to grief is almost unknown in aviation circles.

MUCH TO LEARN

The degree of accuracy in weather forecasting, he said, is conversely in relation to the period of time and the size of the area for which the forecast is made—high for short periods over a small area and lower for longer periods over wider areas.

Great strides had been made in weather forecasting but much remained to be learned, he said.

The proposed central weather office in Ottawa, taking into account weather conditions for areas sometimes as large as all the North American continent, might result in an increase in the accuracy of both short and long-range forecasts.

Mass Flight Continues

By VINCENT BUIST

BERLIN (Reuters)—Jewish families with bundles on their backs are joining the mass of freightened human beings fleeing from East Germany into the refuge of West Berlin.

Through snow and sleet, East Germans of all creeds and political views continue to trudge into western sectors, following the Communist regime's threatening anti-Zionist blasts as the new year began.

Refugee camps are choked, but still the mass flight continues. Many have been given straw pallets in the halls of office buildings and institutions. Some West Berliners have made room for one more in their homes.

"The East German Communists are finishing the job Hitler almost accomplished," said one escaping Jew. He reported there are "fewer than 800 Jews left in East Germany."

Refugee officials said the new arrivals "want to get away from iron discipline, grey routine, the blind purge and the fear of something worse to come."

Whole East German farming communities have picked up and fled.

West Berlin refugee officials say that at the present rate they expect 300,000 refugees in West Berlin in 1953. December a record total of 15,787 arrived. In 1952, there were some 120,000 refugees.

Since the end of the war Berlin alone has absorbed about 150,000 persons from the Soviet zone, while another 125,000 have gone through on their way to West Germany. Other hundreds of thousands have slipped out of the Communist zone directly into West Germany.

Commit Seguin For Trial; Several Charges

WILLIAMS LAKE, B.C (CP)—Henry Seguin, 34-year-old murder suspect, was committed Tuesday for trial, on a series of charges laid following an attempted bank holdup here Dec. 16.

He is wanted in Ontario to face a murder charge in the Aug. 18 slaying of taxi owner Leonard Hurd at Maxville. Hurd was killed during a holdup.

During a two-day preliminary hearing, police and bank officials told of the attempted bank robbery and Seguin's capture in the badlands north of Williams Lake.

Leonard Hillier, manager of the Bank of Commerce branch, told how he had been forced to drive Seguin around town during which a shot was fired "to show that I mean business," and then ordered to drive to the bank. They entered the bank about midnight and when two men walked in to see why the front door had been left open, Hillier said Seguin fired an automatic pistol as he fled the building. Hillier suffered a slight hip wound.

TRACED ON SNOW

An RCMP posse traced Seguin in freshly-fallen snow and a gun battle was fought when he opened fire on the officers. He suffered a chest wound.

Hillier testified that during the auto ride with Seguin he was robbed of his wallet containing a small amount of money.

Seguin was committed for trial on three charges—the robbery of Hillier; the wounding of the banker, and for firing an automatic pistol at a police officer.

He will appear in county court Thursday to elect for trial, before a judge or by jury.

Jury Returns True Bill

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—David Ruben Andrist, 20-year-old London army private, went on trial for murder Tuesday after a grand jury returned a "true bill" indictment charging him in connection with the death last Oct. 9 of his three-months-old stepson, Robert Kenneth Roe.

Andrist, who is defended by W. R. Poole, pleaded innocent when arraigned before Mr. Justice James McLennan.

Mrs. Isabel Edwards, first crown witness, described Andrist as "a proud father" who looked after his infant step-child "better than some fathers do their own children."

Mrs. Edwards and her husband sub-let a one-room apartment to the Andrists.

Mrs. Edwards said she took care of the infant during the day of its death and bathed it at 9:30 a.m.

About 4:15 p.m. Mrs. Edwards said she left the baby lying on the bed in the Andrist apartment in the care of Andrist.

When she returned about an hour later Andrist met her.

"He said: 'Will you come and look at the baby, he's fallen off the bed and hasn't moved since,' " Mrs. Edwards testified.

The child was on the bed and there was a bruise on the forehead over the left eye. Mrs. Edwards thought she felt a faint heart beat.

She phoned a doctor and rushed the child to Victoria Hospital. It was pronounced dead at the hospital.

Vatican Says Tito Gov't Wages War On R.C. Church

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Marshal Tito's Communist government was accused by the Vatican in a note made public Tuesday of waging relentless war to destroy the Roman Catholic Church in Yugoslavia. The Vatican demanded respect for the fundamental rights of the church.

The note was dated Dec. 15 and presumably was handed to Yugoslav Foreign Minister Edvard Kardelj in Belgrade at that time—two days before Yugoslavia broke relations with the Holy See.

The public release came during a lull in the rituals of consistory week, in which the Pope has raised the sacred College of Cardinals, the church's senate, to its full strength of 70. The Pope created 24 new cardinals, including Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, archbishop of Montreal.

In creating the new cardinals, the Pope told the sacred college he could not "approve the grounds of the accusations" agains tAloysius Cardinal Stepinac, Yugoslavia's Catholic Primate who is an absent member of the group.

Stepinac was conditionally released from prison a year ago after serving nearly five years of a 16-year sentence on charges of collaborating with the Axis in the Second World War.

The note cited what it described as a few of the most significant measures against the church:

Before communism came to power in Yugoslavia, there were 152 Catholic newspapers, reviews and bulletins in Yugoslavia. Now all Catholic publishing firms have been taken over by the state. All Catholic educational institutions, of which there were hundreds, have been closed. Teachers who did not profess atheism have been removed from public schools.

Navigators Federation Approves Of Seaway

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Navigators Federation at its annual meeting Tuesday favored full support for the St. Lawrence seaway project.

The organization represents masters, pilots, mates and engineers from the head of the lakes to the east coast. Scene of the meeting now moves to Toronto where discussions open Thursday.

A spokesman for the 400-member organization said the seaway would be of great benefit to the country and aid vital transportation of wheat, iron ore and other commodities.

The meeting decided to ask shipping companies for a 25-per-cent across-the-board increase and other benefits

Dismiss Appeal In Trout Case

PARRY SOUND (CP)—Judge Walter Little ruled Tuesday that most of the 127 lake trout found in a car near Algonquin Park last May were gill-netted illegally, but he dismissed a crown appeal on gill-netting charges because he said it hadn't been proved who used the net.

The men involved were George Laver, Cooksville; Dr. William Stubbs, Caledon; Lockwood Stubbs, Alton; Dr. James Thomas, Caledon; Gordon J. Bredin, Orangeville, and William Ferguson, Orangeville.

"This is a criminal case," Judge Little said. "Before any one can be convicted, his identity must be proved beyond reasonable doubt. I cannot convict the group."

A spokesman for the department of lands and forests said the verdict was "satisfactory because it showed definitely that the fish had been gill-netted, irrespective of who did the poaching."

Ontario's Population Up 15,000 Month

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's riches and greatness will amount to nothing without the moral and spiritual fibre of the people, Premier Leslie Frost said Tuesday night.

Speaking at the opening of the Toronto East Community YMCA, Mr. Frost said the province's population is growing at the rate of 15,000 persons a month. Since he became provincial treasurer more than nine years ago, Ontario's budget had increased from $75,000,000 to $300,000,000.

"Yet with all this growth there is nothing as important as the things that deal with the character and spiritual background of four people," he said.

Faces Murder Trial

HAMILTON (CP)—Charles Corman, 52, of Denfield district will stand trial for the murder of a Stoney Creek builder, Sheldon Hyland, last Nov. 16. A true bill was returned in his case Tuesday by the grand jury of the Ontario Supreme Court assizes.

Abbot-Costello Carry Act Outside Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bud Abbott and Lou Costello argue so much that sometimes you can't tell when it's part of the act and when it's for real.

I realized this when I had lunch with them during a break in their TV rehearsal.

It started with the limburger cheese.

Bud was having a dish of limburger with raw onion. This pained Lou, who put a napkin over the fragrant repast.

"It's dead," said Lou. "Let's give it a decent burial."

"Cut it out!" snapped Bud. "That cheese doesn't smell." This touched off a heated exchange that lasted several minutes.

HARDER JOB

After the battle cooled off, I put forth the question of whether it's harder to make the public laugh today.

"Absolutely," replied Bud. "With all the war and taxes and unrest in the world, people don't laugh as readily as they used to."

"I disagree," countered Lou, who used to be the fat one but has slimmed down to Abbott's size. "I think people are more eager to laugh than ever before—because of all their troubles."

"You're nuts," answered Bud. "I'll tell you another reason it's harder to make people laugh today. Thanks to TV, more people are getting more entertainment tha never before in history. Something's got to be really funny or they'll switch the dial to another program."

TV WONDERFUL

They argued this back and forth for a while. About the only thing they could agree on was: TV is wonderful.

Ten or 12 years ago, we'd get mobbed wherever we went because of our movies," Lou remarked. "After a few years, that sort of thing died down. But now we're getting it all over again.

"I just took a trip east. When I stopped over in Chicago, I had to make my way through the kids. When I walked through the lobby of the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, it was a mob scene."

Both comics agreed that they work hard for the new revival of their careers. Their show looks like a breezy, easy hour. But Lou said, "I'd rather make a feature picture than do one live show on TV."

Asks Dues Checkoff Part Of Federal Code

OTTAWA (CP)—Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) made a new request Tuesday that the voluntary revocable checkoff of union dues be made a part of the federal labor code.

As at past sessions in recent years, Mr. Knowles sponsored in the Commons a bill that would provide for an amendment to the labor code. The amendment would enable certified unions to ask that union dues be deducted from pay cheques. Employees could cancel the arrangement at any time on request.

P. E. Cote, parliamentary assistant to Labor Minister Gregg, said he believes the time has not yet come when compulsory features should be inserted in the labor code. The checkoff would remain a matter for collective bargaining.

Debate on the measure was not concluded at the expiry of the hour devoted to private members' legislation.

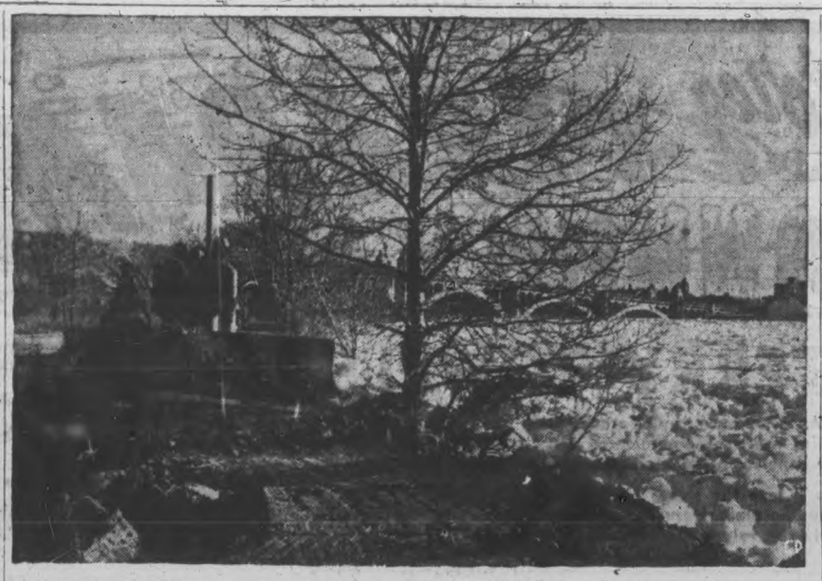
Archbishop Asks Senate Inquiry In Vulgar Film

OTTAWA (CP)— A French film which lampoons France's army, church and politicians, today brought an official protest by Archbship Alexandre Vachon, head of the Ottawa Roman Catholic Archdiocese.



The film, Clochemerle, now playing in an Ottawa theatre, is "vulgar" and should be made the subject of a Senate inquiry, the archbishop said.

The satire deals with life in a French village. A comfort station becomes the symbol of progress and the unwed women who fight it are depicted as forces of reaction. It also deals with a corporal and his girl friend who are a little ahead of the church in their wooing.

"We protest against the film Clochemerle which at the moment is in a local theatre," said Archbishop Vachon. "It is a vulgar film with words to match, with unconventional gestures, and above all, it is a film both pernicious and dangerous.

"So we are asking our faithful people to express their disapproval with their absence. We appeal equally to the authorities to stop the showing of film's so provocative and which are both nauseating and in bad taste.

"We wish above all to ask if this is not an opportune time to demand that a Senate committee which is studying obscene shows could not equally well direct its attention to indecent films which are circulating throughout Canada."

RIVER FLOODS — The Bow River, perennial flood threat to Calgary, has again come near to bursting its banks and flooding low-lying sections of the Rocky Mountains foothills city. Workmen toiled around the clock building new dikes and strengthening old ones as the river, choked with ice, trickled through weak spots and flooded riverbank roads.

Edmonton Eskies Pick Executive, No Coach

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union Tuesday night named an executive but no coach. Ken G. Montgomery was re-elected president.

There was no announcement from the directors' meeting regarding club policies for 1953 or who will replace Frank Filchock, last year's playing-coach who guided the Eskimos to the Grey Cup final.

Filchock was ousted last month following a dispute with the executive.

Discrimination Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons gave first reading Tuesday to a bill to prevent discrimination in employment and trade unions because of race, color or religion. The bill was sponsored by Labor Minister Gregg.

Village Of Wellesley Has Fire Dept. Row

TORONTO (CP)—The village of Wellesley is embroiled in an argument over who runs the fire department.

The dispute arose from the dismissal last week of fire chief Joseph Wagner by trustees Joseph Logel and Gustave Miller. The firemen resigned in a body in support of the chief.

David Low of the Ontario fire marshal's department said the village does not control the fire department. He said it was established under a township by-law.

Mr. Logel said the action was taken with the consent of the township reeve, and was therefore binding. Meantime, Mr. Logel said another department is being organized with himself as temporary chief.

Cape Breton Jail Scene Of Wedding

SYDNEY, N. S. (CP)—Cape Breton county jail was the scene of a wedding Tuesday. A prisoner was one of the principals.

Ralph Albert Fabian Connolly, 24, of Toronto was married to Irene Ruby Kyle, 18, of Prince Albert, Ont., 15 miles north of Oshawa.

Connolly will be taken to Dorchester penitentiary this week to begin serving a four-year term for his part in a Dec. 14 safe robbery. Two companions also were given prison terms.

His bride was one of three women who also pleaded guilty to the robbery. They were placed on suspended sentence for two years.

Sees Nationalization Threat If Freight Rates Increased

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian Federation of Agriculture spokesman Tuesday criticized the Canadian Pacific Railway's move for a new freight rate system, contending it would backfire by threatening the CPR with nationalization.

Dr. E. C. Hope, economist for the 400,000-farmer group, told the board of transport commissioners the proposal would start a "pyramid" of rate increases that would bring "disintegration" of the CPR's rail business.

Criticism of the plan came, too, from George S. Goldthwaite, New York public utilities consultant, who said it would open the way for "inflated" claims for higher rail charges and would add new complexities to Canada's complicated freight rate setup.

Mr. Goldthwaite testified on behalf of the eight provincial governments—all except Ontario and Quebec—that are opposing the CPR's application to have the board allow it a stated annual return on its rail investment, substantially higher than what the company now earns.

Dr. Hope said that a switch to the rate-of-return system asked by the CPR would be the first step towards railway amalgamation.

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. David Yeamans, 99, the second oldest resident of suburban Scarborough, died Sunday. She was a former pupil of Alexander Muir, composer of "The Maple Leaf Forever." Mrs. Yeamans was a direct descendant of the family of David Thomson, who first moved into the township in 1796.

Night Fire Watch

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton firemen received orders Tuesday that at least one man must be awake at each station all night. Fire Chief E. J. Nixon said one man must keep watch between 1:30 and 6 a.m. while his fellow firefighters sleep. The regulation has been in force for some months but has not appeared on the books recently.

Garden Hose Solves Farm Milking Problem

SHELBURNE (CP)—A length of garden hose hooked up to the intake manifold of his tractor solved a milking problem for William G. Clark, a district dairy farmer.

He was tired of milking by hand as a result of being without power for three days following Saturday's ice storm. He attached the other end of his hose to the milking machine and found that it worked.

Lloyd Cross Acquitted In Cabbie Slaying

WELLAND (CP)—Lloyd Frank Cross, 34, was acquitted Tuesday of murder in the bludgeon slaying three years ago of taxi driver Sam Delibasich, 47, of Welland.

His brother, James Alfred Kelsey, 29, has been sentenced to death for the murder. The Ontario Court of Appeal upheld his conviction, but he has been granted a stay of execution until March 10 to allow his appeal to go before the Supreme Court of Canada.

An Ontario Supreme Court jury freed Cross after deliberating two hours.

Delibasich, born in Yugoslavia and who once lived in Timmins and Kirkland Lake, disappeared Dec. 9, 1949. His body was found by rabbit hunters in an oat field near here nine days later and his taxi was recovered in Toronto.

FOLLOW CLUES

Police followed clues for two years before making an arrest. The trail led to political intrigue and robbery as possible motives.

Delibasich came to Canada in 1927 but revisited Yugoslavia in 1939. His brother was an ex-Chetnik who fought Marshal Tito's Conamunist partisans in Yugoslavia during the Second World War. Persons who knew Delibasich said he helped anti-Communist Yugoslavs escape to Canada and that he blamed the Yugoslav government for the death of his brother, dragged from a Belgrade apartment in 1945 and beaten to death.

Cross was arrested at Brookville, N.B., where his wife and three children had been living. Police announced Kelsey's arrest a short time later. Kelsey, formerly of Welland, changed his name when his mother married a second time. He was deported from the United States after being held in Buffalo, N.Y., on a charge of illegally entering the U.S. in June, 1951.

The brothers were committed for trial at separate preliminary hearings at Welland last March. Kelsey said they hired Delibasich's car for a 12-mile ride to St. Catharines.

During the trip, he said, they both struck the driver on the head with a hammer. He then stabbed him in the back with an ice pick.

Careless Driving

Charles A. Watson, Erskine Ave., was convicted of careless driving and fined $10 and $8.50 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, in police court Tuesday.

Watson was involved in an accident on Highway 28, November 10.

Rule $94,000 Will Invalid Because Man Of Unsound Mind

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Supreme Court Tuesday decided that a will involving a $94,000 estate, made by John Arthur Blackburn in 1950, is invalid because he was not of sound mind when he made it.

The court ruled in favor of a 1944 will, reversing an earlier judgment by Mr. Justice H. A. Aylen who had upheld the second one.

Beneficiaries under the first will are four Chatham religious and charitable bodies.

Mr. Blackburn, a Chicago and Toronto salesman for Packard Motors before his death two years ago, left $40,736 to Mrs. Margaret Duncan Tolmie of Toronto and Mrs. Virginia Duncan Agar of Chatham in his second will.

The valid will provides $10,000 and other belongings for Lyle Blackburn, a nephew, several minor bequests and for the remainder to go to the Chatham General Hospital, the Chatham Rotary Club's crippled children's fund, St. Andrew's United Church and the Salvation Army, Chatham.

Mr. Blackburn's wife died in 1944 and five years later his health began to fail.

Mr. Justice Wilfred D. Roach, writing the court's judgment, said Mr. Blackburn's mentality degenerated to such an extent that he was certified for a mental hospital in Jan. 10, 1950. He deteriorated "from an immaculately dressed, precise, alert gentleman to a shabby, unshaven, unkempt, filthy nuisance" who "believed in the existence of imaginary persons and transferred identities," Mr. Justice Roach said.

Hints Ottawa May Stop Liquor Policing

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton hinted Tuesday that Ottawa may stop policing Ontario liquor control laws if the liquor control board persists in handing out licences against the city's wishes.

This would mean that Ontario provincial police would have to take over the policing job, currently carried out by city police under a municipal - provincial agreement.

Apparently still angry over the board's action in granting a liquor licence to an Ottawa restaurant (Karson's) against her wishes, Miss Whitton told the board of control:

"If the liquor control board still continues to defy the city's wishes and issues further licences, we can terminate the agreement that now exists."

The agreement provides that the city receive 20 per cent of fees collected from the liquor licensing board and all fines levied against persons prosecuted and found guilty of contravening the liquor laws.

Israeli Radio Calls Russian Charges Lies

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israel's government-controlled radio Tuesday night denounced as lies the Soviet allegations that a group of Jewish doctors assassinated two Russian leaders and plotted the deaths of others.

In its nightly "Voice of Israel" broadcast, the radio played back recorded excerpts of Radio Moscow's charges. Then, in the Russian language, it bitterly assailed the charges as false.

Reds Push Plans For National Video Network

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Soviet engineers, faced with a multitude of difficulties, are pushing ahead with plans for a nation-wide television network.

Communist officials eagerly await it as a means for promoting the Stalin program for building up communism in the country.

One innovation in the Russian TV system is a plan to avoid the forest of TV aerials on apartment house roofs. Each block of apartments would have one central receiver with a single aerial.

Individual apartments would have facilities for plugging "skeleton" sets into the central receiver. As yet, Russia has no problems over conflicting preferences about channels.

PARTY GIVES O.K.

"Go ahead" for expanding television and developing a nation-wide hook-up was given at the recent Communist party congress here.

Engineers now are working on mass-produced television sets for family use, big screens for group viewings and co-axial cables for inter-urban transmission.

Progress is also reported in enlarged-type screens for group viewing. Moscow radio said recently that the Popov Museum of Communication Media in Leningrad is exhibiting a type of set with a screen about 15½ by 23½ inches for installation in workers' clubs and auditoriums.

LARGE SCREEN

Two other types of large screens are said to have been demonstrated recently in the laboratory One was said to provide pictures of about 35½ by 47 inches for hotels, hospitals, rest houses and health resorts.

The other was described as having a screen three yards by four. It will be for television shows to large public gatherings.

The big-screen sets will also be used for holding conferences simultaneously in two or more cities, saving busy executives needless trips to Moscow, for example, and for enabling the population to "sit in" at big public functions by gathering in television halls.

Foundations are being laid for the future national network, based on key stations in the main cities.

Both color and three-dimensional television are reported to be available now in laboratory models.

Lt.-Col. W. McGregor On Hospital Board

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Lt.-Col. Walter L. McGregor was nominated Tuesday night to represent Metropolitan General Hospital on the proposed new board of directors of East Windsor Hospital.

Earlier Hotel Dieu Hospital nominated R. W. Keeley and Grace Hospital selected A. St. Clair Ryley.

Chairman of the board will be Ian R. McFarlane, nominee of the Ontario government, who Saturday was elected president of the East Windsor Health Association which operates the hospital for the chronically ill.

Oliver Blasts Heavy PC Taxes

TORONTO (CP)—Farquhar Oliver, opposition leader in the Ontario legislature, said Tuesday no other provincial government has taxes as heavily as the present Progressive Conservative government of Ontario.

For that reason, the Ontario Conservatives are in no position to criticize the federal Liberal administration for heavy taxation, he said.

Mr. Oliver said in an address to the Liberal Business Men's Club that Ontario taxes in 1951 were $274,000,000, compared with $127,000,000 in 1943 when the Liberals left office.

Sentence Tripled

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal Tuesday tripled the sentence of Bernard Martin, 43, on a charge of illegal possession of morphine. Martin was originally sentenced to one year. The crown sought a stiffer penalty and the appeal court increased it to three years plus a $200 fine or an additional six months.

Fishermen Settle

PORT STANLEY (CP)—Settling cases out of court Tuesday, commercial fishermen regained control of their tugs. Fines were about $65 each. Officially the vessels have been under restraint since Jan. 5, when the department of lands and forests seized them and their fish when the tugs lifted their nets after the closing of the fishing season. Disposition of the fish seized was not made public.

Dr. Jordan Says

Average Diet Has Sufficient Vitamins For Needs Of Body

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Vitamins have been recognized for about 50 years. They may be considered as substances of varying chemical nature and differing actions on the body which are required in the diet in addition to minerals, fats, proteins and starches.

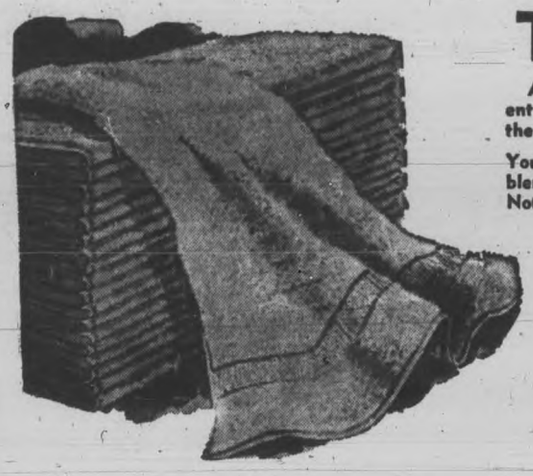
There are, as most people are aware, a good many different kinds of vitamins, but for some reason or other it is not so commonly realized that most vitamins are present in the average diet in sufficient amounts for the needs of the body.

There are exceptions to this, it is true, and complete absence of certain definite deficiency diseases with such names as beriberi, pellagra, rickets and scurvy.

It is also true that there are less definite illnesses which are caused by insufficient quantities of one vitamin or of several, and which interefere with health in a less clear-cut way than diseases such as those mentioned.

Millions of words have been written about the vitamins and indeed the growth of knowledge about these "accessory food factors" and the part which they play in various functions of the body is one of the most remarkable developments of the past half-century.

The discussion of vitamins started out by a lettering system, so that the vitamin which prevented a certain kind of inflamation of the eye was called vitamin A, the substance which prevented beriberi was called vitamin B, and that which prevented or cured scurvy was called vitamin C. As time went on vitamin deficiency diseases were recognized and vitamins D, E, G, K, M and P added.



All this became complicated for one reason or another, and perhaps the subject of vitamin B became the most confused of all. This was because it became known that vitamin B was not a single substance, but was a complex or complicated mixture of several substances with differing actions.

PARTS WERE NUMBERED.

Thus the various parts of vitamin B became numbered vitamin B1, B2, all the way up to B14 and several of these were given special names, such as thiamine and riboflavin.

It is hard enough for physicians to try to remember the various kinds of vitamins and their actions, and there seems little need for other people to do this. There are, however, many interesting things about vitamins, about what they do for the human body, and about the symptoms which their absence can produce. A few of these things therefore, will be discussed in other columns on this subject.

In the big laboratory in the university's engineering building he has set up scale models of the St. Lawrence river and the proposed seaway.

CAPTURE FEARSOME BEASTIE

A prowling muskrat kitten, about four blocks from the Otonabee river caused three-quarters of an hour of excitement on Hawley St., Tuesday afternoon. The William Constable family at 689 noticed the creature first under the verandah of neighbor Clair Foster. A couple of sporting dogs tried their luck at flushing the 'rat out but were frightened away. The Constables called conservation officer Stanley Windsor who arrived after the animal had moved under the Constable verandah. The officer netted it, put it in his car and carted it away, to be released in the Otonabee River where it came from in the first place.

ANOTHER BONESHAKER WAS ADDED today to the 25, or so, bicycles in the garage of the City Police Department. Bikes and trikes of all ages, sizes and makes—many of them without the required licensing markers—are being stored at the city's expense. Some of them accumulated at the old Police Station. An auction was held last year which got rid of some and another sale will be held this spring, Chief Thompson says. Constable Dennis Traynor is shown above.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Paradox, Change Strike Eye In Busy, Present-Day Israel

A land of paradox, change and hard work would be a description of Israel today. That is the impression of Mrs. A. H. Friedgut, wife of the agent-general of the Canadian Zionist Organization. Mrs. Friedgut returned two months ago from Israel, where she has spent the past three years. At present she is making a speaking tour of Canada, relating her impressions of Israel to chapters of the Hadassah across Canada.

MRS. A. H. FRIEDGUT, in Peterborough to speak to the local branch of Hadassah, is the wife of the agent-general of the Canadian Zionist Organization. She returned two months ago from Israel to make a speaking tour of Canada.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

For paradox, Mrs. Friedgut pointed to the modern buildings in Jerusalem, built of native stone and in the most advanced architectural style. To the housewives in these buildings milk was delivered in large containers and poured from them into smaller containers the housewives kept it in.

For change, she mentioned a school sponsored by Canada's Hadassah organizations. It was for DP children and was built on a sand dune. Irrigation had turned the dune into a garden. The miracle of the soil's regeneration, she said, was nothing to the miracles of regeneration of the children.

Hard work, she said, was needed everywhere. She emphasized that all citizens of the country were not happy, because there were many difficult things to do. Housing was needed, more irrigation was necessary for the land, and there were many problems facing the 1,600,000 citizens of this new land.

GOVERNMENT PRO-LABOR

Politically, the government of Israel was pro-labor. The Mapai (mildly labor) merged with the General Zionist party (like the Liberal party here) following the defeat of the religious bloc on the question of compulsory military service for women.

The coalition will mean a swing to the right in fiscal policy, she expects, and will show its effect in commercial and trade legislation.

UE Demands 20-Cent Wage Boost

Contract Proposals Include Clauses On Welfare, Pensions

Local 524, UE, the bargaining agents for some 3,300 production workers at the Peterborough works of the CGE, will hand their 1953 contract proposals to management this Saturday.

Included in the proposals are a 20-cent-an-hour wage increase, reduction of the work week to 40 hours, a health and welfare plan and a pension plan—both paid for by the company.

The present two-year master contract ends March 27 and the new one will be hammered out after talks between management and the UE joint negotiating committee. On the committee are representatives from the Peterborough local and the sister locals in Toronto CGE plants, representing 7,000 production workers.

"Peterborough workers ratified the proposals Sunday night and since then the proposals have been ratified by the Toronto CGE workers," George Wallace, president of Local 524, said today. "They will be submitted to the company this Saturday in accordance with the terms of the agreement."

LIST DEMANDS

Principal demands are as follow:

A wage increase of 20 cents an hour;

An extra wage increase for all day-rate workers and all female workers;

Incorporation of the cost-of-living bonus (now nine cents an hour) into the basic rate;

A 20 per cent incentive for piece workers above the basic rate (at present it is 15 per cent);

Work week reduced from 43 hours (in Peterborough) to 40 hours with no loss of take-home pay;

All employees on the checkoff as a condition of employment;

Improved vacations and two additional statutory holidays — Remembrance Day and Coronation Day;

A health and welfare plan, paid for by the company; covering the cost of doctors' bills and hospitalization, and $40 a week sick pay;

A pension plan, also paid by the company, making the retirement age 65 for men and 60 for women, with a minimum payment of $125 a month.

Peterborough's population is now 39,348 as counted by Assessment Commissioner J. E. Davis.

This figure is the total record and count of the assessment department since the annexation of the block of South Smith became effective January 1.

Mr. Davis confirms the report of William Telford, Smith assessor, and in the new section of the city there are 1,080 people.

The assessment department has never claimed census exactness for their listing of the population. It is more or less incidental to their work, at least in the details of the number of boarders and others who are not the owners and tenants of the property to be assessed.

Mr. Davis reported to the city council late last year that the population then was 38,268. With annexation the total soared over the 39,000 level, another first timer and new peak. Mr. Davis obtained the figure 1,080 for the former Smith corner by going thrugh the Telford assessment roll and counting the names of the property owners, tenants and other residents. So, the 1953 population is getting close to the 39,500 mark.

Managing Director Of Paper Retires

THREE RIVERS, Que. (CP)—Emile Jean, CBE, 57, managing director of the Three Rivers daily newspaper, Le Nouvelliste, for almost 30 years, retired on pension Tuesday and was replaced by Raymond Dube, 46, who has held the post of editor for the last five years. Fernand Gagnon, news editor, will take over as editor.

Mr. Jean was president of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association in 1940-41.

Value Of Building In City, Townships Hits $6,475,098

The 1952 building permits issued by Peterborough and its neighboring townships, chiefly for new construction in the suburban fringe, amounted to $6,475,098.

The municipal components of this aggregate are in estimated value of the new building for which permits were issued last year:

Smith township	$ 491,750
North Monaghan	383,025
Otonabee	228,800
Douro	193,900
Peterborough	5,178,523
Total	$6,475,098

Total value of the permits in the four townships was $1,296,575.

Nearly 6½ million was spent on building materials and wages in the area of which Peterborough is the centre.

Jeremiah Mahoney, clerk of Douro township, informed The Examiner that its 41 permits ranged from $100 up to $15,000, the latter for the Moldaver apartments at the corner of River Road and Spencley Lane in the Auburn area.

New dwellings represented a large part of the 1953 investment in the city and across its borders. Some of the money was for new summer cottages in three of the townships.

Peterborough built 196 houses, Smith 50, North Monaghan 25, and most of the Otonabee permits were also for domestic construction to meet the continuing demand for accommodation.

Just what the record will be for 1953 can be only a surmise.

ONTARIO'S CCF Leader, E. B. Jolliffe, will be the guest speaker January 24 at the CCF-trade union conference being held in Peterborough for the first time. CCF policies and their significance to organized labor is the theme of the conference.

Jolliffe Speaks At CCF LaborConference

E. B. Jolliffe, leader of the Ontario CCF, will be guest speaker at a dinner here Jan. 24 that winds up a day-long CCF-trade union conference.

Purpose of this conference—the first ever held in Peterborough—is to acquaint the rank and file union members with the policies of the CCF. It is expected that nearly all those attending will be from the 17 locals either affiliated with, or directly chartered to, the Canadian Congress of Labor.

The CCF has been chosen as the political arm of the CCL.

As many as 50 delegates are expected to register for the conference which will be at the new Peterborough Labor Centre, on Water St.

DISCUSSION GROUP

Two discussion groups will begin in the morning. The first topic will be "Achievements of the CCF in Saskatchewan." It will be led by Fred Young, CCF orgonizer for Eastern Canada. The second will be "Health Insurance." It will be led by Andrew Brewin, Toronto barrister, who is on the provincial executive of the party.

Lunch will be served at noon and then the discussion groups will continue. The report of the groups will be late in the afternoon.

Last item on the agenda in the afternoon is an address "Effective participation of union members in the CCF," by Henry Welsbach, executive secretary of the CCL's political action committee.

A buffet supper will be served at 7 p.m., and the guest speaker will be Mr. Jolliffe.

Schedule Film Festival For February Dates

Third annual Peterborough Film Festival will be held in Queen Mary School auditorium, Feb. 19, 20 and 21.

These dates were decided at a meeting of the Peterborough Film Council Tuesday night. An additional night was added because of the packed houses in the former two years.

Two films, Animal Kingdom and Letter From Capetown, were shown. The Rev. I. G. Pollock of Grace United Church led a discussion period following the showings on the racial problems in South Africa.

It was decided to buy a new projector to meet the ever-growing demand for equipment.

R. C. Ward, National Film Board supervisor for the district, reported audiences totalling 138,000 viewed NFB films in the district during 1952.

Lawyer Implies City Police Use Third Degree In Drunk Driving Charge

Crown Closes, Re-Opens Case, Then Requests Dismissal For Lack Of Evidence; Officer Admits Confusion In Questioning

A suggestion by defence counsel Robert Carley that city police used third degree tactics in obtaining two statements from William R. Coons, 25, of Bridgenorth, on a drunk driving charge was left hanging in mid-air today. "You were giving him the third degree?" Mr. Carley asked Detective Douglas Farthing who took the statements, as Detective Farthing was testifying as to how the statements had been obtained. Coons also testified as to what had taken place during the interview and after he had testified, Crown Attorney John R. Bradshaw asked that the drunk driving charge against Coons be dismissed, before Magistrate W. R. Philp had ruled whether or not the statement was voluntary and admissable.

Confusion was the feature of the trial in polce court, as both Mr. Bradshaw and Magistrate Philp admitted they had misunderstood the evidence of constable Harold Andrew. Constable Andrews testified that Coons told him he was not driving his car when it collided with a city bus on Charlotte St., December 21.

This was when Coons was arrested in a Charlotte St. beverage room after the accident and both the magistrate and crown attorney said they understood the constable had said Coons admitted driving the car.

CLAIMS NO PROOF

At this point the crown's case had been closed, and Mr. Carley asked for dismissal of the charge because it had not been proven that Coons was driving at the time of the accident.

Mr. Bradshaw then asked permission to re-open the case and call detective Farthing. Under the circumstances, Magistrate Philip said he was agreeing to Mr. Bradshaw's request.

Immediately, Mr. Carley challenged the ruling as being "irregular" and contrary to accepted practice. Mr. Carley said he questioned the authority of the bench to make such a ruling.

CONFUSION COMPOUNDED

Confusion was compounded when detective Farthing was called and admitted under cross examination by Mr. Carley that when he first began questioning Coons he thought he was a suspect he was looking for in connection with another case.

After the first interview in which detective Farthing said he was satisfied that Coons was not the suspect he at first thought he might be, Coons was taken back to the cells. This was the day following the accident.

Detective Farthing denied that there was any discussion about drunk driving with Coons and that he had nothing in his own mind about a drunk driving charge when he was questioning Coons.

Prior to calling detective Farthing and the argument as to whether the case could be re-opened, Mr. Bradshaw said he did not believe there was any evidence Coons was drunk at the time of the accident and that "in all probability the charge would have to be dismissed."

COULD REDUCE CHARGE

However, Magistrate Philp said it was possible the charge could be reduced from drunk driving to a lesser charge.

Coons had named two other men who were with him the previous afternoon, and after he had been taken back to the cells, detective Farthing said he brought him back to the detectives' office again.

"I told him those other fellows told me a different story — then the accused sat down and said, 'I might as well tell you all about it'."

Called to the stand, Coons declared that the first time he was questioned and asked his name, detective Farthing replied "You're a liar," Coons answered.

CLAIMED THREAT MADE

Then Coons claimed detective Farthing threatened that "if I didn't say I was driving the car, he would pin a drunk driving rap on me. I said 'How can you pin a drunk driving rap on a sober man?' and he said 'That's easy enough'."

The second time he was taken up for questioning, Coons said detective Farthing told him the two who he said had been with him had told him that Coons was driving the car which collided with the city bus.

"I had no other choice," said Coons. "I wrote out the statement. Detective Farthing said, 'Say in the statement you were driving the car. If you fill that out and sign it, I'll forget about the drunk driving rap'." Detective Farthing had denied making such a statement to Coons when Mr. Carley asked him if he had.

The first time he had been brought up, Coons said he had been told there was no way he could be released. Then after writing and signing one statement and signing another, written by detective Farthing, "I signed a $200 bond and walked out."

Mr. Bradshaw asked Coons if he was sure there was another man in the room when he signed the bail bond and Coons replied "Yes."

Youth Admits Slaying His Mother

DETROIT (AP)—Kenneth Lee Maurer, 20, broke down and confessed late Tuesday to killing his mother with his boy scout ax, prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien reported.

But the youth insisted he could not remember killing his 11-year-old sister Janet with a hatchet and knife, the prosecutor said.

Maurer was returned here earlier in the day from Florida to face charges of murdering his mother and sister Nov. 28, 1951.

Police said Maurer broke down and sobbed out a confession when his father, Lawrence, 48, confronted him in police headquarters.

The father pleaded: "Son, for God's sake tell the truth."

Detectives said Maurer related that his mother complained about the noise he had been making the morning of the slaying and said he had awakened her. Maurer said: "I remember going to my room and getting my Boy Scout ax and returning and hitting her with it."

Tempest In Teapot For Hansard Rporter Refusing To Answer Unprecedented Demand

OTTAWA (CP)—The little man who isn't officially there—a Hansard reporter—became embroiled in a contentious Commons argument, Tuesday. True to tradition he didn't say a word.

A team of seven shorthand experts daily record the official report of Parliament, in relays of 10 minutes each. They can be seen at their desks on the floor of the Commons, but they never speak.

Hansard became involved after Prime Minister St. Laurent had objected to use of certain words by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader. He said Mr. Drew had reflected on the independence of members and demanded a withdrawal.

Mr. Drew asked to what words the prime minister objected.

Speaker Ross Macdonald said perhaps the Hansard reporter could read back his shorthand notes—an unprecedented step.

At this point the reporter, John Robertson, 39, formerly of London, Ont., saw his relief appear. He closed his notebook and began to leave the chamber. The speaker told the sergeant-at-arms, Lt.-Col. W. J. Franklin, to order him back.

Mr. Robertson came back. The speaker repeated his request, commenting that he would not consider the action unparliamentary.

WOULDN'T SPEAK

The man without a voice shook his head negatively.

Mr. Speaker: "Has any honorable member any suggestion to make to get me out of this dilemma."

A hush fell over the House.

Mr. St. Laurent jumped into the breach. He said he could understand the reporter's reluctance to "do a thing which would be unique in the annals of the House of Commons—namely to speak while the House is in session." If the reporter were allowed to withdraw he could quickly supply a transcript of his notes.

To this reporter Robertson emphatically nodded his head.

The speaker said he would rule when he got the transcript.

Then the reporter left.

The situation developed after Mr. Drew commented that "the members of the party who have shown a strong disinclination to show any independence of opinion in their voting in this house" would support the government.

Mr. St. Laurent angrily stood up and asked: "Is that kind of reference to the whole of the members who belong to any other party but that of the honorable gentleman, in order in this House?"

DREW "AT LOSS"

The speaker suggested the Opposition leader withdraw but Mr. Drew said he was at a loss to know just what words he should withdraw.

Mr. St. Laurent then gave his version: It was that the opposition leader said the government would "be supported by all the usual followers of the government in the house who have never shown any inclination to exercise any degree of independence."

Mr. Drew said his words were: "That the motion (by Defence Minister Claxton) would doubtless be supported by those who have shown a strong disinclination to vote against the government."

Speaker Macdonald said his only anxiety was that Mr. Drew had reflected on the independence of members but because Hansard could not speak he would wait for an official report.

At the night sitting the speaker said he had the official report and discovered that neither himself, the prime minister nor Mr. Drew had repeated the words correctly—and that nothing unparliamentary had been uttered and all should be forgotten.

Mr. St. Laurent led the House in applauding the decision.

Pakistan Buying Wheat From Canada

KARACHI (Reuters)—Pakistan, faced with a deficit of about 500,000 tons of wheat this winter, announced Tuesday the purchase of a 100,000 tons from Canada.

Normally an exporting country with 500,000 tons to spare, Pakistan made extensive purchases of wheat last year because of crop failures due to severe drought.

Negotiations are proceeding for a further 60,000 tons from foreign countries, to help build up reserves.

False Oath Appeal Won By Feldman

TORONTO (CP) — Because a court held the crown had not proved the Securities Act of 1945 and 1947 now is in force, Herman Jack Feldman Tuesday won his appeal against a conviction on a charge of making a false oath. The charge arose from an application for a licence as a securities salesman.

The crown contended that Feldman did not reveal in the application that he had been convicted in Toronto and Los Angeles of offences not involving securities.

Posters Deck Rome Streets Against Reds

ROME (AP) — Brilliantly-colored posters attacking communism and accusing the Reds of preventing two new Roman Catholic cardinals from coming to Rome to receive their symbols of office blossomed through the city today.

The bright placards were posted by Premier Alcide de Gasperi's ruling Christian Democrat party a few hours before the Pope, in a late-day private ceremony at the Vatican was to present the red biretta, or square cap, to Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, archbishop of Montreal, and 15 other new princes of the church who did get to Rome.

The presentation is another highlight of the consistory week which opened Monday with the Pope's elevation of 24 prelates to bring the College of Cardinals to its full strength of 70 members.

Six other new cardinals were to get their birettas from the heads of state in Spain, France, Portugal and here in Italy, at special ceremonies.

CEREMONIES CONCLUDE

The elevation ceremonies conclude tomorrow with the great public consistory in St. Peter's Basilica at which the Pontiff will present the broad-brimmed galeros or red hats

The posters put up by the Christian Democrats blamed communism for the absence of Aloysius Cardinal Stepinac, Primate of Yugoslavia, and Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, Primate of Poland.

"This is the peace and liberty of communism," the placards decried. They also carried pictures of the two absent prelates.

The Pope told the consistory elevating the new cardinals Monday that he had received a telegram from Cardinal Wyszynski, archbishop of Gneisen and Warsaw, saying that he would not come to Rome to get his red hat.

Term In Mercer For Theft Of Liquor

Marion Butcher, 16, 390 Queen St., was sentenced to six months in Mercer Reformatory when she appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp Tuesday after pleading guilty to a theft charge Monday.

Her accomplice in the theft of a bottle of liquor from Henry Wong, another roomer at 390 Queen St., was given an indefinite term not exceeding two years in the House of the Good Shepherd.

They were charged with breaking and entering Wong's room on January 4 and stealing first a glass of liquor from the bottle, then taking the liquor remaining in the bottle.

Texas-NY Fight Fatal

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—A Warren air force base airman died Monday night following a fist fight over merits of Texas and New York. The Laramie county attorney's office identified the victim as Harvey L. Gordon, Maspeth, N.Y. Police said Gordon and William A. Chadwick, Kermit, Tex., another airman, became involved in a dispute over their home states and one invited the other out on the street to fight.

Young Peterborough Man Made Mark In Minnesota

Back in 1892, when he was 27, William J. Hoolihan left Peterborough to work in the lumber camps of northern Minnesota.

He died recently at the age of 87 in Grand Rapids, the county seat of Itasca county in the North Star state where Mr. Hoolihan settled 60 years ago.

His logging experience came in handy when he was elected sheriff of Itasca county in 1902, a position he held until 1908, and earned him the name of the "lumberjack sheriff".

In those days, Itasca county extended right up to the Canadian border and he tracked down lawbreakers in the pioneer lumber settlements on horseback, or drove a team and buckboard and where the going was too tough for either horse or wagon, he crossed streams and rivers by riding across on a log.

He and a group of his lumberjack friends are credited with swinging the vote in an election which made Grand Rapids the county seat, the same year he arrived in Minnesota.

The story goes that they were on their way to Swan River to cast their ballots and didn't give a pike pole which way the vote went. A booster for Grand Rapids ran into them on the way and talked them into voting for Grand Rapids. Their votes won the seat for Grand Rapids.

WON REPUTATION

In the six years he maintained law and order throughout Itasca county, William Hoolihan won himself the reputation of being a man of tremendous physical endurance and strength. He covered a good deal of the county on foot to make arrests and serve summonses.

When he retired from office Mr. Hoolihan bought a farm and returned to the lumber business.

Then, this versatile pioneer began another career as road foreman and later became Grand Rapids township supervisor. He held this post until his death in December.

Every 15 or 20 years, he would return to Peterborough for a visit with old friends and relatives. The last time he visited his brother, Stan Hoolihan, 473 Donegal St., and sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Lebarr, of William St., was three years ago.

This was just prior to the time Mr. Hoolihan and his wife, the former Kathleen Scholard of Ennismore celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

He was born in the city, the son of the late Bridget and Dan Hoolihan and is survived by his wife, five sons and five daughters, 27 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Crash Fatal To Two

MONTREAL (CP) — Two men were killed Tuesday near St. Janvier, 25 miles north of Montreal, when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a gasoline truck. Police identified them as Lucien Chartrand, 24, and Denis Chartrand, 18, believed to be brothers.

French Playwright Criticized By Festival Adjudicator

OTTAWA (CP)—British adjudicator John Allen Tuesday night criticized the French playwright of the first production in the Eastern Ontario regional drama festival.

He added: "Now I know that anything can happen, I start my tour with keen anticipation of what Canadian theatre may bring me."

The play—first production in the first of 12 regional drama festivals across Canada which Mr. Allen will visit in the next 11 weeks—was Jean Anouilh's tragedy "Point of Departure," in English translation. It was staged by the Ottawa Little Theatre.

The festival, which concludes Saturday night, continues tonight with the Brockville Theatre Guild's production of "Laura," a mystery story by the United States authors Vera Caspary and George Sklar.

Mr. Allen praised director George Palmer for a producing job so good that it supplied a continuity lacking in the writing.

The play—a modern setting of the Greek tragedy of Orpheus and Eurydice—could have been improved by cutting at least half of the "nonsensical chi-rhi."

Mr. Allen said he hoped Canadian theatre might help to stamp out "this ever-ordinary death-myth that's pervading English, French and American literature." The story of boy, girl and death had been run to death.

Dulles Plans Discuss Korea With Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move toward a bipartisan United States foreign policy, John Foster Dulles has proposed to discuss Korea and other problems with key Senate foreign relations committee members shortly after the inauguration next Tuesday.

Some committee members said they want to hear more then about his projected trip to Europe.

Chairman Alexander Wiley (Rep. Wis.) called the committee together today for approval of his plan for advance questioning of Dulles and Harold E. Stassen, to be mutual assistance director, so that their appointments — which must be approved by the Senate — can be acted upon Inauguration Day.

GO TO EUROPE

James Hagerty, press secretary for President-elect Eisenhower, announced in New York Tuesday that Dulles and Stassen will go to Europe late this month at Eisenhower's request to get information "in relation to U.S. participation in NATO and in economic assistance."

Dulles is known to have told friends in Congress he wants to discuss world problems — particularly Korea — with them as soon as he gets squared away in his new job. Selected Democrats apparently would be included in such discussions.

This may provide the members with their first insight into what plans Eisenhower has made since his December visit to the Far East, toward bringing the war in Korea to a close.

In a statement Tuesday, Wiley promised to work for a bipartisan policy, and said he will insist that there be "full representation for the minority" in conferences with the state department.

One Brother Fined $100 For Street Brawl

INGERSOLL (CP) — Douglas Bruce of Ingersoll, one of five brothers involved in a street brawl here several weeks ago, was fined $100 and $44 costs or three months in jail on his conviction here Tuesday of resisting arrest.

Magistrate R. G. Groom of Tillsonburg, also found Bruce guilty on a charge of intoxication and and fined him $15 and $3 costs or 30 days.

Evidence on a charge of assault causing bodily harm against Gordon Bruce was heard. Magistrate Groom reserved decision until Friday.

Ex-League Head Dies

DETROIT (CP) — Mrs. Laura Green, a former president of the Catholic Women's League of Canada, died Monday. A native of Ottawa, Mrs. Green, 53, was a prominent member of several Detroit clubs and organizations.

Think Non-Aggression Pact Bait To Be Offered By Russia

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA (AP)—Does Communist East Europe's new wave of anti-Jewish trials and purges mean Russia is looking for a new version of the Hitler-Stalin pact of 1939?

Will the Soviet Union offer divided Germany unification and her pre-1945 territory now held by Poland and Czechoslovakia, in exchange for neutrality or a new Moscow-Berlin axis tieup?

Western diplomats in Vienna believe these are possible explanations for the widespread liquidation of Jewish Communists, known to be basically anti-German, in the Iron Curtain countries around Germany's eastern periphery and for the purge of Jews from public life in East Germany.

This explanation, to the sources here, is more logical than the often-expressed theory that the current anti-Semitism is a bid for Arab favor.

HITLER EXAMPLE

Sources here see many similarities between the present and the years from 1936 until the Hitler-Stalin pact shocked the world.

Then, as now, there was a liquidation of all potential critics of Stalin's cynical foreign policy manipulations.

Before the 1939 pact, Russia's old Bolsheviks were eliminated. Many were Jews who could have been expected to oppose Stalin's deal with the Nazis. Leon Trotsky was murdered in Mexico, enroying a potential rallying figure for the opposition. Maxim Litvinoff was ousted from the foreign ministry and replaced by V. M. Molotov. The Polish Communist party was purged of elements who would have opposed partition of their country between the two dictators

Today, Jews are being removed from influential positions in East Germany. In Czechoslovakia, 11 top Communists, eight of them Jews, recently were hanged. Their leader, Rudolph Slansky, was known to fear German rebirth.

FACE MASS TRIAL

In Poland, former Communist boss Wladislaw Gomulka and others soon may face a mass trial. They probably would oppose any Kremlin deal to revise the present Polish - German border in Germany's favor. Romania's drive on the Jews caught former foreign minister Ana Pauker and others. The French Communist party is purging leaders of the Second World War anti-German resistance.

Western diplomats here reason this way:

Russia's greatest aim is to lay her hands on the industrial wealth of West Germany's Ruhr valley. Without it, the Russians cannot hope to exceed the industrial might of the United States and gain world economic domination.

But the Kremlin now realizes it cannot get the Ruhr by force, and must use trickery and stratagem instead. One answer would seem to be a deal with West Germany, neutralizing her until her economic wealth can be brought into the Soviet sphere.

MAJOR OBSTACLE

A major obstacle is Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's anti Soviet government in Bonn. If this faction could be eliminated, the western republic weakened politically and a purged East German Red regime strengthened, Russia could feel safe in offering West Germany a hard-to-resist package—unification of East and West Germany, elections, withdrawal of Russian troops, and—choicest bait of all—return of the lost territories, especially from Poland.

The price, presumably, would be a Berlin - Moscow non - aggression pact.

Improvement In Design Features Furniture Show In Toronto

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canadians now can get good design in their furniture in virtually any price range.

This is in considerable contrast to a few years ago when eye appeal generally went with the high price tags.

This improvement in design is perhaps the most striking thing to be noted at the current Canadian Furniture Mart in Toronto (Jan. 12-21).

Simple, clean-cut lines have come into the lower-priced field, and even if today's pieces should become "dated" a few years from now, they should still be pleasant to live with.

This is not to say, however, that bizarre effects do not creep in, or that there is not room for continuing improvement.

IN FOURTH YEAR

The Furniture Mart now is in its fourth year and C. L. Stark, its managing director, gives it some of the credit for the improvement in design.

He said a number of firms whose goods suffered in comparison with their competitors in the early shows made fast changes.

Swedish designs seem to have been among the influences for good, and some beautiful pieces are being turned out in Canada under Swedish licence.

For those who can afford high price tags, there is plenty to look at both in modern and traditional lines.

Plastics, sometimes virtually like wood in appearance but harder to scratch, are creeping into occasional furniture. In general, new materials, or old materials such as iron in new uses, are testing out their places in the furniture and furnishings field.

The use of iron recently led to caustic comment by a big American buyer at an American show. He said:

"You now sit on chairs which combine all the comforts of an over-sized coal scuttle, the soft feel of a window screen and the basic ingredients of a picket fence."

Canadian designs, however, if inclined to caution, also escape some of the more extreme efforts of American manufacturers.

Improvement in design is most noticeable in bedroom furniture. Living room furniture also tends toward simpler lines, with much of the over-stuffing gone out of chesterfields.

Drew Demands Independent Defence Inquiry

OTTAWA (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, Tuesday night reiterated a demand for a broad, independent defence inquiry.

Mr. Drew made the demand in a speech prepared for broadcast over the Trans-Canada network in the CBC's series "The Nation's Business."

The Currie report, said Mr. Drew, told of a general breakdown in the works services branch of the army. It told of a collapse in security.

The report covered only a small segment of the army.

NO GENERAL INQUIRY

George S. Currie, head of a Montreal accountancy firm and former deputy minister of national defence, had been given no authority to inquire into the engineering services generally.

Mr. Drew added:

"There was to be no inquiry into the organiaztion, administration and accounting methods of the infantry, artillery, armored forces, or any other part of the army. Nor was there any inquiry into the navy or the air force.

"Now when the Currie report places blame for what happened at Petawawa squarely on the shoulders of the department of national defence, can any of us believe safely the same conditions do not exist in other parts of the many branches of the three services not covered by Mr. Currie's inquiry?"

DOROTHY DIX

Find Superior Education Big Inspiration

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think a person should associate with people who have better educations and better jobs? I am an attractive girl and have no trouble making friends, but I have an inferiority complex. When I'm alone with a boy I can carry a conversation but, when in a group, I'm overcome with self-consciousness. I've attended lots of social gatherings, but can't feel at ease in them. I can have a good time, but only by being quiet and acting as an onlooker. Should I continue accepting invitations to these gatherings, which are given and attended by people who have much better educations than I have? I wasn't able to proceed as far in school as most of the folks I know, and this has a great deal to do with my feeling of inferiority.

JEANIE

BLESSED WITH GOOD LOOKS

ANSWER: Having been blessed with good looks, you have a decided advantage in the complex business of making and keeping friends. Don't throw away this golden opportunity by giving in to a foolish sense of inferiority.

While good schooling is a most desirable asset, it certainly cannot be regarded as an indisputable gauge for judging people. Wouldn't it be a queer world if one's association were gathered entirely from one social or educational stratum?

Furthermore, having a friend of superior education should be an inspiration, not a hindrance. It is always better to engage in conversation that is a little beyond you rather than beneath you. It has been noted that one's conversational topics are an indication of one's intelligence — those of little or no learning discuss people, those of better knowledge discuss things, and those of superior mentality discuss ideas. While you may not be able to contribute any great thoughts to the conversation of those around you, listening will broaden your own outlook, and in no time at all you'll be able to put in a word now and then. The trick is not to close your own mind by an arbitrary decision that you are inferior and therefore not of their group.

Since you are invited to parties by these people who have had the benefit of higher education, you must be liked by them. You have, therefore, a marvelous entry into a world that might otherwise be closed to you—a world of books, music, animated discussion of current events. Don't miss out on it. You must, however, overcome your habit of sitting passively in a corner. No one likes a dead head at a party, and even though you cannot naturally be gay, at least be interested and make an effort to take some active part in the proceedings. Never be satisfied with the knowledge you have; always strive to improve your ability and your intellect.

The next time you are at a party, give special attention to the topics that come up for discussion, then go home and do some reading on them. Follow this program for a while and you'll be amazed at what you have learned without benefit of college. Reading is the open sesame to the world you want to enter, and a library card is the key.

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been married for six years and have a daughter, 2. A problem has arisen between my husband and me, with both of us convinced we're right. I have gone back to business, and my daughter is in nursery school. My husband has a good job, can support us comfortably, but there are a few luxuries I wanted—some new clothes, for instance—which my husband can't see buying. In fact, he has bought me one dress in four years, and one suit in the six years we've been married. He has never bought me a coat, which I'm working for now. He just dislikes my going to business, unless, of course, I give him some of my earnings, which I refuse to do. I'd like to continue working until the spring.

N. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since your husband refuses to buy you clothes, he would have no gripe about your earning them. You are wise to hang on to the money you make; you'll need it for clothes for a long time to come. Just be sure your child receives good care!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Our school is having a dance in a few weeks and a boy has asked me to go with him. My father won't let me go with the boy, but he will let me attend if I go with my girl friends. My problem is that the boy will see me at the dance and wonder why I refused his invitation. I'm ashamed to tell him my parents are so strict. I'm 14.

C. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Don't ever be ashamed to tell the truth. Can't you see that the boy would be far more hurt if he feels you wouldn't go with him than he'll be when he knows you couldn't go?

Artist Lismer Study Subject Of Univ. Women

Program of the University Women's Club meeting Monday evening was presented by a group of members in the form of a study of the Canadian artist Arthur Lismer. Papers on his life, his philosophy, his paintings and his work as a teacher of art were given by Mrs. Douglas Warner, Mrs. John O. Holt, Mrs. C. S. Thompson and Mrs. Ward Smith.

Three large reproductions of Lismer's paintings were exhibited in the YWCA Green Room for examination. They were the well-known "Isles of Spruce," one titled "Rock, pine and sunlight" and "Rain in the north country" which has been reproduced by a new English method which produced much favorable comment.

A National Film Board color film on Arthur Lismer was shown to conclude the study.

President Miss Katherine Macdougall presided for a business discussion. Mrs. Harry Cherney, program convener, reported on arrangements for the club's annual meeting-open-to- the-public which is to be on February 16th and held in the Queen Mary auditorium.

The club has been highly honored in securing for the speaker on this date Begum Shaisa S. Ikramullah, the charming and brilliant wife of the High Commissioner of Pakistan to Canada. She is considered an outstanding personality and speaker whose time is much in demand.

Individual discussion of the program and this next meeting took place over cups of tea served by the social committee.

Why India Animals Sacred Told by Mrs. A. Armstrong

"Animals are fed and reverenced more than people in India," said Mrs. Albert E. Armstrong in a vivid illustrated travelogue of a trip taken last summer to India and parts of East Asia. Mrs. Armstrong spoke Monday evening at the Elizabeth Parker Auxiliary in Trinity United Church, where her husband, Dr. Armstrong, is temporary minister.

The ancient belief of transmigration of souls to animals, Mrs. Armstrong said, led the people of India to think that to kill an animal might be to kill their own grandmother or some other ancestor.

And so animals such as cows, monkeys and elephants are sacred and are fed even though humans go hungry. India is for the most part a hot and dry country, and crops are poor and food scarce, she said.

At Madras Women's College, missionary representative Miss Dorothy Parson is professor in nutrition, and she teaches gardening as well as food values, it was explained. She has been allowed to coach children in gardening at neighboring schools. But no woman can teach school because of caste, and no educated man would work with his hands in a garden because of caste. They have to be taught the dignity of labor, Mrs. Armstrong said.

Valour Medical College is quickly opening doors to the hearts of the people, she said, for there is always illness and disease to combat. And again, she told how women have to be trained to be doctors because no man doctor can care for an ill woman because of caste, and vice versa.

VOTE FOR PICTURES

"One of the greatest threats in India as well as other eastern countries is Communism," said Mrs. Armstrong. "Women as well as men have a vote in India, no matter how ignorant or illiterate they may be, and there is much ignorance and illiteracy in vast India," she said. They can vote by picture, and the Communistic pitcure is a field of golden wheat. "So, why wouldn't they vote for the promise of food for their hungry families?" She raised the question: "Are we in Canada with food to spare doing our share to help a hungry world?"

Mrs. Armstrong told of she and Dr. Armstrong calling on their son Donald, who is stationed at Singapore as Canadian government trade commissioner, and they also visited in Singapore Mr. Murray MacDonald, former High Commissioner to Canada and now Commissioner General for South Eastern Asia, who gave them a gracious welcome.

Describing Singapore, Mrs. Armstrong said it is a modern city of beautiful structures on an island among many islands and the city contained some million and a quarter people of all nations of whom the majority are Chinese. At Kalong airport, she said that planes from all over the world are arriving and departing daily.

NEW PRESIDENT PRESIDES

Mrs. F. W. Horton, president for 1953 of the Elizabeth Parker Auxiliary, presided for a brief business session and a short worship service conducted by the executive, following the theme "Means of Grace."

Miss Myrtle Sargent welcomed guests from other mission groups of the church and introduced the speaker. Miss Greta Giles tendered a vote of thanks to Mrs. Armstrong.

Delicious refreshments were served by the executive while guests and members chattily learned more of Mrs. Armstrong's trip.

MISS NORMA HOBBS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hobbs, and Mr. Donald Gordon, CMG, LLD, whose engagement has been announced. Miss Hobbs is a graduate in arts of McGill University and served with the WRENS during the last war. Mr. Gordon is chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, and former deputy governor of the Bank of Canada during the war, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The marriage will take place in the spring.

Advise Vigorous Towelling After Going For A Swim

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. A Murray Fallis of the Ontario research foundation is investigating the life history of flukes—or worms—one of which is tricho bilharzia

These tiny worms are what give people swimmers' itch—the curse of resort owners.

The tricho bilharzia and his four or five cousins are aggravating hitch-hikers. They infest the intestines of several types of gulls and ducks. Eggs laid there are hatched into larvae which are excreted. These larvae attack any one of four types of snail, burrowing into the flesh and there changing to another type of larvae which will burrow into the skins of humans causing an annoying rash

The birds become infected by this same second larvae form when they eat snails. There the larvae grow to adulthood and make the bird sick. When they attack mu-

CGIT Work Board Annual Meeting

Peterborough CGIT Girls' Work Board annual meeting was held Tuesday evening at the YWCA. Mrs. E. A. DeNure was re-elected the president with Mrs. M. J. Curtis as vice president, Mrs. J. E. Spears, corresponding and recording secretary, Mrs. E. A. Outram, treasurer.

Chairman of the camp committee is Mrs. C. H. Crowe; of girls' events, Mrs. W. J. Armstrong; leadership training, Mrs. Curtis.

Miss Blanche Quinn announced Christian Youth Week will be observed February 1 to 7. Miss Dency McCalla, Dominion Girls' Work secretary, who is from Calgary, is to be guest speaker at a rally in Mark St. Church February 1st.

Mrs. DeNure was delegated to attend the Provincial Board annual meeting in Toronto January 30 and 31.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL

At the opening of Central Home and School Association meeting Monday evening, President Mrs. L. Horning read a short devotional article, then led in prayer. Usual reports were read, and Mrs. L. Raper, radio convener, made several announcements, of the weekly Home and School broadcasts and of coming events at the different schools.

Mr. D. Crawford, principal, introduced guest speaker, Mr. George Melton, head of the civil defence committee and wardens' services of this area. Mr. Melton outlined the functions and activities of the committee and brought a sobering message on the need for a greater awareness by the general organization. Two films, the first on the actual fighting of the great London fires in 1940, and the second, "The Waking Point," served, in a very graphic way, to illustrate Mr. Melton's message.

Attendance prizes for the evening were won by the classes of Miss Dix in the junior school, and Mrs. Webber and Mr. Gaynor, which were tied, in the senior.

Mrs. Wm. Guppy and Mrs. Horning thanked the speaker. Refreshments were served by Mrs. R. Kelcey and her committee.

GROVE SCHOOL

Meeting of the Grove Home and School Association Monday evening was addressed by Mr. Wilson Craw, chairman of the accommodation committee of the Board of Education, and he talked on accommodation in the Claraday ward. He was introduced by Mr. J. Weir.

Mr. Craw gave a factual talk on what is happening in that section of the city. He referred to the educational problems due to the city expansion and increase in birth rate, and gave an account of measures taken by the Board of Education to cope with them, including annexation of township schools May's and Grove, extension of Confederation school, and building of Kenner Collegiate.

"In the past six years," he said, a total of $1,639,000 has been spent on schools in the whole city."

Then he turned to the future program and said the trend is to several small junior schools of four to six rooms, called "neighborhood schools." These would accompany one large senior school, he explained.

Mr. Craw expressed pleasure in the interest in education being taken in the Claraday ward and urged parents to keep in touch with the school authorities and not to hesitate to approach the principal or the board of education with problems.

He was thanked by Mrs. E. Hopkins.

President Mrs. Nels Foster was in the chair for business. Roll call was won by Miss M. Hollingsworth's grade one. The next executive meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. R. Rage, 748 Gillespite St.

Lunch was served by Mrs. I. Stewart, Mrs. P. Heard and Mrs. E. Miller.

PARKHILL SCHOOL

Parkhill Home and School Association met Tuesday evening. Mrs. R. Parnell presided in absence of the president, Mrs. V. Ferguson. The devotional period was taken by Mrs. D. Jory. Mrs. G. Duncan announced there will be a "Fun Night" on January 30, and gave a summary of what will take place.

Mrs. H. Lewis introduced the speaker, Archdeacon C. W. Balfour, who is an honorary associate of All Saints' Anglican Church. The archdeacon is well known throughout Peterborough for his many kind and faithful services and his keen interest in the study of religion in schools. He mentioned that all are familiar with the three "Rs" but occasionally forgot that there is a fourth and very important "R"—religion.

"Religion begins in the home and is the parents' responsibility. There are 'possibilities' or ways which we might follow. In the first place, parents can begin the religious training by teaching prayers, reading Bible stories, being sure to point out to the child the moral of the story. The first impressions that the child gains last to an old age," he said.

"The second possibility is to set a good example of proper living standards in the home. Fortunate is the child who grows up in a good home. The child learns much by imitation."

Archdeacon Balfour said that there is a third but rather dangerous possibility—that of allowing the child to choose his own religion.

He concluded by saying that all three aspects of the child's life, namely, the body, the mind and the spirit, must be developed in proportion.

Mrs. B. Holloway moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

A social period was enjoyed with Mrs. A. Lester and her committee serving refreshments.

MILLBROOK

MILLBROOK (ENS)—The Home and School Association held its first meeting of the new year in the school auditorium on Monday night. Alex Gilbert, president, was in the chair and introduced the three speakers of the evening, the Rev. A. M. Butler, Mel Wood and Percy Hamilton. Each spokke of the requirements for the entering of their field of workk, the opportunities it offered, and its rewards. Mr. Butler who spoke first said the scholastic requirements for entering the ministry were first senior matriculation, then an arts course or some other similar university course, and then a three-year theological course. It was necesary to have an educated ministry to meet the people with whom they would be in contact. The prime essential was a consciousness of the sacredness of the work and the knowledge that one was called to do it.

Mel Woods, a graduate of OAC, told that to enter the degree course at the agricultural college a student must have passed 10 middle and eight upper school papers English was stressed there, and it was necessary to have at least one other language, preferably French. Two sciences and two mathematics were also necessary with chemistry and physics and trigonometry and algebra the most favored ones. On graduation students would be ready

Mrs. Eisenhower Chooses Pink Ball Gown

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower will wear a Renoir pink peau-de-soie gown to the presidential inaugural ball.

The gown, decorated with more than 2,000 colored rhinestones, was designed by Nettie Rosenstein, New York wholesale designer, commissioned to do the job by Nieman-Marcus of Dallas, Tex.

This is the most formal type of ball gown with the top of the snugly-fitted bodice especially designed to flatter Mrs. Eisenhower's graceful neck and shoulder line. The skirt is set on a small yoke just below the waistline, and the top of the skirt is decorated with closely-set clusters of jewels, scattered at larger intervals over the rest of the dress.

With the gown, Mrs. Eisenhower will carry a evening bag encrusted with colored rhinestones to match the dress. The bag was presented to her by an old friend.

Blinking Rests Protects Eyes

By ALICIA HART

Have you noticed the difference in eyelid action between young and old? Young girls' eyes are alway blinking — not consciously but naturally, without their thinking—to keep out dust and to rest the eyes. As age sets in, the eyelids become more and more still—you may see a conspicuous slow blink every few minutes.

It seems an effort for the aged to move their eyelids. Before this old-before-your-time condition has any chance to set in, think about your blinking. Do it often—at least every line when you are reading, to combat fatigue, and frequently when you are looking at anything intently—whether at pictures in a museum or at a tennis ball flying back and forth. A blinking eye is alive-looking.

If you would have disarming eyes, learn to use them effectively. Don't let them dart about nervously, look people up and down or stare fixedly. Look people in the eyes often as you talk with them so they will know you are interested.

If you want someone to get the full effect of a look, don't jerk your head and eyes about in one imperfectly co-ordinated swoop. Move your eyes first and then follow with your head, gradually. The head should never be jerked but moved with slow grace.

If you can't feel your eyes light up when you smile, it's better not to smile at all. A forced smile is charmless. Wait until you feel one before you produce it.

To rest your eyes from work, look into the distance occasionally. To give them the temporary relaxation of total darkness, shut out all light by closing the palms of your hands about your eyes with fingers crossed at the forehead. Stay that way a few minutes.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Offer Italian Baked Rice On Special Purpose Menu

At the end of her letter, Ellen G. said this: "... economical and lightly seasoned main courses are the biggest help to me."

This menu includes Italian Baked Rice—a dish that uses no meat or from ½ to 1½ cups ground leftover meat—just as you wish.

It answers Ellen G. to a T.

Italian Baked Rice (see below)
Winter Salad (see below)
Chesapeake Baked Apples
Crackers and Cheese Coffee

DIRECTIONS

Because this meal is short on protein I have tucked cheese in in a few places to make up the lack.

ITALIAN BAKED RICE

One cup raw rice, 3 tablespoons olive oil or other cooking oil or shortening, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ cup broken macaroni, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper (or parsley), 1 finely chopped clove garlic, ¼ teaspoon powdered thyme, 1½ cups tomato pulp, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ to 1½ cups ground leftover meat (optional). Saute the raw rice in 1 tablespoon of the oil until oil is absorbed and rice is golden brown. This must be stirred constantly. Add ½ teaspoon salt and 2½ cups water. Cover and simmer until all water is absorbed—heat must be very low. Cook macaroni in another kettle in plenty of water and ½ teaspoon salt, until tender. Drain. Saute the pepper, onion, garlic and thyme in remaining oil until limp and barely golden. Add tomato and remaining salt, heat through and pour over rice. Put half of this rice mixture in a greased baking dish. Add the macaroni and half of the meat (if used) spread remaining rice on top, and cover with remaining meat (when used). Dot with butter. (If meat is used it is advisable to finish it with ½ cup buttered crumbs.) Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 to 40 minutes. These amounts will serve 6 or 7.

WINTER SALAD

(To serve 6 you need ½ cup each of 2 kinds of leftover cooked vegetables such as peas, green or yellow beans, carrot cubes, chopped beets, asparagus, or their equivalent in salad ingredients such as tomato, cucumber, radishes, avocadoes.) One-half cup each 2 different cubed cooked vegetables (see directly above), 1 cup finely chopped celery, 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, ¼ to ½ cup French Dressing, ½ cup finely shredded old or mild or blue cheese, ¼ cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon horseradish OR 1 finely chopped clove garlic. Marinate the vegetables and celery (or whatever vegetables or salad plants are used) in the French Dressing in refrigerator for 2 hours. Break the lettuce into coarse pieces in the salad bowl. Combine all remaining ingredients with marinated vegetables and strew it over the lettuce. Toss lightly. A great favorite with all salad lovers.

CHESAPEAKE BAKED APPLES

Use the largest apples you can choose. Wash and core them, and pare off one-third of the skin from top of apple. Into centre put 1 teaspoon sugar and sprinkle a little cinnamon; fill centre with 1 section of orange; add another teaspoon sugar and another sprinkle of cinnamon. Sprinkle top pared portion of apple with white sugar. When all apples are prepared place on baking dish, add about ½ inch warm water. Bake at 475 deg. Fahr. with heat coming from below only. These apples puff out at top and look snowy and taste divine. High heat is absolutely essential. (They cost 60 cents per serving on the railroad.)

Answer to Previous Puzzle

What's Right?

You once did an important favor for a person and now you are asking him to do you a favor.

WRONG: Remind him of the favor you once did him.

RIGHT: Never remind another person of a favor you have done him.

Broker's Suspension Upheld

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario securities commission Tuesday upheld the suspension of William A. Deering, a Toronto broker-dealer, for acting as a "front" for a previously-suspended broker.

R. W. Brown Limited, suspended as a broker-dealer at the same time as Deering, gained re-instatement on an appeal to the commission.

The commission report said Deering was a "front" for A. E. DePalma. "DePalma, an American citizen, has gained an international reputation which is harmful to local mining promotions as a whole," it added.

In allowing Brown's appeal, the commission said: "He made a mistake but it is a mistake which should be viewed against an otherwise satisfactory background."

Deering and Brown originally were suspended Nov. 3, 1952, after investigation of a promotional deal involving the merger of three companies. Some 20,000 shareholders of the companies were circularized over the name of Deering and Brown but only 2,500 prospectuses were printed and none were sent out.

Says Ex-Husband Owes Her $20,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Director John Huston is $20,000 behind in his alimony payments, his ex-wife, movie actress Evelyn Keyes, contends. Miss Keyes asked Superior Court Tuesday to order Huston to comply with a pre-divorce financial agreement. She says he agreed to pay her $42,500 in weekly instalments, plus $7,500 as her share of community property, and $10,000 a year if her professional earnings dropped below that sum.

The actress said she has received nothing in a six-month period from last Feb. 7 and earned nothing in that time as an actress. She claims Huston owes her $20,000, plus interest, and $6,000 lawyer's fees.

Asks To Go Back To Alabama Jail

CLEVELAND (AP) — "Are you sure you want to do this?" the judge asked the 28-year-old Negro charged with a $3 unarmed robbery.

"Yes," replied Chartilyou Armstrong Tuesday, insisting that he wanted to return to Alabama's Kilby prison to finish a robbery term which has 97 years and eight months to go.

Armstrong, charged with robbery explained he had been a trusty at Kilby. "They treated me all right," he said. He insisted he enjoyed life there before he escaped June 26, 1950.

Judge Frank J. Merrick ordered the prosecutor's office to notify Alabama authorities their prisoner wants to go home.

Will Investigate Rhodes Scholars

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators disclosed today they will take a close look at prospective Rhodes scholars — Americans who are chosen yearly for advanced education in Britain.

Representative Harold Velde (Rep.-Ill.), due to head the House of Representatives un-American activities committee, told reporters there are indications that in the past Communists have been able to obtain Rhodes appointments.

Velde said the group learned in closed hearings at Chicago last summer that British Communists also tried to recruit Rhodes scholars during their tours in England.

The scholarships, set up by Cecil Rhodes of South Africa fame, go to outstanding Commonwealth and American college graduates for a year of study at Oxford and Cambridge universities.

Deny One Of Quints Having Romance

NORTH BAY (CP) — —Oliva Dionne, father of quintuplets, said today a New York report that one of the girls is engaged to a lawyer is "strictly bunk." The story said the girl is Yvonne.

Mr. Dionne said the report is untrue. None of the famous five is having a romance, he said.

The quintuplets, 19 next May 28, have returned to a girls' college at Nicolet, Que., after spending the year-end holidays at their home at nearby Corbeil.

Rabbi Drops Dead On Hearing Broadcast

TEL AVIV (AP) — Rabbi Jacob Calmes, 73, died of heart failure in front of a radio in his Jerusalem flat Tuesday night, the moment he heard the Moscow allegations accusing a group of prominent Jewish physicians of the murder of Soviet leaders.

Calmes has a son who is a professor of medicine at Moscow University it was reported. His daughters is a practicing physician at Moscow.

He himself was from 1927 to 1933 chief rabbi in Moscow.

Seeds of Friendship

LONDON (CP)—Gardens and sites bombed out in the last war will be gay with flowers for the Coronation season, thanks to "seeds of friendship" contributed from the United States and Canada. Donors include the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire in Canada.

Anti-Russ Sabotage Admitted In Factory

BERLIN (AP) — The Communists admitted today that anti-Russian "sabotage" has occurred in East Berlin's largest electrical parts plant.

The party newspaper Neues Deutschland said "organized enemy work" had sabotaged various shipments of power line transformers being constructed for the Soviet Union.

The transformers apparently were built with concealed flaws.

The newspaper censured technical director Engelmann, labor chief Denker and plant foreman Hirsch for failing to exercise "watchfulness" and recommended they be fired.

to go into many different fields of work. Among those mentioned were civil service, the work of agriculture representatives, teaching positions, research work, field work, work in meat packing and fertilizer plants, work as laboratory technicians or farm management. There was also a two-year diploma course, mostly for boys from the farm who would return afterwards to the farm again.

The salary range for graduates was wide, depending on the type of work chosen.

Mr. Hamilton, who spoke last, said he felt that the work of the teaching profession was not less important than that of the ministry, or of graduates in agriculture. To enter Normal school a student must have five upper school subjects, one of which must be English. A few years ago it was thought the reason so few chose teaching as a career was the low salaries paid. There has been improvement in that line of late, and 200 more are enrolled in Normals this year than last in Ontario. The need is so great the small increase would soon be swallowed up. One advantage of the profession was that there was always employment to be had, no matter what conditions were in industry. There was a contributory pension scheme in effect. Mr. Hamilton quoted Sidney Smith, principal of U of T, who said it was necessary to give not only intellectual teaching, but moral as well. He thought teaching also a rewarding profession.

Miss Diann Hogaboam conducted a musical quiz, playing parts of 10 pieces of music which the audience was asked to name. Winners were Harry Williams, who had them all correct, and Miss E. Clarke and Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, who got nine of the 10. The president announced that they would compete in a final to be held at the school picnic in June. Miss Hogaboam also directed a Virginia reel with 12 senior pupils of the Public school taking part. They were: Joan Gilbert, Janet Hobbs, Helen Wright, Loreen Guthrie, Dorothy Dawson, Patricia Peebles, Jack Hickey, Gary Snelgrove, Bob Hamilton, Dick Loohuizen, George Hawkins and George Dawson.

Miss Jean Burnham's room won the $2 attendance award for having most parents present.

Mr. Gilbert welcomed Mrs. L. J. Stuart both as the mother of a grade V pupil, and also in her new capacity as teacher of the primary room, replacing Mrs Henry Gray.

HAVELOCK

HAVELOCK (ENS). — Two educational films, "Atomic Alert" and "Answering The Child's Why," were shown by the Rev. R. D. Duncanson at the January meeting of the Havelock Home and School Association Monday night.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Duncanson by Mrs. W. Cornell. Other items on the program for which Mrs. J. Calnan was the convener were: community singing with Mrs. George Kennedy at the piano; a piano solo by Mrs. Russell Williams; two vocal solos by Mrs. W. Goadsby with Mrs. D. Kirk as the accompanist.

For the health topic, the convener, Mrs. W. Nobes, Sr., gave a detailed report of a recent meeting of the Peterborough unit of the Canadian Cancer Society at which she and Mrs. W. Cornell represented the Havelock Home and School Association.

The president, Mrs. B. Johnson, presided and opened the meeting by reading the 12 aims of the home and school association, followed by the singing of "O Canada" and prayer.

The treasurer reported a bank balance of $149.

An invitation was read by the secretary, Mrs. Harry Anderson, for representatives from the society to attend a meeting at the YWCA, Peterborough, on January 19, to consider the organization of a branch of the Mental Health Association for the city and county.

Mrs. Corneil, the publications convener, spoke briefly in connection with pamphlets on cancer which she had for distribution.

The president announced that the "Founder's Day" meeting would be held in the school on February 2, and that a special program was planned.

The attendance shield and prize of one dollar was won by Miss G. Hunter's room. Refreshments were served.

OMEMEE

OMEMEE (ENS)—The principal feature of the Omemee Home and School program Monday evening was the consideration of two chapters from Dr. S. R. Laycock's lectures on "Our children in the world of tomorrow."

The treasurer reported a balance after the expense of the school Christmas treat had been met. Thank you letters from teachers and pupils of the high and public schools were read. The secretary was asked to thank Mr. Walter Mitchell for the use of his store for the skate exchange, which proved popular with several children. Miss Rea's and Miss Lamb's rooms tied for parent attendance. Another informal party in Coronation Hall was discussed and Mrs. H. Bent and Mrs. A. Weir were named a committee to find out if arrangements could be made to hold one before Lent.

The remainder of the time was given to group discussions and reports on findings. The chapters chosen were: "Adjusted wage earners" and "Mature decisions." Howard Bent leading the groups. The findings of Mrs. Stephenson's group were reported by Mrs. C. Richmond, who stated that the group had agreed that there was merit in children being given an allowance and encouraged to make wise decisions to the balanced spending of it, and that the allowance should increase with the age and needs of the child.

The practice of giving expensive Christmas gifts to children was not upheld, but rather the instilling of the principal of living according to our means, and also of getting joy out of sharing with the needy. Mrs. George Stephenson reported for Mrs. Bent's group on "Mature decisions."

They agreed that our children in the world of tomorrow would have more difficult and more complex problems to solve than we have today. Mature decisions, in solving our children's problems, are not best arrived at by saying, "always follow your parents' methods," nor by the emotional method of the hit and miss method of trial and error, but by weighing circumstances.

Parent and child should talk over the problem, trying to discover the reason for its existence, and how best to overcome it. From an early age children must be taught to get along with other people and this should begin before school age. The parents must also, by example, show they are reasonable people. In the home, they decided, the older child should not be allowed to boss the younger or the younger to always get his way because he is smaller, but each govern his proper chance to adjust himself to life.

LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — Guest speaker, Dr. R. M. Matthews of Peterborough, deplored the present day lack of parental control, when he spoke Monday evening to a meeting of the Lakefield Home and School Association. He felt that this could be remedied, to a great extent, if parents could only be consistent in their discipline program. The lack of this consistency causes them to lose prestige in the eyes of their children. He considered too, that constant nagging at children about feeding habits, table manners and other things, was one of the major sins of discipline. Dr. Matthews also spoke briefly on nutrition. He was introduced by Mrs. H. E. Gastle and thanked by Mrs. E. Rogers.

The president, Mrs. Stanley Burger, was in the chair and welcomed those present, especially the two new teachers on the Public school staff, Mrs. Watts and Mrs. Hobden and the Normal School students who attended. Mrs. Wallace Hendren led the devotional period. Mrs. Eldon Johnston gave the secretary's report and Mrs. T. Payton the treasurer's report. Mrs. J. A. Arnott spoke about the new figure skating club which started in the village on Saturday and announced that it would be held at the local arena each Saturday morning from 9:30 until 11:30.

Mrs. S. C. Chatten, health convener, gave a report on a recent meeting of the Cancer Society which she had attended.

The annual report of the health program carried on in the school was given by school nurse, Mrs. Wallace Hendren, in the absence of the MOH, Dr. H. E. Gastle. Two routine inspections of the pupils were carried out. There were 18 vaccinations, 17 regular triple "A" serum and 62 step-up injections. Eye and dental inspections had also been made. The lack of parental interest was put down as the reason that of 278 dental inspection cards sent out, only 54 had been returned.

Mrs. Gastle introduced a number of pamphlets which were available on such subjects as cancer, TB, dental health, prevention of disease and nutrition.

Burmese Retake Ferry Town

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — The government today announced the recapture of Mong-su, a strategic ferry town on the Nampang River, from refugee Chinese Nationalist forces. The announcement said 10 Chinese were killed and one officer was captured.

The government reported that Nationalists, thousands of whom fled across the border into Burma following the victory of the Chinese Communists in their homeland, occupied Mong-su 25 days ago. The town is 120 miles southwest of Taunggyi.

The government also announced that its forces had captured a headquarters of PVO (people's volunteer organization) rebels in the upper Chindwin valley near the India-Burma border, killing 50 insurgents. The PVO is one of several rebel groups that have been battling the government since Burma gained her independence from Britain after the Second World War.

Three Co-Chairmen For Canadian Council

TORONTO (CP) — Three Toronto business men have been elected co-chairmen of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews. They are John Hayes, publisher Roy H. Thomson and O.B. Rodger.

The council was organized five years ago to improve group relations throughout Canada. It works through the churches, schools, community organizations, labor-management groups and publications.

mans the larvae die.

Methods of avoiding flukes have not been studied but they are more likely to attack children than adults. Vigorous towelling after swimming is a preventive measure.

Flukes are increasing in Ontario lakes. The Ontario department of health suggests copper sulphate spread in reed beds where snails breed as a method of control.

Red-Faced Moments

PALMERSTON —(CP)— Rev. George Young of Knox Presbyterian Church made his address to the inaugural meeting of the town council of this Wellington county railway centre. His text: "It is better to light a candle than curse the darkness." Just after Mr. Young had given his text the electric power was cut off. Not a word was uttered until the town clerk produced several candles.

Cash Income Shows Decline

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian farmers' cash income from production sales slipped to $2,787,800,000 in 1952, down from the 1951 peak of $2,825,500,000, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The drop showed up particularly in Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba. Saskatchewan, Canada's biggest wheat-growing province, made a big advance.

Cash from grain sales was substantially higher than in 1951, the bureau said, partially overcoming income declines from livestock and egg sales.

Ontario's cash income slipped to $725,324,000 from $793,726,000 in 1951, while Quebec's dropped to $386,995,000 from $433,360,000. Cash income in Saskatchewan increased to $697,480,000 from $626,627,000.

Plan Hold Inquest In Warden's Death

KIRKLAND LAKE, (CP) — An inquest will be held Jan. 27 into the death of game warden Fred W. Deacon of Englehart, killed Friday when a truck he was driving was in collision with one police said was driven by Lorne Mills, also of Englehart.

Police said Deacon drove his vehicle out of a service station onto the highway and collided with Mill's truck. He died in Englehart hospital early Saturday.

Norwegian Gov't Has Big Defence Budget

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Norway's Socialist government today called for a record expenditure for defence in presenting its 1953-54 budget to Parliament. It calls for spending $22,580,000 more for arms than last year.

Taxpayers would be asked to put up a total of 4,343,000,000 kroner (about $620,400,000). Of this amount 1,130,000,000 kroner (about $161,400,000 goes to the armed services.

The government proposes to maintain the present 18-month service term for the navy and air force and a 12-month term for the army.

Paradox, Changes

The Communist party in Israel, while not strong, is a vociferous organization, said Mrs. Friedgut. It commands a small percentage of the vote, and has a correspondingly small voice in the legislature.

In Israel, said Mrs. Friedgut, there appears to be no opening for the thin edge of the Communist wedge.

Extensive welfare programs are in full swing because of the labor movement's strength and educational facilities are available to all. The basis of social justice — an Israelite ideal—for all legislation gives the Communists little to attack.

"BEAUTIFUL CITY"

Jerusalem, where Mrs. Friedgut lives, is "a beautiful city." Most of the buildings are built of native stone quarried in nearby hills, a "warm beige color with a pink streak through it." From time to time these buildings are defaced with Communist slogans brushed on in ineradicable red paint.

Streets are broad and buildings are new; architecture is perhaps the most advanced of any country in the world, and yet there remains the touch of primitiveness such as in the delivery of milk and in other business dealings.

The people are a polyglot group. For example, said Mrs. Friedgut, a grocer near her home is a linguist who speaks 11 languages fluently and used most of them daily.

The problem facing Israel is a great one. Their government is inexperienced, the civil service has had little training, and "there is so very much work to be done."

"But the people have faith in the future. They are influenced by a small group of the old practical idealists who believe that hard work is the best means to their end."

That end is a promised land.

William T. Cuffe

Funeral service was held Monday at Warkworth for William Thomas Cuffe, 72, who died in Welland County General Hospital Thursday. Surviving him besides his widow, the former Emma Sharpe, are four sons and two daughters: Ralph of Scarboro, Jack of Peterborough, Leslie of Port Colborne, Clifford of Newcastle, Mrs. B. Warner (Mary) of Toronto and Mrs. Arthur Davis (Pearl) of Port Hope. Seven sisters survive, and one brother, Harry Cuffe of Cobourg, died 11 years ago. The Rev. A. L. Sisco officiated at the funeral and burial was in Warkworth cemetery.

Leave Bodies At Crash Scene

FISH HAVEN, Idaho (AP) — Bodies of 40 persons who died in a C-46 crash on a desolate mountain ridge near here may not be removed from their frozen graves until spring.

Col. Harry J. Kieling, executive officer at Hill air force base near Ogden, Utah, said due to conditions of the bodies and the heavy snow the removal job may have to be postponed until after spring thaws.

"There are bodies all over," air force Capt. E. W. Morris, who directed the first search party to reach the wreckage, said "an arm, a leg, a piece here and a piece there. You would have to dig all the snow off the mountainside to get the bodies out."

The search party reached the grim scene Tuesday.

The big army transport smashed into the mountain last Wednesday. Thirty-seven Korean combat veterans and a crew of three were aboard. The victims were enroute home to be discharged.

Medic Treats Casualty Finds It's Brother

SEOUL (AP) — A young U. S. Army medic treated his first combat casualty in Korea recently without at first realizing the dying soldier was his twin brother.

Pte. Irwin Rietz, 21, Rock Island, Ill., did not recognize his twin until he and two other soldiers lifted the brother, Edwin, into a litter jeep. Edwin died later at an aid station.

Irwin treated Edwin in a shallow trench just one year to the day from the time the twins entered the service.

The surviving twin was taken off the line and will accompany the body of his brother home.

The story was carried today in Pacific Stars and Stripes.

ASKS DISMISSAL

The crown attorney then asked for a recess and when court reconvened, asked that the drunk driving charge be dismissed. He said: "Even if the statement is admitted, I still can't see how I can account for the three-quarters of an hour period between the time of the accident and when the officer saw him." A conviction would mean that regardless of how much beer Coons had consumed in the meantime, the magistrate would have to draw the inference that Coons was already drunk before he entered the beverage room, Mr. Bradshaw continued, "I don't think such inferences can be properly drawn."

The magistrate then dismissed the charge, and Coons pleaded guilty to failing to remain at or return to the scene of an accident. On this charge, he was fined $45 and $5 costs or 25 days in jail.

The accident occurred, as an eastbound city bus, driven by Richard E. Pilon, 15 Wallace St., was pulling out to go around a barrier on the south side of the street. Coons was charged with being the driver of the westbound car which was in collision with the bus.

A short time later, constable Harold Andrew spotted a car that had been damaged and traced it to Coons who he found drinking in a beverage room. Both constables Andrew and Jack Wilson testified Coons showed symptoms of intoxication when he was arrested.

Lindsay Scores Two In 3rd For 5-3 Win

LINDSAY — (ENS)— Lindsay Juniors snapped their two-game losing streak here Tuesday night by scoring a pair of third-period goals to take a 5-3 win from the fighting Cobourg Jays in a game that was slowed down somewhat because of the rough surface of the ice.

The Lindsay kids got away to a fast start in the first when Hal Williams shot from behind the net just after the one-minute mark and the puck deflected into the cage from Lagard's skate.

Then, late in the period, Art Truax took a pass from Hutton and Pasker in centre ice, outskated the only Cobourg defenceman back and drew Lingard out of the net before pushing the rubber home.

COBOURG SCORES.

Cobourg scored their first goal via Hessin, a minute later, when the Lindsay defence lost the puck in front of the net. Two minutes later while Hal Williams sat out the first penalty of the game, McIvor shot from the back boards and the puck went in off a skate past Truax.

In the second frame Art Truax scored his second of the night in the first minute of play, on an identical play as his first, taking a pass from McGill and going straight down the centre of the ice to score.

Cobourg tied the game again four minutes later, when Boswell found the corner with a high shot, which Truax fanned on, after the puck had been left loose by the defence.

The third period saw some of the best defensive work of the night, as Cobourg successfully killed off two penalties in the early minutes.

Dawe made two dangerous rushes, but was foiled by Truax once, and hit the post on the other, Hal Williams also hit the post with a drive, and Packer missed the open corner on a breakaway.

Three minutes from the end of the game, Cochrane took a puck from a scramble off the back boards, and shot at a difficult angle catching the inside of the far post, to put the locals into the lead. A minute later Packer finished off a rush with Hutton and Truax to ice the win for the Lindsay club, and move them two points closer to third place. Truax, McGill, Ron Teel and Hal Williams were the best of the locals, while Boswell, McIvor, Dawe and Cavanagh led the losing Jays.

Name Henry Cotton Golf Team Captain

LONDON (AP)—Henry Cotton, three times Britain's Open champion, was named Tuesday captain of the British golf team which will meet the United States in the Ryder Cup at Wentworth, England, Oct. 2 and 3.

Cotton, now in Monte Carlo, accepted the post in a letter to Britain's Professional Golfers Association.

Cotton captained the British team which lost to the U.S. in the Ryder Cup match at Portland, Ore., in 1947. He has been out of the competition for much of the last few years.

Ex-Baseball Star Herzog Sick

BALTIMORE (AP) — Charles (Buck) Herzog, one of baseball's all-time greats with New York Giants and Chicago Cubs, was taken to hospital Tuesday, penniless and sick.

Herzog was brought to court by policemen summoned by the manager of a small hotel who said he was in the lobby and sick.

A native of Baltimore, he was reported to have been down on his luck for the last few years.

He was a contemporary of some of the greatest names in baseball, John J. McGraw, Christy Mathewson and Ty Cobb.

Herzog started playing on the Baltimore sandlots and rose to become manager of Cincinnati Reds. After three years, he was traded to the Giants for Mathewson, Bill McKechnie, later manager of the Reds, Eddie Rousch and $1,500, a lot of money those days.

Herzog played in four World Series and was field captain of Chicago Cubs for two seasons.

Boxing Board Wrestles With Bout Site

NEW YORK (AP)—Boxing's new board of review gets as its first case one of the oldest problems in boxing: Where to hold the heavyweight championship bout?

The board, set up by the New York state athletic commission and the National Boxing Association three days ago, will attempt to settle a disagreement which threatens to block plans for heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano's April 10 return bout with former champion Jersey Joe Walcott.

Promoter Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, wants the fight in Chicago. No Chicago, no fight, is the way he put it.

But Felix Bocchicchio, Walcott's manager, insisted that the scrap be in Atlantic City's convention hall (46,000 seating capacity) or the Miami Orange Bowl (75,000). He contended the Chicago Stadium's 26,000 seats are not enough.

The New York-NBA board then took over and called for Norris and Bocchicchio to produce contracts at a Friday morning meeting here.

Norris was nettled over the stumbling block. He had expected to announce Tuesday that the fight was all set.

"If Felix wants the fight indoors, it will have to be in Chicago," said Norris. "He had it all his way for the fight in Philadelphia. He put the bull on me then Now it's my turn."

Brantford Redmen Trip Maroons In 7-2 Defeat; Gain 2 Points

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds went shopping this week and bought themselves a slightly-used forward.

The Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group is currently dominated by Sudbury Wolves who pulled into an eight-point lead Tuesday night by downing North Bay Trappers 6-4.

The Greyhounds have the best chance to catch the Wolves from their second-place position. The Hounds announced Tuesday night they have purchased Bob Webster, a 31-year-old centre, from Syracuse Warriors of the American Hockey League.

Webster is a Toronto product who belonged to New York Rangers before going to Syracuse. He will start with the Hounds when he gets his reinstatement papers as an amateur.

PICK UP 2 POINTS

Brantford Redmen picked up two points and a firmer hold on fourth place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series by defeating Chatham Maroons 7-2. Brantford is three points behind Kitchener-Waterloo.

Rolly McLenahan scored twice for Sudbury. Len speck, Gord Heale, Johnny Mestan and Mauno Kauppi notched singles. Vic Jackson, Danny Wilkes, Frank Ringler and Alf Guarda counted for North Bay.

Sam Kennedy led the Brantford attack with four goals. Don Oberholtzer scored twice and Bill Dinning rapped in one. Doug Arthur and Ed Didone scored for Maroons.

Lee, 41-year-old native of Verdun, Que., came to Britain in 1936. His English wife, Billie, and 10-year-old Bobby, Jr., also look on.

Marlene Stewart Selected Year's Outstanding Athlete

By BRUCE PHILLIPS

TORONTO (CP)—Marlene Stewart, the Fonthill, Ont., youngster whose meteoric rise to stardom stunned the Canadian golfing world in 1951, has been chosen Canada's outstanding woman athlete for the second year in a row.

The 19-year-old golfing sensation won going away in the annual Canadian Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters. She polled 81 votes on a 3-2-1 voting system, 51 more than her closest competitor.

Youth was the keynote in the 1952 listings. The top three places were taken by athletes 20 years of age or under. Several of the others on the list were also in the 'teen-age bracket.

Miss Stewart's selection was almost a foregone conclusion. She captured the national women's Close golf championship for the second year in a row, and her all-round performance in 1952 was only slightly less amazing than her first year in the big leagues, when she gathered in the Ontario women's Open, the national Open and the national Close championships.

2nd PLACE WINNER

The second-place winner was another golfer, 20-year-old Mary Gay of Kitchener, Ont., whose performance in the 1952 Open eclipsed even Miss Stewart's. She forged through to the final match, losing out to Edean Anderson of Helena, Montana. Miss Stewart was eliminated in the semi-finals.

Third choice was 16-year-old Shirley Campbell of Fergus, Ont., winner of the 1952 world's title for the women's three-mile swim at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Olympic competitors were favored. Nine of the 24 names gaining a berth on the list were on Canada's Olympic teams in 1948 or 1952.

Among them were sprinter Eleanor McKenzie of Vancouver, shot-putter Mary Lawrance of Toronto, hurdler Shirley Eckel of Toronto, and swimmer Irene Strong of Vancouver.

Tennis, a sport which usually gives several women to the list of outstanding athletes, this year placed only one. She was Mariette Laframboise of Montreal, Canadian junior champion in 1952.

Two perennial choices who again made the list were Ada McKenzie of Toronto, five times winner of the Canadian women's Open golf championship, and Barbara Ann Scott, former world's champion figure skater now on the professional ice show circuit.

Davey Knocks Out Williams In Tune-up

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—Chuck Davey knocked out Johnny Williams of New York Tuesday night in a tune-up for his welterweight championship bout against Kid Gavilan.

The Lansing, Mich., insurance salesman felled Williams after one minute and 48 seconds of the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

Davey, who holds a master's degree in physical education from Michigan State, led all the way. In the sixth, he had Williams almost helpless at the bell.

Davey weighed 149, Williams 143½.

Harold Jackson Can't Escape Walcott Shadow

NEW YORK (AP)—Harold Johnson can't escape the shadow of Jersey Joe Walcott, who knocked out both halves of a father-and-son Johnson act with 14 years between knockouts.

"All I want is a shot at Archie Moore's light heavyweight title," says Johnson. "I fought him four times. I'll fight anybody, but I'd rather stay in my own class and fight for that light heavy title."

Johnson has a point, too. He and Joey Maxim are ranked as logical contenders for Moore's title by the National Boxing Association. He is a solid fighter with an impressive record and deserves recognition on his own.

But mention Johnson to the average fan and he'll say: "Oh, yes, Johnson. Isn't he the boy who was knocked out by Walcott who also knocked out his old man?"

Harold, a 24-year-old Philadelphia Negro, claims his father actually was not knocked out by Walcott in 1936. "He broke his nose and they stopped it," he explained. In his own fight with old Jersey Joe in 1950, Harold collapsed from a back injury in the third round.

Last Week In White House Busy One For Truman

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON (AP).— President Truman is spending his last week in the White House as busy as ever and beset by 11th-hour problems ranging from oil to atom spies.

In an atmosphere of mild confusion around his office, the outgoing President is cleaning out his desk, dispatching dozens of farewell letters and shaking hands with a steady stream of well-wishers.

All the time, right to the end of his administration, Truman must make important decisions.

One particularly vexing one is the Rosenberg case.

Sometime between now and next Tuesday noon, when his term expires, Truman may have to decide whether the convicted atomic spies, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, shall live or die.

SPARKED BY REDS

A world-wide propaganda campaign urging clemency for the Rosenbergs has been sparked by Communists. Protests from other sources, too, claim the death penalty is unduly severe. Famed scientist Albert Einstein announced at Princeton, N. J., Monday that he had written Truman that "my conscience compels me to urge you to commute the death sentences. ."

The Rosenbergs' appeal for executive clemency was filed Saturday. Justice department pardon attorneys began studying records of the case Monday. Their recommendation may or may not be ready for Truman before he leaves office.

The expectation is that the President will decide for or against commuting the death sentences if he has time to weigh the question on the basis of the justice department report. Otherwise the decision will be left to President-elect Eisenhower.

Federal Judge Samuel Kaufman has granted a stay in the execution of the Rosenbergs, originally scheduled for tonight, until five days after the White House acts.

TWO REMAINING TASKS

In other fields, the President has two major remaining tasks:

1. His last annual economic message to Congress. Just about completed, it goes to Congress Wednesday.

2. A personal report Thursday to the country, which promises to be an over-all account of his nearly eight years of stewardship.

Truman announced one decision Monday, and it touched off fireworks. He offered to call off a grand jury investigation of some of the country's biggest oil companies if the oil firms would produce records the justice department wants for a civil suit against them.

The oilmen's reaction was explosive; "insult" and "blackmail" were among the terms they applied to the President's proposals.

Their formal answer to Truman's offer was due today.

It looked as if they would turn it down, thus leaving for the Eisenhower administration the final decision whether to go ahead with a grand jury investigation of the alleged oil cartel.

MAIN STREET of Oradour sur Glane, near Limoges, France, as it appears today, more than eight years after it was burned and sacked by the Nazis on June 10, 1944, in a massacre in which 642 persons, including 246 children, died as victims of a German column. The town has been left as a permanent witness to the atrocity, and a new town has been built a few miles from this site. Today, 21 people will face a military court in Bordeaux, France, to answer charges relating to the massacre.

When Buffalo Roamed Prairies

YORKTON, Sask. (CP)—Buffalo tongue is a rare dish these days. But, according to an old statement donated recently to the Yorkton museum, a pioneer merchant of Touchwood, Sask., had an even 1,000 buffalo tongues on hand in 1855.

And not only will you fail to find any buffalo around Touchwood today, you would have difficulty finding anyone to direct you to the merchant's old trading post.

Like the buffalo, the Touchwood Hills trading post, which became one of the most important centres in early Saskatchewan, has disappeared.

About 50 yards from Highway No. 15 between Lestock and Punnichy, the last vestiges of the old post, part of a roof and a chimney, finally collapsed four years ago. Today cars whiz past over the old trail where oxen pulling Red river carts once clipped off six or seven miles a day.

The merchant's statement including mention of the buffalo tongues was obtained by Sheriff Dave Williams of Yorkton from a friend who picked it and other pioneer papers up at old Fort Pelly when the fort was being torn down. The paper was a statement of provisions at Touchwood Hills, March 24, 1855.

Has Open Mind On Seaway Plan

WASHINGTON (AP).— Senator J. Bricker (Rep. O.) said Tuesday he is "keeping an open mind" on new proposals for United States participation in construction of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway.

Bricker, who four years ago voted against a bill calling for U. S. participation in the project, told a reporter he wants to see what the Senate foreign relations committee recommends.

The Ohioan said the decision by the Canadian government to build the 27-foot channel without waiting for the U. S. has not altered his thinking.

"Let them go ahead and do it," Bricker said. "I'd be glad to see somebody else spend some money for a change."

Senator Robert Taft (Rep. O.), the Senate majority leader, already has said he will do anything he can to advance the cause of the project, which has been before Congress for many years.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

OUR FOUNDER'S BIRTHDAY.

February 22nd this year will fall on Sunday and right now many groups are thinking of church parades as the best means of celebrating the memory of the late Lord Baden Powell of Gilwell, founder of the Boy Scout movement and the only man to hold the rank of World Chief Scout. It will be very fitting if every scout group plans some special affair, either alone or jointly with other groups. Some no doubt will be holding Father and Son banquets.

OFF TO FRESH START.

KIBBLEHITE ROVER SCOUTS

The Crew held a very successful party Saturday evening in the Den. Miss Grace Williams came all the way from Long Branch just to attend this party. The arrangements were under the supervision of Squire Rolly Brier, the chairman for the evening was Skipper Art Rose. Rover Ken White was in carge of the decorating.

The evening consisted of party games, dancing, novelty dances and refreshments. An dthen in the wee hours of the morning, somebody suggested square dancing. So, a few of the more hardy individuals did just that.

One of the Rovers will be picked to atend the 5th World Rover Moot in Switzerland. Arrangements have now been made for the Canadian Contingent (limited to 65) to sail from Quebec on July 15 on SS Scythia for La Havre, France. Thence to Paris for a 4 or 5 day stopover, in a tented camp on the outskirts of the city, staffed by Parisian Rovers, who will help with sight seeing etc. They will then continue across France, and Switzerland to Kandersteg, the sight of the first World Moot.

Kandersteg is in the midst of the Bernese Alps, a high valley surrounded by green forests, blue mountain lakes, and at the foot of radiating glaciers. A rich program has been prepared for the 11 day camp, with combined camp-fires, religious services, competitions, hikes, and conferences. Three excursions are also included, trips by electric railway and funiculars to mountain summits of Neissen, Blausse, (Blue Lake) and to the giant mountains of Blumisalporn (12,040 ft.) and Balmnorn (12,175 ft.)

The camp will be divided into patrols of 10 Rovers, and 10 patrols of different nationalities will form a Crew. After the camp, the party will have about 10 days free time and will go to Britain, and may tour the British Isles, visit relatives, etc., on their own time before reporting at Liverpool on Aug. 10, to return on S.S. Ascania to Montreal, arriving in Canada around August 28.

Arrest 6 Nazi Ringleaders Planning To Seize Power

Runaway Train Crashes Crowd, 49 In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)—A runaway passenger train, its horn screeching a warning, crashed through a barrier into Union station today. At least 49 persons were taken to hospital, but no one was reported killed. Frank J. McCarthy, assistant vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, said the station master listed six persons as seriously injured and 10 who might have been seriously hurt. The train, the Pennsylvania's Federal express from Boston, demolished the station-master's office and smashed a news stand in the centre of the concourse, an area separating the tracks from the main waiting room.

The electric locomotive and one car then plunged through the reinforced concrete floor into a baggage room in the basement.

NO EXPLANATION

There was no immediate explanation as to why the brakes apparently failed as the train approached the station through the yards. Passengers estimated its speed variously as between 30 and 50 miles an hour.

Only the continuous warning blast of the horn and the plunge through the concourse floor saved a heavy human toll.

Had the floor not given way, the train would have plowed on into the main passenger waiting room.

AMBULANCES SUMMONED

All available police cars, ambulances and a rescue squad were summoned.

The accident occurred at about 8:45 a.m. EST. The train was due at 8:20.

Joseph L. Miller of Washington, a passenger, said the train must have been travelling close to 50 miles an hour going through the yard and "everybody thought we were going to derail."

"Then, wham! We knew something was going to happen. That train had to stop somehwere."

Girl Suicides 8 Hours Before Wedding

WELLAND (CP) — Attractive 25-year-old Kathryn Zarafonitis was to be married today. Eight hours before the wedding, she killed herself with a 38-calibre pistol.

Her parents, perplexed and grief-stricken, said the funeral will be held at 4 p. m. today, the exact time the marriage ceremony was to have taken place. More than 200 persons invited to the wedding will attend the service.

The girl's fiance, John Conits, a restaurant owner in Greenville, S. C., was at a loss to explain the incident. The wedding party attended a rehearsal Wednesday night and a party later. "She was on top of the world, so happy, I can't understand it," he said.

FOUND BY MOTHER

She was found by her mother, Mrs. John Zarafonitis, who ran into the girl's bedroom this morning to investigate a gunshot. The revolver which belonged to her father, was lying on the bed beside her.

The couple, engaged six months, planned a honeymoon trip to New York, South Carolina and Cuba.

"She has been packing and getting ready to move, and she was so happy," her mother said. The couple planned to live in South Carolina.

Mrs. Zarafonitis said her daughter suffered a nervous breakdown about six months ago but had apparently recovered.

FLUSHING SPILLED FUEL OIL from the pavement at the corner of George and Hunter Sts., city firemen hosed 25 gallons down the drain. It created a minor hazard, momentarily, Fire Chief Ralph Leonard said. A fuel tanker proceeding west on Hunter St. this morning lost the oil from one of the back outlets. 3 Americans Arrested In Spy Ring

Find Vienna Plot Directly Linked To Soviet Embassy

WASHINGTON (AP)— Two former United States Army men were accused of spying for Russia today in a plot linked to the Soviet embassy here.

Attorney-General James G. McGranery announced that the two were arrested in Vienna, Austria, Wednesday. They were named in a secret indictment returned by a federal grand jury on Tuesday.

Simultaneously with McGranery's announcement, the state department announced it has demanded that Russia recall Yuri V. Novikov, second secretary of the Soviet embassy, because he has "engaged in activities incompatible with his status as an accredited diplomatic official."

McGranery said the former army men are Otto Verber and Kurt L. Ponger, both of New York city. They are brothers-in-law and naturalized Americans.

McGranery said the indictment names Novikov as a co-conspirator, but not as a defendant. Novikov is alleged to have been the contact for the former army men.

Verber and Ponger, picked up in the Austrian capital Wednesday, were taken aboard an American plane and started across the Atlantic. They are scheduled to arrive here late this afternoon.

Both of the defendants were born in Vienna and were naturalized in the U. S. in 1943.

Verber, 31, served as a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army during the Second World War and was a member of a military intelligence team in Europe. After the war, he was employed as an interrogator for the war crimes commission in Nurenberg, Germany. Recently, he has been living in the American zone of Vienna, enrolled at the University of Vienna.

Ponger, 39, first entered the U. S. as a seaman in 1940, obtained naturalization, and enlisted in the army in June, 1943.

He also worked at one time after the war for the war crimes commission and has been attending the University of Vienna.

The indictment charges 14 specific acts of espionage, alleged to have started in June, 1949 and to have been carried out in Washington and in Europe.

It charges that the two naturalized Americans conspired with Novikov to gather "documents, writings, sketches, plans, maps, notes," relating to national defence for delivery to the Russians.

The collected information, according to the indictment, included data on the size and disposition of U.S. armed forces and its military establishments.

British Move Fast When Serious Plot Uncovered

BONN, Germany (AP)—In a surprise midnight swoop, British police arrested six former Nazis Wednesday night and accused them of plotting to regain power in Western Germany. British public safety officers, assisted by armed military police, hauled the men out of their homes in the Hamburg and Duesseldorf areas, in the British occupation zone, and took them to an undisclosed jail. A British foreign office announcement in London said the plotters promoted anti-Western views and propaganda which threatened the West German federal government as well as Allied policies. The statement added that investigation would continue of the group's activities and "contacts within and without the federal republic."

Britain's high commissioner in Germany, Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick, ordered the arrests under a law empowering occupation authorities to act against threats to the security of the Allies.

Among the men seized were two who had been named in Hitler's will to succeed to high political posts in what the suicide-bent Fuehrer envisioned as a continuing Third Reich.

NOT YET CHARGED

A British spokesman said the men have not yet been charged, but they are being held while their anti-Western activities are investigated further.

Late Wednesday night, Sir Ivone had a secret meeting with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to inform him the arrests were taking place.

A British spokesman said merely that the chancellor "took note" of the information.

Those arrested included:

Dr. Werner Naumann, former state secretary to Dr. Joseph Goebbels' propaganda ministry who was nominated in Hitler's will to succeed Goebbels as Reich propaganda minister

Blasting Crew Hope To End Raging Oil Fire

CHAUVIN, Alta. (CP)—A blasting crew began preparations at dawn today to blow out a raging oil fire fed by an estimated 6,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas in the last two days.

Four men kept a constant watch in 40-below cold Wednesday night over the blaze which broke out during processing to put an oil well, four miles west of here and 190 miles northeast of Calgary, on production.

For 20 miles around bright flames and black, billowing smoke could be seen pouring 100 feet skyward since early Tuesday. Thousands of dollars worth of oil drilling equipment was damaged or destroyed, but no crew members were injured.

HOPE TO CUT FLOW

The dynamite blasting is hoped to cut the flow of gas long enough to snuff out the blaze. Then workers will survey the damage and try again to put the well on production.

The well was drilled by Canbridge Contractors Limited for Barclay Oils, a private Toronto firm. The hole has been cased and tubing run. Tuesday morning during swabbing operations natural gas broke loose and was ignited. Officials said they haven't determined how the gas was lighted.

The gas flow of more than 3,000,000 cubic feet every 24 hours could not be shut off. Men worked in the heat of the flames to remove equipment, including a rig, derrick, pump and several other expensive pieces of machinery. All were damaged, some destroyed.

Gordon Tull of Canbridge Drillers said the well may not be put on production now for several weeks, depending upon the damage done to the hole by the fire-extinguishing blast.

Ask Aid For Incapacitated

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons today returns to debate over the controversial Currie report on the army works services. Wednesday was a day of relative parliamentary quiet as members debated—and broadly approved—a resolution by the Rev. Dan McIvor (L-Fort William) urging establishment of government pensions for the incapacitated. The private resolution didn't get to a vote although members of all four parties in the House voiced support of its aims. Health Minister Martin still had the floor at adjournment time. The minister said that in view of what the federal government already is doing he could not accept Mr. McIvor's resolution without qualification.

He took the stand that the provinces are better equipped than the federal government to initiate and administer a pensions system for the disabled.

"It is one phase, I think, they can do better than we," he said.

Today members pick up the threads of the warm debate on a government motion calling for establishment of a committee on defence expenditures and for priority in its deliberations to be given the Currie report.

The House heard only a brief mention Wednesday of the report which pictured a "general breakdown" in control of the works services branch of the army.

Defence Minister Claxton told members he had neither dictated, signed nor sent one letter inadvertently tabled in the House Tuesday as part of an exchange of correspondence with George S. Currie, the Montreal accountant whose firm made the investigation.

OF LITTLE HELP

The letter said the report had been of little help in ascertaining whether there had been negligence and incompetence in the army and asked Mr. Currie for further details.

When George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, asked how the tabled letter happened to bear Mr. Claxton's typewritten signature, the minister said he assumed some clerk or printer must have added it. But he had not signed the letter since he had decided not to send it.

Urge Secret Ballot In Philadelphia Strike

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The third largest city in the United States lay limp in the grasp of a transit strike today. The city administration made the only apparent move to end the walkout of 9,700 members of the Transport Workers Union (CIO).

For the second day in a row, some 2,500,000 commuters struggled to work and school in jammed trains, car pools, taxicabs, bicycles and by foot.

The first move to end the crippling walkout came Wednesday night when Mayor Joseph S. Clark, Jr., urged leaders of local 234, TWU, to conduct a secret ballot among the union members to determine if they wish to continue the strike.

Clark said he felt the secret poll of all striking workers might disclose a majority in favor of returning to work and accepting the company offer since only about 25 per cent of the membership voted for the walkout.

Ferry With 1900 Aboard Crashes Into Freighter

NEW YORK (AP)—A Staten Island ferry with 1,900 passengers crashed into a freighter near the Statue of Liberty today in one of two collisions in fog-shrouded New York harbor. Six persons were injured and many shaken up aboard the city-owned ferry, the Gold Star Mother.

Passengers rushed for life preservers, but the ferry disentangled her stove-in bow from the United States Lines' 8,200 - ton freighter American Veteran and reached her Manhattan berth.

In the other accident, in lower New York harbor, the 8,277-ton United States Line freighter American Leader and the 6,131-ton Waterman Steamship Lines freighter Chickasaw collided in the murky weather. The American Leader apparently was badly damaged.

None of the vessels sank.

Meanwhile, the coast guard said the 10,000-ton tanker Esso Wilmington ran aground in the dense fog of the lower harbor.

The ferryboat left St. George, Staten Island, with its morning load of commuters for Manhattan and ran into the American Veteran at 7:49 a.m. EST. Capt. Robert Lathp rop, the ferry skipper, reported afterward that there was "no panic, but some excitement."

The coast guard reported the American Leader was "badly damaged" in the lower bay collision at about 8 a.m. off Bay Ridge, Brooklyn. She anchored off Governor's island and reported she was taking water.

The Chickasaw anchored a short distance away with a gaping hole in her bow above the waterline.

The American Leader had a crew of about 50 men and the Chickasaw a crew of about 45.

Stiff Regulations For Tourist Ads

TORONTO (CP)—Stiff regulations governing advertising for tourist accommodation were announced Wednesday by the provincial department of travel and publicity.

The new regulations say:

"Tourist advertisements must not contain any inaccurate or misleading representation in respect to sleeping accommodation, transportation or recreational facilities, or rates charged.

"Where rates are quoted, it must state exactly what the rates are. Full information must also be given about what the rates include."

The announcement said further that operators must not advertise "modern conveniences" unless the accommodation is adequately equipped with electric lighting, local and long-distance telephone service, modern plumbing and a supply of hot and cold water available at all times for baths.

QUINTUPLETS DIE

CANTERBURY, Eng. (Reuters)—Boy quintuplets were born here last night but did not survive. Hospital authorities said the parents had asked them to conceal their identity and withhold other details from the public.

Surplus Pork Sale To Government Halted

OTTAWA (CP) — Sales of surplus pork to the government have halted, following reduction of the federal support price, an agriculture department spokesman said today.

He said there have been no offerings of pork to the government in the last few weeks, and suggested this was because the market price is higher than the federal support price.

Amid protests by hog raisers, the government reduced the support price to 23 cents a pound on Jan. 1 from 26 cents. By that time its warehouses were filled with some 50,000,000 pounds of surplus pork, most of it canned.

The spokesman said the government will resume purchases of surplus pork whenever the market drops to the support level.

Trainmen Officials Study Board Plan

MONTREAL (CP) — Officials of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will meet here later today for the first of a series of meetings to consider a wage recommendation of two government conciliation boards.

A. J. Kelly of Ottawa, vice-president of the BRT and chairman of its negotiating committee, will preside. The independent union represents about 21,000 employees of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways, which includes conductors, brakemen, switchmen and baggagemen.

Building Explodes People Knocked Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — A burning building in northeast Washington exploded with a great roar today, knocking down people in the streets nearby. There were reports of one killed and at least 12 injured.

The blast blew all the way across the street five firemen who were fighting the blaze.

Class fragments were blown across the street and a big plate-glass window in a neighboring shop was shattered.

The building was a battery and appliance store.

Troop Plane Crashes In Sea

VALETTA, Malta (CP) —An RAF transport plane loaded with British troops crashed into the sea off Malta shortly after a dawn take-off today.

First reports gave no indication whether there were any survivors. The plane was described as a Valetta capable of carrying up to 24 persons, including crew.

In London, the air ministry said it had heard there were 18 aboard.

Wreckage of the Valetta — a transport modeled along the lines of the Viking civil airliner — was spotted just off this fortress island after she failed to reach Marseilles en route to Britain.

There were reports that an RAF Lancaster out of Malta was missing, too, but this was later explained as a mixup in identifying the Valetta.

Philip Now Holds Highest Ranks

LONDON (CP) — The Queen has promoted her husband to the highest ranks in the British Army, Navy and Air Force, it was announced today.

Prince Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh, now is a field marshal of the army, admiral of the fleet, and marshal of the RAF.

Prince Philip now assumes the same ranks as were held by King George VI and King Edward VIII (who still holds them as Duke of Windsor.) Queen Victoria's consort, Prince Albert, never held naval rank but was made a field marshal a few days before his marriage.

The promotions, which needed the Queen's approval were officially announced by each of the three services. They were effective today.

In Buckingham Court circles the promotion was regarded as a further step by the Queen toward giving the Duke the formal title of Prince Consort.

Leonard Brockington On UN Loyalty Panel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary - General Trygve Lie has named Leonard Brockington, former chairman of the CBC's board of governors, to head a three-man United Nations loyalty panel, it was reported today.

The other two men on the panel will be the UN's chief legal officer, Constantin Stavropoulus, a Greek citizen, and Ralph Bunche, American Negro who won the 1950 Nobel Peace Prize for his mediation efforts in Palestine.

The panel is expected to scrutinize doubtful cases where a dispute arises.

Blame Allergy For Girl's Death

BARRIE (CP) — Shock brought on by allergy to an anaesthetic was the direct cause of the death of Mrs. Janice Baker, 19, while undergoing a tonsil operation Monday, doctors said today.

Describing the soldier's bride's death as due to a combination of circumstances that would occur "only once in a million times," doctors said Mrs. Baker had a history of allergy to milk. They said they believed a close relationship between novocaine used as a local anaesthetic and sulfanilamide was responsible for her death.

Some weeks ago the girl had been given sulfanilamide as treatment for infected tonsils. During treatment she became allergic to the drug, and treatment was stopped.

But the tonsil condition did not improve and it was decided to operate, using novocaine as a local anaesthetic.

Report Cold Wave Heading For East

TORONTO (CP) — Citizens basking in a three-day spell of 45-degree weather are ordering seed catalogues for spring planting, department store officials said today.

But the weatherman said they'd better get their planting done tonight. Sub-freezing temperatures and snow are expected Friday.

The forecaster said the current mild spell is not a record. "It was warmer last January," he said.

Meanwhile sub-zero cold gripped Western Canada. Alberta and British Columbia got freezing rain today and temperatures at Prince Albert, Sask., dipped to 45 below zero.

A Matter of Definition

Man's Guilt Be Decided By Meaning Of Glance

MONTREAL (CP)—The fate of a Montreal man charged with possession of smuggled United States cigarettes depends on the judge's definition of a glance.

Noel Charles Decelle, 35, was ordered to stand trial on the charge Wednesday, but Judge C.E. Guerin reserved decision in the case of a companion, Roger Hamelin, 34.

RCMP said Hamelin acted as lookout for Decelle and was arrested outside a garage where 7,300 American cigarettes were stored. Decelle was arrested inside the building.

Police said Hamelin came out of the garage and glanced around just before the raid.

Judge Guerin asked for more explicit information on the "glance." He said there are a variety of glances — furtive, sidelong, admiring and casual.

"Was it furtive, like this?" the judge asked, leaning forward and glancing narrow-eyed from side to side.

"Or casual, like this?" he gave a vacant look around the courtroom, staring over the heads of spectators.

The judge asked for notes and jurisprudence from rival counsel, including something on demeanor, before deciding whether this wasn't the case of a friend with a friend, not knowing the contents of certain parcels and just stepping out of a building for fresh air.

RCAF Plane To Have Guided Missiles

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto paper, in an Ottawa dispatch, says the twin-jet Mark IV CF-100, scheduled for production this summer, will be the first RCAF aircraft to be armed with air-to-air radar-guided missiles.

Officials of the A. V. Roe Company at nearby Malton, builders of the CF-100, had no comment on the report. Production of guided missiles was announced last week by the defence department, but no mention was made of installing them in the jet fighter. In Ottawa, defence department and RCAF officials also had no comment on the report.

The story says the new weapons will be ready for tests in late summer, and the tests likely will be carried out in northern Alberta.

Fist Fights, Shouting Add To Furore In Debate For Extending Majlis Power

TEHRAN (AP)—The debate on the bill to extend Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's power to rule by decree today exploded into tumultuous shouting on the Majlis floor and fist fights in the spectators' and press gallery.

The session broke up in disorder as deputies yelled insults at each other. Spectators banged about in a free-for-all battle.

Musaffer Baghaie, once one of the premiers' stalwarts, had said that although he favored Mossadegh as premier he could not approve continuing his dictatorial powers.

This was in reply to Deputy Karim Sanjabi, a strong Mossadegh man, who had asked Baghaie why he voted with the majority giving Mossadegh a vote of confidence.

"You are a hypocrite," Sanjabi cried.

Angry shouts rose against Sanjabi.

"You are insulting a deputy of the nation," yelled Hossein Maki, who had resigned from the Majlis but was persuaded by a crowd of students to attend today.

"Death to Sanjabi," yelled a spectator.

Shouting on the floor prevented any deputies being heard. The clamor in the galleries brought the military police and Majlis guard running.

Baghaie resumed his speech later when spectators were barred from the gallery.

Doesn't Want Witch-Hunt

Eisenhower Backs Search For Reds In Federal Jobs

NEW YORK (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower is reported to have told his cabinet he wants a zealous search made for any Communists or Red sympathizers in federal jobs—without use of any "witch-hunt" tactics.

He also is understood to want a new loyalty program set up promptly for tighter screening of government employees and applicants for positions.

The matter, it was learned today, was discussed at length at one of the conferences Eisenhower held with his cabinet and other top appointees Monday and Tuesday.

Tentative decisions were reported reached on the general outline of a new screening program, but the nature of it is being kept secret.

The outgoing Truman administration has set up loyalty boards in the various federal agencies, with a central review board for study of decisions of the department boards.

Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.) has charged that some of those boards, especially the one in the state department, have been ineffective.

In endorsing McCarthy for re-election, Eisenhower said he agreed with the Wisconsin senator that any Communists or fellow-travellers should be driven out of government. But the general did not approve McCarthy's methods.

There was no word whether McCarthy and his Communists - in - government charges were discussed by Eisenhower and his cabinet.

Eisenhower conferred for 3½ hours Wednesday with his national defence and foreign policy chiefs.

Eisenhower aides had said in advance of the meeting that it would deal with global strategy for security against the threat of communism abroad.

Ont. Hog Producers Establish Marketing Agency

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hog Producers' Association announced Wednesday establishment of a marketing agency, aimed at having decisions on hog prices made by producers instead of by processors. The announcement said that effective Jan. 23 all sales of hogs in Ontario will be placed through the central marketing agency, operated by United Livestock Sales Ltd., for the Ontario Hog Producers' Marketing Board. President Charles McInnis of Iroquois said this should restore competition to the hog market, give the producer a better break and at the same time hold down consumer prices.

"In the past," said Mr. McInnis, "pork was often consumed before the price to the producer was set. The processor would buy pigs, process them, and sell them to the butcher. Then, about the time the consumer was eating them, he would decide on the price to be paid. We want to eliminate that."

The producers' organization has been working on the scheme for about 10 years, trying gradually to get a little more control of hog marketing. Members felt that all too often processors bought from drovers, and arranged with the drovers to get pigs for them. With the new system processors will have to compete in their bids, and the result, according to the association, should be a more stable and level price for the producer.

DON'T LIKE FLUCTUATIONS

"It's a wel-known fact that consumers don't like price fluctuations," said Mr. McInnis, "and in the past retailers and processors often set their prices during the high period for producers. Then, when the price to the consumer dropped, they kept their price near the same level because they knew it wasn't good business to have prices going up and down."

He said it was hoped, too, under the new scheme, to hand out advice to producers so that more orderly shipments could be arranged. In other words, there would be an attempt at planned production, to a degree, so that a more even flow of pork could be maintained throughout the year.

"After all, the consumer eats about the same amount of pork all the year round, and all that is accomplished by shipping more pigs at certain seasons is to drive the price downward," Mr. McInnis said.

He noted that pork markets in the United States tended to fluctuate, since many pigs in that country were raised outdoors and had to be sold at certain seasons. In Canada production could be staggered.

"The job of our agency will be to sell hogs to the highest bidder, and to look for sales outlets, whether in this province or elsewhere," he said. "The U.S. market may provide some outlet, but it is not likely to do a great deal for us."

Charge Egypt Spreading False Rumors

CAIRO (Reuters) — A British administrator has accused the Egyptian government of trying to damage Britain's position in the Sudan by spreading false rumors about delicate negotiations now in progress to decide the territory's future.

Sir James Robertson, civil secretary to the Sudanese government made the charge in a letter to Sudan leaders. Its text was made public Wednesday night.

Robertson said that as long as British ambassador Sir Ralph Stevenson and Egyptian Premier Mohammed Naguib are discussing plans for giving the Sudan self-government, Britain will not officially comment on the negotiations.

"The Egyptians, however, both in public and private have not hesitated to comment or spread a number of false rumors by which they have attempted to damage our positions," he charged.

"We still feel that no public pronouncement should be made as long as talks continue, but it is our duty to correct false and malicious rumors."

Robertson said that at an early stage in the negotiations, Britain suggested that elections should be held immediately in Sudan — a vast territory to the south of Egypt, now under joint Anglo-Egyptian control. Ticklish problems about a constitution could be discussed later.

"The Egyptian government refused to accept this suggestion," the British official said. "Had the Egyptian attitude been more accommodating, we would have been holding our elections now."

Robertson said that a statute proposing self-government for the Sudan was presented to the British and Egyptian governments by the Sudanese government in May, 1952, after a long debate in the legislative assembly.

The British government formally approved the statute Oct. 21.

Ask Aid

The debate of the day arose from a resolution moved by Mr McIvor which asked the government to consider "the advisability of co-operating with provincial governments for the purpose of providing pensions, equal to old-age pensions, for all those who are incapacitated and unable to earn their own living, regardless of age."

Mr. Martin said it is not widely known that 325,000 disabled Canadians already are receiving $110,000,000 a year, mainly from the federal government.

The provinces had saved $18,000,000 a year when the federal government took on full responsibility for pensions for all Canadians at the age of 70. He said the cost of pensions for those who are incapacitated and not getting any government help would not exceed that sum.

He suggested the provinces should initiate the action sought by Mr. McIvor.

There was no vote on the motion because the minister adjourned the debate, indicating he will speak on it again at a later date.

NEED AID BADLY

At the outset, Mr. McIvor said the incapacitated area segment of the population badly in need of aid to enable them to live in an adequate manner.

Dr. W. G. Blair (PC—Lanark) said there is a "grave gap in our social security program, especially as far as the disabled are concerned." These people should be given a pension and admitted to the social security group.

A pension would meet the needs of the disabled and greatly assist their families.

Mr. Martin said last year Ontario inaugurated a system of pensions to the needy disabled. The number receiving the pension was not large and the program was well within the means of the province.

Mr. Martin said he is confident other provinces will follow Ontario's lead.

Without elaborating, he said that within the near future he hopes to announce a program that is not unrelated to the matter of disability pensions. It would not provide for pensions but it would be related to the disability problem.

He said that at least three provinces—he did not name them—agree with his view that the provinces can better handle disabled pensions.

Youth Charged In Snowbank Death Of Boy

ROUYN—Gabriel Tremblay, 17, will be charged with the snowbank death of 11 year old Gaetan Gendron in St. Laurent de Gallichan, 50 miles north of Rouyn, police said today.

The charge was laid following a coroner's inquest at which a statement made by the accused to the police was read by Det. Ralph Allen.

In his statement Tremblay said that the two boys were planning to build a snow fort in a hay stack on the Tremblay farm when young Gendron became angry in the discussion as to how the fort was to be constructed. Gendron called Tremblay a name in French which can be translated to mean "big mouth" and then jumped on him.

Tremblay went on to say that he struck Gendron a blow on the cheek with a hook and then twice more on the head. "He fell to the ground and I hid in the barn. I stayed there for about 15 minutes, and then I took a look around to see if Gaetan was still there. He was still prostrate on the ground. At first I was afraid to go near him. I finally did. I formed my handkerchief into a gag and tied it around his mouth and I used a piece of cord to tie his hands with.

"I ran away again, but returned to the spot with three bags which I used to cover him with and then proceeded to bury him with snow."

One of the members of the six-man jury fainted while the jury was looking at an exhibit.

Heinz Siepen, former Nazi district group leader, now a part-owner of the Punktal steelworkers at Solingen.

Dr. Karl Scharping, former official of the Reich propaganda ministrys' radio department.

The British foreign office statement said:

"For some time British authorities have been aware that a group of former Nazis have been plotting to regain power in Western Germany.

"In the field of foreign affairs, this group has been principally concerned with propagation of anti-Western views and policies. Its activities have been directed from centres in the British zone (of occupation)."

MAY DAMAGE PRESTIGE

In London, diplomatic quarters suggested that the existence of the plotters might damage the prestige of West German Chancellor Adenauer, and increase French doubts about the possibility of cooperating with West Germany.

Scharping took turns with Hans Fritsche, Nazi Germany's No. 1 radio commentator, in addressing the German public on political issues during the last years of the war.

In one of his last radio addresses, when Germany's collapse was imminent, he exhorted his listeners to remain loyal to the dream of a greater Germany, and sang the praises of the defeated Nazi military forces.

The six men had been under close surveillance by British agents for weeks but the raiding police caught them by surprise.

When army jeeps screeched to a stop outside their houses, some of the men were already in bed.

The actual arrests were made by the civilian blue-uniformed British public safety officers. Military police, armed with pistols, guarded exits from the houses to prevent escapes or interference by Nazi sympathizers.

NEEDED SWIFT ACTION

An informed source said the arrested men had been taken to the British war crimes prison at Werl.

There was no immediate official explanation why the British high commissioner used his occupation powers instead of prodding the Germany authorities to act against the men.

It was believed, however, that Sir Ivone believed the apparent threat to the security of the Allied forces in West Germany was so serious that swift and direct action was required.

If the men are eventually charged and brought to trial for plotting against the Allies, they would be taken into a British court.

The first official West German reaction to the arrests came from the federal press office.

It said the federal government had been informed about the arrests "and considers them justified since sufficient evidence exists."

The British stroke under the Allied occupation powers came at a time when West Germans are still debating ratification of the twin treaties which would give the federal republic near sovereignty and bring it into armed alliance with the West.

HAVING TROUBLE

For some time, British officials have been troubled by resurging nazism in their occupation zone, particularly in the state of Lower Saxony.

Last autumn West German authorities clamped down on 61 illegal Nazi groups which had named candidates for municipal elections in the state. German officials said these groups were trying to succeed the neo-Nazi Socialist Reich party, which had been outlawed by a West German constitutional court.

Nevertheless, about 800 former Nazis swept into office in Lower Saxony's November elections. These included Wilhelm Schepmann, the last chief of staff of Hitler's bullying Storm Troopers.

The Lower Saxony state police said new undercover Nazi groups spring up there as fast as authorities suppress old ones.

Gives Details Of Rocking Horse

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton told a chuckling Commons Wednesday the details of what went into the Petawawa rocking horse.

Answering a series of questions arising from the Currie report, he said the child's rocking horse referred to in the report was made by an army private as a Christmas present for the young son of Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, then commanding officer of the army's central command.

It included nails and other materials from army stores, hairs in the tail which were obtained from "a civilian workman," a saddle made from the lining of an old coat owned by Mrs. Vokes.

When Gen. Vokes heard the horse contained materials from the army's stores, he had paid the equivalent value—$9—into the federal treasury.

Prices Some Stronger On Toronto Market

TORONTO (CP) —Stock market trading continued to bound ahead in early afternoon today while prices continued uncertain but slightly stronger.

Low-priced mining issues accounted for much of the active trading. Gunnar, a uranium prospect, led the trading with a gain of 65 cents in a turnover of 138,000 shares. Volume for the first three hours totalled 3,419,000 shares.

Industrials weakened as refining oils, banks, foods, steels and manufacturing companies slipped. Few strong spots appeared in the list but DeHaviland added $10.50 in three small trades.

Golds mixed as seniors slipped and secondary issues gained. Juniors showed a majority of small gains and prospects generally added small amounts.

Among the leading low-priced mining stocks—golds, uranium and base metal—Bobjo, Homer, Nubar and Citra Lartic traded more than 100,000 shares each for small gains.

Higher-priced base metals weakened slightly but most others gained, led by Barvue, Rix and Nesbitt-Labine. Cassiar slipped.

Western oils showed a majority of gains. Canadian Devonian and Fargo made good advances in active trading.

Queen's Park Agrees To Loans Of $55,000,000

TORONTO (CP)—Orders-in-Council posted Wednesday at Queen's Park on decisions taken at an Ontario cabinet meeting last week disclosed that authorization had been given to raising loans of more than $55,000,000.

The cabinet approved raising in the United States a loan of $50,000,000 for the Niagara power development.

The cabinet approved a $2,200,000 loan to cover the Niagara parks Commission indebtedness. The commission has reduced its debt from more than $4,000,000 incurred largely from purchase of the old International Railway.

GIVE AUTHORIZATION

Authorization was given the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission for an accountable warrant for $2,394,654 for extension of rural primary and secondary transmission lines.

Agriculture Minister Kennedy recommended lending the St. Catharines Growers' Co-operative Ltd. $40,000 for a cold storage plant.

New rights in the Marmora area totalling more than 70 acres were given to the Bethlehem Steel Company's Canadian company, Marmoraton Mining Company Ltd.

Torpedo Plant Blast Kills 1, Injures 10

ALEXANDRIA, Scotland (AP) — An explosion in the Royal Naval torpedo factory today killed one workman and critically injured 10 others.

The blast was blamed on a compressed air cylinder which blew up in a crowded workshop. At least 20 other workers were treated for shock.

Alex MacDonald, 24, died almost immediately after being hit by a piece of flying metal.

The explosion shook a wide area but did not seriously damage the building.

Bow River Retreats Eases Village Threat

CALGARY (CP)—The Bow river retreated a few inches early today despite predictions by flood officials, following a general evacuation of low-lying areas in suburban Bowness at midnight, that there was worse to come.

The respite came just in the nick of time.

The ice-clogged river had cut a channel through a dike and was rapidly filling part of the village, eight miles west of here. The water level hung at that high point for several minutes, dropped a few inches, rose again, and then slowly began to recede.

The cautious flood-experienced Bowness officials took no chances on having residents trapped in their homes as happened when the river broke its banks last year at this time. They evacuated all families in the area and quickly provided them with other accommodation.

Although residents were hopeful that they had escaped for the night, officials warned that the water could, and probably would, rise again tonight or early Friday.

Ottawa Asks Crossing Investigation

Want To Reduce Large Number Of Traffic Accidents

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has ordered a full investigation into the problem of railway-highway grade crossings with a view to reducing accidents.

Transport Minister Chevrier announced in the Commons Wednesday that an Order-in-Council directs the board of transport commissioners to conduct the investigation, which he hoped would cover all provinces.

He said the problem had become one of outstanding importance in recent years because of improved highways and the expansion of motor vehicle traffic. It might be, he said, that restrictions in existing legislation and in the method of financing crossings tends to impede the elimination of many crossings.

COST ALLOCATED

Under the Federal Grade Crossing Act, the treasury may contribute up to 40 per cent of the cost of crossings to a ceiling of $150,000 in total cost. The transport board allocates the costs among the government, the railways and other government bodies.

The federal government puts $1,000,000 a year into its grade crossing fund.

Wrecking Wall Of Burned Church

CAMPBELLFORD— (ENS)—Workmen began pulling down the walls oft the Free Methodist Church on Tuesday, following the fire on Thursday. The church was destroyed after it was ignited by flames from a burning implement shop next door. The shop was also destroyed.

The walls of the church, which are of the old type cement block construction, were unsafe after the interior and the roof had been burned. It is believed that foundation of the building is sound enough to be used again, and a portion of the floor of the church was not even scorched in the blaze.

No definite plans have yet been made as to rebuilding either the church or the implement shop.

TUNIS, North Africa (Reuters)—A bomb exploded at the entrance to a working-class house in the Jewish quarter here Wednesday night, killing two children and wounding two others.

Motor Fumes Kill Cobourg Driver

COBOURG (ENS)—A Cobourg transport driver, Stewart Haynes, 40, was found dead in the cab of his parked truck Wednesday on Highway 7 a mile west of Glentay near Perth.

An autopsy ordered by Coroner Dr. A. C. Fowler, revealed death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning. There will be no inquest.

The dead driver was found slumped over the wheel of his truck by Melvin Brown of Colborne, driver for the same company, who was following Haynes in another transport.

EXHAUST PIPE RUSTED

OPP Inspector of the Perth detachment, T. Cousans, said inspection of the truck's undercarriage showed the exhaust pipe connection near the engine to be badly rusted.

Haynes was born in Castleton but lived most of his life in Cobourg. He was a taxi and truck driver.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Frank Haynes of Toronto; eight brothers, Bill and Fred of Rochester, Cecil of Cobourg, Edward in the United States, Alton of Salem, Boyd of Windsor and Floyd of Toronto; also three sisters, Mrs. Fred Eddy of Toronto, Mrs. Percy Reynolds of Belleville and Mrs. E. Samons in the States.

Producer On Trial For "Immoral" Show

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Edward Gould, who produced "Tobacco Road" under protection of a court order, goes on trial today on a charge of producing an "indecent and immoral show."

The Superior Court order gave "Tobacco Road" a week's run without a licence and without interference from police, but the court specifically provided that police could act if they considered the show obscene or immoral. The court injunction covered only the show's lack of a licence.

Gould was arrested last Friday. He pleaded innocent and posted $300 bond.

Gusto In Parliament

One thing is certain; the session of Parliament just reconvened is going to be lively. The Currie Report has given opposition parties a political whiz-bomb and shaken the Government out of its dwindling complacency. The fact is, of course, that the notorious report is not an accusation against the Government, the Department of National Defence over which Mr. Claxton presides, nor even against the army. It is the report of an investigation of one branch of the army, and one unit in it; the works service accounting system at the Petawawa Military Camp. The report is so damaging that Parliament should consider it thoroughly. However, it has been enlarged beyond belief as an indictment of the whole army, the whole Department of National Defence, and the entire Government.

* * *

A political merry-go-round will not get at the facts which the accountant George S. Currie was charged with finding and reporting. The facts—that is what Parliament and the public require. Even the report itself seems to deviate from fact. For instance, the Prime Minister has denied that horses were put on the army pay-roll. There were irregularities in the hiring of horses and teamsters; the culpable persons involved are now serving jail sentences. The CNR has denied that its tracks had been illegally lifted. Thus, in two instances, the Currie report is in question. It seems that Mr. Currie has ill-advisedly relied on police reports.

* * *

On top of the Currie report has come a report from Mr. Watson Sellar, the Federal auditor-general. His statements seem to confirm certain general findings of the Currie report: that the Department of National Defence had difficulties in finding its way through the sudden and rapid expansion of the armed services when the Korean war broke out. Mistakes were made; money was spent freely, waste occurred, and extemporary actions by executive officers in various army posts have not been adequately justified in the financial accounts. The conditions at Petawawa as suggested in the Currie report, and the report of the Auditor-General should be thoroughly examined. That is the task of the all-party Defence Expenditures Committee and hot political heads should await its study. There is already too much politics in the situation for truth to emerge freely on the floor of the House. Too many axes are being ground, too many sparks flying. The report should go to the Committee for a cool assessment, and then the Committee can bring it into the House again.

Why Indirect Taxes Are Popular With Governments

A direct tax like income tax is conspicuous. Every time a man pays it, or has it deducted from his wages, he knows it and knows how much it is. Thus governments are chary of increasing direct taxes or imposing new ones, and have been known to make valuable political capital when they are reduced just before an election. On the other hand, indirect taxes like sales and excise taxes, hurt only once when they are first imposed. Thereafter they are not sorely felt because they are out of sight and usually out of mind. They merge imperceptibly with the general struggle of making ends meet. Indirect taxes are an ache rather than a pain. One is conscious of them only when the daily pain becomes a lumbago brought on by too many of them too heavy to bear.

Let us take specific instances of a direct tax and an indirect levy. Income taxes are very high, as everybody knows. There is a constant outcry against them. Yet a married man with two children earning $3,000 a year pays approximately $80 to the Federal Treasury. If both the man and his wife smoke a package of cigarettes a day, they pay in tobacco excise—an indirect tax—$160 a year to the Federal Treasury. If the income tax on this man's earnings were boosted to the amount of the cigarette tax, what would the political consequences be? Yet the Federal Government collects its exorbitant tobacco tax without losing its seat.

True, the tax on tobacco is so high that people are either condemning or circumventing it. They are becoming aware that every smoker pays 22 cents to the Federal Treasury on a package of 20 cigarettes. And they are increasingly smoking black-market stuff, or smuggling cigarettes from the States themselves. Hundreds of millions of cigarettes are entering Canada illegally. What may change the Government's attitude towards the high levy on tobacco is not the political consequence of this indirect tax, but the fact that every time five cartons of American cigarettes are brought into Canada without payment of excise, the Treasury loses eleven dollars in potential revenue. The widespread use of smuggled cigarettes shows that the high excise imposed on tobacco does not have the approval of the Canadian people. Any law which does not have public support cannot be enforced efficiently and should be amended.

The Best Are Still Private

We have received a booklet from the Canadian Library Association called 100 Library Years; it is made up of an interesting collection of pictures of libraries in this country, as they were in the past and as they are now. They range in splendour from the magnificent reading room of the Universite de Montreal to the humble Lester Blackmore Memorial Library, at Clarenville, Newfoundland, which is about the size of a one-car garage. Some are dignified and gloomy, but enchanting, like the Library of Parliament; others are informal, cheerful and somewhat nervously inviting, as though to assure doubtful visitors that books are not really harmful. Some are hideous; one is designed by Frank Lloyd Wright but does not look it. Some have neon signs; some have an appearance of respectability rivalling that of banks. Some lend not only books, but gramophone records and pictures as well. But they are all libraries, and since 1851 they have been providing the people of Canada with books to read.

It is an admirable work, and it has borne fruit. For, whatever the calamity-howlers may say about comic magazines and pocket books of doubtful merit, more people today are reading books of a decent kind, and more people are reading books of undoubted worth, than ever before in our history. And great and successful efforts are being made to interest children in libraries as soon as they are able to look at a book.

In the face of this admirable record on the part of the public libraries it may seem ungrateful of us to say that private libraries are still the best; nevertheless, we shall do so. The true book-lover will never be content to use books which are public property; he wants his own. To him a book is as intimate a possession as a comb or a toothbrush. His means may not permit him to acquire all the books he wants, but he will buy those which are dearest to him, and to which he returns again and again. Modern living quarters are cramped, but he will find a shelf somewhere, and upon it he will range his books. They may not number more than a dozen cheap editions, but they are his own, and very often they are the focus of his life. Not for the world would we discourage anyone from using a public library, but our secret hope is always that the taste acquired there will eventually show itself, modestly or opulently, in a library at home.

What The Kiwanis Festival Does

A news dispatch from London tells us that a Canadian pianist, Ray Dudley, has received good notices from London critics for his first recital there at the famous Wigmore Hall. Dudley is a native of Bowmanville, and many people will remember hearing him play here in the Kiwanis Festival five years ago, and later at a young artists' concert in the PCVS auditorium.

First credit for Dudley's training must go to his mother, who was his first teacher. But we think that the local Kiwanis Club, which sponsors the local music festival, may take a modest pride in having given Dudley help and encouragement on his way. It is a long haul from a local music festival to a recital in Wigmore Hall, with praise from metropolitan critics, and not many young musicians have the talent or perseverence to go all the way. But some do, and while the Kiwanis Festival is not undertaken to create concert artists, it is deeply gratifying when a concert artist emerges.

Ray Dudley now stands on the threshold of a career which might be a great one; he may be a teacher himself, in which case he will be a teacher of a high order. No one can tell at present what is going to be his eventual place in the world of music, but he has already gone farther than most young Canadian pianists of his generation. Let us remember that our local festival was a milestone on his journey, and a source of experience and encouragement to him. The Kiwanis Club may be proud.

NOTES AND COMMENT

"The Common Cold Still Elusive" says a heading in the Toronto Star. It still fails to elude us.

An ape nine feet tall has been found in Africa. We understand that the creature has already had several offers from basketball teams.

We learn that the custom of chewing cloves to disguise the breath is 4,000 years old. The custom of suspecting clove-chewers is approximately the same age.

Kabuki In Japan

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

THE story of the play concerned a general torn with doubt on the eve of a battle. His elderly councillor had already dressed himself in white and committed suicide to strengthen his purpose. His followers were murmuring, but the general reclined in a pavilion on the roof of his castle and talked to his concubine while the day ended and a great storm began. The two were quite alone on the stage when he decided to fight. She took up a tiny hand-drum and began to tap it, and the general, who later became effective ruler of Japan, began to perform a sacred dance.

✧ ✧ ✧

HE danced very slowly, dressed in stiff robes of white and gold. He held an open fan to which he gave an almost independent motion. He danced very slowly, bending his knees and straddling his legs, holding his arms out stiff and wide, his fingers rigid, his eyes staring. His servant ran in from the wings carrying his lacquered armour and his officers ran heavily across the "bridge" from the back of the theatre to the stage, carrying spears and banners and tufted poles, their waistbands bristling with swords. And they knelt on the darkened stage, while the lights flicked on and off; two braziers flamed in front of the pavilion, the girl fingered the drum and the curtain came down. It was the climax of one of the Kabuki plays in Tokyo.

THE Kabuki is one of those unexpected pleasures that sometimes lurk at the end of long journeys. It is a highly stylised drama, but it is popular. It is staged and dressed with a meticulous splendour and it is very Japanese.

It began in the seventeenth century when the ancient Noh plays had become so aristocratic and ceremonious as to be almost incomprehensible to ordinary people. It represented a move — not far — in the direction of luxury and relaxation, and since that has never been a popular direction with Japanese authority it has been often checked and limited by law. The last time was by General MacArthur, who thought it too nationalistic.

✧ ✧ ✧

KABUKI deals largely with traditional Japanese stories that hinge on blind loyalty or war, on suicide and fierce heroism. Or else it deals with the relations between men and women with a Chaucerian bawdiness. An evening in Tokyo would probably include four separate plays, usually episodes out of some almost endless story, and a long dance performance which would itself tell a story in mime and symbolism. It lasts five and a half hours and, during the season, the huge Kabuki theatre in Tokyo is filled twice a day with an audience as serious as any in London.

✧ ✧ ✧

ACTION is almost always accompanied by music. Usually this comes from an alcove by the stage where two men sit in dark, stiff clothes. One plays a samisen—a three-stringed guitar whose tone is not unlike that of a slackened piano. The other sits behind a small lectern and sings, straining his neck muscles, chanting, wailing and shouting in a way that does not seem lovely to strangers but which one learns to accept if not to admire. The stage is shallow, but it extends the whole width of the broad theatre.

Sometimes an orchestra sits on tiers at the back of the stage in front of a painted screen. The musicians are all dressed alike in sober richness. They kneel, sitting on their heels, a row of singers, a row of samisen players, half a dozen men with small hour-glass-shaped drums, and one old man with a shrill flute.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT is not always easy to say whether the characters are acting or dancing. A samurai preparing to fight stamps his feet, grinds his teeth and stiffens his hand over his sword. Enemies inch towards one another on toes and heels in time with the music. Sometimes four or five men make the same gestures at the same time and all crash at once into a rigid pose, crouching and tense.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE actors, even in the female parts, are all men, dressed in traditional costumes. Sometimes they wear padded kimonos with huge sleeves, sometimes silken trousers that hide their feet and trail two or three feet on the ground behind them, sometimes heavy breeches or skirts; stiff cloaks jut out from their shoulders and everything is tucked into unpredictable folds. Their faces are painted white and red, and those of the male characters are invariably ferocious. Their costumes seem designed to make them appear more than human and their gestures are all wild exaggerations. Yet their appearance is oddly familiar, since they exactly reproduce the pictures of warriors on Japanese screens and prints.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE is little applause by Western standards, but when an actor has completed an exceptionally elaborate piece of business a few men in the audience often shout out excitedly. Only an expert would dare to do this; for the Japanese aesthetic also works in the Kabuki. Briefly, this is that works of art must be judged by certain rules, and these rules are never simple. Hard work and obedience to the rules seem more important than genius. The intricacies of Japanese flower arrangement and the ritual of the Tea Ceremony are examples. Little girls are chosen for training as Geishas for their adaptability rather than for talent or beauty. The great Kabuki actors, and they are great, are the sons or adopted sons of other actors, and start their training when they can scarcely talk. So when the other day a small child toddled helplessly on to the stage for a few minutes dressed as a monk, a man in the stalls shouted out: "You'll be as great as your father!" And he was almost certainly right.

FOR the result is a great if exotic theatrical tradition whose effect is often overwhelming. I saw an actor called Enosuke IX, who played the part of a twelfth-century monk-adventurer, a sort of Japanese Friar Tuck. After he had saved his lord by guile and got prodigiously drunk in the process, the stage cleared, the curtain was drawn and Enosuke was left standing alone in a spotlight at the beginning of the bridge. He stood quite still for a full minute, without speech or music. The house was very quiet, and then he began his exit over the bridge and through the audience.

He moved with an old heroic Kabuki pace—three heavy jumps on each foot in turn all the way, getting faster and faster. His feet thumped the boards and a man kept time with noisy clappers. One hand flourished a staff, the other was stretched over his sword hilts. Swinging and bending in a crescendo of noise, a broad and gorgeous figure, he crossed the bridge while the experts shouted and the audience stood up. It was as exciting as a regiment parading with colours and drums.

OLD FRENCH SCHOOL OF PAINTING REVIVED

The Fate of the Unregenerate

By RAWLE KNOX

NEARLY three thousand seven hundred Malayans—of several races, but predominantly Chinese, are in Government detention camps under suspicion of aiding, or intending to aid, the Communists' jungle army. What is to be done with them if, and when, the shooting war ends? Can they be safely released since the publicised policy of Communists in Malaya is now to penetrate the trade unions and political life?

Much is being done about them already. In government rehabilitation camps at Taiping (which can take four hundred and twenty Chinese), at Morib (120 Malays) and at Majeedi (a small number of Malay women), detained are being taught trades and educated in elementary civics. Overt propaganda is avoided like the plague. It is a remarkable record that, of over one thousand who have gone through the six-months course and been released only six or seven have defected to the terrorists.

At the beginning of the Malayan Emergency, five years ago, well over eleven thousand Malayans were rounded up and interned, some on the flimsiest grounds. Military forces were small, the police was understaffed, and the administration did not feel like taking chances. Governmental reviews of detention cases, and individual appeals, have reduced the original figure by nearly eight thousand.

Appeals from detainers still flood into the head office of the Malayan Chinese Association (the political party that interests itself in the welfare of the Chinese community) at the rate of one hundred a month. Very few of these are successful. On an average, only about thirty detainers are released per month, and these include the "graduates" from the rehabilitation camps. In fact, at the moment, releases are only just about keeping pace with fresh arrests; but the Federation's Defence Secretary, Mr. A. H. Humphrey, confidently expects that with the enlargement in capacity of rehabilitation camps, now being undertaken, the flow of releases will soon accelerate.

Mr. Humphreys claim that the police are now scrupulously careful about their grounds before making an arrest under the Emergency Regulations— against which there is no redress in the ordinary courts. Leaders of the M. C. A. agree, but add that a young police officer in a bad terrorist district would not be human if he did not give himself the benefit of the doubt, and that Chinese are still occasionally arrested on information born of mere personal spite, when it sometimes takes six months to get them released.

The danger of making a mistake police officers freely admit, is that an innocent detainee may turn Communist through disgust. This certainly did occur in the early days of mass arrests. Now, detainees are screened at frequent intervals, and separated into their various shades of pink and red as far as possible, in the hope that they will not further contaminate one another. But deep down in the red, Mr. Humphreys estimates, there is a hard core of about five hundred unregenerate Communists.

These men are citizens of Malaya. If they were not they would have been deported long ago. It is the Federation Government's policy to return to their countries, Chinese, Indians, Ceylonese and Indonesians, who either elect to go, or show no signs of regeneration. But the new citizenship laws, drafted with a view to giving non-Malays (who are in an overall majority in the Federation) a stake in the country, have made this policy a great deal more difficult.

Under the new laws, over fifty per cent of the Chinese population, and thirty per cent of the Indian, automatically qualify for citizenship, and many others may acquire it on application. If Communism should gain in popularity here as a political theory, as opposed to being the perquisite of a few thousand unwelcome terrorists, the Government could no longer counter it by convenient policy of deportation.

If the shooting war here should end, or fade into insignificance, which despite official caution— is now a foreseeable possibility, what is to happen about those "last five hundred"?

If they really remained untouched to the end by Government efforts at rehabilitation they would, according to Mr. Humphreys, be prosecuted in the ordinary courts of law.

Under the Emergency Regulations it is a capital offence, either to possess arms without permission, or to give any succour to the terrorists. The penalty has been rigorously applied when the police have secured convictions, and the police believe they have adequate evidence against a majority of detainees that could send them to the gallows. But they cannot prosecute in present-day Malaya because, in the face of Communist threats, no witness would dare give evidence against the accused.

So three thousand seven hundred remain in detention. The Government, obviously, aims to show them the virtues of becoming good citizens. But for the hard core which believes that right is on the side of the violent revolution, there may be only one alternative.

(OFNS— Copright).

Beautiful Floors.

(Windsor Star)

In the renovation of the Parliamentary Library, necessitated by the fire which occurred a few months ago, some of the ornate but beautiful trimmings may be eliminated. To be familiar with the old building was to love it. If changes are needed in the interests of utility and safety, they will be regretted.

It now is reported that the old floor may be replaced by fire-resistant materials. We hope this won't be required. The floor was one of the most beautiful in all Canada. Everyone who visited the Library, if they had eyes for beauty, commented on it. It was wonderfully inlaid with small sections of oak, cherry, walnut and beech, so matched as to enhance the naturally loveliness of these woods.

This floor is much too beautiful to destroy. If it must be removed from the Library, it should be relaid in some other public building, or as much of it as can be rehabilitated. It should be preserved for future generations to see. It was a work of art, and a thing of beauty; an example of fine craftsmanship in wood. The same applies to the panelling and other decorative elements in the old building.

There is too little beauty in this world to have any of it destroyed without serious thought.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then cometh he to a city of Samaria, which is called Sychar, near to the parcel of ground that Jacob gave to his son Joseph. Nok Jacob's well was there. Jesus therefore, being wearied with his journey, sat thus on the well: and it was about the sixth hour. There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water: Jesus saith unto her, Give me to drink . . . Then saith the woman of Samaria unto him, How, is it that thou, being a Jew, askest a drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria? for the Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans.

Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee living water. The woman saith unto him, Sir, thou has nothing to draw with, and the well is deep: from whence then hast thou that living water? . . .

Jesus answered and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again: but whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life. The woman saith unto him, Sir, give me this water, that I thirst not, neither come hither to draw. (John 4: 5-7, 9-11, 13-15.)

Gift Of a Mound

(Brantford Expositor).

It is interesting and gratifying to learn that the executors of the E. D. Tillson estate, presented to Tillsonburg for use as a park, have requested the town authorities to excavate what may be an Indian burial mound located on the property. V. H. Tillson, for the executors, has asked that Wilfrid Jury, curator of the museum at the University of Western Ontario and famed for his discoveries in Huronia, be permitted to investigate.

This is coincident with the confirming of the gift of the eight-acre property to the town and even apart from such generosity, it would be sensible to have the archaeological work proceeded with. The mound or barrow may turn out to be a freak of nature or an inconsequential relic of man, but there is the possibility that it contains remains of an earlier age and people. In that hoped-for case, knowledge of history and of humanity may be increased as a result of the digging.

The Threat To Swiss Cheese.

(New York Herald-Tribune)

There is much food for thought in the government's decision to alter the minimal size of the holes in Swiss cheese. For the benefit of any Camembert adherents who may have missed the news of this startling action, it may be recalled that the agriculture department has ruled that Swiss-cheese holes may now measure half an inch in diameter, as opposed to the previous minimum of three-quarters of an inch. This means, of course, more cheese to the bite, but it also means less hole to the bite, and it is here that cheese cognoscenti find cause for alarm.

Kingston Vics Victorious Over The Oddfellows To Creep Up In Standing

Max Jackson's Kingston Vics displayed fine form Wednesday night at Civic Arena, to defeat Peterborough Oddfellows 7-2, in a very fast, rugged but clean junior hockey match before a fair-sized mid-week crowd. The victory enabled the visitors to creep closer to the second-place Mortimer boys in the popular Central Ontario junior "B" derby. Kingston opened with a blazing offensive attack in the first period to rack up a four-goal advantage on goals by Wilson Reid, Jim Wilding, Rea and Don Senior while the locals, getting off to a slow start, were unable to dent the armor of Bob Senior, despite a number of good opportunities; this early margin stood up well despite the determined efforts of Oddfellows for the balance of the fray. Play assumed a fairly even tenor in the second and third frames on the overall picture, but Vics opportunism in the clutches paid off.

Wilson Reid, who with Don Senior and Les Wellman proved particularly effective for the visitors with a total of seven points as a unit, opened the scoring early with a short drive to the open left side and he, with Senior, drove in fast to outguess the Links' defence, on a fast rush to Delahaye's doorstep. Wilding made it two, midway in the frame, after eight minutes of hectic two-way action that saw the strong rivals strive for advantage, when he banged a 10-footer to the mesh as Rea passed quickly from behin dthe home cage.

A minute later, Rea himself, who played a lovely game, combined with Jerry Montgomery and blasted one to the right corner from short left-wing as he, Wilding and Chuck Sherman rushed with Monty as Vics outplayed Links at this juncture. Links battled hard but Senior hit gold at the three-quarter mark, on a long left-wing drive from Bob Vallier that caught the corner, to give the visitors a commanding lead.

Oddfellows came back with vigor and resolve in the mid-stanza, and outplayed the hustling Vics by a fair margin over the route with a good defensive display as well as a more potent offensive that stopped the invaders cold. The veteran, Brian (Red) Robinson snared the only marker of the frame when he sped down with his mates on a fast rush that carried the Links deep into rival terrain and Jerry Frizzelle passed back from the boards to the left wing side; the sorrel-top backhanded a 25-foot beauty high into the twine at 6:50. Oddfellows stormed around Senior to cut the margin further, but to no avail as the yellow-and-black custodian proved tough and received ample aid from his defence help as well as fast-skating front line toilers. Ed. Maracle, Monty, Pat Koen and Pettit all defended well.

The final frame proved a furious, ding-dong struggle as the boys turned it on with reckless abandon and referee Doug Calhoun kept a close eye. Essential cleanliness prevailed, though the homesters suffered three minor penalties to hurt their cause against a single to Vics. Though the breaks proved a factor, Vics earned a fair edge in the finale, outscoring Links 3-1 as Don Senior, Wils Reid and Sherman each counted and Gord Coyle clicked for the lone home tally near the three-quarter mark on a neat pass from Leo Sullivan. On the play, Vics richly deserved their victory, whereas for Oddfellows it was an off-night all around, as passing plays failed to click as usual, and the team as a whole apparently felt the effects of three games in five nights.

Marlies Edge Barrie 4-3 On James' Goal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gerry James has turned over a new leaf.

The rugged forward for Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series during the current season he has had more than his share of penalties and earned most of them. His pugnacious tactics have involved him in numerous fights, but the experts have noted a change in James recently. It was generally agreed that he played fine hockey in a losing cause as the Marlies dropped one to Kitchener last Sunday. He was playing defence then.

Back in his forward position Wednesday night, James scored the goal in overtime that gave Marlboros a 4-3 win over their arch rivals, the Barrie Flyers, in Barrie. He collected only one penalty.

James came east from Winnipeg to play hockey after spending most of the season with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

DOWNED BY GENERALS

In Oshawa, meanwhile, the touring Three Rivers Reds were beaten 6-1 by the Generals. It was the Reds' second loss in their current interlocking-schedule jaunt through Ontario.

Tony Poeta, Doug Mohns and Fred Pletsch each accounted for a Barrie goal before James ended the Flyers' hopes. Billy Harris, Dave Reid and Louis Bendo combined with James to give Marlboros the victory.

Oshawa vaulted over Windsor and Guelph into sixth place with their triumph. The scoring for Oshawa was evenly divided among Bob Attersley, Roger Maisonneuve, Bob Mader, Fred Etcher, Rick Collin and Dan Parker. Tom LeClerc scored for Three Rivers.

Hershey Drops 5-0 Decision

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears lost a chance to take over undisputed possession of first place in the American Hockey League Wednesday night, dropping a 5-0 decision to the lowly Syracuse Warriors.

The Bears are tied for first place with Cleveland Barons, both teams having 41 points.

In the only other game played, Buffalo Bisons won their sixth straight victory, defeating Providence Reds 7-3.

At Hershey, veteran winger Billy Gooden paced the attack with a pair of goals. Other goal-getters were Eric Pogue, Armand Lemieux and Bronco Horvath.

The game was a rugged one, especially in the second period, when Don Perry of Syracuse and Andy Branigan of the Bears slugged it out. The game was held up five minutes to clear the ice of programs and other articles showered on the ice.

At Buffalo, Lorne Davis scored three times and Cal MacKay got two. Brian Cullen and Jim Conacher got the others. Charlie Scherza, Pete Kapusta and Zellio Toppazzini tallied for the Reds.

Marmora Gains TVL Win From Norwood

NORWOOD — (ENS) — Marmora yanked out a 4-3 TVL win here Wednesday in a tidy tussle before a fair-sized crowd. They struck in the second for a 3-1 margin after a scoreless first frame, Stewart, Lavender and K. Trumble hitting the rigging. Dorin having two assists, and Lavender, K. Trumble and E. Trumble one each. Rochetta counted for Norwood. In the third, Norwood fought hard to score a pair, Wootton and Rochetta being marksman, and an assist each going to Buckton, Wootton and Creighton. K. Trumble scored Marmora's only goal of the period.

There were no penalties in the first or third periods of a clean, fast fixture. E. Trumble drew two in the second chapter and Dorin and Kelly one each. Norwood is slated to play Campbellford on Norwood ice Friday if the ice holds out. Teams:

Marmora: Goal, Killian; defence, Leonard, Gray; centre, E. Trumble; wings, C. Trumble, Darragh; alternates, Maynes, K. Trumble, Lavender, Dorin, Jones, Paranick, Smith.

One-Sided Victories Seen In Bush Loop

MILLBROOK (ENS).—Monday night's twin hockey bill saw the Fourth Liners defeat Millbrook 15-4 and Scott's Corners register a 6-1 victory over Mt. Pleasant.

Millbrook held the Liners, last year's champions, in check during the first half of the game, but then weakened while the victors improved throughout and banged in the last nine goals without a reply. It was a peppery joust with the gladiators developing an allergy to each other near the finish. The heavy bumping and elbowing was finally climaxed by Walling and Lunn teeing off on each other in a wild fist-swinging affair.

The winners' ace line of A. Hutchison, McDowell and Walling accounted for 10 goals, Glen and Greenly singles. Two young newcomers, Friar and Thompson, broke in in fine style with the former bagging a brace and the latter a single counter. The Millbrook speed merchants, Lunn, Wright and Ginn, working together nicely as a line, garnered all the locals' markers with Lunn bulging the twine for a hat trick.

Fourth Line — Goal, Hubbeard; defence, Agnew, Thompson; forwards, Walling, Hutchison, McDowell; alternates, Olan, Greenly, E. Hutchison, Kennedy, Friar.

Millbrook — Goal, Stinson; defence, Edmonds, Lowery; forwards, Olan, Kent, Guthrie, Wright, Lunn, Ginn, Kinsmen, Smith.

Referees—Brent, Dawson.

LACKED SPEED

The Mt. Pleasant Mountaineers, in their first Bush League appearance of the season, failed to match the pace of the first place Scott's Corners aggregation and took the small end of a 6-1 score. The boys from the North are capable of better hockey than they displayed Monday night when they seemed to have difficulty in getting rolling against the close-checking and speedy thrusts of the "Hamilton-Peterborough" sweatered squad. The latter turned on the pressure early and never eased up. This demonstration had the railbirds picking them as the team to take it all this year. It was a hard-fought affair all the way with the threat of things getting out of control late in the game.

Both teams were bumping them solid and Referee Don Edmonds kept the transgressors' teepee well tenanted. Scott sank the Mountaineers' sole goal, while Seabrook and Alberico got a pair each for the Corners with singles by Harris and Larock.

Mt. Pleasant — Goal, Hickson; defence, Evans, Craig; forwards, Dracup, Jamieson, Lowes; alternates, Scott, Armstrong, Parker, Carr, Bryans, Thornton, Parker, Evans.

Scott's Corners — Goal, Hehn; defence, Conroy, Dawson; forwards, Seabrook, Galley, Alberico; alternates, Minnie, Shaughnessey, Larock, Dunn, Little, Hall, Harris, Stevens.

Referees—Edmonds, Agnew.

Basciano Leads

A. Basciano rolled high single of 379 and top three of 853 this week in the Major Bowling League. Burtol's led teams with 3652 and a high single game of 1284 in blanking UE. Sunshine did the same to Hollingsworth, and E & B whitewashed OPP. The 5-2 wins went to Bickell, Herb's, Plaza, Revenoors and Irwin-Godson over Clapper, Examiner, Brewers, McLeod, and Deeth & White; with 4-3 victories for Cherney, Crowley, Selkirk and Wonder against Edwards, Studebaker, Odeon and Silents.

Good scores included: G. Gimglett 703, H. Killen (322) 716, J. Goodson 746, W. Howes 709, W. Harris 727, D. Abraham 810, J. Platt 721, E. Brown 710, A. Pilling 731, H. Roberts 727, E. Reynolds 783, M. Mackey 724, H. Rowe 744, D. Davies 719, J. Patterson 719, L. Murray 709, and W. Scott (352) 764.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The sports car centre is opening in Toronto next week. This may not be much interest to motorists here, but sports car racing is becoming quite a thing. Has drawn terrific crowds in Europe for several decades, has become quite a big thing in the States the past few years, and is due to really hit Canada this coming summer. A considerable number of these souped-up jobs have been appearing on highways in Quebec, Ontario and B. C., and a lot of European models are being brought over. Active clubs now have located in Toronto, Huntsville, Ottawa, Kingston, Montreal and Vancouver. However, a tryout here didn't go over so well, neighbors to Morrow Park kicking plenty at the noise and dust created.

* * * * * * *

Harold (Baldy) Cotton, chief scout for Boston Bruins, is no stranger here. Drops in from time to time as our junior IOOF-ers have a Boston hookup. Hal has a piece in the Star Weekly now on hockey scouting. Says the first thing he looks for in a young prospect is ability to skate fast and well. Next he looks foh size, as the Bruins like their players big. Third thing on the list as a "must," Baldy says, is evidence of a competitive spirit. He wants to see a husky and speedy youngster who is hungry for hockey, a guy who is plenty game. Youth, of course, is required as pro clubs aren't wasting a lot of money on training older players who won't last as long in this fast-stepping and rugged sport.

* * * * * * *

Hal Cotton Lays It On.

Says he: "I recall how I first saw Red Sullivan. He was playing for a junior 'B' club from Peterborough against Toronto University at Varsity Arena. No program listed the names of players and though Sullivan caught my eye, I coudn't identify him. I edged down behind a handful of fans who seemed to be cheering for Peterborough and asked casually: "Who's the red-head kid?" One fan barked: 'Sullivan.' A few minutes later I asked again: 'What's his first name?' The Peterborough fan was getting annoyed but he grunted: 'George.' That's all I needed." Hm. could be, but we heard that Dit Clapper recommended the Ashburnham redhead to the Bruins. And we recall when Sullivan wasn't considered good enough to break into junior "B" here and had his first OHA whirl in a Lakefield uniform.

* * * * * * *

Petes play in Belleville tomorrow night and will be giving it all they have to move up in the standing as the schedule grinds on. Scoring summary in elsewhere shows Toodie Greenlaw leading with 27 points in 19 games played, just one point more than Chum Fryia—this pair staging quite a race of it all season. Gus Leonard is the other potent forward on this line with 20 points. Ted Collins, Don Floyd and Curly Mason are up there well, too, Curly having been in but 13 games. Rest of 'em are off the pace, but the recent newcomers will pick up traction fast, we expect. Now's the time to really roll with the chips down.

* * * * * * *

The Vics Hit On All Six.

Kingston Vics hit on all six cylinders here last p.m. to earn a 7-2 junior "B" hockey win over Oddfellows, the latter playing somewhat below form this time. The Mortimer men held their own in the mid-heat but were outplayed a bit in the first and third chukkers, the Don Senior line being particularly potent for the Jackson guys. Red Robinson scored one for the Links from Jerry Frizzelle, while Gord Coyle got the other on Leo Sullivan's pass. That leaves the standing with Hawklets winging along in front of the flock with 28 points, IOOF-ers next with 22, then Lindsay 18, Kingston 17, Oshawa nine and Cobourg just two. No further junior action till Lindsay shows here next Wednesday. Schedule runs out in less than four more weeks.

* * * * * * *

When you get four mat villains in the ring at once, it's quite a chore figuring which pair to cheer for in a team tag bout. But Brock Arena fans last night soon decided Hi Lee and Frank Valois were the lesser evils and their vocal support shook the surprised Lee to the core! So he decides to be a real hero and he hangs up both his rivals in the ropes, Dick Raines and Lou Plummer. Impatient at some interference from Referee Bert Maxwell, he hangs him up in the hemp, too. Of course that isn't cricket, and by crickety, Maxwell didn't like it a bit — nossuh, he awarded the main bout to the terrbile Texans. In the semi-final, Bert was roughed up by the mountainous Dean so he gave that one to Chief Big Heart. The Christie-Taylor prelim was a draw.

Mercurys Turn Back Indians 5-4

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two goal tenders turned in spectacular efforts Wednesday night in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Series. Owen Sound Mercurys stretched their league lead to three points by defeating the second-place Stratford Indians 5-4. Bob Gillson practically held the Indians at bay by himself during the first two periods as he stopped 43 shots compared with 23 by Bruce Dale for Stratford.

Hamilton Tigers seemed back in the old rut as Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen consolidated third place by blasting the Tabbies 11-2. Al Bennett turned in another yoeman effort in goal and it wasn't until the last period when Kitchener poured in eight goals that the barrage of rubber finally beat him.

3RD PERIOD DRIVE

Brantford Redmen staged a third-period drive to defeat Sarnia Sailors 3-2 in Sarnia. Brantford is in fourth place and Sarnia is tied for fifth with Chatham Maroons.

The two Saults in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior A southern group battled to a 3-3 tie in overtime as Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds invaded the home ice of Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians.

In Stratford Bill McComb scored twice for Owen Sound Tommy Burlington, Doug Gillesnie and Andy Grant added the others. Dinny Flanagan, with two, Tommy Walker and Lloyd Ferguson were Stratford scorers.

Don Rope led the Kitchener scoring spree with four goals. Bill Mitchell notched two and others were rapped in by Al Buchanan, Charley Brooker, Art Hurst, Paul Oliver and Bobby Schnurr. Hugo Bolzon and Ab Conick scored for Hamilton.

OTHER SCORERS

Don Oberholtzer scored the winner for Brantford in the last period. Bill Shill and Jack Taylor scored the other Brantford counters. Harry O'Connor and Mac Beaton accounted for the Sarnia goals.

Johnny Offidiani scored a goal with less than a minute of the overtime period left to earn the Greyhounds their tie with the last-place Indians. The Greyhounds are seven points behind the first-place Sudbury Wolves.

Don Johnston and Hec Pozzo each notched one for the Greyhounds. Gordie Kerr, Dean McBride and Johnny Lumley were Indians' marksmen.

6-Hole Golf Course Will Be Discussed

OJAI, Calif. (AP)—Would you like to play a six-hole golf course? Or perhaps on one with all short, par three, holes?

When the American Society of Golf Course Architects meets here Jan. 20-22, both subjects will be chief subjects for discussion.

Not that the regulation golf course of the future will be a par-18 affair, but the architects feel something must be done to conserve ground in areas where it's at a premium.

Greenlaw Tops The Petes With 27 Points

Toodie Greenlaw, fast-skating winger on the Petes' front line, leads the club in scoring after playing 19 OHA senior "B" games so far this season. He has scored 17 goals and aided on 10 for 27 points, nearly a point and a half a game with the tail-end club. He is closely pursued in the local sniping race by line-mate Chum Fryia with 26 points. Centre on that line, Gus Leonard, has clicked for 20 points so far, and he played earlier in the season on defence. Following is the list:

	P	G	A	Pts

Motion Censures Varsity Editors

TORONTO (C)—A motion censuring the editors of The Varsity, University of Toronto student paper, for the way they eliminated the paper's sports page was passed last night by the university's Students Administrative Council.

But the SAC defeated a motion instructing the editors "to return the sports department to the pages of The Varsity."

The three-man editorial board—R. W. Shepherd, Jim Anderson and C. M. Godfrey—last week started campus controversy by removing the sport pages. They announced they would continue to cover sports but to a lesser extent.

Shepherd, speaking for the editorial board at the council meeting, said the staff of The Varsity had not voted on the board's decision. He said the paper will give adequate coverage to sports events but added that the term 'adequate" will have to be defined later.

Assistant sports editor John Ellis said he believed the paper could not give adequate sports coverage without a sports page.

SEDGMAN BEATS KRAMER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Australia's Frank Sedgman evened the score with Jack Kramer in their pro tennis tour at three matches apiece in whipping the American star in straight sets Wednesday night, 6-2, 6-4. Kramer appeared listless as Sedgman piled up point after point on accurate cross-court play. It was the most one-sided victory the Australian has gained against Kramer on their tour.

Referee Roughed Up Plenty In Two Grapple Bouts But He Has The Last Word

Rotund Referee Bert Maxwell of Toronto had a rough night of it here Wednesday as he was thrown around in two of the three pro wrestling bouts, and twice he indignantly awarded the bouts to the parties who didn't do the throwing. He gave the main tag team bout to the Texas and Canadian champs, Dick Raines and Lou Plummer, in nine minutes of the second round over Hi Lee and Frank Valois, the Texans having won the first round in 24 minutes. In the semi-final, the flattened Maxwell awarded the bout to a deflated Chief Big Heart over Man Mountain Dean Jr. in nine minutes. The prelim between Joe Christie and Frank Taylor went to a 30-minute draw.

GOT AN ASSIST

Raines weighed 251 and Plummer 249 against Lee's 298 and Valois at 247. The first fall went to Dick over Frank with a Texas bulldogging hold, Raines getting an assist—by the knee—from Lou in the corner. The champions teamed up much better than the willing challengers and worked on their rivals in pairs in their corner. It was an odd bout with four villains in the ring at one time, and Lee was so surprised at being cheered for a change that he almost forgot to roar and shake hiss haggy mane. There was plenty of rough and illegal stuff served up, with the referee missing a lot and letting plenty go. Lee was stronger than either of his rivals, but Valois couldn't make up the difference as the Texans parlayed ring savvy and rough stuff to win out.

Early in the second spasm, Raines and Plummer succeeded in hanging up Hi in the ropes and working on him for a spell before the ref could release him. Then the maddened Lee went berserk to hang up Raines in the ropes at one side and Plummer—who came to his mate's assistance—in hemp at the other side. When Maxwell interfered, Hi promptly hung him up, too, and Lee and Valois beat the drums on their helpless opponents for a space. The referee took a dim view of being manhandled and he finally got loose and awarded the bout to the Texans, who won it the hard way. There was a mixup in the ring after the bell and the brawl, but no damage was done.

A HUGE MAN

Dean bumped the beam at 350 fatty pounds against 236 for the trim Big Heart, but the bewhiskered man mountain also used a lot of villainy in his approach to the business at hand. He slugged the chief, choked him, and eventually wore him down. The speedy Indian worked hard, but, when he missed a flying tackle and had Dean flop heavily on him, that was that. The referee tried to stop the huge Southerner from pounding the helpless chief, but Dean calmly threw Maxwell aside. His nibs didn't go for such treatment and awarded the semi-final bout to Big Heart and his drum-beating dad in the corner. The chief didn't look too much like a winner as he scraped himself off the floor after having 350 pounds fall heavily upon him.

Christie, at 234 pounds — one more than his rival—and Taylor turned in a lot of mat work early in their preliminary bout. Christie was the mat villain and used his taped wrist on Taylor's eyes for a longish time till Maxwell finally decided to unwind the stuff. Taylor accidentally downed Maxwell with a hard right and was warned. They mixed it more later with rough stuff aplenty, and Taylor tossed some punches and then threw Christie out of the ring. He took the tape off Christie and gave Joe a taste of his own untasty medicine, Christie scramming out for safety. Taylor was aggressive toward the end, but Christie withstood a series of rolling cradle spins to last out the tussle.

Suspend Coach After Fracas

HALIFAX (CP)—President Eliot Hudson of the Maritime Major Hockey League Wednesday fined and suspended the coach of Charlottetown Islanders and banned further Charlottetown-Halifax games at Charlottetown until adequate police protection is assured.

Murph Chamberlain was fined $100 and suspended for six games for throwing sticks at referee Ross Morrow and refusing to leave the ice when ordered at Charlottetown Jan. 12.

Hudson's statement said: "No further games between Charlottetown and Halifax will be permitted in Charlottetown until the Charlottetown Forum management gives an undertaking that there will be adequate police protection. . . ."

Not Much Hope For Herzog

BALTIMORE (AP)—Doctors said Wednesday they haven't much hope of doing anything for 68-year-old Buck Herzog, the baseball great of 30 years ago who was taken to hospital Tuesday sick and penniless.

His trouble was diagnosed as advanced tuberculosis. P. J. McMillin, superintendent of City Hospital, added: "He has approached or reached senility."

Herzog, an infielder, played in four editions of the World Series, captained Chicago Cubs and managed Cincinnati Reds for a spell.

The baseball world [illegible] his need. Larry MacPhail said he'd pay for anything his old friend needed. Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said relief funds are available upon application.

The hospital said Buck doesn't need the money. As a long-time president of Baltimore, he is entitled to complete medical care for TB in municipal expense.

NY Rangers Upset Detroit Wings 3-2

By TED GRAY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Lady Luck was in the line-up of the New York Rangers Wednesday night. Frank Boucher's crew, tenants of the National Hockey League cellar for most of the season, capitalized on a couple of penalties and beat the league-leading Detroit Red Wings 3-2 in Madison Square Gardens. The loss was a blow to the mighty Wings. It was their first defeat in seven games on the road, and they had lost only one of their last 18 games.

In Toronto the sluggish Maple Leafs came alive in the third period to defeat Chicago Black Hawks 3-0, mainly on the two-goal effort of Bob Hassard. It was Harry Lumley's fourth shutout in 41 games this season.

STANDINGS UNCHANGED

The league standings were unchanged by the night's action. Detroit is still at the top with 49 points, six ahead of the Black Hawks. The Leafs are in fourth place, one point behind the third-place Montreal Canadiens. The Rangers, with 28 points, are nine points behind the fifth-place Boston Bruins.

The Rangers' win was their second in a row, the first time this season they have won two straight. Last Sunday they turned back Montreal 7-0.

Little Wally Hergesheimer scored his 20th goal of the season when he put the Rangers ahead 1-0 in the first period while Wings' Metro Prystai was off for hooking. Neil Strain made it 2-0 in the second. Detroit's goalie, Terry Sawchuk, back in action after a seven-game layoff, unwittingly laid the puck on the stick of Paul Ronty behind the cage and Ronty slipped it out to Strain.

GET SECOND GOAL

Red Kelly scored Detroit's first goal in the second period during a scramble while Hy Buller was serving time. Pete Babando scored New York's final in the third period while Marcel Pronovost was sitting out a hooking penalty. With less than five minutes remaining Johnny Wilson scored the Wings' second.

Sid Abel flew in leftwinger Vic Lynn to Toronto from Cleveland Barons of the American League Wednesday in an effort to bolster the Hawk line, but his boys couldn't muster up a strong enough attack against Lumley.

After two scoreless and colorless periods, Hassard scored his first goal soon after the final period opened. That goal jolted the Leafs into action. They swarmed around Al Rollins in the Chicago net. Hassard scored his second on a centre ice face-off and a minute later centre Tod Sloan notched the final goal.

Rosewall Pulls Biggest Upset, Downs Seixas

MELBOURNE (AP)—Young Ken Rosewall pulled the biggest upset of the Australian tennis championship by eliminating Vic Seixas of the United States 6-3, 2-6, 7-5, 6-4 in the semi-finals today

The young Aussie Davis Cup hopeful now will meet his countryman, Mervyn Rose, for the singles title Saturday. Rose came from behind to beat Ian Ayre, 4-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4 in the other semi-final.

Seixas, playing captain for the U.S. Davis Cup team in the recent challenge round, had been heavily favored to beat Rosewall in the semi-finals and go on to win the Australian title.

ALL U.S. FINAL

Maureen Connolly and Julie Sampson made an all-U.S. final in the women's singles.

Miss Connolly, U.S. and Wimbledon champion, defeated Mary Hawton, second-seeded Australian, 6-2, 6-1. Julie had a more difficult time against Dorn Fogarty but prevailed, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Seixas and Rosewall played on a court made slippery by heavy rain.

Rosewall beat the seasoned American with flashing passing shots and lobs that fell just within the baseline.

Perhaps the turning point came in the ninth game of the third set. Seixas led at the time, 40-0, and appeared upset by a linesman's decision over a Rosewall return that was called good. Seixas had to battle through two deuces to hold the game.

Seixas wore spikes starting the fourth set, but they did not help him reach Rosewall's wide passing shots and accurate lobs.

Chess Players Reject Hypnotism Plan

LONDON (CP)—Members of Oxfordshire's talent - studded chess team, including the former Canadian champion, Abe (Danny) Yanofsky of Winnipeg, have turned thumbs down on hypnotism as an aid to success.

The unique proposal was made by the team's captain, 23 year-old Leonard Barden, on the eve of the county chess final against Middlesex.

He obtained the willing cooperation of the hypnotist, G. Spencer Brown, a research student in philosophy at Oxford University, but also a former president of Cambridge University chess club.

There was no question of hypnotising such experienced players as Yanofsky, studying for a law degree at Oxford, Theodore Tylor, who has represented England or Raaphi Persitz, junior champion of Israel, Barden said. But some of the other, team members might quail before the importance of the occasion.

"I believe this nervousness might be removed by hypnotic treatment if the players concerned were willing and proved to be good subjects," Barden said.

But there were no volunteers.

The Oxfordshire captain, however, wasn't worrying too much. Before the championship match, he trotted out the team's lucky mascot —a brass horseshoe—which the players rub briskly before the start of all important competitions.

The result: Oxfordshire nosed out Middlesex for the title by 6½ to 5½ points.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH YOUR BACKSWING?

This is the third article on the backswing and we haven't even got it started yet so in case your muscles are cramped from sitting in the hack for over a week now, I'll try to get you back into a position where you can stretch your legs.

Draw the stone back slowly with the fingers as you elevate your body. The left foot moves sideways and back to counterbalance the weight of the rock. Don't change the position of the head, shoulders or body except to elevate them by straightening the knees. The stone is raised off the ice solely by the elevation of the body. It should hang on the fingertips with the thumb still resting lightly on the gooseneck. Imagine you are swinging a pail full of sand. The handle of the stone should not turn in the hand, or very little, if any, during the backswing. The weight of the stone hanging from your fingers will bring it back on a straight line. Only if you jerk it back quickly are you likely to pull it off the correct line.

All the while you are going through these motions, your eyes are glued on the skip's broom at the other end of the ice. Never let them waiver for a moment.

At the top of the backswing the momentum of the swing of the stone will force the left arm back to offset the pressure. The entire weight of the body and stone is centred on the right leg which never completely straightens out.

How far back should you go on the backswing? This depends on how much weight you want to play. The faster the shot, the higher the backswing. For draw weight, very little backswing is required. Do not exaggerate the swing for the higher the backswing the more trouble you will have controlling the stone on the forward motion.

If you like, who posed for today's illustration, the top of your swing looks like championship style.

Saturday . . . Right up The Broom Handle.

Wants Tourney For Golfers From Overseas

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A tournament of the Americas with the best golfers of the western hemisphere competing regularly is envisioned by Joe Novak, chairman of the PGA's international match committee.

Joe plans to have a program ready for presentation to the PGA at its annual meeting at Detroit in June.

Working with Novak in the planning is A. T. Jergins, southern California oilman and a member of the PGA advisory committee. They hope separate competitions can be held for amateurs and professionals.

SHOWING INTEREST

Last year Canada and the United States started an inter-country match series, and Novak says Latin American countries are showing growing interest in the game.

At present Novak foresees small teams representing the various countries. The competitions would be like the amateur tennis Davis Cup play in which eliminations are held prior to the championship play.

Will Scrap Two-Platoon System In American College Football

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (CP)—The two-platoon system of football which allowed unlimited substitution of players and developed monster teams has come to an end on the United States college gridiron.

Two-platoon football was killed Wednesday by the rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Most major U.S. colleges are members of the group. The NCAA adopted a new rule which, in effect, returns football to the old days of the 60-minute player.

Under the new regulation the squads of offensive and defensive specialists carried by the bigtime colleges will be a waste. For instance, the usefulness of the specialized player who can do nothing but punt or kick has been virtually destroyed.

The change means a massive reorganization job for most college coaches between now and next September, when the season starts.

TOO COSTLY

It was no secret that resentment against the system and its fabulous costs, which forced 50 small colleges to abandon football, was building up to a high pitch among college presidents and administrators.

But the coaches, in a recent poll, had voted 4 to 1 to keep the system alive, and it was generally believed that if the coaches were to be overridden, it would be gradually and not by such a sudden reversion to the old style of play.

"It was a radical action," said Columbia's coach Lou Little, who attended the rules committee meetings in an advisory role.

"But when we thought it over, we decided we could have as good a game as we have had before, and this is going to help the colleges with financial problems."

Committee chairman H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, Michigan athletic director, said the decision was reached "with the best interests of football in mind."

MOST IMPORTANT

Crisler called the meeting the most important since 1906, when the committee made drastic rules revisions to cut down injuries to players and end a threat by President Theodore Roosevelt to outlaw football in the United States.

The new regulation states that players removed from a game during the first and third quarters may not return to action during those quarters.

Players pulled out before the last four minutes of the second and fourth quarters may go back into the game only in those last four-minute quarters before the half and the end of the game.

Players removed during the final four-minute periods of the second and fourth quarters cannot be used again during those quarters.

Two-platoon football was legalized in 1941 with the adoption of a rule permitting unlimited substitutions any time the clock was stopped and single substitutions between plays while the clock was running. Before then, no player removed from a game could be sent back until the following quarter.

The action struck like thunder in the country's coaching ranks. Reaction ranged from anger and dismay to an occasional soft voice of approval.

UBC COACH QUITS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hjelmar (Jelly) Andersen quit Wednesday as head football coach at the University of British Columbia.

Andersen has been outspoken in his criticism of the university's athletic policy. He said UBC should provide athletic scholarships to help build a winning football team. UBC Thunderbirds have been the doormats of the Evergreen Conference for years. The conference comprises UBC and several small American colleges.

Andersen became coach two years ago when Orville Burke, former Ottawa Rough Rider star, resigned.

EXECUTORS AND TRUSTEES FOR OVER HALF A CENTURY

MORE THAN A 'PRUDENT ADMINISTRATOR'

'EN BON PERE DE FAMILLE' (as a good father of the family) is a phrase often used in the Civil Law of the Province of Quebec. It means a 'Prudent Administrator' and, as applied to Executors and Trustees, requires them to act with care and skill.

In addition it suggests that an Executor and Trustee must feel a deep sense of responsibility for the personal welfare and comfort of dependants.

It is the aim of the Officers of The Royal Trust Company to live up to this high ideal with sympathy and understanding, and to ensure efficient and economical administration of every Estate entrusted to our care.

Trust and Estate Officers are always available when needed for consultation.

New Persecution Against Jews

LONDON (AP) — A new wave of persecution against Jews is sweeping through Communist Eastern Europe, the Anglo-Jewish Association of London said today.

The association expressed its "horror at the virulent anti-Semitic trends which are becoming daily more pronounced in Iron-Curtain countries." Commenting on the arrest of nine doctors — six of them Jews — in Moscow, the association said the news "underlines the fact that the Kremlin itself is leading the hunt. Anglo-Jewry views with foreboding the future of its co-religionists behind the Iron Curtain."

"Although Communists may argue that the accusations are anti-zionist rather than anti-semitic, it is undeniable that this new wave of persecution will give freer expression to latent anti Semitism which is endemic in Eastern Europe."

New Cardinals Receive Red Hat From Pope

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Against a background of blazing light and the color of mediaeval pageantry, the Pope today placed the cardinal's red hat on the heads of 17 of the 24 Roman Catholic cardinals he created this week.

Among those honored in the ceremony in St. Peter's great basilica was Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, 48-year-old archbishop of Montreal. He was the 12th of the 17 cardinals to pay homage at the papal throne.

The Pontiff smiled affectionately at the Canadian prelate after reciting over his bowed, cowl-covered head the ancient Latin words which accompany the presentation of the red hat, the special symbol of cardinal rank.

Cardinal Leger's face was radiant as he returned to his place among the new princes of the church. The spiritual leader of Montreal's 1,000,000 Roman Catholics is the sixth Canadian cardinal in history and the second living in Canada — James Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto, the other.

The other North American cardinal elevated at the consistory was James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles. The first cardinal from the western United States, he preceded Cardinal Leger in today's solemn ceremonies.

CHURCH THRONGED

Some 35,000 pilgrims and Romans of high and humble rank thronged the world's largest church for the ceremony.

They broke into triumphant cries of "Viva il Papa" as the Pope appeared in the basilica moments after blasts from silver trumpets heralded his approach.

The pontiff, robed in red and white, was borne into the church on his portable throne. A gleaming golden mitre was on his head.

Shouts of praise broke again and again from the faithful, held back from the middle aisle of the great basilica by uniformed Swiss guards carrying halberds and wearing mediaeval helmets.

The red damask-draped church sparkled with myriad lights.

Outside, a slight flurry of snow fell over Rome as the ceremony began and the huge St Peter's square was surprisingly empty.

Only the absence of two of the new princes of the church — Aloysius Cardinal Stepinac of Yugoslavia and Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski of Poland — who had not been able to come here from their Communist-ruled countries marred the ancient, picturesque ceremony.

Other presentation ceremonies were arranged for the five other new cardinals — the apostolic nuncios to Spain, France and Portugal and two Spanish prelates.

POPE APPEARS TIRED

The Pope, now 77 years old, appeared more tired than usual. It seemed apparent that the strain of the consistory week had been a heavy burden upon the spiritual ruler of more than 425,000,000 Catholics.

Yet he smiled frequently as he was carried down the central aisle of the vast basilica to a special red velvet draped throne beneath the giant cupola designed by Michelangelo.

The new princes of the church were robed in scarlet wool cassocks. The trains of their scarlet silk capes — shortened from 18 to nine feet by a recent papal "austerity" decree — this year were not unfolded and spread out as at the great consistory of 1946 when 32 cardinals were created.

One by one the new cardinals approached the Pontiff's throne, bowed low three times and kissed the Pope's red-slippered foot and hand. The Pope embraced each. Then the prelates filed past the score of cardinals on the other side of the central aisle and greeted them.

At once the ancient ceremony of imposition of the red hat — or galero — began. Each cardinal again went alone to the throne and knelt, the ermine-trimmed red cowl of his cape placed ove his head.

The Pope held the red hat — h used the same one for the whol ceremony — briefly on the heac of th prelate, resting it ther lightly and intoning the ritual.

The ceremony was completed ir less than an hour, when Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, an Italian, received the red hat at 10:28 a. m. (4:28 a. m. EST).

GIVES BENEDICTION

The Pope then gave his solemn benediction. Followed by all of the cardinals present, he was borne up the central aisle and out of the basilica. Again shouts of "Viva il Papa" mingled with the singing of the Sistine choir.

After the Pope's departure, the cortege returned to the altar of Cathedra before the empty pontifical throne and the new cardinals prostrated themselves, praying as the choir sang the Te Deum. As the last act of the ceremony, the dean of the Sacred College, Eugene Cardinal Tisserant of France, recited a final prayer over the still prostrate prelates.

Soon after the public consistory, the Pontiff met again in secret consistory with all of the cardinals. It was the first such gathering to be attended by the new Church princes.

Later today the pontifical master of robes was to deliver the red hat to each of the new cardinals. It will not be seen in public again until the cardinal's death, when it is placed on his catafalque.

$8,000 Reward Paid In Secrecy

TORONTO—The Attorney-General's department Wednesday requested $8,000 for payment to a person or persons unknown from the Toronto Board of Control. The money was posted for the recapture of the Boyd gang, and will be turned over to the Attorney-General. He and a few others in his department will be the only one knowing to whom the reward money will be given.

After the capture of the Boyd gang in North York, several residents in the area, put in claims for the money. The reason for secrecy in handing out the reward money, is to protect the informants from retaliation from other criminals and to encourage informants in other cases.

Admit Father's Statement In Shooting Of Young Son

HULL, Que. (CP) — The admission of a young farmer that he shot his 15-months-old son was read in court Wednesday at the murder trial of 24-year-old Roland Charbonneau of Perkins Mills, Que.

The statement was the last evidence to be presented by the crown. The trial was expected to end late today or early tomorrow after evidence from defence witnesses.

Charbonneau testified he gave police two statements following the death of the baby, Michel, shot in his delapidated farm home about 10 miles northeast of here. The first, describing the shooting as accidental, was false, he said.

The second statement, read by a provincial police lieutenant of detectives, Ubald Legault, was admitted as evidence by Mr. Justice Paul Ste. Marie following a long argument with the jury excluded.

HAD A FEW DRINKS

Charbonneau told of drinking in a hotel, driving home in a taxi and arguing with his wife. They charged each other with unfaithfulness.

"I told her also that I was not sure if Michel, my little boy, was mine. At this moment, Michel started to cry and this made me angry."

Charbonneau's statement said he took his rifle upstairs to the bedroom where Michel was lying in bed with two sisters. "I aimed and shot."

Downstairs later he shot through the ceiling "to show that it was an accident." His first statement said the rifle discharged by accident in the room beneath the child's bedroom.

Capt. Leopold Trottier of Montreal said he took the statement from Charbonneau two days after the shooting after giving him the usual warning that anything he said might be used in evidence against him.

Charbonneau testified that in his first statement he said his wife saw an animal outside the window and the rifle went off as he took it from the wall. He said he then learned from police that his wife had been questioned all night and she had given a different story.

"After a lot of talking with Legault, I made the other statement."

Mr. Justice Ste. Marie ruled that the second statement was made "freely and voluntarily."

Two of Charbonneau's brothers, Armand, 18, and Roger, 29, were defence witnesses yesterday. Armand said that the day before the shooting, in the early hours of the next day, Roland had bought a dozen quarts of beer at a Perkins Mills hotel. Roger testified that Roland drank at least 10 of the bottles.

Russ Propaganda Organs Suddenly Silent On Doctors

LONDON (AP)—Soviet propaganda organs which have been trumpeting murder charges against nine Moscow physicians in anti-semitic terms dropped the case abruptly Wednesday as world reaction built up.

Obviously acting under orders, the Moscow radio and Soviet newspapers turned mysteriously from their biggest story of 1953.

This was the story to which they devoted thousands of words Tuesday—the arrest of the nine as a Western-backed "terrorist group" accused of killing Andrei A. Zhdanov and Alexander S. Scherbakov and trying to kill other Russian leaders since the Second World War through improper treatment.

Why the muzzle was applied at this stage is a question.

ONE EXCEPTION

One exception to the blackout was the official organ of the Soviet health ministry, the Medical Worker. A Moscow dispatch quoted it: "There has now appeared before the whole world, in all its horrifying nakedness, an international Jewish Zionist organization which represents nothing else than a gang of terrorists and murderers."

A belief developed in London that the fantastic case heralds a showdown between Georgi M. Malenkov and Lavrenti P. Beria, both deputy premiers. Beria has headed the Soviet secret police.

If this thesis is correct, the stakes are high. The winner could be the successor to Prime Minister Stalin. The guess—and that's all it is—is that the moon-faced Malenkov holds the strongest hand.

SECURITY ANGLE

The London Communist Daily Worker fastened quickly on the security angle, Beria's province. A dispatch from its Moscow correspondent said:

"Counter-intelligence organs of state security are blamed for allowing the terrorist organization to exist so long, particularly in view of the existence of a similar group among doctors before the war."

Right below its Moscow dispatch, the Daily Worker printed a story saying at least four outstanding Soviet personalities, including writer Maxim Gorky, "were murdered in a similar way by doctors before the war."

BRIG. GEOFFREY WALSH, CBE, DSO (left), former Commander of Canada's 27th Brigade in Germany, is welcomed at Montreal by Col. W. C. Walsh, travelling with Mrs. Walsh, passed through Montreal on his way to Ottawa where he will assume new duties at Army Headquarters after spending over a year at Hanover, Germany.

Marmora Guild Hears Reports

MARMORA (ENS)—The January meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild was held in the parish hall on Monday with a good attendance of members. Mrs. D. Robertson, last year's president, opened the meeting with prayer. Canon J. M. Brownlie presided for the reception of the annual reports which showed a successful year's operation. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. D. McInroy.

The newly-elected president, Mrs. W. D. Lavender took over the chair and Mrs. Jack Hickey assumed her new duties as secretary.

In the business period of the meeting the guild discussed the possibility of catering for an IODE dinner in February. Plans were furthered for the holding of the remaining weekly card parties before Lent.

Mrs. G. W. Winters resumed her former duties as visiting committee convener for the coming year. The sick committee was appointed to consist of Mrs. A. Eggleton, Mrs. D. Robertson and Mrs. R. E. Bonter. The next meeting is to be held in the parish hall on February 10. Canon J. M. Brownlie closed the meeting with prayer. Refreshments were served.

Betty Hutton Has Eye On Winning Oscar

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'll win an academy award one of these days," says bouncy Betty Hutton.

"I know that sounds cocky," she explains. "I don't mean it to be. I'm just so intense about everything I do— and so hard to please —that it's just bound to happen."

Betty, like most successful graduates of the hard knocks school, is more self-confident than conceited.

"The main reason I left Paramount," she confides, "was because I couldn't convince them over there that I could act."

Ironically, her best Paramount picture in years, "Somebody Loves Me," was her last for the studio. The studio wanted her to do "Topsy and Eva," the story of the Duncan sisters. There was a hassle over the script one day and Betty and Paramount parted after 12 years.

"I know people around town thought me a little screwy for checking $5,000 a week, but I just couldn't go on playing crazy blondes the rest of my life."

NOT THE MONEY

"The money didn't bother me," she discloses, "because I can make as much in eight weeks with my stage show as I could in a year with the studio."

She and husband Charles O'Curran have formed a new corporation wherein the Hutton stage show goes on the road like a circus. It's opening this week in San Francisco.

She was asked if there was any truth to the reports that the Paramount hassle followed her insistence that O'Curran direct "Topsy and Eva." Some columnists had printed rumors that co-star Ginger Rogers refused to be directed by O'Curran.

"Nothing to it," answered Betty. "The whole trouble was over script. I'll argue like hell when I know I'm right." She apparently was right because the Duncan sisters story since has been shelved at Paramount.

Que. Government To Brand Any General Strike Illegal

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Duplessis made it clear Wednesday night that the government will brand as illegal a general work stoppage contemplated by Quebec's 90,000-member Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor.

He said the threat, made following an outbreak of violence at Louiseville, Que., where a textile strike has been in progress for 10 months, is "a call to generalize crime."

Mr. Duplessis' statement came at the close of a stormy debate in the Quebec legislature during which the Liberals branded provincial police action at Louiseville "barbaric" and government speakers charged the strike was fomented for political ends by the Liberals.

One Liberal, Emilien Lafrance (L—Richmond), was warned twice by Speaker Alexandre Tache that he would be expelled if he did not abide by house rules.

BRANDISHES STICKS

At one point in the debate, Germain Caron (UN — Maskinonge) brandished sticks allegedly used by strikers in an outbreak of violence Dec. 11 that resulted in the Riot Act being read.

The strike started March 10, 1952 when 800 workers left their jobs at the plant of Associated Textiles Company for higher wages. The dispute went through conciliation and arbitration and finally bogged down.

The flurry, described as illegal and out of order by Speaker Tache, was over a motion introduced by Gaston Ledoux (L—Shefford), president of the National Textile Federation at the time the strike was declared.

The motion, seeking production of all documents relating to the strike, was defeated by a vote of 56 to 22.

During the debate, Labor Minister Barrette said Louiseville workers had been "misled" into striking by "outsiders."

He said local union members did not know the strike was planned and were suddenly told by a group of men who entered the plant "to get out or we'll get you out."

Mr. Barrette said he pitied the Louiseville workers and hoped that should a similar situation arise in the future, the workers would "smash the faces" of those trying to get them out.

Mr. Ledoux said the strike was justified and deplored police intervention.

Mr. Duplessis said respect of order was necessary and contempt of authority unleashed disorder and chaos.

The right to strike, he said, does not give the right to anarchy and crime.

The strike was marked by more than 100 illegal acts, 30 homes had been ransacked, 30 men assaulted, an automobile and a power transformer dynamited.

Louiseville workers would never have committed such acts unless they were led on.

Consciously or unconsciously, Mr. Duplessis said, certain union leaders were following "to the letter" the theories of Tim Buck and Fred Rose, former member of Parliament convicted following Canada's spy probe.

At a recent CCCL meeting in Montreal 200 of 500 persons attending were Communists.

Mr. Duplessis said he regretted the debate took place, but the government felt it was necessary to "proclaim truth, to sound the clarion in the face of danger."

Makes Faux Pas On Conversion Issue

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A young man preparing to use some 60-cycle equipment in a local church hall decided to check with church officials Tuesday to see if the hall had been converted from 25- to 60-cycle power.

He telephoned the hall and identified himself.

"Have you been converted there yet?"

The church minister replied:

"That, young man, is a matter that rests entirely between myself and my Maker."

Gave 6 Million Toward Airliner

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government contributed $6,648,000 towards the cost of a jet airliner built by Avro at Malton, Defence Production Minister Howe informed the Commons Wednesday.

In a written reply to questions from Ross Thatcher (CCF—Moose Jaw), the minister said work on jet liners has been suspended by Avro since the start of the Korean war because of pressure of military commitments by the company. The prototype plane is being used for development tests.

Asked if it has proven "unsatisfactory," Mr. Howe said it has not been accepted for commercial service by the transport department but a production model undoubtedly would be given a certificate of airworthiness.

None of these planes has been ordered by Trans-Canada Air Lines the minister said.

CNE SURPLUS 'FABULOUS'

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Allan Lamport said Wednesday the Canadian National Exhibition netted a "fabulous surplus" from its 1952 operations. Mr. Lamport did not estimate the surplus but other sources indicated it is between $400,000 and $500,000.

DOUBLE TROUBLE IN THE MATERNITY WARD—The stork is responsible for all the headaches at Euclid-Glenville Hospital at Euclid, Ohio. First, he delivered a baby to Mrs. Anthony Valencic, and then five days later, he brought another bundle, this time to Mrs. Anthony Valencic. It's the second time the coincidence has happened. In March of 1951 both mothers were in the same hospital, at the same time, awaiting the stork. While the staff never hopes to get gift packages and delivery of flowers straightened out, they're taking no chances with the babies. Baby James, left, wears one identification bracelet, and baby Linda Marie, right, wears two.

Calculated Risks Now Run—Abbott

NEW YORK (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott of Canada said last night the time is ripe for taking "calculated risks" to solve international economic problems.

Canada will continue to play its part in contributing to progressive solutions, Abbott said in an address before the Economic Club of New York.

Abbott did not suggest what "calculated risks" should be taken. He said:

"We believe the time is ripe for courageous and positive steps on the part of all countries concerned. It is no time for rash or ill-considered gestures, but it is I believe a time for taking calculated risks."

Charge 2 Soldiers With Buffalo Theft

BUFFALO, N.Y. (CP) — Two Canadian soldiers have been charged with stealing $167 and two diamond rings from a home here while absent without leave from Camp Petawawa, Ont.

Police said Jack O'Neill, 21, and Robert Harkness, 22, both of Dunnville, Ont., are two of five men charged with breaking into the home of Mrs. Eleanor Ferris. Police said Harkness had one of the rings when arrested.

The two Canadians have been absent from Camp Petawawa since Nov. 29.

Foundation Of Early Church Uncovered In Britain

LONDON (CP)—The foundation of what is believed to have been one of the earliest Christian places of worship in Britain has been unearthed by workmen reconstructing London's famous St. Bride's Church in Fleet street's bustling newspaper district.

The 17th century church built by the great English architect, Sir Christopher Wren, was reduced to a burned-out shell by incendiary bombs dropped by German night raiders during the blitz of London in the Second World War. It is being rebuilt with funds contributed by well-wishers in all parts of the Commonwealth.

Since excavating work began many relics have been uncovered associating the church site with London's historic past, some dating back to the Roman occupation.

The latest discovery is a well-preserved semi-circular stone wall of a basilica, resting on an 18-foot base. The foundation, similar to those in stone-built Roman houses, was found about five feet below the level of the medieval church.

Previously, diggers had come across the remnants of a wall and tessellated pavement of a substantial Roman building. This has lent strength to the legend that St. Bride's is built on the site of a Roman house which had been converted into an early Christian temple.

Grand Jury Indicts Woman In Stabbing

TORONTO (CP)—A grand jury Wednesday indicted Mrs. June Armstrong, 24, of Newmarket, for manslaughter in the death of Walter Coleman, 38, of Holland Marsh last September. She was originally charged with murder.

Mrs. Armstrong was held in Toronto's Don jail with her infant son, David McKenzie Waters. The child was born in hospital while Mrs. Armstrong was under police guard.

Police said Mrs. Armstrong stabbed Coleman while he was fighting with McKenzie Waters, superintendent of federal farms, with whom she had been living.

Watch Donors For Jaundice

GENEVA (Reuters)—An expert committee of the World Health Organization today warned of the danger of blood transfusions spreading jaundice.

The experts, in a report to the organization's board, gave their warning at a time when "the use of blood products is increasing in all countries for the treatment of wounds, burns, surgical operations and even, among children for the treatment of measles."

Except in life-and-death cases, no one should be accepted as a blood donor, if at any time he has suffered from jaundice, the experts said.

About one in 200 donors has been found to be a carrier of jaundice, the experts said.

Jaundice is a disease of the liver. Its most notable affect is a yellow coloration of the skin.

Need Social Workers For Arthritis Victims

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. D. C. Graham, medical director of the Ontario division of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, said last night there is a growing need for medical-social workers in the treatment of arthritis victims.

Speaking at the society's annual meeting, Dr. Graham said doctors who treat arthritis patients "are painfully aware of the harmful influence of psychological stresses, which may stem from a wide variety of unfavorable situations giving rise to tension, anxiety, worry and fear."

R. J. Breckenridge of Toronto was appointed president of the society, succeeding John S. Proctor. Other appointments included the following directors: S. Alger, Oshawa; H. C. Hunter, Kingston, and Mrs. S. W. Rodgers, Sudbury.

COMMEND NEW CHIEF

Peterborough's fire, water and light committee on Wednesday took time out to move a vote of commendation to the city's new fire chief, Ralph Leonard. The chief went into action a day early, fighting the $53,000 fire at the old Metropolitan Store on December 31. "We didn't even give him a chance to get his hat off before he was on duty," commented Alderman A. B. Burrows, 1952 chairman of the committee.

Defence Helpers Compensated For Injuries

Extension of the provisions and benefits of the Workmen's Compensation Act to citizens taking part in Civilian Defence was cited to the Examiner today by Ald. J A. Dewart, who is chairman of the Peterborough Civil Defense committee.

By agreement between the governments of Ontario and Canada financial protection is assured to Civil Defence volunteers or dependents in the event of injury or death in the course of defence work. It was signed by Hon. Paul Martin and Hon. G. Arthur Welsh, representing respectively the governments of Canada and Ontario.

An essential condition is "No compensation claim can be considered unless an enrolment card is on file in the office" of the senior administrative officer, Ontario Civil Defence, Toronto. This provision requires that copies of enrolment cards of the Peterborough volunteers, for instance, must be sent to the Toronto office, "and in the case of future volunteers a duplicate card is to be signed by the volunteer for filing purpose at Ontario defence headquarters."

The following is the text of one of the general clauses: "Where the Compensation Board decides that an accident arose out of and in the course of Civil Defence work it shall determine and pay the amount of compensation and provide medical aid in accordance with the provisions of The Workmen's Compensation Act (Ontario)."

The rest of this clause sets out other secondary conditions. The agreement also defines the arrangements of costs between the two governments.

City To Hire More Firemen

The fire, water and light committee decided Wednesday to advertise for more firemen now that the city's boundaries have been enlarged.

With the annexation of 1,256 acres in Smith Township the city is estimated to have increased one-third in size. Sooner or later permanent sub-stations will have to be built both in the north end of the city and in the south end.

Hiring of extra firemen is the first step toward looking after this responsibility. No decision has been made as to the exact number of men who will be taken on.

Applicants must be between the ages of 21 and 28. They must be 5 feet 8 inches tall, and have an educational standard of two years high school or the equivalent. Minimum weight has still to be decided on.

Ald. J. A. Dewart was re-elected chairman of the Board of Health, Wednesday afternoon at the first meeting of the board this year.

Dr. Ralph Honey was welcomed as a new member to the board.

Dr. J. P. Wells, medical officer of Health reported that there were 34 cases of communicable diseases in the city during December. Mumps topped the list with 16, and chickenpox was second with seven cases. The remainder were measles 3, paratyhoid fever, one; scarlet fever 3, septic sore throat one, and infectious jaundice one.

Two referred chest X-ray clinics, sponsored by the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association were held in December with a total attendance of 72.

The nine child health clinics held during he month had a total attendance of 170.

Citizens Band Played In 25 Appearances

During 1952 the Peterborough Citizens Band made a total of 25 public appearance and engagements. Bandmaster W. H. Parnell said the year "was one of the most successful seasons experienced by the band." Besides these concerts and other appearances, the band held regular weekly rehearsals.

The band, financed mainly by the city under the auspices of the Recreation Commission, held six Sunday night summer band concerts. These concerts were sponsored directly by the commission.

HELPED ORGANIZATIONS

Besides the summer concerts, the Citizens band practised and played special show-time tunes for concerts, five in number, at the grandstand show at the Peterborough exhibition. It also assisted the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming club at two demonstrations.

The city musicians took part in practically all parades. They were on hand to welcome both the Timbermen and the Orfuns following the Canadian championship games. The band also turned out for Remembrance Day services, in Peterborough and Port Hope, and for the reunion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Apart from these the band held four out-of-town engagements in Cobourg, Centreville, Keene and Lindsay.

Remove Controls

LONDON (CP)—Price controls and regulations on contents for pork, veal-and-ham pies, jellied veal and similar commodities were removed Jan. 1. Butchers predicted an increase in quality without any change in prices.

Fred Hills Elected Head Of Utilities Commission

Fred Hills became the seventh chairman of the Utilities Commission since 1902 at its meeting Wednesday. He was proposed by Dick Raine who was taking his seat for the first time. The succession of Mr. Hills to Gordon S. Matthews was the first change in the chairmanship since 1928 when Mr. Matthews began his long incumbency. Prior to him was: Wm. H. Bradburn, Ernest F. Mason, Robert Hicks, W. H. Moore and T. Frank Matthews.

With reference to the current financial report, Dr. G. R. Langley moved that sufficient money be transferred from the waterworks department surplus to prevent a deficit in the gas department bank statement.

That move was evidently intended to circumvent bank interest charge against the gas works overdraft.

NEW RATES.

New electric power rates are due against all consumers, domestic, commercial and industrial, March 1. First intimation of this advance came from the Hydro Commission toward the end of the year. Of the prospect of having to pass the increase on to the public, Dr. Langley remarked that the Utilites Commission would have to intensify its efforts towards economy and saving in the cost of operations.

Another detail of the afternoon discussion plans to equip the finance committee of the city council with an approximate average sum owing the Commission for street lighting. This information should be ready for the Commission's next meeting on January 29, which Mr. Raine said, would be early enough for the council's 1953 budget. The wish of the Commission was to try to arrive at a fairly close figure which the council could include in its estimates for 1953.

The Commission debate on the water-main question, cast iron vs. Transite, moved forward slightly with Dr. Langley's request that the engineering firm of Gore and Storrie, who were not recommending the fabricated substitute, should be asked for detailed and explicit information to support the points of objection which they had submitted to the Commission.

SOLD ON TRANSITE

Dr. Langley repeated his position that he was "completely sold" on the Transite pipe, and "pretty well convinced" that it will afford a saving of 15 per cent. He told his associates that he had recently visited the factory in Toronto, and had tested a length of the pressure- produced type with a ten pound sledge-hammer.

The Commission is changing the Romaine St. gas line from low to high pressure to supply Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. for their lawn mower department. Gas regulators will have to be placed on the services to eighteen domestic customers between Aylmer St. and Monaghan Road at an estimated cost to the Commission of $1,170.

Report Spy Roundup

LONDON (AP). — —Tirana radio today reported the roundup of 12 "spies and diversionists" in Communist Albania. They were described as Albanians working for Yugoslavia. The broadcast was heard in London.

Second Youth Committed For Higher Trial

Ross Gilliam, 22, of Hunter Street, the second of two youths arraigned before Magistrate W. R. Philp on charges of forgery and false pretences was committed for trial at the next general sessions today.

Bail for Gilliam and Arnold Cross, 19, also of Hunter Street, who is charged with the same offences as Gilliam, was set at $2,000 each.

10 CHARGES

Gilliam and Cross were each charged with five charges of forgery and five of false pretences in connection with the alleged forged cheques.

W. J. Arthur Fair is defending both Gilliam and Cross who elected trial before a higher court.

Contents of a statement given by Cross to Detective Douglas Farthing which was admitted by Magistrate Philp at the preliminary hearing were not released to the press in view of both the accused electing trial by a higher court.

Cross was committed for trial Wednesday, and the preliminary hearing on the charges against Gilliam ended today.

Magistrate Philp discharged both Gilliam and Cross on a charge of attempted false pretences in connection with an alleged forged cheque.

On all the charges on which they were committed for trial, the pair are charged individually with the same offences.

290 Visits To Homes Made By City Nurses

Department of Health nurses made 290 visits to homes during December.

Miss Gene Clark, supervisor of nurses, in her report at the Board of Health meeting Wednesday afternoon, said that 111 homes were visited for the first time in 1952.

There were 514 individuals visited and 223 individuals visited for the first time during the year.

The greatest number of visits were made to infants, one month to one year old—138. The next highest total, 103, were to preschool children.

137 Register For 1953 So-Ed Program

So-Ed, an annual project sponsored by the YMCA, YWCA and Recreation Commission began its 1953 program Wednesday night with a registration of 137.

The program runs for seven weeks, each Wednesday night until February 25. This is the 10th year So-Ed has been held in Peterborough.

Rabbi A. M. Babb who was scheduled to conduct the first lecture and discussion on "Our Canadian Way of Life" was unable to be present.

Instead, Alex Kay, of the wild life division of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, who was to conduct the program on February 18, gave a talk on "Nature Life Around Us."

Mr. Kay described the different types of wild creatures in our forests and their characteristics and habits.

This year, the So-Ed theme is Canada, and for the first time Peterborough people are playing a key part in the various phases of the social and educational activities that are included in the Wednesday night programs.

Librarian William Graff will deliver the lecture and conduct the discussion next Wednesday on "Canadian Culture."

YMCA secretary Charles Forsyth described the first night So-Ed-ers as "an enthusiastic crowd" who enjoyed the interest groups on swimming, public speaking, square dancing, and landscaping and gardening.

The evening was topped off with a sing song.

Rev. J. F. Reycraft Dies In St. Marys

Rev. J. F. Reycraft, for many years minister in the Methodist and United Churches, and brother of Mrs. Frank C. Neal of Peterborough, died in hospital in St. Marys on Wednesday. Before his retirement in 1947 Mr. Reycraft had served in many charges in Ontario, including Stratford, Brantford, Picton, Port Arthur, and Toronto.

He was born near Highgate in Kent County, the son of one of the early settlers, and educated at Ridgetown Collegiate and Victoria University.

He leaves his wife, two sons John McLaren of Windsor and Maxwell Franklin of Toronto, and a daughter Mrs. Kenneth Cragg of Toronto, a brother L. J. Reycraft of Winnipeg, and two sisters Mrs. David Whyte of Toronto and Mrs. Neal of Peterborough.

Early Bird

A few hours sleep Wednesday afternoon threw a downtown butcher's sense of timing completely out of kilter. The butcher, named George, helped tidy up the shop for the half day closing and later went home where he lay down to sleep. When George woke up it was dark; the clock said 7 o'clock; so he hurried off to work thinking it was morning. Once more in the store he surprised one of the other butchers who just happened to be there at the time by muttering he was sorry he was late. Then George began to get the meat out for display. His astounded fellow - butchers wondered what was going on. "What's up?" he querried. The explanation revealed the mistake and they're still chuckling over it today.

City Police Force Featured In Magazine

Peterborough police department is featured in the current quarterly issue of Police News.

The magazine is the official publication of the Ontario Police Association and its latest issue contains several articles illustrated with pictures on the city, the police department and various members of the department.

A message from Mayor Hugh Waddell prefaces the section devoted to Peterborough and the lead story outlines the development of the city from the days of the first settlers, to its present position as one of the leading industrial and tourist centres in the province.

DEPARTMENT GREW

Another article tells how the department's duties and personnel are steadily expanding with the growth of the city. Two branches of the department, the Criminal investigation branch in charge of Sgt. William A. Aggas, and the School Safety Patrol, under the direction of Constable Don Mackay are given individual attention in two articles.

Inspector of Detectives Bud Clarke's exploit in November when he discovered three men in the yard of the Beaver Lumber Co., is covered in a separate feature.

The men escaped after an exchange of shots, but three men were later captured in Lindsay and charged with shopbreaking, possessing stolen goods and being in possession of burglar tools, in connection with a break-in at Belleville the same night Inspector Clarke spotted the trio in the lumber yard.

More Utilities Used In City

Increases in use of Peterborough's three public utilities were reported for December at the Utilities Commission meeting on Wednesday. Peak load of electricity was up 1,495 kilowatts, from 23,905 to 25,400; and consumption in kilowatt hours up 639,400 kilowatt hours, from 10,728,000 to 11,367,400.

Waterworks department pumpage increased from 130,180,000 gallons to 131,900,000 gallons, a difference of 1,720,000 gallons.

Gas department used 11,157 gallons of propane more than in December last year; from 39,626 to 50,783 gallons; increase in gas production was up 1,295,000 cu. ft. to a total of 7,585,000 cu. ft. for the month.

Increase in gas bottled was 18,770 gallons, from 11,649 gallons of propane to 30,419 gallons.

In December propane used increased 28 per cent, gas made increased 22 per cent, and propane bottled was 25.2 per cent more than the 1951 bottling for that month.

Separate Bd. To Drop Ward System

To Petition Gov't For Election Change To Copy '52 Style

The Peterborough Separate School Board is taking steps to change the present system of its elections.

The members of the board decided to petition the Ontario Government for a private bill to effect this change at a special board meeting Wednesday night.

If passed, the bill will revoke the present ward system now followed in Separate School board elections and the board will adopt the general method used by the Council and Board of Education. It will give the board the legal right to hold its elections concurrently with the city elections and ask the city to run them.

In the 1952 elections, the city included the Separate School board in its election machinery as an act of courtesy.

James Dunn, the board's solicitor, is preparing the petition, but it must be presented to the Private Bills' Committee of the House by a private member. It is also necessary to advertise the bill in the local newspaper and in the Ontario Gazette for six consecutive weeks before it can be presented.

Sarnia Separate School board petitioned for a similar bill successfully in 1952. Two other Ontario cities where the separate school board elections are run by the city are London and Windsor.

Beverage Rooms Criticized By Health Bd.

Hotel beverage rooms in Peterborough have received some censure from the Department of Health.

Sanitary Inspector R. M. McPherson reported at the Board of Health meeting Wednesday afternoon that an intensive survey of the city's beer parlors had been carried out during the past month.

Following the first check when conditions were found to be unsatisfactory a second check followed.

ONE NOT IMPROVED

"Each hotel was revisited and recent re-checks indicated an over-all general improvement except for one," Mr. McPherson reported.

In these checks swabs are taken of glasses and other utensils and submitted to the regional laboratories for bacteriological analysis.

The sanitary inspector reported that several beverage room operators are considering installing machine washing procedures.

"This is definitely a step in the right direction as it reduces the human element involved in the hand washing of glasses," Mr. McPherson said.

High Taxes Menacing Life Of British Industry

LONDON (CP)—Claiming the structure of British industry is seriously menaced by existing rates of taxation, the National Union of Manufacturers has appealed to the government for an early inquiry into the current impact of death duties.

In a memorandum to R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, the organization contends that maintenance of levies imposed on manufacturing business would do irreparable harm to the national economy. The request for official action is the fourth made by the NUM since April, 1950.

Observing that the rates of estate duty have risen tenfold during the last 58 years, the report in a detailed analysis shows that control of a large percentage of businesses lapses with the death of the owner.

It says independence could be retained only by assuming a considerable financial burden—by a loan, postponing plans for development or by restricting operations below the present level.

BIG ESTATE NEEDED

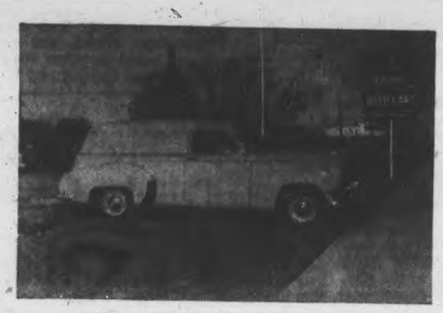
"In fact," the memorandum adds "the position today is such that if an individual wishes to leave intact after his death a business worth £100,000, he would have to possess an estate of at least £250,000.

To preserve a business valued at £200,000 and bestow on dependents a home and cash bequests to the aggregate value of £10,000 a person's estate must exceed £700,000. In 1901, the same provisions could have been made from an estate of £225,000.

The NUM argues that a healthy competitive economy is possible only if small businesses are encouraged to grow up to replace larger ones that are decaying.

It is urged that some immediate form of relief be given, such as reduction in rates of death duties on factories, plant and machinery.

Itching, Cracked Toes and Feet



Here is a clean, stainless antiseptic oil that will do more to help you get rid of your trouble than anything you've ever used.

The action of MOONE'S EMERALD OIL is so powerfully penetrating that the itching is quickly stopped and in a short time you are rid of that bothersome fiery pain and soreness. Two or three applications before bedtime will ensure a good night's rest.

You can obtain MOONE'S EMERALD OIL at any modern drug store. It is safe to use—and failure, even in long-standing cases, is rare indeed. Solid satisfaction or money back.

Martin Reduces Loses 40 Pounds

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons' attention was drawn Wednesday to one of Parliament's most notable physical phenomena of recent times—a sharp reduction in the weight of the minister in charge of national health.

Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William) complimented 49-year-old Health Minister Martin on his feat and said it is good to see Mr. Martin looking as he looked when he first entered the Commons.

Mr. Martin later submitted to an interview in the lobby in which, beaming and fondly patting his stomach, he gladly gave the statistics of his achievement.

He weighed roughly 160 pounds when he entered the Commons 17 years ago, the minister said. Twenty months ago, weighing 200, he decided he would do what any good health minister should do, set a good healthy example.

He has knocked off 40 pounds.

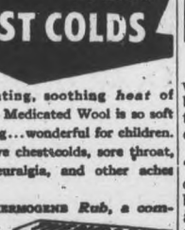
He said he attributes his success to "diet, good conscience, good hard work—and good government."

Plan Civil Action Over Hospital Board

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—John E. McKeon, chairman of the dismissed board of directors of East Windsor Hospital, said Wednesday civil action may be taken in an attempt to upset Attorney-General Porter's action in dissolving the board.

The institution now is governed by a provisional board pending formation of a new, permanent board.

Mr. McKeon said former members will meet to "consider the possibility" of a civil suit.



Mr. Porter dismissed the board after it refused to dissolve itself as suggested in a report filed by Commissioner Gordon L. Fraser following a summer-long probe into the hospital's affairs.

WITCHES' HAT FACTORY—Although the weird-looking cones that the machinist, above, is turning out are for use "out of this world," they won't adorn fashion-wise sorceresses come next Hallowe'en. The cone-shaped objects are tail assemblies designed to control emission of exhaust gases from a new jet engine, and are being manufactured by Firestone Steel Products Company, at Akron, Ohio.

New Dentures Being Developed

DENVER (AP)—A system of installing dentures that anchors false teeth to the jaw was reported to the Denver Dental Association's clinical session Tuesday.

Two Denver dentists who asked to remain unidentified helped to perfect the dentures.

One told the association: "Implanted dentures bring new hope to persons who cannot tolerate conventional false teeth because they have lost their gum ridges or are bothered by gagging, bony outgrowths, movements of the jaw or over-active muscles."

The built-in dentures are in two parts. One is a surgical steel framework, anchored to the jawbone beneath the gums. Four pegs protrude through the gum tissue to the surface. The second part, a 14-tooth bridge, is fastened to the pegs.

This bridge may be removed, but the steel framework is screwed to the jawbone.

TV Star's Baby Expected Soon

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Lucille Ball will have her baby next Monday both in fact and in her TV show, the script for which identifies the child as a boy.

The network which televises the "I Love Lucy" show said Wednesday that Miss Ball and her husband, Desi Arnaz, decided weeks ago, when the final show of the expectancy sequence was filmed, that they'd have to take a chance on guessing the sex of their forthcoming child.

The show has given millions a candid, week-by-week account of Miss Ball's pregnancy.

The next "I Love Lucy" show will be televised the night of Jan. 19. On that day Miss Ball will enter hospital to have her child by caesarean section.

Inspection Services Should Be Examined

TORONTO (CP)—Government inspection services should be examined and reports of inefficiency checked, Irwin Colwill of Newcastle president of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association, said Wednesday.

Addressing the association's annual meeting, Mr. Colwill said there should be a "determined effort" to enforce the Licencing Act. Growers should be protected from truckers who have been given "too much latitude."

C. M. Bonham of Grimsby, chairman of the fruit section, said last year was "painful and disastrous from every angle" in the marketing of peaches.

Mr. Bonham said increased Canadian consumption was offset by 35,000,000 pounds of processed peaches from the United States and other countries.

Deplore Psychiatry In Delinquency Cases

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A United Nations survey Wednesday deplored American reliance on psychiatry in dealing with juvenile delinquency and urged firm court handling in serious cases.

The survey—first in a series which will cover all continents—was written by Dr. Paul W. Tappan professor of sociology at New York University. The surveys will be presented at a world congress on the prevention of crime which the UN has called for 1955.

The survey expressed disapproval of "increasing emphasis upon individualized and clinical approaches to the maladjusted child."

Have Disk Show For 27th Brigade

HANNOVER, Germany (CP)—A radio disk jockey show will be used to bring greetings to the 27th Canadian brigade from wives, sweethearts and friends in Canada, the army said Wednesday.

The one-hour show, sponsored by the brigade, is carried every Saturday on the British forces radio network in Hamburg and is entitled "Calling on Canadians."

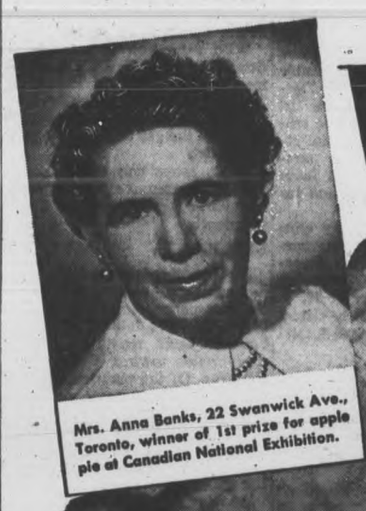
Friends and relatives in Canada can get favorite records played for the troops by sending their request to 27 public relations unit, Canadian army post office 5050, care of the postmaster, Montreal, and giving the name and unit to which the soldier belongs.

The soldier in Germany then is notified when the request will be played.

Top Sculptors Make Trophies For Drama Festival

OTTAWA (CP)—Three leading Canadian sculptors have been commissioned to prepare the Calvert trophies, top awards in the Dominion Drama Festival, a special awards committee announced last night.

Sylvia Daoust of Montreal and Frances Loring and Florence Wyle of Toronto will collaborate on designing the trophies which will be executed in distinctive woods and portray aspects of dramatic art.



Each trophy—the final festival award and 13 regional awards—will be exhibited at regional festivals before presentation. The Calvert trophy replaces the Bessborough trophy as the top DDF award this year. First presentation of a trophy will be at Victoria May 9 during the festival finals.

The winning group at regional festivals will receive a $100 cash prize in addition to the regional trophy which will be held for one year. Regional trophies will be presented when completed later this year.

prizewinning apple pie — winner of 1st prize for apple pie at this year's C.N.E. tells how she won with—

VELVET pastry FLOUR

Mrs. Anna Banks, 22 Swanwick Ave., Toronto, winner of 1st prize for apple pie at Canadian National Exhibition.

Mrs. Banks's Prizewinning Recipe

complete details — tips — secrets

"Making tender, flaky pies that bake to a rich, golden brown is no trick at all with Velvet Pastry Flour. I've used this soft, easy-to-handle flour for years with the greatest success.

"I always use the Velvet Pastry Crumbles Method. This is a wonderful method, for you can make enough for 4 double crust pies ahead of time. Here is the recipe.

7 cups sifted Velvet Pastry Flour
2 teaspoons salt
1 pound chilled shortening

"Sift the flour and salt together. Cut in shortening and rub into crumbles until mealy. Store in refrigerator until ready to use.

"For my prizewinning apple pie I use 2 cups of Velvet Pastry Crumbles. I add just enough water (about ⅓ cup) to press the crumbles together so that the pastry will roll without breading. I think most women use too much water. It is better to err on the scant side.

"After rolling the pastry I fit the bottom crust snugly into a 9-inch glass pie dish.

"For the filling I use:

6 large apples, thinly sliced
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon butter

"I place the butter in tiny dibs over the apples. No spices of any kind are used. This gives the true apple flavor.

"I make a fernlike design on my top crust, (see photo) but any design will do. After I place the top crust over the apples, I press it down and with thumb and finger make the standard fluted edge. I do not put water between the edges, as it isn't necessary with this Velvet Pastry Method.

"Pies should be baked at a high temperature to begin with, so I bake mine at 450°F. (very hot) for 10 minutes, then reduce the temperature to 375°F. (moderate) and bake it for 30 minutes longer, or until it's lightly browned."

For flakier, tenderer pies and pastries, always use VELVET — the prize-winning flour

Theatre Classes Suggested By Adjudicator

OTTAWA (CP)—British adjudicator John Allen last night said Canada's amateur stage needs theatre classes to help inexperienced Little Theatre groups with their acting problems.

Mr. Allen made the comment following the Brockville Theatre Guild's production of "Laura" on the second night of the five-night Eastern Ontario regional drama festival.

The festival continues tonight with the Ottawa Little Theatre Saturday Players' production of "The Madwoman of Chaillot," by Jean Giradoux.

Mr. Allen commended the Brockville group for a sincere effort with the "extremely difficult" play, a mystery story written by Vera Caspary and George Sklar.

NEED EXPERT ACTING

It was a good story, but did not have a lasting effect on the minds of the audience, and therefore required expert acting to bring out the characters in the play.

He found the Brockville players inexperienced. They had not caught the right idea.

"I feel that I want to go into this criticism very gently—on tiptoe," Mr. Allen said. "Acting is agony and terribly difficult. I have given up acting myself and now just tell other people how to do it."

Theatre classes in Canada were needed to help inexperienced groups with acting problems and teach them points of technique so that they could learn to act with freedom.

"I know the Canadian theatre can help these groups," said Mr. Allen.

Delivery Cut Union Angry

TORONTO (CP)—Announcement by a Toronto dairy that it would cut off home deliveries in the downtown area brought quick reaction from the Toronto Milk Drivers' Union (AFL) Wednesday.

When Acme Farmers' Dairy announced the move, due to increased deliverycosts resulting from traffic problems, John Buchanan, president of the union, appealed to housewives deprived of Acme service to switch to other dairies.

Last Monday the union submitted demands to the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association for an $8-a-week wage increase bringing the basic wage for drivers to $59 a week.

The report also urges construction of a new city hall and remodelling of the present city hall into a courthouse.

Co-Operatives Urged For Philippines

MANILA (AP)—A Filipino Senator urges the introduction of the co-operative system—such as exists in Nova Scotia and Denmark—as a solution to the Philippines land-tenure problem.

"The sooner we can instill the importance of co-operatives in the minds of our people, the sooner we will be able to solve the land-tenure problem," says Senator Gil Puyat.

Puyat is chairman of the Senate committees on public works and national enterprises.

BEST SPIRIT

"In Denmark and in Nova Scotia," Puyat said, "one finds the best spirit of co-operatives in action. Export products are made through cottage industries, quality is maintained at a high level, and prices kept within reach of the people."

Puyat said co-operatives in the Philippines so far have been sidetracked into the retail business and the people have not been given proper guidance due to 'political incompetents."

Will Withdraw French Film

OTTAWA (CP)—The management of a local theatre announced Wednesday it is withdrawing the French film "Clochemerle" which has raised a storm of controversy and protest.

Ernest Warren, theatre manager, said the film will be withdrawn tonight because of "pressure" by various groups. The film opened Monday. With the reception it has received, the film would have run about three weeks, he said.

Archbishop Alexandre Vachon, head of the Roman Catholic Ottawa archdiocese, described the film as "vulgar" and said it should be made the subject of a Senate investigation.

The satire deals with a French community in which the "progressives" decide to build a monument —a comfort station—amid protests by "reactionaries"—a group of spinsters. It lampoons France's army, church and politicians.

Mr. Warren said the film "apparently had not been properly censored."

Too Heavy To Keep Drops Middle Name

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Bennett (NMI) Stallard, 22, was accepted for enlistment in the navy Wednesday after being stripped of 28 of his 29 given names

The NMI means that Stallard has no middle initial now and his service record hereafter will carry the no-middle-initial abbreviation.

Stallard dropped his names by filing an affidavit that he had been known for years as Bennett.

Tour Cost: $328,940

Crosses Canada On His Horse

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP) — A modern Buffalo Bill has come out of the east to the Chilliwack valley.

He is 20-year-old Bill Martsch of Kitchener, Ont., who rode into town on Rocky, a sorrel cross-bred which carried him 6,000 miles over Canadian highways.

Since last May, Martsch has travelled from Kitchener to the Maritimes, and from the Maritimes to B.C. The return ride will begin after a visit to Vancouver Island. Bill and Rocky hope to be home by June.

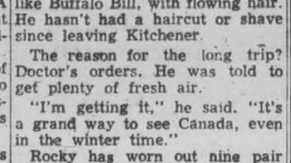
Martsch travels frontier-style—a bedroll, a change of clothes, and, like Buffalo Bill, with flowing hair. He hasn't had a haircut or shave since leaving Kitchener.

The reason for the long trip? Doctor's orders. He was told to get plenty of fresh air.

"I'm getting it," he said. "It's a grand way to see Canada, even in the winter time."

Rocky has worn out nine pair of shoes in the cross-country jaunt.

Has Secret Enemy Among Lawmakers



BELGRADE (AP)—Premier Tito became the first president of Communist Yugoslavia Wednesday amid the cheers of Parliament, but learned he has a secret enemy among the country's lawmakers.

Operating under a new constitution with a secret ballot, Parliament elected the former partisan fighter and post-war premier to the presidency by a vote of 568 to 1.

Tito was the only candidate.

There was no immediate way of determining the identity of the dissenter. That question was a major topic of discussion today.

Parliament recessed until some time next month after electing an unopposed 44-member federal executive council which will serve as the country's chief administrative body. The council replaced the existing parliamentary praesidium.

Brighten winter meals with Heinz RED magic

Most mothers know that children are the largest consumers of ketchup—especially Heinz. Many mothers encourage its use, because they find that youngsters are more easily persuaded to clean up their plates if they have lots of Heinz Ketchup.

Men are notorious, too, for relishing spicy condiments. A meal without a dash of Heinz Tomato Ketchup can be a sad disappointment.

Mothers find that the red magic from that famous bottle works near-miracles in the kitchen, especially when it comes to making an appetizing dish out of left-overs or dolling up inexpensive meats.

Buy two or more bottles of Heinz Tomato Ketchup the next time you shop, so that you're always sure of one for the table and one for the kitchen.

Watched Riel Rebels Making Bullets From Tea Wrappers

MEADOW LAKE, Sask. (CP)—A woman who watched halfbreeds making bullets for the Riel rebellion out of lead tea-wrappers lives alone near this town 150 miles northwest of Saskatoon.

She is 86-year-old Mrs. J. B. Fidler, born Veronique Gervais at St. Francois Xavier near Winnipeg. Her husband, a great-grandson of the Hudson's Bay Company trader and surveyor, Peter Fidler died in 1950 at the age of 93.

Brought up by her grandparents, she moved with them to Batoche when 16 and there she had a ringside seat for the Riel rebellion action.

WATCHED HALFBREEDS

"I remember how the halfbreeds made ammunition," she said. "They took turns, two at a time, melting the lead that came wrapped around the Hudson's Bay goods in frying pans over a camp fire. We girls used to watch them make bullets out of the lead."

Mrs. Fidler had 17 children and the last count of grandchildren was 100.

"The camera wouldn't be big enough to take a picture of all the great grandchildren," she added.

She recalled that she arrived in Batoche with her grandfather, Donald Ross, in 1884.

"That was the year that Old Man Batoche, Gabriel Dumont and Charlie Nolin went to Montana for Louis Riel," she recalled.

"When Riel came, they ran away and would not help him fight."

GRANDFATHER KILLED

Mrs. Fidler said her grandfather was not a halfbreed and did not want to fight. But three of his friends were killed by the redcoats and he began shooting at the soldiers living in Batoche's house. The soldiers asked Ross to stop shooting but he was so angry he would not stop and the soldiers killed him.

"The trouble started in March," she said, counting the months on her fingers, "and it was all over in June. Some people will tell you that not many soldiers were killed. They do not speak the truth. I watched them myself loading the dead into doublebox wagons, just like cord wood, and they took them down to the river and loaded them on to a steamboat for Prince Albert."

Mrs. Fidler, who moved to Meadow Lake in 1909, recalled the good times she had at St Francois before moving to Batoche.

"They danced three days for a wedding," she said. "And they made a big feast at which ducks, geese and little pigs were roasted whole."

EXPERIMENTAL PLANE

The letter K before the licence number of an airplane means it is licensed for experimental purposes.

Pilots Hunt For Strange Jet Streams

PATUXENT, Md. (AP)—Pilots at the navy's air test centre here are launching the first systematic hunt for high-altitude jet streams of air moving at speeds up to 300 miles an hour.

Purpose of their hunt is to locate exactly these ghost rivers of air and record scientific data about them.

The mystery they will help to solve is as old as the earth but became known to man less than a decade ago.

B-29 crews bombing Japan in the Second World War reported they had tangled with something strange at 20,000 to 30,000 feet. They would suddenly seem to hang still in the air. Just as suddenly their ground speed would jump to twice their air speed. The air outside their planes would register tropical warmth and change quickly to arctic cold.

KEEP RECORDS

Meteorologists started organizing data on the phenomena in readings from the instruments attached to high-altitude weather balloons.

As evidence mounted, scientists concluded narrow jet streams of air whip through the skies at speeds twice and three times as great as a hurricane.

The streams' courses shift from day to day and week to week. Some days only two can be spotted over the entire northern hemisphere.

FAMILY CAUCUS—President- elect Dwight Eisenhower greets his son, Maj. John Eisenhower, who arrived at his father's headquarters in New York's Commodore Hotel. The Major was brought back from Korea for his father's inauguration.

Two Farmers Killed

CHARLES CITY, Ia. (AP) — Two farmers were killed Wednesday when the light plane they were using in connction with a fox hunt, crashed on a farm near here.

Plan To Chart Canada's Northern Waters

WASHINGTON (CP)—A Canadian map-maker said today that ore-carrying ships can be expected to ply the arctic waters off Canada's northern coast "in the near future" and charts must be made for them.

F. C. G. Smith, Dominion hydrographer, said adequate charting of northern waters is necessary for "defence, economic and scientific development."

"The bleak coasts of the northern seas contain great mineral wealth" he said in a paper prepared for a panel meeting of the American Society of Photogrammetry.

"It is expected that in the near future ore-carrying vessels will be an important factor in the northern water transportation picture. . . ."

TREMENDOUS CHALLENGE

There were 10,000 miles of water passages in Canada's arctic archipelago. "The charting of this vast ramification of interlocking channels presents to hydrographers a tremendous challenge."

Mr. Smith was one of six Canadian government and RCAF mapmaking experts who told the panel of Canada's long-range program of mapping—chiefly by aerial photographs—the vast arctic area.

He said that those concerned with arctic defence are greatly interested in the fact that the submerged continental shelf north of North America is part of the same plateau which holds all the arctic islands of Canada, Greenland, Iceland and most of the islands north of Europe and Asia.

Few details were known of this northern threshold of the continent. It was known, however to be crossed by deep gullies.

"These submarine valleys extend well in between the arctic islands and afford navigation routes for well-strengthened vessels."

Cares For Juryman

LONDON (AP) — One of the parties to a lawsuit — a doctor — ministered to a member of the jury who collapsed in court Wednesday. Dr. Hertzel Creditor is defending a suit to void the will of a 90-year-old woman patient who left him £12,000. Counsel for Mrs. Leah Markowicz, plaintiff, agreed to let the doctor treat the juror, remarking: "I am quite sure it will not influence the jury in any way."

Exceed Allocation St. James' WMS Reports Show

Annual meeting of the WMS of St. James' United Church was held Tuesday afternoon in Wesley Hall.

Mrs. G. Hewitt presided for the first part of the meeting and brought a New Year's message in the form of a challenge "to venture further in the work of the kingdom." She then offered prayer for Mrs. Craik in her houg of sorrow, in the passing of the Rev. F. W. Craik, who was beloved for his wise counsel and faithful ministry at St. James'.

As the annual Presbyterial meeting of the WMS is to be held in the church, January 27, certain business matters called for immediate attention; others were left for the executive to decide. It was decided to try and secure Miss Ruby Horton, personnel secretary for women workers in the United Church, as speaker for the annual WMS church service.

The secretary's report for the year, prepared by Mrs. E. Hunter, was read by Mrs. N. Brown; the treasurer's report by Mrs. R. B. English showed the allocation exceeded. Other reports of the missionary family of the church from the Baby Band mothers by Mrs. R. Stewart to the Senior Auxiliary were encouraging; also the departmental secretaries' reports of the senior organization.

Before conducting the installation service the Rev. H. D. McCormack made reference to the far-reaching influence of the WMS. Later, he voiced appreciation to Mrs. Hewitt for her excellent leadership and welcomed Mrs. L. Bird, the new president, wishing her every success.

Mrs. Bird led in the service of worship, continuing the theme, "The Means of Grace." Scripture readings were given by Mrs. H. Doig and Mrs. E. Kitney. Prayers were offered by Miss M. Morton, Mrs. A. Saunders, Mrs. G. H. Rowe, Mrs. A. E. Prest, Mrs. E. Johnston and Mrs. English. The offering was received and dedicated by Mrs. Hewitt.

The slate of officers for 1953 is: President, Mrs. L. Bird; 1st vice-president, Mrs. E. M. Davis; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. W. Rose; recording secretary, Mrs. N. Brown; treasurer, Mrs. R. B. English; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. Johnston; Christian stewardship, Mrs. G. Hewitt; supply secretary, Mrs. W. K. Sloane and Mrs. G. H. Rowe; literature secretary, Mrs. E. Kent; associate members, Miss M. Morton; Missionary Monthly, Mrs. L. Hess; community friendship, Mrs. A. E. Prest and Mrs. W. Peel; Christian citizenship and temperance, Mrs. Powers; pianists, Mrs. H. F. Doig and Mrs. H. D. McCormack; telephone, Mrs. A. Saunders.

Of Interest to Women

First President Women's Fed. George St., Retires

Annual meeting of the Woman's Federation of George Street United Church was held Wednesday night at the church. After retiring president, Mrs. Arthur Black, welcomed the members and guests, Mrs. H. Nicholls read from the scriptures and Mrs. F. Hucks led the members in prayer. The group was fortunate in having as soloist, Mrs. J. Goldie, who sang two songs accompanied by Mrs. Ross Moore.

The annual report was read by the secretary, Mrs. Allan McDougall, and the treasurer's annual report by Miss Georgie Hardill. Other members of the executive made their reports. They were Mrs. S. Redout, Mrs. George Gatfield, Mrs. J. Thornton, Mrs. R. Hutton, Miss Myrtle McKeown, Miss Gladys Walker, Mrs. Archie Townsend, Mrs. S. Thomposn and Mrs. R. Sager. The president read short reports from Mrs. J. Drummond and Mrs. C. Brickman. In the absence of Mrs. Ray Parnell, the nomination report for 1953 was read by Mrs. Redout.

Mrs. Black expressed sincere thanks to her executive and to every member of the group for their co-operation. She spoke of the honor and pleasure it had been for her as the first president of the Woman's Federation at this church.

Mrs. Hutton introduced Rev. E. W. Rowland, who proceeded to install the following officers.

Mrs. Harry Race expressed appreciation to Mr. Rowland and to Mrs. Goldie and Mrs. Moore. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Thompson and her committee.

RHEUMATIC PAIN
Can Be Costly!

"This winter I had to quit work because of rheumatic pain," writes Mr. T. Glofcheskie, Wilno, Ont. "I became fearful of being laid up as on a previous occasion with rheumatic pain. My pain became increasingly severe and spread from hip to ankle. Out of bed, the leg felt cold as though in cold water, so I stayed in bed. A friend persuaded me to take T-R-C's and I'm glad I did. In a short while I was relieved of my pain and was soonsoon the job again."

Don't suffer from Rheumatic or Arthritic pain. Take Templeton's T-R-C's—Canada's LARGEST-SELLING proprietary medicine to bring quick relief from such pain. Only 65c, $1.35 at druggists. I-848

PTA News

ST. PETER'S SCHOOL

Provision was made for the Christopher family education recordings to be circulated among members of the PTA wishing to use them.

Mr. William Graff, chief librarian of the Peterborough Public Library and secretary of the Peterborough Film Council, was guest speaker. His topic was "Techniques of presentation and discussion of films." To demonstrate his topic he chose the film, "Your Family and You." This film dealt with three problems which do occur in many teenage homes; receiving invitations by telephone, housework and later hours. After showing this film Mr. Graff separated the members into groups — each group having a group leader — to find the individual opinions of the members.

"This is comonly known as a buzz session," he said.

It is the democratic approach not only to groups but also for airing any problems which may arise in the family.

Mr. D. Hatherly moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Graff.

Attendance prizes were won by room 3, St. Mary's school, Sister St. Patrick's class, and by room 4, St. Peter's school, Sister Anna Grace's class.

A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. M. Reidman and her committee.

DOROTHY DIX

Unwarranted Fear Found In Supposing You're Ill

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think there is any help for a woman such as I? I am so sick, so nervous. I have a wonderful husband and daughter, but I feel I am losing their love by my constant illness. I'm convinced I have heart trouble—I have all the symptoms, but my doctor says the trouble is caused by nerves. I don't believe him. I'm afraid they know I'm right and won't tell me. I'm alone all day and am always afraid something will happen while my husband and daughter are away.

MRS. J. N.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If your doctor felt you had heart trouble, I'm sure he'd tell you. Apprehension of this sort is not at all uncommon in a woman of 46, but you must realize that your constant worry, which seems to amount to hysteria at times, will only, make your condition worse. I don't think you have talked to your doctor as frankly as you wrote to me, but if you do, and tell him you'd like to see a heart specialist, he'll arranged a consultation for you. There are many pains, and many ills, that ape the symptoms of heart trouble, and it's very easy for a sufferer to be convinced that the real culprit is the heart.

NEW FRIENDS—NEW SUBJECTS

The medical aspects of your case are in your physician's province—not mine. What I'd like to do is encourage you to make more contacts with people. It isn't good for you—or anyone else—to be alone so much. This is the busy season for church activities, and the best thing you could do would be to join the woman's society of your church. Meeting new people, helping with important projects, will do wonders in taking your mind off your physical condition. It would also provide you with new topics of conversation for your family. Men become quite tired with constant complaining, and a cheerful note introduced into supper talk will brighten your family relationship considerably. Ask your minister to suggest some good books for you. Constructive reading will do a lot to show you the futility of your type of worry. With renewed confidence in your doctor, a heart-to-heart talk with your minister, and a few new friends to help you pass the time more peacefully, you should find a satisfactory adjustment soon.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We are two teen-agers who read your coulmn and would like your opinion on these questions:

1. Should a girl ever turn down a date with her steady beau unless she really has to?
2. How can a girl make a boy behave?
3. How old should a girl be before going steady?

PATSY AND MARGIE

ANSWER:

1. If a girl is going steady, her beau certainly is entitled to a reason if she refuses a date. Naturally she has the privilege of exercising a veto, but she shouldn't be surprised if her steady doesn't particularly care for the excuse.
2. By being firm in her refusal to tolerate behaviour she does not like.
3. This is a subject open to too many "if's" and "but's" for a definite age limit to be imposed. Today, almost any dating comes under the head of "going steady" but, in its more serious aspects, steady dating belongs in the 17-18 age group.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My girl friends and I like very much to dance, but since we are 24 years old, and all the dances here in town seem to be for younger people, we don't know where to go. I inquired at my church, and was told the only dances they have are for high-school students.

H. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You and your friends should appeal to the pastor of your church and ask if it's possible to have a dance one night a week for "over eighteens". I know several churches who sponsor such affairs, and they are a tremendous social and financial success.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

DEAR MISS DIX: We are two teen-agers who read your coulmn and would like your opinion on these questions:

1. Should a girl ever turn down a date with her steady beau unless she really has to?
2. How can a girl make a boy behave?
3. How old should a girl be before going steady?

PATSY AND MARGIE

ANSWER:

1. If a girl is going steady, her beau certainly is entitled to a reason if she refuses a date. Naturally she has the privilege of exercising a veto, but she shouldn't be surprised if her steady doesn't particularly care for the excuse.
2. By being firm in her refusal to tolerate behaviour she does not like.
3. This is a subject open to too many "if's" and "but's" for a definite age limit to be imposed. Today, almost any dating comes under the head of "going steady" but, in its more serious aspects, steady dating belongs in the 17-18 age group.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My girl friends and I like very much to dance, but since we are 24 years old, and all the dances here in town seem to be for younger people, we don't know where to go. I inquired at my church, and was told the only dances they have are for high-school students.

H. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You and your friends should appeal to the pastor of your church and ask if it's possible to have a dance one night a week for "over eighteens". I know several churches who sponsor such affairs, and they are a tremendous social and financial success.

What's Right?

You received Christmas cards from several friends living at a distance that you forgot to send cards to.

WRONG: Feel there is nothing you can do about it.

RIGHT: Write them personal notes saying how glad you were to receive their cards and giving them news of yourself.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Sliced Spiced Beef Served For Sunday Supper Dish

Figuratively speaking my tongue is in my cheek and my leg is being pulled, but nevertheless I'm falling for all of the kidding . . . . . but who wouldn't when she has been invited to one of the happiest parties of the Christmas season and is served some of the slickest food this side of Timbucktoo? All dreamed up, concocted and served with graciousness and love by a trio of gals who know how to cook, and know how to make every last one present feel ever so welcome.

You see, they slyly taunt me about every party I go to being grist for the newspaper mill. But it wouldn't be very nice would it if I went to such a party, enjoyed myself immensely and dropped the subject. I have to write about. It was an Event. It's newsworthy.

SUNDAY—AFTER SUPPER

Sliced Spiced Beef
Horeradish Cream
Buttered Carrot Sticks
Buttered Stripped Green Beans
Potatoes au Gratin
Tomato Jelly and Cottage Cheese Salad Plate
Gracie's Stuffed Celery Sticks
Lil's Noel English Trifle Coffee
Margie's Maraschino Chocolates

As you can plainly see the piece de resistance was the spiced beef. I have been tempted several times during the past six weeks to give you the method of spicing beef in the old English tradition, especially since the price of it is $1.00 per pound or more in some communities.

If you are going to go ahead and make this in January you must have a cool basement at your disposal for it has to be stored for 4 weeks, but the method is foolproof so do not hesitate to trust me.

SPICED BEEF

Wet-Cure Method: For a 5 or 6-lb. piece of beef rump bring to boiling 1 gallon water and add 6 tablespoons salt, ½ oz. each mustard seed, whole cloves, cayenne pods, stick cinnamon and mace, and 1 oz. ginger root. Boil 5 minutes, let cool to room temperature, add 1 cup white sugar, and ½ oz. saltpetre. Stir until last additions are dissolved. Pour over beef in crock to cover. If it does not cover meat add more cold water until it does; cover and let stand 4 weeks. Turn once every week; cover should not be tight—just dustproof. To cook simmer 4 hours in fresh water to cover. Cool in cooking water. To serve slice as thinly as possible and serve cold with Horeradish Cream.

Dry-Cure method: This may be used for sirloin tip or rump or lean brisket—quantities will be suficient from 12 to 25 lbs. Mix together 1½ oz. each saltpetre, ground black pepper, ground allspice, ½ oz. mixed nutmeg, mace and cloves—all ground, 12 oz. salt, 1½ cups brown sugar. Rub these mixed spices and salt and sugar into all surfaces of the meat, turning it every 3 days, and rubbing excess "cure" which falls down into crock into meat again. Do this for 3 weeks. Keep meat in cool place. Do not wash off spices before boiling as above.

The wet cure produces a more evenly spiced beef and is less trouble.

HORSERADISH CREAM

One-half cup cream, whipped, 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar or spirit vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 3 tablespoons grated horseradish or well-drained bottled horseradish. Whip cream and fold in remaining ingredients. Chill.

GRACIE'S STUFFED CELERY STICKS

Use your imagination when making these but roughly here are the proportions: 1 each 3-oz. package white cream cheese and pimiento cream cheese, same amount blue or Roquefort cheese. Mash all together until a smooth cream. Add garlic salt, celery salt and plain salt to taste. Stuff crisp, tender celery with this with a lavish hand. Then forget to pass it until after the main course is finished. Walk in with the forgotten dish piled high, and pass it as a separate course. It was one of the hits of the party for it was so icy cold and crisp.

Lil's going to send me her special Trifle recipe so watch for it later.

King George H & S Gets Advice From Dietitians' Panel

History was made for Peterborough at least, if not for a much wider territory, Tuesday night at King George Home and School Association's meeting. A panel of four graduate or qualified dietitians was conducted by Mrs. J. A. Nornabell in her capacity as Home Education convener. The subject under discussion was "The Dietitians Study Present Day Problems in Feeding Your Family."

Mrs. Nornabell was introduced to the audience by Mrs. Hugh Morrison, president, and she introduced her panel members. By way of dispelling myths and misunderstandings concerning a dietitian's training, Mrs. Nornabell outlined the heavy course which they must take before subjects dealing directly with food values, its preparation and care which they study, there is concentrated and intensive work on the sciences—botany, zoology, physiology, chemistry, physics, etc.—both in lectures and laboratory work. Only when a student has absorbed a sufficient amount of such basic subjects is she allowed to approach the vital and exacting study of Diets for Disease. Following graduation, the student has many fields into which she may go. Besides marrying and so putting her training to immediate practical use, she may go into the teaching profession, or she may go into hospital dietetics by taking a year's pupil work at a recognized hospital. Finally, she may go into one of the many commercial fields, as a dietitian in a large store's dining room, such as Eaton's or Simpson's in Toronto into the nutritional department of the Red Cross; into the Visiting Homemakers or the Women's Institute.

In introducing her panel of experts, Mrs. Nornabell pointed out how well the different fields of a dietitian's work were represented, thus giving the problems to be studied the advantage of all viewpoints. She first introduced Mrs. W. B. Gordon, BA, who represented the housewife and mother. Before her marriage Mrs. Gordon took her pupil work at Montreal General Hospital, then stayed on on their dietetic staff.

The second panel member was Mrs. Heber Rogers, MA. Mrs. Rogers lectured at the University of Toronto for four years. In 1938-39, for the Visiting Homemakers, she made a cost-of-living study which was later used by officials at Ottawa as a basis for their work. As National Director of Nutrition for the Canadian Red Cross, she headed a study on Toronto school children, providing one group with a hot noon day meal at school, allowing the other group to proceed as they were accustomed to do. For the Toronto committee on Dietary Study, she made a survey on How Low-Income Families Spend Their Food Money. At present she is giving the nurses at St. Joseph's Hospital their required 30 hours of nutrition lectures.

Miss Aileen Morgan, BH Sc. was the next panel member around the table. She had also taken her pupil dietetics at the Montreal General and had continued on there on their dietetics staff. At present she is head dietitian at Peterborough Civic Hospital. In this capacity she had planned the kitchens at the hospital and because of her efficiency and ability, Western Hospital in Toronto is now sending one pupil dietitian a month to study under her.

Mrs. Alex Sollitt, BH Sc. completed the panel. Mrs. Sollitt had gone into the big dining room at Eaton's in Montreal when she graduated and is at present teaching Household Science at Kenner Collegiate.

The meeting took the form of a Quiz Program with questions written out and handed in forming the basis for the discussion and a continuous flow of questions from the audience on each subject keeping it going. At 10.15 when a halt was called such questions had been dealt with as 'How can I give my five growing boys the right amount of milk daily without breaking my budget? How does skim milk and skim milk cheese compare in food value with whole milk and whole milk cheese? Is porridge realy as good for us as to make it worth all the effort? The value of peanut butter vs. jams, jellies, honey.

The advantages of canned baby food which led to a discussion of all canned and frozen foods vs. fresh; the merits and demerits of chocolate milk; the reason why oranges and other citrus fruits are so highly recommended and the most economical way to serve them; and many others.

Because time had slipped along so quickly, the discussions were cut off while many questions still were waiting to be handled.

The visiting dietitians and the Home Education Convener who had arranged the program were thanked by Mrs. Ross Greenley.

President Mrs. Morrison presided for the business and welcomed the visitors. Mrs. William Beggs read a poem titled "Thought for the New Year." Mrs. D. Worboy spoke briefly on the publications which were on display in the room.

Misses Marilyn and Gwen Pomeroy entertained with two piano duets "Witches' Flight" and "Dance of the Shadows."

Following the panel discussion, announcements were made, highlighted by the invitation to all to attend the square dance, bridge and euchre party being held at King George School on January 30th.

Lunch was served under convenership of Mrs. A. Ebbs and a social time was spent.

Priest Ordered To Report To Vatican

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—The Rev. Leonard J. Feeney, deprived of his priestly functions four years ago in a dispute over the Roman Catholic doctrine on salvation, said Wednesday he had been summoned to the Vatican but would not go.

He said the most recent summons, signed by Joseph Cardinal Pizzardo, secretary of the holy office at the Vatican, was dated Jan. 9, 1953 and instructed him to come to Rome "before 31st January, 1953 under pain of excommunication, incurred automatically, in case of failure to present yourself by that date."

The 55-year-old priest, once noted as a poet, author and lecturer, heads a group whose meeting place at St. Benedict's Centre here has been forbidden to Roman Catholics since 1949. Father Feeney himself was dismissed from the Jesuit Order for teaching that non-Catholics could not be saved.

FAR FROM TEACHING

The Supreme Sacred Congregation of the holy office, in a ruling up-holding the position of Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of Boston, said in July, 1949, that such an interpretation is "far from genuine Catholic teaching."

The Congregation explained that persons outside the Roman Catholic Church may be saved who, through ignorance, do not know the Church as "divinely established by Christ," yet have an "implicit desire" to be incorporated into it and posess "a good disposition of soul whereby a person wishes his will to be conformed to the will of God."

Father Feeney was ordered to stop teaching his interpretation of the doctrine in 1949, but did not obey.

Soldier Tried Second Time

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — Pte. Warren G. McConnell today went on trial for the second time on charges he fell asleep at his battlefield post in Korea 14 months ago.

The 21-year-old Allowav, N. J., soldier was sentenced to 10 years in prison by a U. S. Army court martial in Korea, but the decision was reversed last August by the military court of appeals.

McConnell pleaded he had been on duty continuously for 72 hours and was "sort of numb all over."

McConnell's second chance came largely through the efforts of his father, Dorsey McConnell a millwright and father of eight children.

The elder McConnell organized a citizens' committee, collected 50,000 signatures on a petition, raised funds and hired a lawyer to investigate the case.

Cobourg Theatre Lists Cost For Festival

COBOURG (ENS)—The cast of "Ten Little Indians," Cobourg's entry in the Eastern Drama Festival at Ottawa, left today for that city and tomorrow will present their three-act mystery play by Agatha Christie. The members of the cast, under the direction of Margery Pewtress, have been rehearsing steadily for the drama competition. Stage manager is Lenah Fisher; electrician, Gren Thompson.

The members of the cast are Leslie Marshall as Rogers; Catherine Bradbury as Mrs. Rogers; Reg Wenn as Fred Norracott; Marion Stewart as Vera Claythorne; Arthur Ravensdale as Phil Lombard; Lionel Vivian as Anthony Marston; Clifford Earle as William Blore; Ken Brown as General McKenzie; Lillian Richards as Emily Brent; Werner Stambach as Sir Lawrence Wargrave and Ken Warner as Dr. Armstrong.

Offering Bursary

Mrs. R. C. Bennett, Educational Secretary of the Provincial Chapter, IODE, of Ontario, announces that a Second War Memorial Bursary of $1,600 is offered for 1953 to an Ontario student planning to take a degree in a Canadian University.

To be eligible for this bursary, candidates must be the sons or daughters of deceased or permanently and seriously disabled men or women of the Armed Services—Navy, Army and Air Force of World War II.

Applications must be made not later than March 1st. Application forms may be obtained from Provincial Chapter IODE Headquarters, 168 Jackson St. W, Hamilton, Ontario.

GERMAN FOREIGN MINISTER IN PURGE

Alleged Spies Can't Pay $50,000 Bail

Pair From Austria Go To Jail Pending Their Trial

WASHINGTON (AP)— Two former United States Army intelligence servicemen landed in the United States early today, brought here from Austria as shackled prisoners accused of spying for Russia.

The government charged the pair, both Austrian-born, were members of an international espionage ring operating under the direction of Yuri V. Novikov, second secretary of the Soviet embassy here.

The involvement of Novikov was similar in some respects to the Canadian spy case of 1945 when a second secretary of the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, Vitali G. Pavlov, eventually was identified as head of the Russian secret police organization, NKVD, operating in Canada.

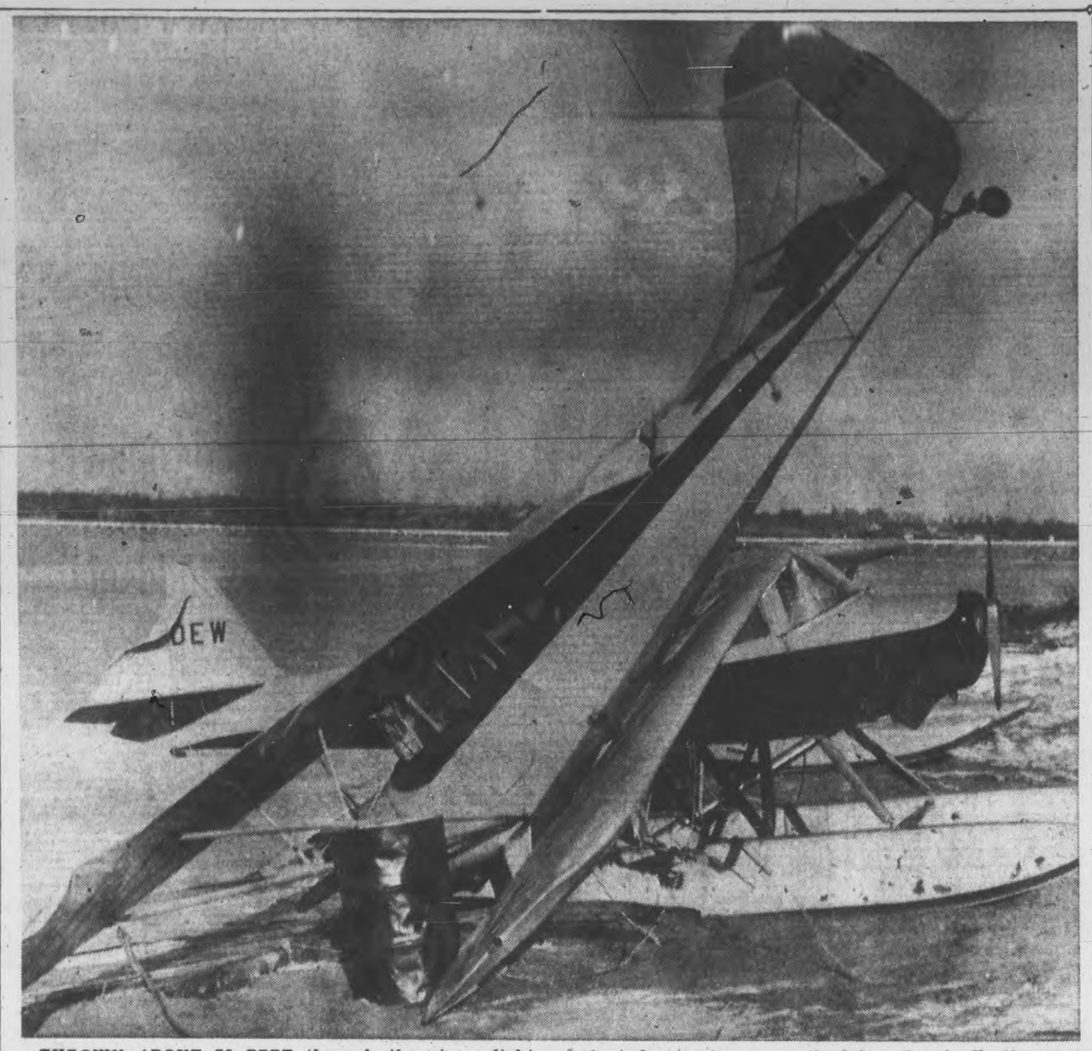
TAKEN BY F.B.I.

The men arrived at Washington airport in the pre-dawn hours today. Their formal arrest, culminating an investigation and surveillance of several years, was made when the FBI boarded the plane and took them from army custody.

Taken to the federal court building, they were arraigned on charges of violating the Espionage Act, with "Yuri V. Novikov as co-conspirator."

The United States, following diplomatic custom, did not include Novikov in the indictment, but in a note to the embassy requested his prompt departure from the U.S.

It was the first time an investigation of espionage in the U.S. had led directly to the Soviet embassy.



GO TO JAIL

U.S. commissioner C. S. Lawrence set bond at $50,000 each, and the prisoners went to jail because the money was not forthcoming.

The indictment, returned earlier this week and sealed until Verber and Ponger could be picked up, accused them of conspiring since mid-1949, in Washington, in Vienna and in Salzburg, with Novikov and others to deliver to Russia documents, maps, sketches and other information on the defence system of the United States.

In Vienna the Austrian-born wife of Walter Lauber arrested for questioning in connection with an alleged international Soviet spy ring was reported today to have disappeared in Vienna.

Reliable U. S. sources said Cecile Lauber, 36 - year - old naturalized American, was believed to have taken refuge in the Soviet sector of the city following the seizure for questioning of her student-husband by American agents.

THROWN ABOUT 75 FEET through the air, a light plane, owned by Rockland Airways, Chemong Lake, crashed down today upon another Airways plane, causing an estimated $2,500 damage. Moored to a ramp by four sturdy ropes, the plane was rocked during the night by a strong west wind, sweeping across the lake. Eventually the ropes snapped, the plane was lifted up, sailed 75 feet and crashed down on the other plane. This was the most serious accident caused by winds which lashed the Peterborough district early today.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Red Cleanup Spreads To Top Men

Expect Czech Trials To Be Repeated In East Germany

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's spreading purge of Communist officials and their collaborators today engulfed the Red regime's figurehead foreign minister, Georg Dertinger. The East Berlin press announced his arrest on charges of high treason as a Western spy.

Soon after the announcement, the West German radio reported that Max Keilson, chief of the Soviet department of Dertinger's ministry, and Keilson's wife had been arrested.

Deringer was a founder member of the Soviet zone's Christian Democratic Union, one of the four "non-Communist" parties collaborating in the East regime with the ruling Red Socialist Unity party. Western observers long had considered him to be on shaky ground. Once a spare, slightly-built man, the 51-year-old Dertinger became pudgy in office.

Keilson is a member of the Socialist Unity party. He served as editor of Vorwaerts, the party's first post-war newspaper, before joining the foreign ministry as press chief. Later he was made director of the bureau dealing with Soviet Union affairs.

MOST PROMINENT

Dertinger is the most prominent of the East zone clique to fall since the German Communists and parties allied with them were hit by a purge launched by the conviction in Czechoslovakia of Rudolf Slansky and 13 other once-powerful Reds.

A West German Christian Democrat commented:

"This means the gallows for Dertinger. He is likely to be the Vladimir Clementis (Czech foreign minister executed last November) of an East German state trial. They have yet to find their Rudolf Slansky (Czech Communist party general secretary also executed), though this will not take them long."

Although the Czech trial had strong anti-Semitic tones—many of the convicted were Jews—it was noted that Dertinger was not a Jew but a Roman Catholic.

A high West German Christian Democratic spokesman said of Dertinger's arrest: "That's what you get when you sell your soul to the devil and collaborate with the Bolshevists."

Says Government Using RCMP As Political Police

OTTAWA (CP)—The latest in a series of parliamentary accusations thrown at the government over the Currie report is that it is using the RCMP as political police. John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) made that charge Thursday in joining the CCF in criticizing the government for bringing the Mounties in to try to track down the person who gave Mr. Coldwell, CCF leader, an advance copy of the report. He rejected Liberal suggestions that the inquiry is in the national interest and argued:

"The only security the government could possibly find in danger was its own reputation and its own security.

"Parliament dare not allow its national police force to be used in any way that may be considered a political one or have a political purpose in mind. That is the most serious situation in connection with this matter."

The big debate continues today.

STOLEN GOODS

The Saskatchewan member spoke after Prime Minister St. Laurent branded the CCF copy "stolen goods" and said he thinks he will be able very soon to identify the person who stole it, presumably as a result of the RCMP inquiry.

Later Justice Minister Garson replied to a charge by Mr. Diefenbaker that the government had no right to use the RCMP in this way unless a charge or information had been laid first. The minister said the government has as much right as a private citizen to use detectives to make such an investigation.

He said the practice was not unusual: Usually the RCMP made an investigation and, if warranted, an information and complaint was laid.

To Mr. Diefenbaker's accusation was added one by Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) who contended that the policy inquiry is "a red herring" to draw public attention away from government embarrassment over "being caught in the act" of "improperly pressuring" the George S. Currie accounting firm into handing another advance copy of the report to the defence department to be vetoed before being tabled in Parliament.

DIFFERENCES CAUSE TROUBL

(It was differences in the two copies—the one the CCF got and the one later tabled in the House—which first led to disclosure that the final report was checked by

Suggest Drinks With Meals For B.C. Hotels

VICTORIA (CP)—Cocktail lounges, drinks with meals and pubs with pickles and pretzels were recommended today for British Columbia by a three-man liquor inquiry commission.

The commission proposed complete scrapping of the province's present liquor distribution system, cancellation of all current licences, a variety of new drinking outlets and a government-directed audit and investigation of B. C. breweries.

The Social Credit government has said it will introduce legislation at the house session opening Feb. 3 based on the commission report. However, the report is not binding on the government.

The commission was appointed last fall after British Columbians in a plebiscite approved sale of liquor by the glass by a 3-to-2 majority.

PRESENT SYSTEM

Under the present system, beer only is sold in hotel beer parlors. Liquor can be purchased at government liquor stores or by the glass in a few private clubs.

B. C. newspapers have already forecast that the commission's main recommendations will have been implemented by July 1.

The commission report criticized the present provincial liquor control board for what it said was the board's laxity in enforcing liquor laws and it fashioned a new set of sharp teeth for enforcement of any new liquor act.

Hotel beer parlors would be done away with. Beer would be sold in "public-houses" similar to those in Britain and not necessarily connected with hotels. The commission stressed that the working man needed a place where he could have a quiet beer, and sandwiches, pickles, peanuts, pretzels, potato chips and light music if he wanted them, too.

First-class hotels and restaurants could sell liquor and wine by the glass with meals. Hotels and resorts, but not auto courts, could have cocktail lounges and beer parlors, in separate quarters. That is, if you had had a cocktail and wanted some beer you would have to walk into a different room. Class B hotels could have beer parlors but no cocktail lounges.

Liquor by the glass, wine and beer could also be sold in clubs where the annual membership fee would be at least $10, cabarets and night clubs, trains, boats and planes.

Commonwealth Title Asked For Edinburgh

LONDON (CP) — The Duke of Edinburgh may shortly be named Prince of the Commonwealth, it was suggested today.

The News Chronicle said in a front-page story that some such change is expected soon, in view of the Coronation in June.

W. L. Andres, veteran editor of the Yorkshire Post, suggested the title "Prince of the Commonwealth" in a column two months ago.

Queen Victoria's husband, Albert, was given the title Prince Consort 17 years after their marriage. In the case of the Duke of Edinburgh some writers forecast a title more in keeping with the new concept of the Commonwealth.

MORE PARTICIPATION

On the subject of the Coronation generally, a Daily Telegraph columnist put in a renewed bid today for increased Commonwealth participation in some of the rites of the world's oldest state ceremonial. The writer, Kenneth Rose, said it is still not too late to signify to a doubting world "that the British Empire is no fossilized footnote to a page of ancient history."

Some months ago a British periodical called the Round Table published an article urging that Commonwealth countries take an active part in some of the Westminster Abbey ceremonies. Since then official sources have stressed the difficulties of such a course. It is believed in unofficial quarters here that Canada is among the countries least attracted by the idea of taking a more vivid role.

2 Planes Wrecked By Winds

Two light planes moored on the ice at Bridgenorth suffered extensive damage early today when a west wind of gale force caught up one and tossed it 75 feet on top of the other. The wind was strong enough to break mooring ropes which would have held the craft under fairly severe winds. Otherwise, damage in the city and district was light. Hydro and Bell Telephone officials reported only minor repairs necessary after the big blow. An Aeronica Chief was moored to a ramp near the Rockland Airways office on the east shore of Chemong Lake. During the night the west wind apparently rocked the plane, finally snapping its moorings. The wind then lifted the light plane about 75 feet, on top of another light plane, a Taylorcraft, and then down, snapping the Taylorcraft's wing and causing other damage to the fusilage.

Both planes were damaged extensively, particularly to the wings and tail assemblies. Tom Mathias of Rockland Airways estimated the total damage at $2,500, at the same time explaining the new parts would not be readily available.

HELD BY ROPES

Mr. Mathias said the Chief was moored to a ramp on the land about 75 feet north of the Taylorcraft. Four ropes held the plane; all went through the ice covering the ramp to the bottom. When the plane was rocked by the wind, the ropes eventually snapped, the tail ropes lasting slightly longer.

Two other planes along the shoreline were not damaged. A Tiger Moth, owned by Clare Tel-

Cold Wave Severe Shock To Residents Of Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prankish weather continued to keep Canadians guessing today. On the Prairies, a welcome relief from severe cold is expected, but in Eastern Canada the picture changed overnight from record highs to wintry gales. The most heartening weather news comes from Bowness, a town of 3,200 a few miles west of Calgary, where residents have been preparing for a major flood from the ice-choked Bow river.

A mild spell Thursday speeded up the flow of water and it is believed the danger spot has moved upstream from the town. But a round-the-clock vigil is continuing until the threat is definitely over. About 30 homes have been evacuated as a precautionary measure.

People in the Toronto area, lulled into comfortable security by record temperatures Thursday which hit 52 degrees, were rudely shocked today. They awoke to find the thermometer in the low 20s, accompanied by sweeping northwest winds. A low of five degrees is expected late today.

At Sudbury and North Bay the mercury nose-dived more than 40 degrees in eight hours. The populace retired Thursday night in Sudbury with rain pelting on the

Say Stolen Car Run Over Cliff

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Police today announced the arrest of 17-year-old Jim Corbett of Stayner, Ont., who they say deliberately ran a stolen car over a 60-foot cliff at nearby Elmvale.

The sunken car was discovered in Lake Ontario by a youth who saw the vehicle's lights shining under water. The car, dragged from the lake by firemen and a hydro crew, was reported stolen earlier from Tom Murphy of London, Ont.

Find Skeletons Buried In Park

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two children's skeletons with shreds of clothing still clinging to them were found Thursday in Vancouver's Stanley Park. A small, rusty ax lay nearby.

The grisly discovery by forester Albert Tong launched police on a strange "babes in the wood" case.

Police said they suspected murder but that reports of missing persons on file apparently could not be related to the skeletons. A hole was found in one skull.

The bones, of a boy and a girl both under eight years old, were found in a shallow grave about 100 yards from the main park drive. That area is heavily wooded. A tattered raincoat covered part of the skeletons and near them, besides the ax, was found a child's lunch bucket, two pairs of small shoes and a man's shoe.

Police said the children apparently died about three years ago.

Stuck to the skeletons by leaf mould were scraps of a cap and bonnet, a sweater and a jacket. Roots of trees had grown over the bones.

Arrest Seven People After Ferry Disaster

PUSAN, South Korea (Reuters)—The public prosecutor's office today announced that seven persons have been arrested following the ferry boat disaster in which almost 250 passengers lost their lives last Friday.

Lee Won Ook, chief vessel inspector of the Korean maritime bureau, was arrested on a charge of "neglect of duties."

Asks If Passports To Be Picked Up

OTTAWA (CP)—G. K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough West) asked in the Commons Thursday if the government plans to pick up the passports of those Canadians who have been attending so-called "peace" meetings behind the Iron Curtain.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said it was a matter of policy on which he could not give a direct reply at the moment. But he added that it was policy to regard a passport merely as a certificate of identity; that policy had not changed and he was not aware that it would be changed.

Asian Socialists Hold Conference

RANGOON, Burma (Reuters)—Asian Socialists ended a 10-day conference Thursday with a condemnation of communism, capitalism and colonialism.

The conference was the biggest ever held by Asian Socialists. Official delegations attended from such major Asiatic countries as India, Japan and Pakistan. Others came from the Middle East while fraternal delegates arrived from Britain, Yugoslavia and other European countries.

At the final session, the delegates adopted important policy statements. The key idea was that democratic socialism must avoid totalitarian forms of government and mass coercion.

Communism as practised in the Soviet empire was rejected as degrading.

Outnumbered UN Jets Down Enemy Plane

SEOUL (AP) — U.S. Sabre jets —outnumbered 4 to 1 — shot down one Communist MiG and damaged another today while Allied fighter-bombers continued blasting Red supply arteries.

The Fifth Air Force reported six Sabres took on 24 MiGs in dogfights over northwest Korea.

On the battle front, the temperature dropped to nine below zero on the central front Thursday night —second coldest reading of the winter.

Republic of Korea raiders again forded the icy Nam river in swift hit-and-run attacks against entrenched Communists on the far eastern front.

2 Mail Deliveries Soon Reinstated

OTTAWA (CP)—Postmaster General Cote indicated Thursday in the Commons that two-a-day deliveries may soon be reinstated in Canadian cities.

The government cut postal deliveries to one a day as an economy measure last year.

Canada Needs Peace, Trade

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian relations with the rest of the world hang upon the hinges of peace and trade, Prime Minister St. Laurent said today.

The two must be maintained if Canadians are to be happy and prosperous, he said in an address prepared for delivery to a Canadian club luncheon.

"If the hinge of peace were to break down," he said, "Canadians would be involved in the horrors of atomic war. If the hinge of trade were to become rusted, Canadians would suffer a drastic decline in their standard of living."

"The main concern of our government in the conduct of our external relations," he said, "must be for the preservation of world peace and the expansion of international trade."

If Canada's external trade were to stop, life in this country could be maintained only on a primitive basis.

Sees Family Go Back To Reds

HALIFAX (CP) — A Yugoslav immigrant stood on the dock as the Italian liner Saturnia left here Thursday, having failed to prevent his wife from taking their seven-year-old daughter home to Communist Yugoslavia.

Boris Strmac, who says he was held by the Reds for six months in a "bloody hole without lights," flew from Toronto after a court had refused to grant an order restraining his wife from leaving Canada until a pending divorce action is completed.

He said he sought the court order Monday after his wife and child disappeared. He said his wife screamed repeatedly "I'm going home," when he boarded the Saturnia, en route to New York and Genoa.

Finally, Strmac told reporters, the captain ordered him off the vessel.

Strmac said he did not want to see his daughter return to a land where he had been imprisoned for 17 months for "anti-Communist sympathies."

3 Bandits Loot Bank Of $40,000

TRENTON, N. J. (AP) — Three bandits held 10 bank patrons at pistol point today while they scooped up about $40,000 from tellers' cages at the Broad street National Bank.

Police said the bandits walked into the Bank's Hamilton branch shortly after an armored car delivered money to meet payrolls of nearby industrial plants. They picked up the cash from three tellers' cages in five minutes and fled in a car parked nearby. No shots were fired.

Rocket Carries Instrument 50 Miles Above Earth

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — A rocket has carried an instrument 50 miles above the earth for the first pictures of the sun's spectrum in extreme ultra - violet wavelengths.

The rocket was fired last month at Holloman research and development centre, New Mexico. Results of the tests were announced today by W. B. Pientenpol, head of the University of Colorado's physics department and supervisor of the upper atmosphere research program.

Pietenpol reported that university physicists have worked three years to perfect what he said is a sun-seeking device, or pointing control for high-altitude rockets. The electronic-mechanical device is designed to hold an instrument pointed at the sun while a rocket rolls and yaws in flight.

It also has to be rugged enough to withstand the forces of high acceleration and to operate so that film can be exposed. The scientist said the instrument mounted in the rocket fired last month pointed directly at the sun for a considerable period and obtained a 28-second exposure of the spectrum.

Dr. Pietenpol said powerful ultra-violet radiation emitted by the hydrogen in the sun's atmosphere was photographed for the first time.

Dr. Pietenpol explained that solar radiation is the cause of ionospheric layers in the upper atmosphere. The ionosphere rises from the absorption of ultra-violet radiation from the sun, and the absorption has great meteorological significance.

Canadian Destroyer Haida Joins Train Busters Club

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian destroyer Haida is the latest member of the train busters' club in Korea.

The tribal class destroyer, famous for her work off the French coast during the Second World War, bagged a train in the early hours of last Dec. 19 on her second Korean patrol after less than a month in the war theatre.

The train-busting came on the second-last night of her patrol on Korea's east coast, just before she returned to Japan to spend Christmas in harbor, a delayed story to Ottawa said.

The night before, the Haida blasted at a Communist train as it sped across an open cut between tunnels on the steep, rocky coast. With less than two minutes for the train to cross the opening, there wasn't much opportunity for exact ranging of the ship's guns and the crew was able to claim only possible hits on freight cars.

The next night at midnight, the Haida moved close to shore to watch the open cut between tunnels. After three hours, a train came into sight without warning. Every gun that could reach the tracks was brought into action.

The train was stopped cold in the open. The barrage was continued for nearly an hour, with short pauses to check results.

When the ship broke off the action, 10 smashed freight cars were in sight and the rail line was cut. The locomotive apparently escaped into the tunnel.

As the ship headed back to Japan a United States task force commander sent the message:

"Welcome to the train smashers' club. Good work."

Mother Of Four Faces 14 Fraud Charges

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Ruth O'Marra, 32, mother of four children, will face at least 14 fraud charges involving $1,000, police said today. Most of the charges involve merchandise obtained from downtown department stores.

Police said they believe the woman sold the goods to buy food for her family. Her husband is unemployed.

Dulles Plan Expected To Hit Snag

Would Introduce New Strategy For Propaganda

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Foster Dulles seems certain to encounter an argument within the state department over his plan to try to loosen Russia's hold over its satellites by new political and propaganda strategy.

The secretary of state-designate for the Eisenhower administration told the Senate foreign relations committee Thursday he is convinced that a policy of expressing U. S. concern for peaceful liberation of the Iron Curtain lands can and must be adopted.

After hearing Dulles on this and other foreign policy views for two hours, the committee unanimously voted to recommend Senate confirmation of Dulles after the inauguration next Tuesday

MUST CHANGE POLICY

Dulles said "no permanent reconciliation" with Russia is possible as long as the Kremlin seeks to extend its power over the free world. He thought that "limited agreements of a working character" may be possible.

"A policy which only contains Russia is bound to fail," Dulles said, referring to the basic containment theory of the outgoing Truman administration.

It is on the point of what may be done short of risking new danger or trouble with Allied countries that the incoming secretary seems destined to run into argument and objection in the state department.

Present policy advisers, including career diplomats who will carry over into the new regime, have developed their thinking around the idea of preventing new expansion of Russian power rather than rolling it back. They have long contended that propaganda which focuses hopes on freedom in the satellites runs a serious risk of setting off futile uprisings.

NOT PREPARED

They have also argued that the U. S. and its allies are not prepared to back up such appeals with force, if that should become necessary. Concern has been expressed, too, that Western European countries would oppose any political and psychological offensive which they thought might threaten to set off a world war.

Thus it appears that Dulles will either have to overcome contrary arguments of various holdover advisers, or replace them with men who share his conviction that a cold war offensive is both practical and a reasonable risk.

A liberation policy "does not mean a war of liberation," Dulles told the committee. "Those who say it can't be done by moral pressures and the weight of propaganda don't know what they're talking about."

CHICAGO (AP) — Grains showed only small price changes at the opening today. Dealings were quiet.

Low temperatures were reported from many sections of Iowa this morning, but it appeared the cold wave had been discounted by feed grains in Thursday's advance.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices of coarse grain futures held to a narrow range in inactive trade during the early part of today's session on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

The best commercial demand appeared in oats which drew domestic interest. There also were modest domestic purchases in barley, but flax and rye trade was dull and local.

Prices Still Drop On Toronto Market

TORONTO (CP)—Prices continued to slip in early afternoon stock market trading but activity continued brisk.

Industrials lost almost two points on the exchange's index after a weak day and base metals slipped slowly to lose more than half an index point. Western oils turned downard from a firm morning and golds also showed a small loss.

Senior golds weakened and juniors also slipped, led by a three-cent loss in active trading in Donalda. Prospects lost support although Cons. Howey gained pennies. Holding companies were mixed.

Among the active penny stocks, Bobjo traded most heavily, moving 208,000 shares to gain 2¼ cents. Ankeno, Callinan, Quebec Copper, Rix, Chimo, Citra Lartic, Heva, Homer and Kelore lost small amounts in active to heavy trading. Gunnar lost 15 cents.

Higher-priced base metals led the decline. Steep Rock resisted the trend to add 50 cents in active trading.

Western oils showed a majority of small losses led by Fargo and Pacific, although Stanwell added pennies in heavy trading.

Hold Funeral Not Wedding After Shooting

WELLAND (CP)—At 4 p.m. Thursday, the hour set for the wedding of 24-year-old Kay Zarafontis, daughter of a restaurant owner here, a Greek Orthodox and an Anglican priest began reciting funeral prayers for the attractive bride-to-be.

She ended her life shortly after 7 a.m. with a revolver shot in the head, fired as she lay in bed. Her family was not able to account for the tragedy.

"She was gay at a family party last night and just full of life," said the fiance, John Conits of Greenville, S.C.

200 INVITED GUESTS

An elaborate wedding celebration had been planned and some of the 200 invited guests began arriving from outside points Wednesday.

Some members of the Greek community in Peterborough received invitations.

The scheduled wedding reception last night was turned into a wake with a fish menu substituted for the original fare.

It is understood the family decided on the funeral for Thursday afternoon because of the large number of friends who had come to Welland from outside centres for the wedding.

Whipped Child, Father Charged

STRATFORD (CP)—A father was brought to court Thursday for whipping his young daughter because she disobeyed him.

Arthur Kendall of Monkton was accused of striking the girl, Margaret, aged 10 or 11, with a tree branch after the girl, who had been told not to call at a neighbor's house while running an errand, went to the house.

Police said Kendall beat the child about the back and shoulders. The original report was that he used a whip but police later reported it was a branch.

Kendall was remanded without plea to Jan. 22 on bail of $500 cash or $1,000 property.

ANOTHER LINK

The spokesman, Dr. Gerhard Schroeder, parliamentary leader of the West German Christian Democrats, regarded the arrest "as another link in the long chain of eruptions which communism, like nazism, requires in order to find scapegoats for state trials."

The Soviet-zone Christian Democrats have no connection with the Christian Democratic party in West Germany, which is headed by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Officials in Bonn, the West German capital, were reported shocked at the arrest. To them Dertinger was a German and his arrest brings the real face of communism much closer. They predicted that the east-zone purge would expand and probably reach even higher levels.

Even the West German Communist party leaders were reported frightened because most of them also are regarded as "tainted" in the Kremlin's eyes—they went into Western exile during the Hitler era and the Second World War instead of going to Moscow.

PUBLISHED IN PAPER

The announcement of Dertinger's arrest was published in the Red Army newspaper Taegliche Rundschau, the Communist Neues Deutschland and Dertinger's own party paper, Neue Zeit.

The terse announcement said he was arrested Thursday.

"The arrest is based on his enemy activity against the German democratic republic which he carried out in behalf of an imperialist espionage ring," the announcement added.

Dertinger's duties as foreign minister under the Soviet occupation were largely meaningless. They consisted primarily of acting as a front in the signing of treaties and agreements and greeting highly-placed visitors who arrived in East Germany with Soviet blessing.

The real boss of the ministry has been Anton Ackermann, Moscow-trained Communist, who held down the key job of state secretary.

FLED TO WEST

At least two of Dertinger's top aides in the foreign ministry have fled to the West in recent months. They were Frau Hanna Hermann, in charge of special reports on German topics, and Gerald Rummler, Dertinger's press officer.

Soviet-zone officials previously have acknowledged the arrest of Karl Hamann, former minister of supply; Paul Merker, a former Politburo member, and Kurt Mueller, a Communist deputy in the West German Parliament who was grabbed when he came to the east on a visit.

Dertinger was named foreign minister when the East German government was formed by Soviet decree in October, 1949.

At least twice since then, West Berlin sources have reported the former reporter out of favor with the Communists. Each time, however, he was able to regain his place.

Say Government

the department before it was formally delivered. Both describe "a general breakdown" in control of the army works services.)

Mr. St. Laurent waded into the fray to reply to charges by Mr. Knowles and hotly denied that army chief Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds is "pushing the government around," that Defence Minister Claxton tried to "pressure" Mr. Coldwell into disclosing how he got hold of the advance copy, that Mr. Claxton "pressured" Mr. Currie into letting the defence department have an advance look at his report and that Gen. Simonds told civilian employees of the defence department not to talk about the report.

The peak was reached, however, when the prime minister said: "No one is entitled, because of his privileges as a member of Parliament, to have in his possession a thing that has been stolen and that he knows was stolen."

SLUR ON COLDWELL

This reference brought both Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Knowles to their feet to protest what they interpreted as a slur on Mr. Coldwell, absent through illness.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he had heard no statement to match it in 13 years in the Commons and called this "a sorry day for Parliament."

Mr. St. Laurent explained that "I did not intend to say" that Mr. Coldwell knew the advance copy that came to him was stolen. "I intended to suggest that circumstances were such that he might very well have known."

The debate is taking place on a government motion to establish a defence-expenditures committee of the Commons with the Currie report as its first item of business. The CCF Thursday proposed that this be amended to open the way for Mr. Currie to make a far-wider inquiry into the defence effort than the one into a single branch of the army.

Both the Liberal and Social Credit groups said they will vote against the amendment. Ray Thomas (SC — Wetaskiwin) said confidence in Mr. Currie has slipped among all political parties and that his group wants a royal commission inquiry.

Mr. Knowles rebuffed denials by by Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Claxton that Mr. Claxton "threatened" Mr. Coldwell with use of the RCMP unless the CCF leader told where he got an advance copy. His interpretation of a letter from Mr. Claxton to Mr. Coldwell could only lead to that conclusion, he said. The two ministers said there was no threat either directly or indirectly.

Mr. Knowles contrasted Mr. Claxton's statement that he himself took the initiative in seeking an advance look at the Currie report with Mr. St. Laurent's pre-Christmas statement that he was "surprised" that Mr. Currie would want that done.

HIGH PRESSURE

The Winnipeg member said tabled correspondence makes plain that Mr. Currie didn't want to let the department check an advance copy but that he was pressured into it. He asked what the prime minister intends to do to Mr. Claxton and whether he proposes to apologize to Mr. Currie.

He reiterated charges that Gen. Simonds is pushing the government around in having memos on the report tabled in the House and in retorting to parliamentary criticisms.

Mr. Knowles said Gen. Simonds told both military and civilian employees of the army not to talk about the report. Mr. St. Laurent said the instruction applied only to servicemen but refused to see a slip of paper Mr. Knowles offered in evidence.

The slip of paper, as later shown outside the House to reporters, contained the term "last daily orders" and the date Dec. 12 and added:

"The Currie report.

"The CGS requests that no discussion be entered into by employees of the department of national defence on the M-N report."

In military terms M-N means marginally noted, in this case presumably the Currie report.

Mr. St. Laurent, in his speech, defended Gen. Simonds' right and responsibility to speak out when the integrity and competence of the army was put under a shadow.

Of the CCF copy, the prime minister said the only possible conclusion about it was that "someone improperly took it" to Mr. Coldwell. "The whole situation has all the earmarks of the copy having been taken away in a manner which is called theft."

WHY NOT DREW?

He suggested that the man who did so may have had political motives because if he was interested in the national welfare, he presumably would have taken it to the leader of the Opposition, George Drew.

If this were so, "I would deprecate it greatly if our policies sank to the level where . . . we had agents to steal confidential documents or had to have agents to tap telephone wires."

Mr. Knowles hotly objected to any suggestion that the CCF did any such thing.

The prime minister said with reference to the advance copy which went to the defence department that he was "surprised" that there had been any prior discussion about the terms of the report. But he didn't consider it strange that Mr. Claxton "should have hoped this report would be as free from factual mistakes as possible" which was the reason he had had the department check the accuracy of its facts.

WANT ASSURANCE

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Canadian people want assurance that extravagance and waste will be purged from the defence effort. Instead the government proposed to send the report to a committee which, with its big Liberal majority, would simply "varnish" it. This was like reviewing the findings of a judge to make them more palatable.

A few months ago the government had lauded George Currie, a former deputy defence minister, as "a man of all the perfections." Now it proposed to have a Liberal-dominated committee dissuade "the people from believing in the integrity of Mr. Currie."

He was "amazed" that members of the forces had been "frightened" into not talking about the Currie report. "They are afaid to tell any member of Parliament anything because if they do they place themselves in jeopardy."

As for the RCMP inquiry, he said: "What annoys the government is not that it (the CCF copy) was actually found but that Parliament learned for the first time that the report brought before Parliament had received the deluxe treatment in order to remove any darkness there may have been against the government."

Jews Fleeing East Germany

BERLIN (AP)—Ten leading members of the Jewish community in Communist-ruled East Germany fled to West Berlin Thursday with their families to escape possible arrest in a Kremlin-ordered purge. Among them was Julius Meyer, titular head of the 2,800 Jews still living in the Soviet sector of Berlin and in the Russian zone. Meyer was a deputy in the East Germany Parliament and a member of the ruling Socialist Unity Communist party. The flight was announced by Heinz Galinski, head of the Jewish community in West Berlin, who said more East Zone Jews are expected to flee to Western safety in the next few weeks.

It followed a statement Wednesday by Berlin Rabbi N. Peter Levinson that it was growing clear that communism is threatening mass action against Jews. The Communist attacks on "Zionism" are aimed at all Jews, not merely at the state of Israel, he told a West Berlin press conference.

MANY LEADERS

The group of refugees which arrived here Thursday included the heads of Jewish communities in the Russian-zone cities of Lipzig, Dresden and Erfurt. Most of them are Communist party members, Galinski said.

He told correspondents they fled after being questioned by Communist state security police about connections to the West. With the 10 came 15 family members.

All Jewish leaders, except for the community chairmen of Halle and Magdeburg, now have left the Russian zone, Galinski said.

rooftops and this morning it was one degree below.

Power and telephone lines in many sections of eastern Ontario were knocked out by the winds. In St. Catharines television aerials were ripped from their rooftop moorings. In Toronto a large plate glass window in a downtown office building was smashed.

The weatherman said the Prairies can expect some relief from the severe cold wave. Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Regina and Edmonton will have higher temperatures in the next couple of days. "But it won't be exactly tropical," the forecaster added.

HAVE COLD WAVE

Northwestern Ontario is in the grip of a cold spell, and it will be 24 hours before a mass of warmer air moves in from the West.

The Lakehead had its worst snow storm of the winter Thursday and eastbound traffic on the Canadian Pacific Railway was delayed six hours.

In British Columbia, Vancouver is enjoying mid-40 temperatures, but in the interior the mercury is hovering around the zero level. Eighteen inches of snow in the Fraser canyon delayed train departures from Vancouver for five hours.

Quebec and the Maritimes are enjoying mild weather, with temperatures ranging from 25 to 40 degrees.

Chevrier Denies "Commitments"

OTTAWA — (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier said today the Canadian government has made no "commitments" on starting the St. Lawrence seaway.

The minister was commenting on a story in the Syracuse, N. Y., post-standard, quoting an unidentified Canadian member of Parliament as saying the government is committed to "make a substantial start on construction" of the seaway before Oct. 1.

Mr. Chevrier, in charge of the Canadian phase of the project, said Canada wants to get it started as quickly as possible but has no commitments.

He suggested the "commitment" idea might be a misinterpretation of Parliament's decision more than a year ago to set up a "St. Lawrence seaway authority with power to spend up to $300,000,000 on the navigation part of the seaway-power plan.

"That was an authorization, not a commitment," he said. "There are no commitments."

Bus Bangs Cars Of Funeral Three Damaged

LINDSAY (ENS)—A Havelock bus driver, Ken West, will probably be charged under the Highways Traffic Act according to Chief Constable John Hunter of the Lindsay police, following yesterday's bus-three-car collision on Lindsay St. south.

According to the chief who investigated the accident, the bus had been following a funeral for Angus Ferguson, victim of the Quaker Oats explosion, from Peterborough for almost two hours.

When the line of cars was crossing the CNR tracks just inside the town limits, the flagman at the crossing waved the last part of the cortege down for a train to pass. The cars in front of the bus stopped, according to the chief but the driver of the coach was unable to bring his vehicle to a halt in time.

He struck the car in front of him, driven by Roy Martin of Waterloo and started a three-car chain reaction. The Martin car struck the car immediately ahead of it, in turn, and that vehicle also struck the one in line ahead of it.

When the damage was totalled, the bus, and the third car driven by Angus Ferguson of RR 2, Cameron, were the least damaged, the latter having been dented only in the rear to the extent of $25.

The car struck by the bus was damaged about $700 and the second car which was also struck and damaged front and rear was damaged about $125.

Chief Hunter said this morning that the driver had apparently taken his eyes from the road for an instant when a passenger asked to leave the bus and had failed to notice that the car in front of him had stopped. The funeral procession continued on its way.

It was taking Angus Ferguson, fatally injured in the blast this week at the Peterborough plant of the Quaker Oats Company to Argyle for burial.

TRANSFORMER BLEW

One transformer blew out in Chemong Park and repairs to it were expected to be finished shortly after noon. The flagpole at Armstrong Lumber Co. felled a wire on Highway 28, and wires were down in one place at Keene.

Howard Powell, assistant manager of the utilities commission, said there was no damage to city wires by the wind. He felt, as other hydro and phone officials did, that the city and district were lucky to escape so lightly.

One set of telephone wires, serving the rural areas to Buckhorn and beyond, was brought down by a tree flattened by the gale. It was repaired by 10 a.m., Bell Telephone officials said.

Television aerials in the city were bent by the wind, it was reported. Two suffered enough damage that they had to be taken down this morning. A third was badly bent. All were on Romaine St.

Noted Engineer J. T. Thwaites Dies Suddenly

HAMILTON (CP) — Joseph T. Thwaites, 51, manager of electronics research and development of the Canadian Westinghouse Company Limited, died early today following a heart attack while en route from Montreal to Hamilton.

He was recognized as one of Canada's foremost electronic engineers, noted for his work in radar, radio communications and industrial electronics. His work was widely acknowledged both here and in Europe.

His wartime service was recognized by the United States government when he was presented with three certificates of appreciation.

While the full story behind these awards has not yet been fully told, it has been disclosed that the work on which Mr. Thwaites was employed was of the greatest significance. The success of his efforts, and those of his co-workers was credited as responsible for the Allied success against enemy radar and German V2 rockets.

BORN IN ENGLAND

Born in England, he came to Canada in 1905.

He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Queen's University in 1925, following which he took a two - year post - graduate course in electronics.

Prior to university, Mr. Thwaites had been employed by Canadian Westinghouse and resumed his career with this company in 1929.

He worked in various engineering capacities and between 1940 and 1943 he was instrumental in increasing the Canadian production of aluminum beyond all expectations during the Second World War.

He is survived by his widow and three children.

Lindsay Firemen Busy, Three Calls In 2 Hours

LINDSAY (ENS)—Lindsay firemen spent a busy morning early today answering three calls within two hours, two of them chimney fires, probably brought on by colder weather. The first call sent the engine to 41 St. Patrick St. at 6.45 a.m. where they extinguished a chimney fire, without any damage to the home occupied by Terry Goozzelle.

An hour later, a call came from 31 Adelaide St. North, where another chimney fire was put out. Then, one hour later, a more serious fire occurred at the sash and door factory of L. T. Braunton, Glenelg St. An electric motor was damaged to the extent of about $100 and the building about $25 before the blaze was put out.

Freight Rate Revision Called Unsound

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway's plan for a drastic revision of Canada's freight rate system was described Thursday as unsound and unacceptable by a United States economist.

The CPR proposal—which would involve higher freight rates—was attacked before the board of transport commissioners by Dr. J. C. Bonbright, professor of finance at Columbia University, a main witness for the eight provincial governments fighting the CPR idea.

Dr. Bonbright said the railway proposal is "not acceptable from the standpoint of sound principles of rate control."

The company's application to the board is that rail rates in Canada should be based on the theory that the CPR should have a stated rate of yield—it suggests 6½ per cent—on the rail investment of the Canadian Pacific. Freight charges now are set by the yard in relation to the current financial requirements of the "yardstick" CPR.

30% INCREASE

A boost to the 6½-per-cent rate of return asked by the CPR on rail investment might result in a 30-per-cent general increase in freight rates, assuming the company took advantage of a board ruling to get this yield.

United States experts testifying for the company have said that is necessary. Dr. Bonbright sharply clashed with their testimony.

Dr. Bonbright also took a dig at the fact that the larger and government-owned Canadian National Railways has not actively supported the position of the CPR in the rate-case application. He said the attitude of the CNR in the case is a "major question."

Counsel for the provincial governments opposing the rate base application—all except Ontario and Quebec—have been trying for some time to get the CNR to say if it favors or opposes the application. The government line has been sitting in on the case but has declined to say whether it favors or opposes the CPR case. It has said it will take any new revenue that comes out of rate boosts arising from the application.

George Declares He's 'In Clear'

OTTAWA (CP) — Lt.-Col. E. W. George, Liberal member of Parliament for Westmoreland, said today he is "in the clear" on charges made in the Commons Thursday night that he drew parliamentary and reserve army pay in 1951 for more days than there are in the calendar.

The charges were made by Carl Nickle, Progressive Conservative member for Calgary West.

Col. George, who commands the 8th New Brunswick Hussars, a reserve unit, said he will make a statement in the Commons "in due course."

Resigns Red Party In Expulsion Protest

PARIS (Reuters) — Victor Vuillemin, one of the leaders of the French fleet's Black sea mutiny in 1919, announced his resignation today from the Communist party in protest against the expulsion of former French Communist leader Andre Marty—a fellow mutineer.

Marty, who led the mutiny in the French fleet in 1919 when it was ordered to attack the Bolsheviks in the Black sea, was expelled from the party earlier this month for alleged anti-party activities.

Anne Anglesey Wins Award For Conservation Essay

The writer of the best essay in the contest for students sponsored by the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, Anne Anglesey, was presented with a trophy and a pen and pencil set by Campbell Rowatt, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters at St. oJhn's School Thursday night.

Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Anglesey, 220 Braidwood Ave., and a student of St. John's School, wrote an essay on "Protecting Our Wild Life."

"We have brought the problem of conservation to the schools in order that they may realize its importance to their success in life," said Mr. Rowatt addressing the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association.

"Conservation simply means putting back what we have wasted and to preserve what we have."

Anne's essay is printed here:

"One of Canada's greatest assets is her wild life. From coast to coast wherever we go there is always forests, birds and fish to be found.

"Nature is balanced so that there is never too much or too little of anything. Trout, and other fish, eat mosquitoes which annoy us during the warm weather. Water snakes and turtles eat fish eggs and thus the fish are kept from multiplying too quickly.

"If there were no birds, all our orchards and crops would be rapidly devoured by insects. These feathered songsters cheer us with their sweet music as well as destroy pests. We are allowed to kill only certain harmful birds such as crows, starlings and cowbirds.

"Our forests add to the beauty of our country to say nothing of their usefulness in supplying lumber, pulp for paper mills and numerous other products. Their top value is the conservation of ground moisture which prevents floods. The greatest menace to our forest, is fire. All over, rangers are stationed where they watch constantly for this great enemy. We should always see that our camp fires are thoroughly extinguished before we leave them. Cigarettes should be dead before thrown away.

"Our wild life attracts many tourists, but there is always someone who will kill too many animals or catch too many fish. It is to our own advantage as well as our duty to do all in our power to conserve the forests and the wild life of Canada."

Mumps Hit Schools

COBOURG (ENS)—Mumps and colds are creating big gaps in the attendance rolls at local schools, and teachers never know how many are going to be away sick next day when they dismiss the classes in the afternoon. A rather crippling type of flu is making the rounds and when it attacks means bed for several days for the patient. Factory and office workers, store clerks as well as school children are the victims and most people blame it on the mild, unseasonable weather.

ANNUAL AWARD OF THE PETERBOROUGH Fish and Game Association was presented to Anne Anglesey of 220 Braidwood Ave., St. John's School student, by Campbell Rowatt, the association's educational director, at a Thursday meeting of the St. John's Home and School Association. Miss Anglesey won the award, together with a pen and pencil set, for writing the best student letter on conservation.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Shingles Fly

COBOURG (ENS)—There were enough singles on King St. yesterday to shingle a good portion of the street as a result of two trucks colliding. Two out-of-town transports were proceeding on the down grade from D'Arcy street intersection. The truck ahead braked and the second one skidded on the wet pavement and ran into the back of number one vehicle. The impact threw off a large quantity of shingles from one of the transports. Nobody was hurt and the roofing material was loaded on another truck.

Cottage Sites On Crown Lands

A. B. Wheatley, district forester with the Department of Lands and Forests at Lindsay, was guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Kawartha Recreation Inc. Thursday night, held in the public library.

Mr. Wheatley discussed opening up Crown lands in the Peterborough and Haliburton areas, giving more people access to summer homes and providing recreation in the form of hunting, fishing and swimming to those in lower income brackets. He also advocated making these spots more accessible by better roads and paking facilities.

Norman Gainer, vice-president of the group, gave a summary of work accomplished during the last year. He reported more parking areas were now available and numerous picknicking sites on Big Cedar Lake. The road into the park was in much better condition, he said.

James Fraser, chairman of the nominating committee, announced that after the meeting nominations would be closed.

A film was shown by Mr. Wheatley on wild life and camping areas in the Quetico Park district.

Wilson Plans To Keep Stock

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence secretary-designate Charles E. Wilson plans to hold on to $2,500,000 worth of stock in General Motors, the largest recipient of U. S. military contracts.

Wilson resigned as president of General Motors to accept the defence post in the Eisenhower administration. Thursday he testified before the Senate armed forces committee, which must approve his appointment before it goes to the full Senate.

Wilson, who faced reported sharp questioning at a closed session of the group, was said by committee members to have testified he will get a $40,000-a-year pension from General Motors and $635,000 in bonus payments, plus 1,800 additional shares of stock.

Committee reaction to Wilson's testimony was not all favorable but chairman Leverett Saltonstall (Rep.-Mass.) predicted the group would approve Wilson.

Teenage Weddings

CONROE, Tex. (AP) — 'Teenage marriages have school officials here worried. Supt. W. D. Wilkerson told the school board "there have been so many weddings in the last few months that it appears to be becoming a fad." He said there have been eight weddings of senior high school students and eight in junior high school classes in the last few weeks.

Atomic Fleet Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Outgoing Navy Secretary Dan Kimball predicted Thursday that the U.S. Navy will be well on its way toward a completely atomic-powered fleet firing guided missiles in from 10 to 15 years. Kimball said he hoped that at least eight of the 12 proposed big 60,000-ton aircraft carriers will operate with nuclear energy, and that destroyers should be built to utilize the same form of power.

Return Gordon Chairman Of Lindsay PUC

LINDSAY —(ENS)— Lindsay Board of Water Commissioners met last night for the first time in the new year and returned Louis Gordon as chairman for another term. Mr. Gordon thanked the board for their confidence in him and told them if he could expect the same co-operation from both the board and staff of the waterworks department this year that he had received in the past year, he would assure another successful term.

The board dealt with only two matters of business, one a reply to a meter complaint by a local store, and the other a request from the superintendent of the waterworks to investigate the price on a recent purchase of coal for the boiler at the pumping plant.

The report from the manufacturers of the meters was read, in which their findings in testing the meter under discussion were included. The company pointed out that the meter type was generally accepted at an perfect and 101.5 perfect. The error of between 98.5 percent company pointed out that tests at three pressures had been made on the disputed meter. At the intermediate rate, the letter said, the meter had been charging at one percent over the allowable rate of error, set by the American Waterworks Association. The letter also pointed out, however, that this error was made at a flow that would be almost impossible to maintain permanently. Superintendent Reynolds then pointed out, too, that the town's rules for meters specified an error allowable of three percent, thus bringing the meter within the local limits. The board decided that no charge for the testing would be made to the store, but that a resume of the letter from the company would be made available to the operators. Supt. Reynolds was then instructed to look into the price of testing equipment, so that the town might do its own work in this regard in the future.

The superintendent then told the board that the recent order of coal for the plaint boiler had been sent at a qoted price of $2,45 over the usual charge for that type of product, although the type of coal usually ordered had not ben sent. The superintendent told one of the members of the board that the coal he had received had not been worth that price. Commissioner D. Sinclair asked why that type of coal had been shipped and was told that the board usually specified one type or its equivalent. Chairman Gordon remarked that the phrase "equivalent" was taken to apply to price as well as quality. The board decided not to pay the bill for the coal until the matter of the variation in price was cleaned up satisfactorily.

Found Guilty Of Murdering 2

NEW YORK (AP) — John Kerringer, 33, was found guilty of murder and manslaughter today in the slayings of two women, who first were believed to have killed each other.

The two women — Mrs. Francesca Castello, 59, and Mrs. Jean Mitchell, 36 — were found slashed and stabbed to death in Mrs. Mitchell's apartment last Feb. 4.

One body lay in the foyer, a switch-blade knife beside it. The other body lay a few feet away, a 10-inch kitchen knife clasped in one hand. The apartment was so battered that the telephone had been ripped out.

Police first theorized they died in a knife duel.

But police traced a money order stub in the apartment to Kerringer, who admitted killing Mrs. Mitchell when she broke off their friendship, the state said. It quoted him as saying he killed Mrs. Castello when she tried to intervene.

New Punishment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Army issued an order today which will send most soldiers convicted of being absent without leave to the Korean war zone "by the first available surface transportation." The army said the order is a move to crack down on men deliberately going AWL to escape overseas shipment. Until now, a conviction for being AWL stopped or delayed their going overseas.

"What makes you so sure?" demanded the other.

"Because," he explained, "my wife is afraid of a mouse."

Commission On Sex Crime?

The Canadian Welfare Council has made a recommendation to the Government that a Royal Commission be established to study the matter of sex crime, in order that better laws may be framed for dealing with sex criminals. We think the recommendation a worthy one, and hope that something will be done about it.

* * *

Our present treatment of sex criminals is hopelessly inadequate. In most cases the courts can do nothing but sentence them to a term of imprisonment, and when that has been served they are free, and likely to offend again. There is a law which permits frequent offenders to be detained indefinitely, but this simply means locking them up; nothing is done to understand them or cure them. It cannot be argued convincingly that imprisonment is a deterrent in this type of crime, and sometimes it appears to be a positive aggravation. Thus our system of imprisoning sex criminals does not protect society, and may actually create a greater danger in some cases.

* * *

We have not read anything which convinces us that sex crimes are more frequent than they used to be. There is evidence all through history that they have been fairly common, but until the last century or so they were often neglected, often hushed up and sometimes unrecognized. Nowadays we have reached the point where we do not neglect or hush up crime of this sort, but we are still far short of finding any practical way of dealing with it.

* * *

Many people—and there are judges and magistrates among them—would like to put the whole problem out of their heads. It offends their sensibilities, and they do not think about it until circumstances force them to do so. We do not blame them for this, and we may add that their thinking on such a topic would not necessarily result in any valuable reforms. To think intelligently and constructively about sex crimes requires a background of psychological training which only experts in the matter can be expected to possess. No physician expects to cure a disease which he has not thoroughly investigated, and which he understands at least in part. Similarly, no psychiatrist can make practical recommendations about the treatment of sex criminals unless he has made a study of them, and discovered something about the mental processes and impulses which drive them to offend against society in the way they do.

* * *

It may be that there is no treatment for sexual criminals which society as a whole can undertake. It may be that some of them are responsive to treatment which is curative or palliative. But we can only discover these things if we attack the problem courageously, and we cannot leave the whole attack to groups of experts.

* * *

Judges, magistrates and responsible citiens of all kinds must gain a greater knowledge of sexual crime than is now common. To be repelled by it is natural, but unhelpful. We must all try to understand something about it, and to clear away some of the fog of ignorance which now surrounds it. This is a field in which knowledge is power, and to be forewarned is to be forearmed. We cannot push all ugly things into dark corners of our lives, and we cannot safely keep knowledge of them from our children.

* * *

Reform in the treatment of sexual criminals will not come quickly. But reforms in law usually follow reforms in public opinion, and we think that there is now a large body of public opinion which favours a more forthright approach to this problem on all levels—in the home, in the church, and in the courts. It is time for the government to move, and the appointment of a commission to investigate this matter thoroughly and to make recommendations, is now at hand.

The Last Steam Loco

The vice-president of the CPR told the Board of Transport Commissioners recently that: "We have bought our last steam loco—coal or oil." The company intended, he said, to order 358 diesel engines during the next five years. The CNR under the strong leadership of Mr. Donald Gordon is also in the race to modernize its equipment and service. A surprising spectacle, for the railways have been running on the same wheels in the same grooves for fifty years. So slow and cautious has been their march with Canada's progress that they have been all but left behind. Peterborough's two railway stations are testimony to the railway companies' past notions of progress.

While the companies plan and scheme and spend millions to overtake the rest of the country (and their highway and air competitors), will they have a plan and some thousands of dollars to build the union station which Peterborough city planners have recommended? If the present CPR station were dismantled carefully, it might be sold to a museum, to help meet the cost of the new one. And when the companies are improving their rolling stock and service in the west and on the lakeshore route, will there be a dribble left over to refresh the service in this area? Peterborough is no longer a remote place on the edge of the forest, despite the impression the railway service and stations may give. There is a large freight and passenger trade to be got when the railways are ready to provide attractive service, a service as good as the CPR runs to Toronto usually are.

The Greatest Killer Of Modern Times

"Since the beginning of the Korean conflict, 90,000 lives were crushed out in automobile accidents, as against a total of 20,000 Americans killed in action on the battlefront. Cars have become more dangerous than wars. Since the advent of the motor car fifty years ago, 1,000,000 lives, many of them entirely innocent of wrongdoing, have been lost as a result of motor vehicle accidents. By comparison, all of the wars participated in by the United States since the War of Independence 175 years ago have resulted in 600,000 battle deaths."

This is an excerpt from an article in the New York Times by Robert Moses, head of New York's parkway system. Automobiles are the greatest killers, speed their lethal power. The Pennsylvania Turnpike, with a speed limit of 70 miles an hour, has a death rate of 8.0 for every hundred thousand vehicle miles. The New Jersey Turnpike with a speed limit of 60 miles an hour has a death rate of 6.5. New York State with a legal speed limit of 50 miles an hour on state highways, has a death rate of 6.0. On the Long Island Parkways where the speed limit is 35 miles an hour, the death rate is one for every hundred thousand vehicle miles.

Before these facts, comment blanches. Fatalities increase as speed increases. Speed spells the difference between minor and major accidents. Death does not lurk on the highways; it speeds.

Lieutenant To Field Marshal

Changes in rank are the order of the month. Premier Tito has made himself President of Yugoslavia. General Eisenhower will become President of the United States. A new Field Marshal, Admiral of the Fleet and Marshal of the RAF has been created.

In five years and two months Lieutenant Philip Mountbatten, RN, has risen to these supreme ranks. His rapid promotion comes, of course, from his position as the Queen's Consort. Nevertheless, people of the Commonwealth will rejoice in it, for the Duke of Edinburgh has become a popular and admired figure, for his own qualities.

Junior officers and junior NCOs in the Canadian army beginning their wartime careers spent many hours poring over a small handbook which was bought from their own earnings. The title was more attractive than the contents. It was called From Corporal to Field Officer. What dreams of glory lay behind the purchase: Change only one word in the title, and it was the key not to getting mere Major's crowns, but to the laurel wreath and baton of a Field Marshal. What if the dream has been realized in another, in shorter time than a wartime officer could hope? What if Lieutenant Philip Mountbatten never laid eyes on a handbook From Deck To Duke? The dream, the fairy tale has come true.

When HRH Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, Knight of the Garter, Field Marshal, Admiral of the Fleet, Marshal of the Royal Air Force, first gentleman of the Commonwealth, mounts to the side of the Throne next June, the world will applaud.

School Traffic Patrols

The boys and girls acting as traffic guardians of their public school fellows continue to do an excellent job. There they are at intersections as the pupils come to and leave school, white bands over their shoulders, road stands set out, a traffic sign in their hands, standing alert both to traffic and their charges. They perform their stop-and-go duties with a kind of drilled smartness. The arms come up like semaphores, and drivers and pupils have no doubt what the youngster on patrol means. They do the job seriously, and as far as we have observed both their school-fellows and the motorists accept their direction seriously. It is this continuance of good work on the job and not the display and enthusiasm when the scheme was begun, which proves its worth and the effectiveness of the boys and girls on point duty.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: In your column of December 19th, relating to old coins, you spoke of the possibilitiy of the farthing going out of existence, as you knew of nothing that you could purchase with this particular coin. It is true that one cannot purchase any single article for that sum today, but it is still used nevertheless. For instance, rationing is still in force in England, and though I am not now so familiar with the price of food stuff there, with the small individual rations (reckoned in ounces) such as cheese or butter the price must sometimes work out to something and one farthing or one ha'penny, or perhaps three farthings, according to the price per pound of the article bought.

However, it is true that the farthing is not used quite so much as it once was. Long ago, I believe, with this coin one could buy a bundle of candles, or a large box of matches, a bag of candies for the children, or oil for the lamp. However, those were the days when grandma was young.

RESPONSE: I thank your grandmother's granddaughter for this comment.

✧ ✧ ✧

SIR: Reference has been made, in one of the recent editions, to some of the more or less historical lore associated with the village of Norwood. In this reference lay an account of the first train to arrive at the village, which seems to have been identified with the "O & Q" railroad.

Though not being at all familiar with the stories and associations of the village, the writer is obsessed with the idea that Norwood has been served only by the C. P. R., which line was both built and operated by the C.P.R. from the beginning rather than having been taken over from a previous company.

Can you elucidate?

ANSWER: Peterborough had trains from 1854, when the Cobourg and Peterborough line was formally opened — in December of that year. This was the ill-fated line which went across Rice Lake. Other local lines were opened in subsequent years— there were forty miles of railway in the county by 1870 built chiefly by local capital— but Peterborough had no direct link with the wide outside world until the C. P. R. line between Toronto and Ottawa was opened in 1884.

The "Ontario and Quebec Railway" was chartered in 1871, to be built from Toronto through Peterborough and Madoc to Ottawa and into Quebec. The big railway companies were not interested in feeder line unless they fed (Grand Trunk), Toronto, or (C.P.R.) Montreal. But by 1880 the two major competitors were spreading their lines. The Grand Trunk took over a charter to build a Toronto-Ottawa line. The C.P.R. then woke to the possibilities of revenue in this area, and by statute of March, 1881, revived the old Ontario and Quebec railway charter, receiving at the same time authority to connect with railway lines running into the area. Construction thereafter was quick—Ottawa was then beginning to rise as the capital of Canada from its backwoods Bytown days.

In 1882-83 a steel bridge was put across the Otonabee at the present C.P.R. bridge site. In 1883 the first train arrived in Norwood amidst jubilation of the villagers (as related on the Examiner's feature page the Saturday after Christmas, when excerpts from an 1883 Examiner were reprinted). The first through train to Ottawa passed in May, 1884, and the line was opened to passenger traffic to Ottawa on June 28, 1884. This line on the south-east prong through Smiths Falls, became the main Montreal Toronto route.

I think it was called the O. and Q. line, although it was really C.P.R., first, for publicity and local propaganda; secondly the O. and Q. had been on paper (and tongues) for more than a decade when C.P.R. took its charter to build. When it did build, it was the Ontario and Quebec line in people's thoughts.

LAKEFIELD'S NAME: Mr. J. W. Stewart, a cheerful octogenarian who has lived all his life ten miles from Peterborough and three from Lakefield, and whose father was born in the same place in 1837, questions my information about Lakefield's earlier names. Last October I said it was first called Nelson's Falls, then Herriot's Falls, then, in 1851, Selby, becoming "Lakefield" before 1860. Mr. Stewart believes that Lakefield had but three names: Selby, North Douro and Lakefield. My information about the earlier names comes from Mr. Howard Pammett's history of this district, published serially in the Examiner of 1950.

One thing both Mr. Stewart and I agree on is that it was never called "Scott's Mills." Peterborough's early name was of course Scott's Plains, or variants thereof. Mr. Stewart recalls the old mill three miles above Buckhorn, which was known as Scott's Mills. It was sited at the place where the Mississauga empties into Ball Lake. Traces of the foundations, and the old wooden raceway still remain . . . Mr. Stewart has a long memory of these places, and crisscrossed the county many times as salesman of pianos, organs and sewing machines. In his earlier years of this work he used a team of horses; and confesses today to a very great fondness for a team — any team, so long as it is not just one horse.

✧ ✧ ✧

DRANOEL: Last week a reader called attention to this C.P.R. junction's name being Leonard in reverse. Mr. W. C. Patton, now living on Sherbrooke Street — "just call me an old rail," he said — worked on the Pt. McNicoll line from the day in began operating, July 1st, 1912, to the day it closed, December 10th, 1932. He gives this information: Dranoel was first called Bethany Junction, being near Bethany. This junction with the main C.P.R. Peterborough to Toronto was named sometime after 1917 for James Leonard, general manager in Montreal of the C.P.R. lines, east-central Canada. It could not be called "Leonard" because there already was in existence a Leonard station — which is the third station east of Ottawa on the C.P.R.

Alpha is grateful to Mr. Patton for this information, and to others who volunteered information.

SIR: I enjoyed your "country note," Alpha. There is more fresh air in the country persuasive as well as pervasive, and in case you do not see or meet them, fresh air fiends, too. I used to be one of them.

In my young days my sister and I read in the newspaper — it was 45 years ago perhaps — of the value of fresh air and cold water baths. This is what we did. We put the window up as far as it would go, maybe four feet, no matter the weather. In the room, too, was water for a sponge bath that had, by morning, a coat of ice. This we used as per directions, putting down the window first, though. Directions also included vigorous use of a rough towel. Needless to say such rigor had repercussions.— Now I wonder how many others did the same?

RESPONSE: Include Alpha out.

✧ ✧ ✧

COUNTRY NOTE: Sheep at this time of year are not pure as driven snow. They are the dun colour of January thaw days, and just as dirty looking. Alpha has acquired, in partnership with a farm lad who knows the intricacies of lambing, eight soiled and fleece-matted ewes, of the South Down variety. In my part of the country they are called "yohs." This is not an ignorant pronunciation, but an old-fashioned one, handed down from farmer father to son for centuries. It comes from the Old English word eowu, pronounced very like "yoh." I hope it is my flock, not me, who is fleeced by the summer. Got them partly with an eye to profit, but really to (a) keep weeds down, (b) to frolic in the spectacle of shep gracing and grazing on Alpha's Belle Acres (poetically-pronounced Bellee). Well, there's no grace to them now, but come the spring lambs —. Ah — bleat, bleat, bleat!

HOW ROTTEN?

Sir: Regarding your heading—"Too Old To Work, Gets Jail Term." How rotten can we get?

W.T.

OPPOSES NEW HOME FOR THE AGED.

Sir: Concerning the meeting of the Labour Council on Monday night, "why should the old be sent to jail? Mr. Gunn, I realized it's not very nice to see an old man spend his time on the hill looking through bars But I think labour is paying out enough money now without starting to build a home and look after the old. Had this old man been any good why didn't he stay in the U. S. A. instead of staying there until he was too old to take care of himself and then flop himself on the people of Peterborough to look after him? I think what he should do is go back where he spent his younger days.

Let's clean up our back yard before we start looking after these Americans who come here for the labourers of Peterborough to look after them.

POWDERED MILK FOR KOREA

Sir: That news item from Ottawa in your issue of Jan. 12, quoting Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, as saying that "the third and final shipment of 70,000 pounds of Canadian sweetened powdered milk for Korean children will be on its way — from a powdered milk plant at Gananoque," would carry its own pleasant gleam into many a Canadian heart and home.

My understanding is that each pound of "powdered milk" would be the equivalent to five quarts of fluid milk. If this be factual, apparently the above shipment would—when reconstituted with Korean aqua pura—be the equivalent of 350,000 quarts of this vital fluid, from which only the fat has been removed? According to my fenceline neighbour, "Vitamin A is lost with the fat, but the calcium, riboflavin, protein, and other basic nutrients present in whole milk are retained."

I confess that the only "flaw" in the above picture, to this reader's eyes, is that word "final." It seems to me that this is a somewhat humbling caveat, where the lives of myriads of children are literally in the balance? These little folk, the inoffensive victims of today's storm, will be the Korean citizens of tomorrow. I'd like to see the spirit of compassion impulse similar shipments again, and again!

I find my thoughts accurately expressed in the following heart-searching lines by one of Canada's poets writing on "Thoughts For Christmas 1952" in one of the farm journals: "Will we remember, while the white flakes fall, Korean peasants dead against a wall? Will we remember, while tall tapers burn, the bread for which a million children yearn? Will we remember, as the bells ring clear, that half God's children live in want and fear? Will we remember, lifting high the wine, a million eyes too dull by woe to shine? And we, more fortunate by place of birth, who sing our joyous lays of peace on earth; how shall we enter where the young Child lies, remembering so many hopeless eyes!" (L.C.G.)

CANUCK

COMPLAINS OF BUS SERVICE.

Sir: I am writing to complain about the miserable service provided by Peterborough Bus Lines.

While it would have suited me better to write this letter when the franchise came up for renewal, the increasingly unsatisfactory service prompts me to do so now.

As a resident of Ashburnham, I frequently come over town on a Nicholls Park bus, and on coming to transfer to a George St. S. bus, find that it has pulled out, leaving several people, myself included, to wait almost ten minutes for the next bus. Is it too much to expect that each bus remain at the transfer point long enough for passengers to change buses?

However, this evening came the finishing touch. My husband and I came in on a bus from Byersville and walked quickly over to catch the George St. S. bus, only to see it being driven away by a man who took no time at all to either wait or look for transferring passengers. I assure you, ony a champion sprinter on a clear track could possibly have transferred from one bus to the other in this case.

While writing on this subject may I say that I see no reason why service can not be provided, Sundays included, on the special runs. Should people in the more remote sections of the city either be confined to their homes each Sunday, or compelled to walk if they wish to visit another part of town?

I feel that these and various other complaints in reference to local bus service should be remembered when renewal of the franchise is again under discussion, and some more satisafctory schedule be arranged for.

Thanking you for space in your paper,

I remain,

Very truly Yours,

AN IRATE VICTIM.

NO COURTESY ON BUSES?

Sir: In Tuesday, January 13, 1953, Examiner, under Main Street Topics, I read a report of an accident between a city bus and a private car.

I am a car driver and owner. I pay taxes like everyone else. At present I am riding back and forth to work on our city bus.

While driving, I found that our city buses, because of their size, or perhaps because of the immense insurance they must carry, or because their drivers, like taxi drivers, rely on their employers to get them out of trouble, show little or no courtesy to other traffic.

While riding on their buses, I found no courtesy whatever. Their drivers are so independent that their insolence shows to even the dumbest labourer (who by the way pays their salary).

They will not wait one second, in fact, I suspect that while passing the C.G.E. gate, they actually speed up to miss the girls coming off shift at 3.24 and 11.24 p.m.

On Monday morning, Dec. 12, 1952,, the Jackson Park bus actually left approximately two dozen people who had to either walk to work, wait for the next bus and be late for work or go home for the morning as many of them did.

One night, last week, at about 11.30, the bus coming from C. G. E. uptown stopped at Charlotte and Aylmer Streets, when the passengers (3) went to get out, one girl nearly got caught in the closing doors of the bus. When she shouted to the driver, he said "Well hurry up," he never gave her a chance to get out of that bus. When I went to get off (it was one of the old buses) the steps were quite slippery.

Are these drivers paid so poorly, that they do not care for their jobs, or has this bus company got this city tied up so tight that they can take a chance on personal injury to a passenger without a thought of reprisal?

I for one would like to know— is it the driver or the company.

A VERY RELUCTANT RIDER.

SOME QUESTIONS FOR THE DOURO BOARD.

Sir: First of all, my congratulations to the men elected to the Board of School Area No. 1, Township of Douro. As successful candidates, they should now be in a receptive mood for a little constructive criticism. Men honestly trying to do their duty know there is need for this at times, so I write freely.

This is not directed as criticism to the High School students who are trying to fill positions which only qualified teachers are capable of filling. Our hats are off to them for trying, but could anyone lacking the proper training, be expected to do a good job in any capacity? How can we expect them to cope with situations with which even experienced qualified teachers have difficulty?

Would a hospital board allow an unqualified nurse to be hired and out in complete charge of a ward to save $200 or even $300 a year? Surely the needs of the minds and souls of our growing children are just as important as the bodily needs of our hospital patients. Such needs, in either case, cannot be measured in dollars and cents. That is false economy. Wake up gentlemen!

I notice that in no school section having a representative on the Board (that is a representative with school age children of his own) has there been an unqualified teacher hired. A coincidence? Could be. Forgive men; I'm partial to fair play.

We heartily welcome Mr. Bernard Leahy to the Board; we expect much of Mr. Leahy. We hope, through him, to have honest consideration given all qualified teachers' applications; to receive a courteous hearing at our future meetings when we, the interested parents, wish to voice an opinion, a suggestion or a complaint. We trust he will have the cooperation of the other members of the Board in bringing about changes so urgently needed, so vital to the well-being of our children, the future men and women of our community.

I write without prejudice, trying merely to draw the attention of the public and the School Board to conditions which in certain schools are, putting it mildly, deplorable.

We are fortunate in having a fine teacher of whom we are justly proud, and to whom we are deeply grateful, but with certain changes in the teaching staff of our school area, conditions such as those existing in less fortunate sections, could happen here. That thought and a genuine interest in children of every school prompts me to use space in your valuable paper to express my views and I believe the views of every conscientious parent and teacher. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am,

AN INTERESTED RATEPAYER.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Hear ye the word of the Lord, O house of Jacob, and all the families of the house of Israel: thus saith the Lord, What iniquity have your fathers found in me, that they are gone far from me, and have walked after vanity, and are become vain? . . . Hath a nation changed their gods, which are yet no gods? but my people have changed their glory for that which doth not profit . . . For my people have committed two evils; they have forsaken me the fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water . . .

As the thief is ashamed when he is found, so is the house of Israel ashamed; they, their kings, their princes, and their priests, and their prophets, saying to a stock, Thou art my father; and to a stone, Thou hast brought me forth: for they have turned their back onto me, and not their face: but in the time of their trouble they will say, Arise, and save us. (Jer. 2: 4, 5, 11, 13, 26, 27.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in him; and he shall bring it to pass. (Ps. 37:-5.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And it came to pass when Jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities. (Matt. 11:1.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Thou art my portion, O Lord: I have said that I would keep thy words . . . Thy hands have made me and fashioned me: give me understanding, that I may learn thy commandments. (Ps. 119: 57, 73.)

Say Overpasses Best Way Halt Accidents

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario traffic safety experts, discussing the federal government's decision to investigate the problem of level-crossing accidents, today said the solution may be the construction of more overpasses.

"That is the best solution," said one expert, "but they keep telling us they haven't got the money for overpasses."

Provincial safety organizations examining causes of level-crossing accidents for several months found the most common causes are cars stalling on tracks, insufficient warning signs, obstructions such as trees and signs, and neglect of drivers to heed warning markers.

DRIVERS CARELESS

Director Warren Hastings of the Ontario Motor League said better signs are needed at some crossings. He also said the railways should clear away obstructions from the approaches.

Russell Byers, Ontario Safety League director, believes most crossing accidents are the result of poor driving.

"The motorists think about something else, not trains or crossings."

The 1,200,000 horsepower, 12-unit project is advancing on "schedule" with: eight of the 12 penstock trenches completely excavated; concreting of the rear wall of the powerhouse sub-structure; concreting of the draft tubes of the powerhouse sub-structure; and placing of the lower elbows of the 19-foot diameter steel plate penstocks. On the extreme lower right is the steelwork rising for the control area of the ultra-modern generating station. First power from Sir Adam Beck No. 2 will be generated in 1954. Men In Public Service Make Personal Sacrifice

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent, 70-year-old former corporation lawyer, said Thursday that the men who serve in Canada's public service in both the military and civilian spheres do so at personal sacrifice for the satisfaction they get from feeling they are useful to their country.

A member of the government since 1941, he draws $23,000 a year as Prime Minister. At one point he cited himself as an example of what he meant and brought cheers from all parts of the chamber.

He made the statement in defending Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, Chief of the General Staff, for speaking out about certain parts of the critical Currie report. He suggested that if the CGS did not feel he could speak out for the army, there would be little left for him to do but resign.

AT PERSONAL COST

The Prime Minister said:

"Here in this country, you know, public service, not only on the civilian side but on the military side as well, is provided by men many of whom do so at personal sacrifice to their own pecuniary interests. The main and practically the only compensation they get for the sacrifice they make is the personal satisfaction of feeling that they are doing something useful for their nation and their fellow citizens. . . .

"Does any one imagine that I would be doing for any one but the public service what I have been doing for the last four or five years for the pecuniary compensation that I get for it?"

Says Transportation System Needs Revising

CORNWALL (CP) — Lewis Simms, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said Wednesday night Canada's national transportation system must be revised to "discard all present relations between cost and return."

In an address to the Cornwall board of trade, Mr. Simms said transportation is Canada's greatest national problem and "to leave it alone is to renege on our responsibilities."

He said Canada needs greater economic solidarity than has yet been achieved. Improved transportation with the chronic maladjustments ironed out would help bring this about.

Potato Growers Told Ease Off

TORONTO (CP)—Potato growers should take it easy when planning their 1953 acreage, says Charles Huffman, head of the potato section of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association.

Speaking at the annual meeting Thursday, Mr. Huffman said if they wanted a fair return they should not exceed the 1952 acreage.

The apple section reported that last year wasn't one of the best. It noted that the industry thrived when there was an export market to take care of the surplus.

An appeal was made by the tender fruit section for a united front. Lack of regulation of the flow of some crops to market was blamed for some difficulties, and harvesting of immature fruit for others. Planned production was recommended in onions.

Expect 175 Specialists Attend Diabetes Parley

TORONTO (CP) — More than 175 specialists, doctors and laymen are expected to attend a three-day meeting on diabetes to be held here next week.

The meeting is the outcome of discovery of the limitations of insulin in treating the disease.

After more than 20 years of treatment since insulin was discovered as a treatment of diabetes in 1921, it was found that only persons who exercised great precision in taking the drug benefitted fully.

City Departments May Show Surpluses Ald. Miller Says

Finance chairman Douglas Miller of city council was non-committal on the 1953 tax rate Thursday in a brief talk to the Kiwanis Club. He was one of several who spoke at the club's annual civic dinner.

What little hope he offered was in the mention of a $36,000 surplus the Board of Education had reported, an unexpected $39,000 grant to Civic Hospital in 1952, and a possible surplus on other city operations.

Ald. Miller did not go into detail of the hoped-for surplus. He said he would mention no amount, because calculations were not yet complete.

"People think we pull the tax rate out of a hat. We don't. On the council, we're all taxpayers and it makes as much difference to us as to any other taxpayer," he said.

1953 EXPENSES

Briefly, he reviewed probable expenses for the coming year. The problem of garbage disposal was one which would cost money whether a new disposal plant was built or a new system was instituted. The public library had requested $50,000 to $60,000 for remodelling the library, and salary increases had been asked for by most departments.

Of annexation, Ald. Miller said that it hadn't cost the city a cent so far. Certainly services for the area would cost money, but they would not be expaneded any more than necessary. If the city is careful in its development, the cost of annexation should not be too great, he predicted.

Ald. John A. Dewart introduced industrial commissioner William Burnie, whose talk was also non-committal for a number of reasons. He said, however, that he had spoken with more than 100 industries that may be establishing new plants in the future.

Because other municipalities might use any information made public, the industrial commissioner said he could tell nothing about who he was dealing with.

BUSINESSMEN APATHETIC

He did say that he was disappointed in the slightly apathetic attitude taken by some businessmen. Some people, he said, had the idea that the industrial commissioner, once hired, does all the work. He asked for co-operation from anyone who could help.

He reminded the club members that inducing an industry to a city was not a "firecracker proposition." It took a long time.

Two attitudes that were noticeable in the city, he said were these: Many people think that the established firms don't want more industry, and that the city is big enough as it is. These were wrong; the first because established industries welcome new firms, and the second because there was a certain mortality rate among industries.

Mr. Burnie said he was concentrating on getting smaller industries to settle here because going after the large one was "chasing rainbows."

Mayor Hugh Waddell was chairman for the city's part in the program, and club president Wilson Gemmell was in the chair for the remainder of the dinner meeting.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

For better than 16 winters Ray Harding has been thrilling local OHA fans with his goal-minding magic. The veteran net ace of the 1952-53 Petes has shone continuously at this puck position with the junior, intermediate and senior Petes at the old Brock, in Lindsay "home" games, on Omemee ice and lately in Civic Arena. We take time out now to salute a great hockey competitor just in case he really does hang up his gear for good this coming spring. Has been threatening to do that and was drafted back on the job season before last when the Petes' new goalie was hurt right at the start of the season. Again this year —when 'twas found Nip O'Hearn wasn't eligible for amateur play— Ray came out once more to help his team.

* * * * * *

Asked about this recently, he grinned and said: "You know I thought we'd have a real good club this year and that I wouldn't have too much to do. But when we didn't get all the players we figured on at the start I found I was handling more hot rubber than I had since the days when Legion were at their best!" However, typical of the likeable guy, he stayed in there without a complaint, and he may still wind up with a winning squad as the Petes have finally rounded up a potent pack of pucksters in a strong grouping. He doubts if he'll bother with the TVL or any other loop when he quits OHA play.

* * * * * *

Ray Hardy 'Twas Then

Though Harding is a real battler in a game— and has been in his share of scraps— he's a quiet chap. We ran into him first back about 1935 when he was a junior city league goalie with Bill Murphy's team. When giving us pre-game lineup, Bill always called him Hardy. We ran it that way for weeks before Ray hesitantly told us one game that his name was Harding. He broke into OHA junior "B" play in '36 as spare goalie to Gord Clarke of the Peterborough Bees— sometimes known then as the Colts, as the Petes were the intermediate bunch. All home games were at the Brock. He took over as regular goalie next year, and the following season stepped up to intermediate company. Has played intermediate "A" or senior "B" ever since for the Petes.

* * * * * *

Ray is a solid citizen now, living in Bridgenorth where he is secretary-treasurer of the school board. Has an office job at the CGE here. He and Mrs. Harding have two girls, 11 and 10, and a two-year-old son. During the time the Petes-Omemee Combines operated in Omemee (there being no ice available here), Ray ran a restaurant for a year in Millbrook and worked a year in Lindsay ere returning to work in Peterborough. But he always played for the Petes, his only team after junior hockey. Has lost the odd tooth and received some stitches but luckily suffered no serious injuries in the hazardous business of goaltending. His dashes out of the net to stop rival breakaways are well known throughout Central Ontario.

* * * * * *

One Of Best Ever Here

Yes, Ray Harding has been a great amateur goalie for many years and is still a first-lass cage custodian. Also a fine team man. We asked him not long ago what forward line he liked best of all the players he's been with and he said without hesitation: "Bun Kingdon, Honey Tomkins and Art Heal." He hesitated a bit over his choice of defence pairs, and then figured the best were Jim Ellis, Jack Gardner, Drake Jopling and Don Crowe. These fellows played in front of Ray when the Petes won the OHA and Eastern Canada intermediate "A" titles in 1940 He also was with the local provincial senior "B" winners in 1942 when the Military Training Centre here sponsored the Petes' squad. If Ray keeps a scrapbook we hope he clips this little salute to him and saves it to look back upon when old rocking-chair has got him!

Some peculiar characters roam the pro wrestling circuits, and a big bloke who calls himself the Red Mask appears — at least, all but his face appears — here next Wednesday eve in the main grapple at the Brock Arena. The Mask meets Chief Big Heart, who gets much corner encouragement from his drum-beating dad, bedecked in feathered head-dress. It is the first showing up this way of the hooded one, though he has been on Toronto cards recently. Husky Earl McCready returns in a semi-final spot against Joe Christie, the durable Earl still being a crowd pleaser after many mat years. George Scott faces Ray Clarke in the opener of the three-bout card.

THE BASKETBALL IS GOOD, TOO— City Collegiates' gyms will see more girls' basketball this year as PCVS, St. Peter's High and Kenner Collegiate develop collegiate cuties into basketball players. St. Peter's High, with the addition of a new gym, will emphasize the game's fundamentals and will play exhibition games. Physical instructor Mary Scanlin (centre, lower photo), has the task of introducing basketball to the St. Peter's girls. Meanwhile, the new Kenner Collegiate will have a junior team in collegiate competition this year. Like the St. Peter's High girls, basketball is almost an entirely new sport and Ann Morrison (centre, top photo), the coach, is attempting to mould a championship team in the school's first term.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Holds Record For Swordfish

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) —Mrs. Alice Price of San Bernardino today officially holds the women's world record for large game fish—a 920-pound Pacific black marlin swordfish taken last October off Cabo Blanco, Peru.

The International Game Fish Association gave its official recognition to the catch as the largest ever made by a woman on regulation rod, reel and line.

The tremendous marlin was boated after a fight of three hours and 10 minutes and measured 14 feet, three iches in length with a girth of 5 feet 11 inches, the IGFA noted.

Mrs. Price was not at home to receive the notification.

She's off hunting in the Belgian Congo.

Marmora Victorious Over Lakefield By 7-5

2 New Gyms Give City Girls Chance To Play Basketball

Peterborough's new collegiate gyms, at St. Peter's High and Kenner Collegiate, has resulted in a greater opportunity for girls to play basketball. In previous basketball seasons the girls' teams were limited to entries from PCVS but this year all three schools are emphasizing girls' basketball. At St. Peter's High the girls are throwing the basketball around for the first time. As soon as the new gym was completed, gym classes started and basketball became one of the school's new extra-curricular activities.

There, under physical education teacher Mary Scanlin, the girls are stressing cage fundamentals, particularly among the lower grades. The girls in Grades Nine, 10 and 11 will form school teams during the next few years.

ONLY EXHIBITIONS

For this year, St. Peter's High will play only exhibition games. They will practise dribbling, passing, shooting and other game fundamentals and test their knowledge and skills during the games with Kenner Collegiate and PCVS.

At Kenner Collegiate, a junior team has been formed. Under Ann Morrison, the team will play in a district league but will enter B school playdowns. (This year the girls' basketball is divided into A and B classifications according to attendance.)

The Kenner juniors will play with Cobourg, PCVS and Port Hope in the district league and exhibition games with St. Peter's. But the only games to have any effect will be with Port Hope which is also a B school.

The basketball setup at PCVS will be similar to previous years, only this year the junior and senior teams are classed as A according to the new division.

Audrey Hustwitt, PT teacher, is again coaching the PCVS seniors and Mabel Gillen, well-known basketball player, is handling the collegiate juniors. Both teams have been practising for several weeks.

The junior entry will play in the same league as Kenner Collegiate but its games with Cobourg will be the only games which will actually count. Meanwhile the seniors will play with Port Hope and Cobourg but again only games with Cobourg, an A school, will count.

Actually PCVS' games amount to home-and-home series in junior and senior with Cobourg, the winners entering further playdowns. Schedules are:

For PCVS teams:

Jan. 20—Kenner at PCVS (Jr.).
Jan. 23—Port Hope at PCVS (Jr. and Sr.).
Feb. 10—PCVS at Kenner (Jr.).
Feb. 13—PCVS at Cobourg (Jr. and Sr.).
Feb. 20—PCVS at Port Hope (Jr. and Sr.).
Feb. 27—Cobourg at PCVS (Jr. and Sr.).

For Kenner teams:

Jan. 20—Kenner at PCVS.
Feb. 6—Cobourg at Kenner.
Feb. 10—PCVS at Kenner.
Feb. 13—Kenner at Port Hope.
Feb. 20—Kenner at Cobourg.
Feb. 27—Port Hope at Kenner.

Z. Spencer Rolls High

Glen Baker led men this week in the Mercantile Bowling League with high single of 276 and top three of 696. Zita Spencer topped the girls with an even better single, rolling 288, and Gladys Hamilton led in triples for lasses with 740.

The 3-1 victories were taken by Braund's No. 2 over Empress, Braund's No. 1 against A & P No. 1, and by Prudential over A & P No. 2. Crowe's and East City broke even, as did Nichols and Neill's in their competition.

Warsaw Lasses Get Win Against Point

The girls' hockey season opened on Wednesday night at Warsaw Arena as the local lasses played Young's Point girls. The teams were fairly evenly matched, but Warsaw won 6-0.

Goals in the first period were by B. Carlow 2 and D. McMillan, with one penalty going to D. McMillan for boarding.

Play warmed up in the second period with B. Carlow and H. Carlow getting goals for Warsaw. Three penalties came in this period with two for Warsaw. W. Freeburn and M. Dunford went off for roughing, and D. McMillan.

The only goal in the third period was netted by K. Carlow for Warsaw.

PCVS Boys Get Close One From Kenner

Kenner Collegiate students were treated to their first overtime dish of basketball Thursday when PCVS midgets edged the Kenner bantams 40-35 in an exhibition game.

Ted Cranfield's Garnet and Grey OABA midgets held a slight lead throughout the game, being out in front at the quarter 10-7, at the half 19-16 and at three-quarters 32-25. But a last quarter drive by Kenner, coached by Norm Erskine made the score at the end of regulation time 35-all.

WRAPPED IT UP

High scoring Dick Brown for PCVS and Keating decided the issue in the overtime session, the first played in the collegiate. Brown dropped in two points and Keating three to give the Garnet and Grey the five-point win.

Brown was PCVS' best player and was also the top scorer with 10 points. Coming into his own for the first time this year Brown used a jump shot from 10 feet out for most of his points. Kenner's Montgomery, working a one-hand push shot, was the game's top scorer with 15 points while teammate Druery, on rebounds, netted 10 points.

Lineups—PCVS Midgets (40); Bell 4, Allin 5, Sparrow 1, Brown 10, Beck 8, Morton 2, Long 2, Keating 8.

Close Tussles A Feature In PMHA Juvenile Play

Two keenly-contested juvenile jousts marked the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association set of games last evening in Civic Arena. Shamrocks and Havelock battled to a 5-5 tie, while Aces edged Outboard Marines 4-3. In midget play, Otonabee Wolves defeated the Shamrocks 5-1, as Aces trimmed Norwood 13-1. Swartz bantams trounced the Aces 12-1. Sidey and Mongraw scored for Shamrock juves in the first period, Byrne having an assist. Ruttan got a pair and Paranuk one for Havelock, Lang aiding on one. The latter added a goal next heat as Sidey and Mongraw each scored for Shamrocks, aided once by Rowley. Cullen scored from Byrne for them in the third, Ruttan tying it up in the same period. The winners drew four of the seven penalties.

STARTED EARLY

Allan counted for Aces in the first from Smith and Strickland, as Cupoli scored for Marines. Stewart and Brooks tallied in the second, Strickland and Blodgett each getting an assist. Stewart added another from McFadden in the third, while Hunt and Dodds hit the mark for Marines, Cupoli helping on one. Each side drew four penalties.

Otonabee Wolves led from the start in their game, Garvey getting one early from Wilson. Carr got one next inning after Minnie tallied for Shamrocks. Wilson counted two and Garvey one in the third for the winners, each side drawing but two penalties in a clean contest.

ONE-SIDED TILT

Hannon's goal from Gott in the second was the only marker Norwood could fashion. Murphy and Heffernan dented the twine for Aces in the first, Chambers helping once. Rusaw, Floyd, Forestall, Naish and Murphy all scored in the second, Chambers, Kane, Doris, Baker and Rusaw getting an assist each. In the third, Kane hit it three times, Brown, Murphy and Floyd getting the others, the latter and Heffernan also having an assist apiece. Norwood drew tw oof the three penalties.

Kelly counted for bantam Aces in the first for their only goal. Haig got two and Henry, Armstrong and Dinsdale one each for Swartz in this heat, Woods, Patterson and Kimball earning an assist each. In the second, Casey tallied three, Brown two and Hamilton one, Dinsdale aiding on two, and Woods and Hamilton one each. Armstrong helped Haig on the last one. The victors were given four of the six penalties. Referees for the night were: Bill Flint, Ed Woodcock, Al Menzies, Bill Post, Ned Vitarelli and Bill Romhanyi.

VETERAN GOALIE — Ray Harding, ace netminder for the senior hockey Petes is in his 17th season as an OHA goaltender for local junior, intermediate and senior squads. Though he has threatened to retire for the past two seasons, Harding is still one of the classiest cage custodians in amateur circles.

LACROSSE COACH—Popular Bob Thorpe has agreed to act again this year as playing coach of the Peterborough Timbermen in OLA senior "A" ranks. He piloted the club to the Mann Cup last year and had a fine playing season as well. His reappointment as coach was announced Friday by club manager Bob Curtin.

Queen Elizabeth Wins

Queen Elizabeth seniors took a 3-1 school hockey win over Queen Alex on Wednesday. Lloyd, Lymburner and Whitnell scored for the winners, the latter and M. Tighe getting an assist each. Johnston counted from Stewart for the losers. This pair and Hamilton showed up well; while Welsh, Whitnell, and Hicks stood out for the victors. Teams:

QA — Macklin, Druce, Tucker, Johnston, Hamilton, Stewart, Kilborn, Moore, Sanderson, Jackson, McGee.

Shutouts Become Common Montreal, Red Wings Crush Chicago And Bruins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Shutouts seem to be coming a little more often these days in the National Hockey League. Wednesday night Toronto Maple Leafs rode over Chicago Black Hawks 3-0. On Thursday night Chicago suffered another whitewashing, this time a 2-0 defeat by Montreal Canadiens. In the night's other game, the league-leading Detroit Red Wings blanked Boston Bruins 4-0. Detroit's victory extended its league lead to seven points over Montreal, which moved into second spot, one point ahead of the Black Hawks.

In Detroit's third shutout of the season over the Bruins, the Stanley Cup champions were faced by the league's leading scorer, Gordie Howe.

Howe scored his 26th and 27th goals of the season to place his season output at 27. That, with his 24 assists, gives him 51 points—seven more than Wally Hergesheimer of New York, who has 44.

WITHOUT ASSISTANCE

Howe's first goal came without assistance late in the first session. He scored again in the second period after being set up by Metro Prystai. Marty Pavelich had opened the scoring for Detroit in the first period.

Tony Leswick notched the last Detroit tally with less than four minutes left in the game.

Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk, Vezina trophy winner last season, stopped 26 shots while registering his fifth shutout of the season, two of them against Boston.

At Chicago the Canadiens and Black Hawks played through more than two periods of scoreless hockey before Montreal found the range.

Floyd Curry passed to John McCormack who scored on a 10-foot shot. About three minutes later Bert Olmstead scored Montreal's second goal with Maurice Richard and Ken Mosdell assisting.

McNeil, in garnering his sixth shutout of the season, made 32 saves compared to 13 for Al Rollins in the Chicago nets.

No games are scheduled for tonight.

FREDERIC CHRISTIAN

Fredric Christian, globe trotter, lecturer and artist photographer brings us one of his most interesting productions, "Italy Today."
We will start our journey in the Bay of Naples. There will be interesting shots of that once magnificent city Napoli. And the famous ruins of Pompeii will remind us of a great civilization that existed.
Then to Rome, the Eternal City. St. Peter's and the thousands of pilgrims, the Tivoli Fountains and views of the crumbling remnants of a dead Empire.
In the serene little city of Florence we will meet the people, their arts and crafts that have made Italy famous throughout history. And the leaning Tower of Pisa is a sight we will long remember.
Northward is the romantic city of Venice—untouched by time. Mountain climbers, the famous St. Bernard dogs, all in vivid color, will stir us with this constant display of beauty, excitement and action. And finally we join the Italians in their outdoor fun and games.

U.S. Girls Take Doubles In Australia

MELBOURNE (AP) — Maureen Connolly, the United States and Wimbledon champion, added to her tennis conquests today. She and her partner, Julie Sampson, won the Australian women's doubles championship.

The American girls won the title by beating Mary Hawton and Beryl Penrose of Australia 6-4, 6-2.

Ken Rosewall, who upset Vic Seixas of Philadelphia in the semi-finals of the singles Thursday, teamed with Lewis Hoad to win the men's double title. They lost the first set but came back to beat their countrymen, Mervyn Rose and Don Candy, 9-11, 6-4, 10-8, 6-4.

HIT TOO HARD

Maureen and Julie hit the ball much too hard to give their Australian opponents a chance.

Louise Brough and Doris Hart last won the women's double title for the U.S. in 1950.

The men's doubles was a hard-hitting match that kept the 3,000 spectators on the edge of their seats.

Rosewall won many points by amazing backhand returns of service.

Hoad's service was so hard that twice in the first set he punched big holes in the net. The net had to be changed after 15 games.

RIDING HIGH—Carl Ridd, leading scorer in the Manitoba senior basketball league, finds a temporary perch atop Wally Perobec in a league game at Winnipeg. Ridd was penalized for charging as the Varsity Grads defeated Paulins 64-58.

Whirling-Dervish Bentley About Ready To Return To Starry Role With Leafs

By JIM BASTABLE

TORONTO (CP)—Maxwell Herbert Bentley is a shy, spindly-legged farmer's son who parlayed a 15-hour work-day into a fat bankroll in big-time hockey. The returns go back into the land.

Max at 32 has no immediate thoughts of retiring although he says in an interview he can "read the writing on the wall." He figures the powerful wrists he developed by milking cows, plus what tough farm work did for his back and legs, will help him come up with another high-scoring year.

The 162-pound, hawk-nosed dandy from Delisle, Sask., has thrilled National Hockey League fans for years with his whirling-dervish, bippety-hop ice antics. The Toronto Maple Leaf star has been sidelined with a back injury the last seven weeks, but most fans will agree he'll return soon with the same bounce that has made him one of the great centres of modern hockey.

Max is living testimony that a natural hockey player can brush off fall training periods, or come back after an injury, and still score goals.

FIRST WITH CHICAGO

The slight, square-shouldered ace whose neat brown hair and quick-pumping legs distinguish him from most other players on a rink-length rush, broke into the NHL with Chicago Black Hawks in 1940.

Since then, he has blazed into the 200-goal circle—there are only six 200-goal men playing today—and was the lure in one of the biggest hockey deals in the game. The Leafs gave up nearly a whole team, five players, to the Hawks for Bentley in 1948.

Max made Leaf officials look good on that one. After starting for a few years with his brother Doug and Bill Mosienko on one of Chicago's greatest lines, Max helped the Leafs to win three straight Stanley Cups and has been a 20-goal-a-year man in seven of his 10 NHL seasons.

He scored 10 goals and eight assists with Toronto in 18 games this season before he was hurt in a game at Montreal. Max had only eight goals at this time last year, when he missed only one game.

His current back injury is one of the worst in his career and he says it's due to the rugged game played these days. "This league is tougher now than it has ever been," he said. "It's been getting progressively tougher since 1948."

ROUGH BUT CLEAN

The toughest of them all is "big Bill Gadsby," Chicago defenceman from Calgary. "He's rough, but clean, and is one of the most underrated players in the league."

It was 13 years ago that the hockey world started to look at the village of Delisle (population 369) as more than a speck on a map.

Mr. and Mrs. Bentley—William and Tillie—were raising a family of 13, seven girls and six boys. Money was scarce. The boys wanted to own their own farms. They turned to hockey to get the money.

Today, the Bentley family has 2,500 acres of rich farmland. The property is divided into six individual farms within a five-mile radius of Delisle and is worked by a Bentley co-operative scheme. At seeding time, the boys work from one farm to another until the job is done. It's the same procedure at harvest time. A combine machine does the job for the whole outfit.

Max, who also owns a cold-storage plant with Doug in Delisle, got his start in the NHL when Doug, then a crowd-pleaser with Chicago, told sports writers: "If you think I'm good you oughta take a look at my brother, Max."

BIG POINT-GETTERS

The Hawks took a look, liked what they saw and Max teamed with Doug after a brief stint in the minors. In 1940-41 the Bentley combination scored 45 points. The next season they totalled 56. The following year Doug scored 73 points and Max 70 to finish one-three in the NHL scoring race.

Max also won the Lady Byng Trophy in 1943 as the most gentlemanly player in the league. In the 1945-46 season he won the Hart Trophy, awarded to the most valuable player. He also took the individual scoring title two years straight—1946 and '47.

Five of the brothers were in the big time. Jack, the eldest, is 50 and played hockey for 19 years. Roy, 48, set-scoring records in the 1920s. Wyatt (Scoop), 40, started with Seattle Ironmen in the now-defunct Pacific Coast League. Reg, 38, once played with Doug and Max. He later moved to Saskatoon Quakers.

Max now is the only Bentley in the NHL. This year he didn't turn up at the Leafs' fall training camp at St. Catharines, Ont. He stayed home for the harvesting

Sometimes he worked until midnight. He figured it was the best training for him. And, when his legs needed a workout, he'd reel off a couple of miles.

COAXED BACK

Max thought of hanging up his skates last year but was coaxed back to the Leafs "by a handsome contract."

"Hockey has been good to me," he said. "I didn't have much when I started but now I've got a nice little farm, a home in Delisle and a wonderful family."

Max has two boys, Lynn, 11, and Gary, 7.

He is a little vague about how much he's made since he broke into the NHL but it has given him a good living on the farm. And, it's back to the farm when his hockey-playing days are over.

RACE ON ICE—Mayor Harry Veiner (right) of Medicine Hat, Alta., was the winner of a challenge foot race on ice against another mayor, Louis Lewry of Moose Jaw, Sask. Proceeds of $197—taken up by collection—went to charity. The race was held between periods of a Western Canada junior hockey league game. After the race Mayor Veiner, 48, and weighing 235 pounds, challenged other Canadian mayors to a 100-yard dash or an Indian wrestling bout.

Vic Seixas Has Rough Day

MELBOURNE (AP)—It was a rough day for Vic Seixas, captain of the United States Davis Cup team. The Philadelphian got off to an unlucky start in the morning when he discovered that a sty, which had developed on his right eye Wednesday, was still with him.

On his way to the Kooyong courts by car he got a flat tire.

He was beaten in the semi-finals of both singles and doubles in the Australian tennis championships.

He was irritable over several line calls in his singles match with Ken Rosewall and in doubles. He missed an easy smash in doubles and hurled his racket to the ground.

Last night, as guest of the Victoria Umpire Association's dinner Seixas apologized for his behavior on the court.

"I behaved rather grouchy today and I want to apologize for that," said Vic. "It was not a successful day for me."

Expect 25,000 At Hialeah

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The ornate gates of Hialeah swing open today for what is expected to be another record-breaking 40 days in Florida's long thoroughbred racing season, taking up where Tropical Park left off.

A crowd of about 25,000 is expected for the $15,000-added Inaugural, with a dozen three-year-olds and upward competing at six furlongs.

Hialeah President John C. Clark predicts a gain of six to eight per cent in attendance and 10 per cent in betting. Last year the track drew to 771,708 fans who wagered a record $60,637,049.

Heading the list of entries for today's feature is Duntreath Farm's Starecast, carrying 120 pounds including jockey Porter Roberts.

More than $1,800,000 in over-all purse money will be distributed, an increase of $300,000 over the 1952 meeting. Hialeah's top races will be the $100,000 Widener Feb. 21 and the $100,000 Flamingo a week later.

Bruno Robak from North Vancouver, B.C., was the artist whose painting was chosen for the $100 annual award by the Canadian Society of Painters in Watercolour. His painting was selected by this organization as one of the most outstanding in the current exhibition which is now at the Art Gallery of Toronto.

Every year, as a token of appreciation for their support, this society presents one of its best paintings to a public gallery which has shown the Watercolour exhibitions, and this year's award winner, Mr. Bobak's "Plant Forms" was given to the Art Gallery of Hamilton. On hand at the opening to receive the painting for the Gallery, was the well-known Hamilton artist, Ray Mead.

The exhibition of the Canadian Society of Painters in Watercolour will be at the Toronto Gallery until February 22. From there it will be taken by the National Gallery, and after a showing in Ottawa, be exhibited in many parts of the country.

Canadian Coaches Approve Platoon System Change

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian intercollegiate coaches are in general agreement that the death of the two-platoon system in United States college football is a good thing. But some are apprehensive over the way it was killed.

"They did the right thing, but they did it the wrong way," said Toronto's Bob Masterson on the rule changes announced Wednesday by the National Collegiate Athletic Association which will make it impossible for a coach to divide his squad into offensive and defensive specialists.

While a measure of two-platoon football exists in the Big Four and Western Interprovincial leagues, it has never been an issue in Canadian college circles. All coaches agreed that the 24-man limit on the number of players permitted to dress for a game, plus the lack of suitable material on a college campus, makes the system impracticable for them.

METRAS AGREES

"Varsity is as close as any team in our league to using the system," said Al Smith, coach of Hamilton McMaster Marauders who played exhibition games against the four intercollegiate clubs last fall and will make their official entry into the loop this year. He added that Johnny Metras of London's University of Western Ontario Mustangs agreed.

"Uusually the best offensive players are the best defensive players in our colleges," he said.

The coaches felt that the small American colleges, which had suffered most under the two-platoon system, still would take the worst of it under the new rules which prevent a player from entering the game more than once a quarter.

Frank Tindall of Queen's described the dilemma:

A player was benched early in the third quarter because he was tired. His substitute was hurt on the next play. A big college would have two or three good men ready to send in, while the small college would be helpless.

"Suppose a team has only one kicker," Masterson said. "If they pull him after the first kick, they're stuck until the next quarter. If they leave him in for every play, by the end of the game he's no good for kicking or anything else."

NOT LIKELY EXTENDED

It appeared unlikely that the rule-change would be extended to professional football in the U.S. or Canada. Both Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, and W. C. Foulds, chairman of the Canadian Rugby Union's rules committee, said no change is contemplated in their organizations.

Frank Clair, coach of the Grey Cup champion Toronto Argonauts, said he felt the NCAA change would help the professional clubs. "It will force the colleges to develop two-way players, and they'll be better pros as a result."

PLAN NEW GOLF TOURNEY

MONTREAL (CP) — Establishment of invitation two-man team golf matches, embracing half-a-dozen countries and serving as a prelude to the United States-Canada professional matches which had their inaugural last summer, was announced last night.

The announcement was made on behalf of John Jay Hopkins, sponsor of the tournamept that brought together six-man teams in 1952 from the professional golfers' associations of the neighboring countries. The U.S. team won the inaugural tournament 20½ points to 6½.

The new invitation tournament will be held in Montreal June 2 and 3. The international PGA tournament will be held June 5-7.

Invitations have been sent by Hopkins to Britain, Australia, the United States, Mexico and Canada. There is a possibility other countries, perhaps from South America may be represented.

Gordon Stringer, making the announcement on behalf of Hopkins, described the tournament as a possible forerunner of "something in the nature of Davis Cup play in golf."

Bobby Locke, the South African golf wizard, has agreed to participate. Which team he will play with is not yet known. Locke, honorary member of the Canadian PGA, played with the Canadian team in the Hopkins trophy matches here last summer.

Canada's representatives are not yet known but may include Stan Leonard of Vancouver.

Query Proposal To Broadcast A Childbirth

OTTAWA (CP)—Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) asked Thursday whether the government plans to do anything about CBC plans to broadcast a childbirth.

Revenue Minister McCann, who reports to Parliament for the publicly-owned CBC, said he would refer the question to the CBC and give a reply later.

Mr. Fleming said CBC press and information services have announced the childbirth broadcast will be made Jan. 30.

TO BE REBROADCAST

Ron Fraser of Toronto, head of the CBC's press and information services, said in an interview that the childbirth broadcast is scheduled to be heard on the Trans-Canada Network between 2.15 p.m. and 3 p.m. EST Jan. 30.

It will be a rebroadcast of a program broadcast Nov. 30 over the CBC's Dominion Network outlet in Toronto—Station CJBC.

The program was prepared by Allan Anderson in collaboration with the Women's College Hospital in Toronto. Mr. Fraser said he believed the program was arranged while the hospital was campaigning for funds.

MANY FAVORABLE LETTERS

One letter criticizing the broadcast was received. Several letters praised the broadcast.

Mr. Fraser said the program consisted of interviews with doctors and nurses. He could not recall if Mr. Anderson had been in the delivery room when the birth described took place.

"It was a delicate subject treated quite well," he said.

It was decided to rebroadcast the program because it was believed to be the type that women in many parts of Canada would like to hear.

Cancer Specialist Refutes Russians

MADRAS, India (AP)—A noted Swedish cancer specialist said Thursday he found that Russian doctors had accurately diagnosed the case of a high Soviet patient in 1948 and gave him the correct treatment—but the patient died in August of that year.

Dr. Eils Berven, 65, has persistently refused to disclose the identity of the Soviet leader he examined as a consultant in Moscow at the Kremlin's invitation.

Some Swedish newspapers have speculated that Dr. Berven was called for consultation on the late Soviet Politburo member, Andrei A. Zhdanov, whose death in August, 19.., now is attributed by Moscow to deliberate malpractice of a group of "terrorist doctors"—some linked to an international Jewish organization.

A. D. McKenzie Publisher, Dies In Sarnia

SARNIA (CP)—Andrew Dominion McKenzie, 70, who started his newspaper career at the age of 10 and became part-owner of a chain of four daily newspapers and a radio station in southwestern Ontario, died here Thursday.

Mr. McKenzie started carrying papers for the old St. Thomas Times, and then began working in the pressroom. When the late L.H. Dingman became publisher of the Times in 1903, he picked Andrew McKenzie out of the pressroom and made him an advertising salesman. He soon became advertising manager.

In 1917 W. M. Lowrey affected a deal with Johnson and Leslie McAdam, publishers of the Sarnia Canadian, and Henry Gorman, publisher of the Sarnia Observer, to amalgamate the two papers and chose Mr. McKenzie as business manager. In 1921 Mr. Lowrey and Mr. McKenzie, who had by this time become a partner, sold the Canadian Observer to the late Henry M. Hueston and Allan Holmes, publishers of the Galt Reporter.

At this point Mr. McKenzie devoted his time to the development of his south Sarnia properties.

RE-ENTERED FIELD

A year after the sale Mr. McKenzie re-entered the newspaper field, becoming vice-president of the Sarnia Canadian Observer Limited. With Mr. Holmes and Mr. Hueston he bought the Galt Reporter, the Welland Tribune and the Woodstock Sentinel-Review and operated them until June, 1943, when they were sold to the Thomson Company Limited, owned by Roy H. Thomson.

With Mr. Hueston he was co-founder of radio station CHOK, Sarnia, which was purchased two years ago by Claude Irvine.

He is survived by his widow, the former Alice M. Sharpe, a son, William A., publisher of the Leamington Post; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Kenny, Sarnia, and a sister, Mrs. James Boyle, Pittsburgh.

Funeral services will be held Saturday. Burial will be in Lakeview cemetery.

Tribute Paid By Ottawa To Dr. Plunkett

Ottawa newspapers paid tribute this week to Dr. J. E. Plunkett, a native of Peterborough, who died in the capital on Sunday.

Mayor Charlotte Whitton spoke of Dr. Plunkett as one of Ottawa's outstanding physicians. She said he was "more than a man who brought an unusual endowment and fine training to the care and healing of the sick. He had a great and gentle understanding, a warm compassion."

IRREPARABLE LOSS

The Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of National Health, spoke of Dr. Plunkett's death as "an irreparable loss to his community, his profession and his nation."

In an editorial, the Ottawa Journal had this to say: "Ottawa loses by his early death not only a fine physician of wide renown, but the kind of man a community holds dear. Healing and health he was able to bring to thousands, but to those whose span was running out—and who knew it—Dr. Plunkett was no less helpful. From the deep of his so young eyes—he was but 52 — came cheer and understanding and serenity even though he knew that to some that was all he could give."

The editorial went on to say that men like Dr. Plunkett "are more than the salt of the earth. When they go—whether they be doctors or scientists or soldiers or civil servants—we cannot usefully complain that they strove too hard in our behalf. We can only bow our thanksgiving for their lives and whisper it to their kin."

Dr. Plunkett, a specialist in internal medicine, was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Plunkett and lived as a boy in Peterborough attending primary and secondary schools here. He leaves his widow, a son and a daughter.

Key Documents Requested For Jury Study

NEW YORK (AP) — The jury pondering the fate of 13 second-string United States Communist party leaders charged with conspiracy had key documents sent in for further study today after it failed to agree in 7½ hours of deliberation.

Before they were sent to a hotel for the night, the jurors asked that several documents used as evidence be ready for their examination when they reconvened.

The deliberate pace of the jurors was in keeping with the tone of the whole trial. They got the case Thursday after 8½ months of testimony and arguments.

Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock warned the jury in a two-hour charge:

"Ideas are not crimes."

NOT AN ISSUE

He said Communist party membership was not an issue, and added that the 13 were not charged with actually advocating overthrow of the U. S. government by force.

What the prosecution must have proved, the judge said, was that they "conspired with each other and with others" to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government — as charged. Conviction carries a possible maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The defendants — 10 men and three women — took over the reins of the Communist party after the conviction of 11 top Reds in 1949 on the same charges. They held positions ranging from national committee posts to local chairmanships in the party.

The 13 were indicted June 20, 1951, under the 13-year-old Smith Act.

EDMONTON (CP)—"You can hear the noise 25 miles away—it's something awful."

That was how Gabe Buesch, Chauvin hotel owner, described the natural-gas fire burning uncontrolled near the town of Chauvin 187 miles southeast of Edmonton.

In a telephone conversation with the Edmonton bureau of The Canadian Press, Buesch said the flames weren't as high as they were earlier, only "about 150 feet in the air."

Purge Of Jews Serious Thing Pearson Says

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson says there is cause for the "deepest anxiety" in the "ominous and familiar pattern" of anti-semitism developing behind the Iron Curtain. He holds out the possibility Russia may revive the tragedy of Nazi Germany's violences against the Jews.

He was asked in the Commons Thursday by David Croll (Liberal-Toronto Spadina) to comment on the implications "of recent signs of growing anti-semitism" in Russia and her satellite countries.

Mr. Pearson said:

"Communist action against Jews has been recently highlighted in the purge in Czechoslovakia. There have been indications that similar purges may be in the making in other satellite capitals

SAME PATTERN

"The news from Moscow that six doctors have been arrested in that city, charged with fantastic and obviously trumped-up crimes, fits into the same pattern. There has not yet been time for the department of external affairs to receive sufficient information on this latest development to make possible a balanced assessment of its probable implications. That it may prove to be very serious indeed is, I think, obvious to all of us.

"Terrible atrocities stemmed from unbridled anti-semitism in Nazi Germany. It would be a tragedy and a crime if the rulers of Communist Russia were now planning to revive this dark and evil force from the past and to make use of it for their own ends."

Suggests Politicians Keep Out "Quacks"

TORONTO (CP)—The Rev. Georges-Henri Levesque, dean of Laval University's faculty of social sciences, said last night politicians should form associations to keep out "quacks."

"Impostors are many," he said in a speech prepared as the last of four public lectures given in connection with the centenary of St. Michael's College.

The white-robed Dominican monk said physicians admitted to their ranks only those who could show official academic certificates attesting their competence. Politics, one branch of social sciences, was far behind medicine on this point.

Ottawa Group Gives Superb Performance

OTTAWA (CP)—The Saturday Players of the Ottawa Little Theatre were praised last night for a "superb" performance at the eastern Ontario regional drama festival.

Adjudicator John Allen said Director Julia Murphy had paid "superb honor" to the late French playwright Jean Giradoux with her production of "The Madwoman of Chaillot."

"This producer has distilled the very essence of what Giradoux has to say," Mr. Allen said. "She has found a way to realize it in every single thing that happened on stage. . It was a superbly consistent interpretation from beginning to end."

The adjudicator had high praise for nearly every actor, but said the group's performance shone above individual performances.

"There was a feeling of ensemble, of working together, that made me purr with pleasure."

Gets Medal In Big Ceremony But Soldier Sure It's Error

By JIM BECKER

WESTERN FRONT, Korea (AP) —It was the darndest thing. One minute Pte. Walter M. Johnson was in the line and the next he was hustled off to a spit and polish ceremony in Seoul.

Three days ago division headquarters rang up his front-line anti-aircraft outfit and told them to send back the 21-year-old soldier, only eight months in the army and only two of those in Korea.

An order is an order, and so back he jeeped to the division command post. There the division commander said the Greeley, Neb., soldier was going to get a medal from Thailand. So was the division commander.

"I told them it was some sort of a mistake," he related. But, no, the next thing he knew he was in a plane bound for Seoul along with the division general.

There Pte. Johnson was lined up with seven high-ranking officers. A Thai officer pinned on his chest the "silver medal of the crown of Thailand." Bands played, an honor guard marched.

No one could tell him why he was being thus honored. Thailand has a battalion in the war, but Johnson will take oath he never served with it.

"I don't have the slightest idea why I got the medal," Johnson said. "I never saw Thailanders before I got the medal. I've never been to Thailand and—by the way—where is Thailand?"

Truman Predicts Red Scheme Collapse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retiring President Truman predicts Soviet's aggressive schemes will collapse, sooner or later, under the growing weight of the free world's defences.

In a farewell address from the White House Thursday night, the President said this collapse will lead to a new golden age — to an era of spreading world authority, and of peace "as far ahead as man can see."

Truman took over the country's radio and television networks for a personal, sometimes emotional, review of his eight turbulent years in the White House.

He pointed to dangers ahead—of a possible new world war that would dig the grave of Western civilization and of its Communist enemy alike.

DON'T WANT A-WAR

He disclaimed for the United States any will to provoke such a conflict by hurling ultimatums or by using terrible new weapons: "Starting an atomic war is totally unthinkable for rational men."

He called for complete public support of his successor, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Finally, the outgoing President ended his valedictory with a gentle: "Good night — and God bless you all."

As he did so, Mrs. Truman and Margaret appeared on either side of him for the TV cameras.

Truman's last address from the office he will vacate Tuesday came only a few hours after he handed a firm piece of advice to his successor:

APPROVES CONFERENCE

Wide-open press conferences may be tough on you but don't give them up — the people are entitled to them.

It was at just such a session with newspaper men — his 324th and last — that the President read a formal statement upholding the right of reporters to ask the President questions in open meeting.

It's important to a democracy, Truman said, that "every medium of communication between the citizens and their government, particularly the President, be kept open as far as possible."

He went on:

"This kind of news conference where reporters can ask any kind of question they can dream of — directly to the President of the United States — illustrates how strong and how vital our democracy is. There is no other country in the world where the chief of state submits to such unlimited questions."

SPECIAL REASON

To the 257 correspondents who squeezed into the conference room, Truman made it plain his statement was prompted by unconfirmed reports that Eisenhower might give up or at least modify the rough-and-tumble press conferences that have been a feature of the Roosevelt and Truman administrations.

Truman avoided controversy in his radio-television appearance. He did, however, try by implication to spike two of the Republicans' chief indictments of his administration.

"We have averted World War III up to now," Truman said, "and we may already have succeeded in establishing conditions which can keep that war from happening as far ahead as man can see." This counters the Republican claim that the administration has allowed the U. S. to drift close to a new world war.

He asserted that "real prosperity" has been brought to the great majority of the American people. Here Truman challenged the Republican charge that the country is perched shakily on the crest of a war economy.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Farm Forum To Discuss Questions of Surpluses of Agricultural Products and Their Marketing . . . Important Broadcast Monday Night . . . Norwood Fair Annual Meeting Largely Attended . . . Junior Farmers' Choir Project Hold Promise.

The enterprise of the National Farm Forum is manifested in the speakers on the broadcast Monday, January 19, on the subject "Embarrassing Surpluses" (of food).

They represent four countries. From Holland, Count Peter Van Lynden of the Netherlands Federation of Agriculture; from Great Britain, Fred Scott of the Farmers' Union of England and Wales; from the United States, Alan Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau; and from Canada, Dr. H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. Chairman will be Bob Graham, of the CBC farm department.

This question of food surpluses is a paramount problem of Canadian agriculture. It is receiving a concentration of attention during this rural stock-taking month of January. The Ontario Federation of Agriculture in Toronto last week devoted four hours or more to a panel discussion on a general question, "Where are we going in the agricultural industry?" Many of the delegates from all over the province took part in it from the floor of the convention.

At the western Ontario Dairymen's annual meeting in Hamilton this week, this same subject was given a place of prominence in a panel presentation Wednesday afternoon with E. M. Biggs, Toronto Dairy Commissioner of Ontario, presiding as chairman.

Farm Forum Monday night enlarges the scope of opinion and deliberation by virtually an international panel, and finally this subject may receive attention from the Canadian Federation of Agriculture beginning next week at its annual meetings in Vancouver, B.C.

MUST BUY TO SELL

Out of all this present deliberation and counsel may come some practically helpful propsals. No easy solution emerged from the Ontario Federation's floor forum.

Dr. E. C. Hope, economist of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said: "I can see no solution until we come to our senses on the basis of trade." And he plainly meant some revision of freer politics in countries of high production, such as the United States and Canada.

Dr. Hope said Japan wanted to send more of its goods to Canada, but when they began arriving in quantity we put a tariff on them, "and the U.S. are worse than we are."

"The so-called currency problem is essentially simple. Can other countries produce and sell enough goods in exchange for the goods we'd produce and sell them?"

Since the western harvest was taken off, Canada was facing a problem of haulage, getting sufficient freight cars and trains to carry grain to both Maritime coasts. "If ships were available we could send wheat and barley to Burma and India, and maybe sell them some milk powder. I don't think those people know what condensed milk looks like."

As for shipping pork to India, Dr. Hope said that Mohammedans didn't eat pork, a statement that has been questioned as to its dietary correctness. At any rate, he said the problem and expense would be terrific. He also declared that there were no hungry people in Britain.

On the question from the floor as how acceptable currency could be brought into effect to facilitate exchange of goods, Dr. Hope's answer was quoted above. And he added the referene to Japan obviously to emphasize willingness to trade in goods produced by other countries.

TIMELY SUBJECT

The OFA panel debate covered in a general way factors of price control, commodity quotas, and so on. Some of these aspects of the broad problem may be heard in Monday night's discussion. This broadcast is adventitiously well timed, coming as it does with embarrassing surplus of pork, dairy products, and even wheat from the overflowing granaries in western Canada, where deliveries are at present controlled on a quota system.

Farmers should not miss this Monday night broadcast. As some of the OFA delegates said, thinking on this highly important subject of producing and marketing should begin among farmers themselves. On the other hand, some of the members contended that leadership should be coming from the top. In the meantime, one western proposal was to the effect that Canadian farmers should be canvassing the question of how they can buy more of Britain's products.

COST OF FARM LABOR

Dr. H. L. Patterson, Toronto, economist of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, said at the panel discussion that farm wages in this country had increased from $21 a month plus board in 1936 to $105 plus board for an average hired man, in 1952. Nothing else in Canada had gone up five times in cost of labor.

"That increase hits industries that are not mechanised, such as the dairy industry, to a very considerable extent, but not so much grain growing."

Dr. Paterson used much the same terms as did Robert H. Saunders, Ontario Hydro chairman, in his speech to Peterborough Rotary Club this week, particularly in regard to the high standard of living the Canadian people had achieved and were enjoying.

STEEL SETS THE PACE

Dr. Patterson said the steel industry was setting the pace in Canada, that it was a high wage industry wherever it existed, and it brought about a high standard of living. "And it makes competition for help terrific."

He cited the Canadian home market as having increased "tremendously," and "the full effect of it has not been seen yet."

New immigration was not entirely the cause of increased consumption. Canada's own population was growing and a great many young men were remaining here instead of going to the U.S. for work.

200,000 Lb. Producer

The Holstein cow Katherine Mercedes Dutchland, owned by Harold Bingham & Son, Georgetown, has produced 186,892 lbs. milk containing 6,934 lbs. fat, average test 3.71 per cent on twice a day milking in twelve lactations. She is on test in her thirteenth lactation, and has actually produced to January 8, 198,590 lbs. milk. She will finish her current test May 27 when she will have produced well over the enviable 200,000 lb. mark.

Tractor Door Prize

A Ford tractor heads the list of door prizes to be given away at the annual show of the Ontario Retail Farm Equipment Dealers' Association at the Coliseum, Exhibition Park, Toronto, January 20-23.

Other prizes include: Tractor mounted cultivator, combination refrigerator and deep freeze, a loader, stationary engine, and so on, total value $4,000. The show is held in conjunction with the convention of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association. This is the biggest indoor display of farm equipment in Canada, covering 115,000 square feet.

Ontario and Federal Departments of Agriculture are providing educational exhibits.

Spring Show Meeting

A meeting of the officers and directors of the Central Ontario Spring Show will be held in Peterborough Thursday, January 29, at 10.30 a.m., in the board room of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The entertainment committee and the Fair features committee members are being urged to attend to deal with the entertainment program of the show.

Juniors' Choir Call . . . .

Irvine McIntosh will be chairman of a panel on the question, "What machinery should I buy?" for the young men's group at the meeting of the Junior Farmers, Tuesday, January 20, at the Normal School. Ralph Gregg, of Lindsay, will take part in the discussion. The girls have a separate meeting for the corresponding first part of the program.

The Juniors' choir project has already gained favor with the directors, and the first meeting for organization purposes will be held at the Normal School Monday, January 26, at 8.15 p.m.

Junior representatives have discussed the choir plan with Charles E. Allen, organist and choir director at George St. United Church, and it is understood that they have enlisted his interest.

Ken Best, assistant agricultural representative, is hoping that this undertaking which he has been promoting may materialize in a place on the program of the Central Ontario Spring Show beginning March 17. Maybe that is hoping too much at the outset, but the Juniors are recruiting a large attendance for the January 26 rally to the cause of choral music in the Peterborough rural community.

Milking Shorthorns

"I believe all Shorthorns will milk," said Charlie Thorne of Galt at the Dual Purpose Shorthorn Club's dinner Wednesday night. "Some will produce more milk than others. If some farmers who keep Shorthorns were not so doggone lazy to sit down and milk, they'd get milk."

Presumably that comment was interjected by Mr. Thorne for effect of humor.

Len Trotter of Madoc, another Dual Purpose herd owner, said: "I never thought there was room enough under a Shorthorn for milking."

Lou Shaw of Otonabee put the closure on that interlude: "The Shorthorn people don't have to work so hard as others."

New Lakehurst Forum

Harold Lewis reports another Peterborough Farm Forum organized at Lakehurst.

Forums this week are all largely attended according to the secretarial summaries: Central Smith, 15, at the Ed Bulmer home with Lorne Reynolds discussion leader; 14 at Coldsprings, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Ferguson with Mrs. J. Tully leader.

Stewart Hall, 28, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Oliver, W. W. Dawson leader. Beaver group, 16, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jopling, Jim McConkey leader.

Springville, 22, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Johnston, Rev. A. E. Larke leader.

Lakehurst, 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Allen, Bert Weiss leader. Fairview, 21, at the Cephas Heard home, Maple Row, Otonabee, 9, at the James Fitzgerald home, Mrs. Gordon Robinson leader.

Westwood, 15, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Graham, with Mrs. Eric Pulfer leader. Pine Grove, 20, at the home of the Elwood Dunford, leader Chester Hamilton.

Brief summary of some of the comments repeated in the reports on the subject: "Where are the new leaders?"

Pine Grove: "Parents do not encourage the young people enough."

Westwood: "Could we try to bring the Junior Farmer organizations closer to our own community?"

Maple Row: "There are several clubs and organizations in the community, but there are no young people in the immediate group to take part at present; we are unable to make use of them."

Fairview: "No job is so binding as farming; it is difficult to get away to attend any more than purely local meetings; the shorter hours of city labor entice many into its employment. Also, indifference on the part of the rank and file of farmers to the need for organization."

Lakehurst: "Young people may lack confidence in themselves."

Springville: "Confidence is developed through public speaking contests, which grows as the youth goes forward and branches out into the many opportunities awaiting him. Often self-consciousness in a child can be best overcome by an understanding parent."

Beaver: "Criticism often destroys a potential leader before he has had sufficient experience. When sending a delegation from any community group, some promising junior members should be included."

Stewart Hall: "We don't give young people and children enough responsibility as they grow up to fit them for office, while some leaders hold office too long. Watson H. Porter made a grand chairman. He kept the panel in line on the topic and to the point."

Coldsprings: "Time and distance enter into the picture. Evening chores may prevent a young man from being on time for a meeting. There is also non-interest of some of the young people."

Central Smith: "Some young people have not the time to give to leadership. Lack of finances may keep young people from assuming office."

Norwood Fair Meeting

Norwood Fair broadly enhanced its reputation among exhibitors and the general public last year, handled a substantial revenue, paid all its debts but added little to its physical credit.

That's an outline of the treasury report by G. A. Brethen at the annual meeting of the Norwood Agricultural Society in the town hall Thursday night. The financial statement requires only auditing for publication in the near future.

Total receipts were $10,261.08 including $4,090.57 in the gate take, plus $308.50 from the evening concert and dance; $1,670 in grants, government and municipal; $862.28 from concessions; $856.28 entry fees; plus other items.

And, the bank balance at the beginning of 1951 was $3,139.21.

The bulkiest item of expenditure was $5,646.66 in prize money. "Very few of the 252 fairs in Ontario last year paid out what we did, more than 50 per cent of our receipts going back into agricultural purposes." Purchase of Yorkshire hogs, an outstanding enterprise in the agricultural society's efforts to improve the industry in East Peterborough, cost $1,500; administration expense, the cost of operating the fair, was $598.84; the secretary's salary for two years was $700.

Mr. Brethen said that when all the expenses were paid, the operating profit for the year was $277, leaving around $3,000 still in the bank.

Mr. Brethen emphasized the fact that the Fair as a show of livestock and agricultural products generally had set new records with large increases in the number of animals shown and the number of breeders attracted.

Alf Elmhirst said the 144 sheep were five times more than ever exhibited before at Norwood. Horace Hawkey mentioned the Hereford cattle as exceeding in number of the display of that breed at Peterborough Exhibition.

The ideal of the directors, Mr. Brethen remarked, was to raise the number and quality of the exhibits for the benefit of breeders who were interested in the placing of their livestock agains strong company, and also as a sound attraction for the public.

"There is no use in having a fair that brings out only a herd or two in some of the classes," the president said.

From the new Class B level, Mr. Brethen said, the board would have to consider further progress. One proposal was to expand the Fair to two exhibition days, Thanksgiving Day as usual since the Fair was revived after the war, and the preceding Saturday.

However, this is a problem for the incoming directors, who will likely consider also a building project for the accommodation of the numbers of livestock which may be expected after the response of so many breeders in 1952.

The annual meeting appeared to be a community event with a large attendance that occupied most of the space of the town hall.

Horace Hawkey offered some hope of the Hereford championship show coming to Norwood Fair this year.

BREEDERS OF THE "BEEF AND MILK" CATTLE, Dual Purpose Shorthorns of Peterborough and District, had as guests at Assumption Hall, Otonabee, Wednesday night (left to right), Charles Thorne, Galt R.R. 2, president of the Ontario Shorthorn Club; Dave Gove, Guelph, representative of the Canadian Shorthorn Association; A. M. Barr, Principal of Kemptville Agricultural School; Leonard Trotter, Madoc, retiring president of the district association. The dinner-business annual was attended by 130 men and women, some of them breeders of other dairy and beef cattle.

Edmund Ruth New President

Edmund Ruth of Emily township is the new president of Peterborough and district Dual Purpose Shorthorn Association. He was elected at the dinner meeting in Assumption Hall, Otonabee, Wednesday night attended by 130 men and women of quite a wide area.

Vice-presidents are: Dorian Cassidy of Ernsville, Frontenac county and Harold Millen of Emily township.

Frank Wray of Tamworth was re-elected secretary, and Leonard Trotter, of Madoc, immediate past president, was elected treasurer.

Directors include: Donald Franks, William Chatten, Joe Sullivan, Tom McCamus and L. Trotter.

The success of the dinner meeting demonstrated again the enthusiasm which pervades the ranks of the milking Shorthorn breeders.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Noel Abbott of Vercheres, Que., who came all the way to be present; Charles Thorne, Galt RR 2, president of the Ontario Shorthorn Club; Principal A. M. Barr of Kemptville Agricultural School who showed colored pictures taken on his trip to Great Britain with the Ontario Junior Farmers' judging team of three boys in 1950, and W. N. T. Ashton of Napanee, agricultural representative.

Representing other cattle groups were: Lou Shaw of the Snorthorn breeders and N. W. McConkey of Peterborough Holstein breeders.

Mr. Thorne traced the history of the Dual Purpose Shorthorns from their emergence in Durham county, England, towards the end of the 18th century. The first record of import to Canada was in 1825 by the New Brunswick Department of Agriculture. Until not so many years ago, Mr. Thorne said, they were commonly known here in Ontario as Durhams.

Breeders should not be too wrapped up in pedigrees, important as that background has been and should be, Mr. Thorne said. "That's not the only thing we should be concerned about. Due consideration should be given to the quality of the cattle that make your foundation stock. Some breeders think that if they can get a bull from a 15,000 lb. milk cow all his calves should turn out to be 15,000 lb. cows, and that's a wrong impression."

"I believe we can do more harm to our own interests as breeders if we are considering only milk and butterfat production, rather than the beef factor."

Mr. Thorne said the Dual Purpose Shorthorns would do the most for the "mixed farmer."

"They belong especially in the mixed farming that is carried on throughout this part of the province and in western Ontario. They will produce more cheaply the products you want to produce than any other breed you have. They are a strong well-built breed and will outlive most of the special dairy breeds."

Len Trotter said he was opposed from experience to crossing the Scottish and Dual Purpose Shorthorns back and forth.

"The Dual Purpose breeders should keep the types separate. If you're breeding Scottish Shorthorns, they should be kept Scottish Shorthorns," Mr. Trotter said.

New Method To Study Farming In West

REGINA (CP)—A new technique in investigation is being used by the royal commission which is inquiring into all phases of Saskatchewan's agriculture and rural life.

The commission has been holding public meetings to find out what farm people are thinking. At the meetings, the audience is split into five or six discussion groups.

The same pattern of discussion in small groups was followed at conferences in Regina and Saskatoon of representatives of organizations with province-wide rural and urban interests.

W. B. Baker, commission chairman, emphasized at these meetings that the main purpose of the discussions is to get assistance in selecting the key rural problems to be investigated, to interest as many as posible in the inquiry and to stimulate the preparation of briefs.

The six commissioners narrowed their broad field down to eight suggested areas of study. These are farm management, marketing, farmer organizations, coordination of services, research, extension, rural settlement patterns and alternative employment in related industries.

Woodsman Save That Tree But Not For The Furnace

The farm wood lot is not so hot, acording to a Lakefield district farmer, whose opinion is supported by a Cavan man. They heat their homes with oil and also with less labor, virtually none at all, and probably with some profit. That sounds like a flaw in the popular notion of the self-containment of the rural way of life.

This was the last topic in a conversation of four farmers and a Peterborough cereal company man on the train from Toronto the other evening. In fact, they were putting on their overcoats when mention was made of the advantage of having a stand of hardwood on the home estate.

Memories of a big farm home and the compounded comforts of a big furnace, maple logs and a deep feather tick, old-fashioned winters with deep snow and frost that sounded as if it was cracking the long verandah, a home of cheerful hospitality, substance and plenty, seemed to retreat before this expression of the modern touch in rural domestic heating.

There is substance, too, in the background of the several oil burning farmers who got a word in before the train stopped. It seems that by the time you hire help to fell the trees, and trim them, then cut them into shorter lengths and haul them home, add to that work and expense the final cutting into required furnace lengths, with subsequent handling, firing and removal of ashes, quite an item of expense has been incurred in spite of the factor of home produced raw material.

POWER SAW MIGHT HELP

Of course, it was admitted that if you want to work with a power saw you'd still need some help, but the time element of operation would be reduced. That was about the only concession from the oil men winding up what had apparently been, to them, a satisfactory exposition of the rural side of various other items in the train ride discussion.

The Cavan man argued that there was nothing wrong about the wood lot except they were too few. He wasn't thinking of fuel either. He's a confirmed conservationist, contending that the woods were needed to retain moisture in the land, to provide a means of rain and melting snow soaking into the soil round about, against the probability of a considerable dry spell at midsummer. He also said on the side of the bush lot that the trees at maturity had increasing value as timber, or if they were conifers they be economically cropped for cash at Christmas time in a market that was not receding.

URBAN DELUSION?

Evidently the city man knows less and less about rural economics. A stack of dry wood out near the drive shed in September carried a suggestion of ample fuel cheaply come by, but it tends to be another urban delusion, and in the final reckoning, so they said, there is realistic advantage in a tankful of oil.

Warns Beef Cattle Men Of U.S. Market Effect

Noel Abbott, of Vercheres, Que., warned beef cattle breeders against excess optimism about prices in the U.S. market when the border is cleared of trade here on March 1.

He motored up from Quebec to attend the Dual Purpose Shorthorn Association's dinner meeting at Assumption Hall in Otonabee Wednesday night.

"I think the price is more likely to go down than up, because beef is cheaper over there than our controlled price," Mr. Abbott said.

He said his opinion was based on observations on a recent trip as far south as Florida.

Farmers are moving south in the U.S. for the advantage of pasturing their cattle 11 months out of 12. For the other month they can grow a green crop. Mr. Abbott said this switch in agricultural interest could have a revolutionary effect. One thousand acre farms could feed 1,000 or more head of cattle.

"One Ontario breeder is shipping Scottish Shorthorns to Florida and crossing them with Brahma cattle from India."

That is similar to some breeding practice in Texas to introduce a strain from Asia that is resistant to hotter weather than the Shorthorns have experienced.

Mr. Abbott suggested that Canadian breeders should concentrate on top quality cattle because there was always a market for them. His other item of advice was grass silage as a means of cutting down cost of production.

"I guess it sounds too simple, too easy to work, but anyone can try."

On his own farm, a lush spring crop of grass is cut at 18 inches using a mower and tractor. When two acres are done, the tractor is hitched to a buck rake. Half a ton of silage is picked up at a time, and is stacked in a field near the barn.

"We don't think you need a pit or a permanent silo," Mr. Abbott said. "We put some snow fence around it, or boards on three sides. Make sure the grass is wet."

The tractor is run over the stack to compress it, and that treatment is repeated every morning for two weeks, ten minutes at a time. "If you like, you can put a layer of straw on top and a few inches of earth. So far this winter we've had no trouble from frost. There was about an inch of it, no more."

Mr. Abbott's advice was to the effect that farmers should work out means of cheaper production.

Mr. and Mrs. Abbott were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Trotter, near Madoc, Wednesday night, and left for home Thursday.

Seek 2 Missing Men

TILLSONBURG (CP)—Two men who left their homes here 10 days ago on a lumber-buying trip have disappeared under "peculiar circumstances," police said Thursday. Carmen Shackleton, 37, and William Cowan, 52, left to buy lumber in the St—ayr M.dsitsic.tr lumber in the St. Marys district. No word has been received from them since.

"Carnation Homestead Daisy Madcap" has given an average of 46 quarts of milk per day for a year, seven times the amount of milk obtained from an average cow. Each day's production contained enough butterfat to prepare more than five pounds of butter. Daisy, who is nearly nine feet long and five feet high, weighs 1900 pounds, and eats nearly three times as much as the average cow.

Charge Liberal MP Draws More Pay Than Days In Year

OTTAWA (CP)—A Progressive Conservative member of Parliament said Thursday night that a Liberal member drew parliamentary and reserve army pay in 1951 for more days than there are in the calendar. Carl Nickle (PC-Calgary West) named the Liberal member as Lt.-Col. E. W. George, who represents the constituency of Westmorland and also commands the 8th New Brunswick Hussars reserve unit. He called for a "full explanation" from Mr. George and said this was "particularly necessary" because Mr. George was "one of the government party members of the committee on defence expenditures charged with specific task of analyzing and checking on the vast expenditures for defence being made by our Canada."

The Calgary member made his charge during debate on the government's motion to set up a defence expenditures committee to study the controversial Currie report on irregularities in the army works branch.

Mr. George was not in the Commons at the time and could not be reached immediately for comment.

NOT SURE OF STATUS

Rene Beaudoin, deputy speaker, said following Mr. Nickle's speech he was "not sure of the exact status of the accusation." He would confer with Speaker Ross Macdonald, but in the meantime he would suggest that the matter was perhaps one for the committee on privileges instead of the defence expenditures committee.

Mr. Nickle said that as commander of the reserve unit, Mr. George claimed for 204 full days' service with that unit in 1951 and was paid $2,495.01 by the army, "about double the average payment to all other lieutenant-colonels on the lists." Reserve army pay was on the basis of attendance at two parades equalling one days' pay.

At the same time, the public accounts showed that as a member of Parliament, Mr. George claimed maximum sessional indemnities and expense allowances. Given 15 days' absence allowed members, this would mean that he attended Parliament at least 209 days in 1951.

WANT ACTION

Mr. Nickle said that if a satisfactory explanation could not be given to the House "then I trust this member and the government will take the only possible corrective action."

The Calgary member said there was a feeling within the reserve army that all who serve "should be treated fairly and that special advantages should be given to none; that those who take advantage of special situations for their own personal gain should be ruthlessly weeded out."

Another Progressive Conservative member had asked for figures on payments to reserve army officers when information had come "to the effect that unduly large pay and allowances had been claimed by and paid to" Col. George. The goverament provided the figures last November.

These showed, Mr. Nickle said, that the average pay and allowances for 260 reserve force officers from brigadiers down to captains was under $1,000 a year.

"Only one payment exceeded $2,000. That was the amount of $2,495.01 paid to Lt.-Col. E.W. George. The amount of pay and allowances to him about doubles the average payment to all other lieutenant-colonels on the list and was about $770 more than the second highest payment to an officer of the same rank.

INCLUDES EXPENSES

"At the rate of pay in effect during 1951—$367 per month for lieutenant-colonels—Col. George received army pay for a total of 204 full days in that year, if it were assumed that the total sum paid did not include some expense allowance. It may be assumed, of course, that some expense allowance was included, and the number of days of actual army pay would represent less than 204 days."

Mr. Nickle said Col. George "presumably" devoted enough time to his duties as commanding officer to qualify for what he was paid.

"The only question that could be raised was as to why his number of service days should have been so much greater than that of other officers of similar rank and responsibility."

Another question was raised by a check of the public accounts, Mr. Nickle said, that made his statement to the Commons necessary.

During the calendar year of 1951, the Commons had sat for a total of 224 days. The public accounts showed that Mr. George, as member for Westmorland, claimed maximum amounts of sessional indemnities and expense allowances for the year. Allowing the 15 days of absence permitted, Mr. George presumably attended the Commons 209 days in 1951.

NOT ENOUGH DAYS

"It therefore appears obvious that in his dual capacity as a member of this House and as officer commanding a reserve army regiment, the member for Westmorland claimed for and was paid from public funds payment for more days in 1951 than there are days in the calendar year," Mr. Nickle said.

"The honorable member, sir, and the government of which he is a member, should without delay make a full explanation to this House and to the public of Canada as to the extraordinary situation.

Greer Garson To Do Film Strip-Tease

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Marilyn Monroe bug has even bitten Greer Garson. That ladylike star will do a strip-tease in her next movie.

The script of "Interrupted Melody," the screen story of Australian opera star Marjorie Lawrence, calls for a "Salome" bit. That means, says MGM, that Greer will toss off as many of the seven veils as the law will allow.

"Why not?" asks a studio spokesman. "Miss Garson has a body like a starlet."

Her body is well covered in the robes of a Roman noblewoman in "Julius Caesar." She and Deborah Kerr are the only two women in the cast of the story.

"We are just there to dress up the story," she says. "Our parts were so small that we felt like the producer's girl friends while making it."

ANOTHER PICTURE

She's also got another picture called "Scandal at Scourie," in which she is teamed once more with Walter Pidgeon. Pidgeon calls himself "the daytime Buddy Fogelson."

Fogelson is the 'Texas millionaire who is married to Greer.

"Buddy says I can make all the movies I want just so they aren't dull movies," Greer says. That may explain the strip-tease.

Now an American citizen, the Irish-born star leans heavily to the Scottish background of her mother, a McGregor.

"I am in the process of writing a nasty letter to Walt Disney," she confesses. "I see where he plans to film 'Rob Roy, the highland rogue.' "

"Where does he get off calling my heroic ancestor a rogue? What does he think Rob Roy is — 'a 'kilted Billy the Kid?' "

Mrs. Armstrong's son, David McKenzie Waters, was born while Mrs. Armstrong was under police guard.

Sees Animals As War Targets

OTTAWA (CP)—Animals, not humans, may be the target of any future disease warfare, Dr. O.M. Solandt, chairman of the defence research board, said last night.

He told the annual convention of the Ontario Veterinary Association that such an attack could be paralyzing to a country.

"Most of the imaginative articles which have been written on this subject have been concerned with attack directed at human beings, with little attention to an enemy approach through animals," Dr. Solandt said.

"You veterinarians, of course, realize what would result from attack on the animal population of the country."

Queen Sells Surplus Production At Windsor

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen has gone into the milk distribution business, selling surplus production from her farm at Windsor for public use.

During the last 15 months the 650-acre farm has switched from producing beef — for which it was famous for 200 years — to dairying, pigs and poultry.

The farm yields all the milk, butter, cream, cheese and eggs needed daily at Buckingham Palace and the other royal homes.

Urges Commonwealth Association Value

NEW YORK (CP)—The best foundation for international co-operation is a closer association between the United States and Canada and the other Commonwealth countries, George Drew, leader of Canada's Progressive Conservative party, said Thursday.

The U.S. should not "sell Britain short," he urged in an address at a luncheon at Columbia University.

Britain, he said, will be "a strong and I am sure still stronger part of the Commonwealth with which Canada is so proudly associated.

"Is it too much to hope that, as we strengthen the friendship between Canada and the U.S., we will find ever-widening grounds of understanding between all those who form part of that world-wide fellowship of free people who trace their common freedom to the Magna Charta?"

Rumor Seaway Starts Before October 1

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—The Syracuse Post-Standard today quotes a member of the Canadian Parliament as saying Canada has commitments to "make a substantial start on construction" of the St. Lawrence seaway before Oct. 1.

The newspaper adds in a copyrighted article that the official, who asked that his name not be used, said Canada has established funds to cover the agreements and is ready to make payments.

However, the story said, the Canadian department of transport had denied the existence of the commitments.

Decide Casa Loma Won't Be Torn Down

TORONTO (CP)—Casa Loma won't be torn down after all.

Toronto's storied castle was given a reprieve Thursday by Controller Leslie Saunders from the death sentence passed last week by Building Commissioner Kenneth Gillies who said the castle should be demolished because loose masonry and tiles from the roof endangered visitors.

As a tourist attraction, Casa Loma has contributed $130,000 to the city.

2 U.K. Critics Annoy U.S. Film Interests

LONDON (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express charges today that American motion picture companies are trying to muzzle outspoken critics in two other Beaverbrook papers by withdrawing their advertising contracts.

The paper does not identify the companies, but movie sources here said they are Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Warner Brothers, whose yearly advertising expenditure with the Beaverbrook group totals about $700,000. Representatives of both movie companies refused to comment here.

"Threats have been made," says the Express, "that advertising will not be resumed until either the critics have been muzzled or dismissed from their jobs."

The apparent targets of Hollywood disfavor are the ironic critic of Beaverbrook's Evening Standard, Milton Schulman, a Canadian, and acid-tongued Logan Gourlay of the group's Sunday Express.

Reports Growth

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Trevor Hamill, secretary of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, said Thursday the organization's membership more than doubled in 1952—from 62 groups to 125. J. J. Stuart of Windsor, retiring president, said the chamber's policy should be that of unity.

Black Kettle

A local butcher named George is of the opinion that a kettle should not call a pot black. His view on this matter came to light following an item in Thursday's Examiner. It was entitled "Early Bird," and told of how George, after an afternoon nap, noticed the clock said seven, so he hurried off to work—only to find it was seven p.m. instead of a.m. George took considerable joshing over this lack of timing. But he feels that the incident should not have been written up by a reporter who the same day walked in to the editorial department only to discover that he had forgotten it was his day off!

Civic Hospital Initiates Quarter Century Club

The Quarter Century Club of the Peterborough Civic Hospital held its charter meeting at the hospital Thursday night. The meeting took the form of a banquet which was attended by approximately 50 board members and their wives, department heads and hospital employees with more than 10 years service.

Four employees who have served more than 25 years were the honored guests. They were installed as charter members of the hospital's Quarter Century Club by Dr. G. S. Cameron.

John Hornal, superintendent, presented club pins to Harold Hynes, head of the laundry department, who has 28 years' service; Dr. C. B. Waite, pathologist, who has 27 years' service; Miss Aleitha V. Davidson, secretary to the superintendent, who has 27 years' service; and Arthur Maynard, orderly, who has 26 years' service.

Mayor Hugh Waddell, on behalf of the board, presented the four employees with gifts of money as tokens of appreciation for their service.

M. J. Swanston, chairman of the board, was master of ceremonies.

2 New Members Join Board Of Governors

Civic Hospital Board Chairman Max Swanston welcomed two new members to the Board of Governors Thursday night.

Dr. R. M. Matthews is the new representative of the medical staff and the other new member is Mrs. Edward Chambers, president of the Civic Hospital Women's Auxiliary.

Train Frightens Horse Drags Wagon Into Car

A milk wagon horse, frightened by a freight train, dragged its wagon into a car on Hunter St. Thursday, doing slight damage to the car and the wagon.

Victor Brennan, 73 Park Hill Rd., driver of the wagon, was out of the wagon at the time, making a delivery. The horse bolted when it heard the train and the wagon hit a car owned by Francis Doig, 267 Hunter St.

The car was parked in front of the Doig home, and Mr. Brennan was delivering milk several doors away. Constable W. A. Scott investigated.

County Council To Pick New Warden

First order of business when the 20-man Peterborough County Council meet on Tuesday will be the election of a warden for 1953.

Reeve Ernest Leeson of Havelock village has been mentioned as a likely candidate for the wardenship. Mr. Leeson has been reeve of Havelock for seven years and he has also served seven years on the village council. He has been in municipal politics since 1927.

It is 12 years since the senior county office was occupied by a reeve from a village. In 1941 Ernest W. Seeney, also of Havelock, was elected.

SECOND PROSPECT

Another possible candidate is William C. Grant, reeve of Lakefield village. It was thought Mr. Grant would be a candidate for warden in 1952 but he was defeated in the village elections by Elwood H. Northey. This year Mr. Grant reversed this result by outsing Mr. Northey from the reeveship. But it is not known whether or not he will allow his name to stand in a possible contest for warden of the county..

Charles S. Tanner of Lakefield was warden in 1931.

Thirty-nine years have elapsed since a reeve from Harvey township was warden. The last office-holder was the veteran county councillor, Robert Shaw, in 1914.

Belmont-Methuen has not had a reeve elected warden since J. F. Breckenridge occupied the chair in 1929. And it is 21 years since W. R. Montgomery of Norwood village was warden.

Both Reeve W. E. Griffith of Belmont-Methuen and Reeve Rork Ferguson of Norwood are former wardens and traditionally the honor is passed around; so it is unlikely that either of these veteran county councillors will be candidates.

The statutory meeting will be 2 p.m. Wednesday in the county council chamber. Warden Stewart has asked as many rural people as possible to attend.

Graves For Sale

New Type Of Cemetery

A new kind of salesman is invading sacred ground.

Cemetery salesmen have joined the ranks of door-to-door promoters and representatives of one of two rival firms will likely soon be knocking on doors in Peterborough.

They will be urging residents to buy plots in a new type of cemetery that will be developed in North Monaghan township as soon as council approves the enterprise.

Council permission for the Floral Haven Memorial Park Cemetery Co., to begin work on a 25-acre site, known as the Lillico property, south of Highway 28 appears to be practically assured.

The company which is a private firm that develops cemeteries as a business, has an option on the property three miles west of the city and plans on spending $40,000 on landscaping the grounds.

SALESMEN START

Once council gives its approval, work will start on the property, and the company will put its salesmen on the road to try and interest householders in buying gravesites.

A representative of the company outlined the proposition to the North Monaghan council Monday and he was given a favorable hearing, because the Examiner has learned reliably, there is dissatisfaction in the township with the present operation of Little Lake Cemetery.

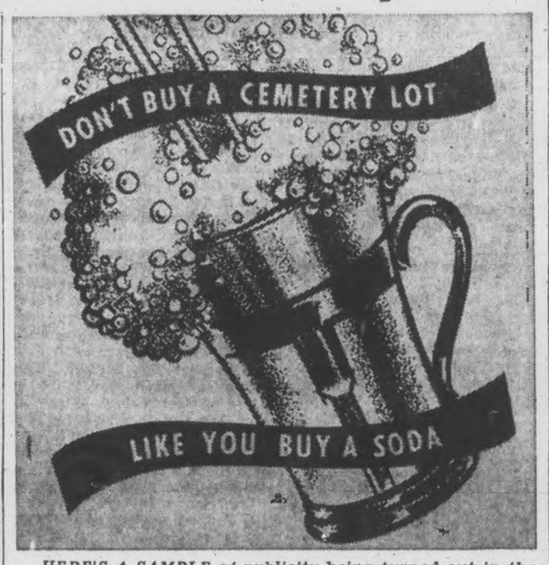
The only thing the council is a bit concerned about is to make sure that both the township and plot owners will be adequately protected if the project has some initial success, then flops.

"Approval is conditional on certain things not ironed out yet," Reeve W. G. Waterman told the Examiner Wednesday night.

A certain percentage of the purchase price of each lot is set aside, according to provincial regulations, in a fund for perpetual upkeep of the plots. For example, a single grave lot will sell at the beginning, for $57.50, and of this $7.50 will go into a fund for perpetual care of the grounds.

MUST SELL $100,000

The representative of the firm is reported to have told the council that "if we can't sell $100,000 worth of lots the first year, the proposition is no good."



It is evident however, that in the initial stages, the interest from the fund would not be sufficient to provide for the maintenance of the grounds. It is for this reason, that the council is insisting on a guaranteed amount to be placed in the fund at the beginning, until it becomes large enough to provide sufficient income. This guaranteed amount is to be deposited with the township.

At the present time, Mr. Waterman said the council is only considering the application of the Floral Haven Memorial Park Cemetery Co., but another much bigger organization has been interested in the development of a cemetery on the same site and still hopes to outmanoeuvre the company which now has council's ear.

The other company in the picture is Memorial Gardens Association, which is affiliated with Memorial Gardens Association Incorporated in the United States.

The parent organization in the U.S. was founded in 1945 by Edward L. "Doc" Williams and now operates 90 properties in more than 14 states. In Canada, MGA operates 11 properties, which include "memorial gardens" in London, Hamilton, Toronto, Kitchener, St. Catharines, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Calgary.

HERE'S A SAMPLE of publicity being turned out in the United States by Memorial Gardens Association Inc., and the monument industry. No tombstones are permitted in MGA cemeteries and the cartoon on the above was produced by an association of memorial dealers to try and make people think twice about buying lots in MGA enterprises. The talking cadaver in the lower cartoon is a "satisfied" MGA customer.. This is a reproduction from an MGA sales letter, illustrating MGA's complete "package deal" which includes: funeral service, casket, vault, grave, flowers, marker and bronze memorial. In Canada, MGA only develops cemeteries.

Civic Hospital Expects To End Year In Black With Help Of City Grant

$9,000 Surplus Estimated Likely
Unexpected $39,000 From Ottawa
Cut Down Amount of Grant From City

Final figures on Civic Hospital's 1952 operations will show that income topped expenses by about $9,000, treasurer T. T. Rodger told the Board of Governors meeting Thursday night. The statement of revenue and expenditures tabled at the meeting reports a surplus on the year's operations of $14,298.62. However, Mr. Rodger warned the board, the figures were only "tentative."

"There are certain adjustments to be made," he explained. Mr. Rodger said he thought the final figure would be "less than $10,000 —approximately $9,000."

REVENUE HIGHER

During 1952, the hospital's revenue amounted to $1,015,501.81, which is $28,656.87 above the budget estimate of $986,844.94.

Expenditures also exceeded the budget estimate by $14,358.15, and amounted to $1,001,203.19.

During December, revenue amounted to $85,164.60 and expenses were $81,098.89, which left an operating surplus of $4,065.71 for the month.

Mr. Rodger also drew the board members' attention to the fact that "at December 31, the hospital board was not indebted to the bank. A very unusual circumstance."

"Statistically, we have greatly improved our positoin," he continued. "It is a very gratifying report."

Pointing to the reserve for accounts receivable standing at $54,450.71, which is 48.4 per cent of the accounts receivable balance of $112,457.74, Mr. Rodger said "there are few commercial concerns with such a substantial reserve against accounts receivable."

GRANT FROM CITY

Had it not been for the city grant to the hospital of $225,000 however, the financial picture would have been considerably different.

This grant is shown on the monthly statements of income and expense as a revenue item of slightly more than $18,000.

In the early summer, the hospital received an additional $39,000 in provincial grants which had not been expected when the budget was drawn up.

The hospital board credited this amount to the city, by not taking the monthly grants for two months.

Taking this into consideration, the city gave the hospital about $185,000 in grants, less what the hospital lost on city indigent patients. This amount was approximately $35,000.

Therefore, as Mr. Rodger pointed out to the board "the hospital was financed on its own efforts, except for about $145,000."

NEED $50,000 MORE

Mr. Rodger told the board during the meeting that approximately $50,000 in additional revenue will have to be realized during 1953, to cover increased costs which the hospital will be facing.

One of the main contributing factors to increasing costs will be new benefits that will likely be won by employees. The hospital staff are now working a 44-hour week instead of the 48-hour work week in 1952.

During December, 636 patients were treated in the hospital, which is slightly less than the November total of 674, and also below the 1951 monthly average of 690.

Begin Collecting Garbage Again

BALTIMORE (AP) — City collections of garbage and trash began here today for the first time since city laborers went on strike two weeks ago.

Wednesday the city severed all connections with the AFL union representing the strikers and ordered workers back to work by Friday or forfeit their jobs.

There were some indications of a back-to-work movement. The park board said 93 strikers returned.

The strike began Jan. 1 over a wage dispute. The workers, making from $1.19½ to $1.22½ an hour, asked a nine-per-cent wage boost.

Mayor Thomas d'Alesandro told them the city had no money for a wage increase. The striking employees include garbage and trash collectors, school janitors and engineers and repairmen on the city water and sewage system.

The mayor has written letters to each of the more than 3,000 AFL union members on strike asking them to come back to work.

Acquit Soldier Of Manslaughter

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Pte. David Ruben Andrist, 20, was acquitted Thursday of manslaughter in the death Oct. 9 of his three-month-old stepson from injuries suffered in Andrist's one-room flat.

Police charged Andrist with murder after investigation showed bruises on the baby's neck, a mark over the left eyebrow and a cut on the throat.

At the trial the charge was reduced from murder to manslaughter. A jury out 90 minutes returned the verdict of acquittal.

Mr. Justice J. L. McLennan, presiding, said he "heartily agreed" with the jury's finding.

Few After-Effects

WINNIPEG (CP)—The school board here, investigating reports that pupils had been affected by new painting of schools, found only two students had been affected in 13 schools painted in 1952, and one of them was allergic to paint. Pirate Wolf Packs Outside Hong Kong

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Pirates manning motorized junks and armed with machine-guns are transforming international waters near this British colony into a latter-day Spanish Main.

More than 20 pirate ships—which usually pose as harmless fishing boats—recently have been terrorizing small vessels plying between here and nearby Portuguese Macau, on Communist China's mainland.

Cargo junk traffic between the two colonies is practically at a standstill.

The modern pirates set forth on their plundering forays from secret island bases just outside Chinese territorial waters, reports from Macau say. They stay in business despite attempts by both the Chinese Communists and Nationalists to wipe them out.

Wolf-packs of junks armed with bazookas, machine-guns and grenades have attacked fairly large freighters—a number of them British.

NATURE'S SCULPTURE—Centuries of wailing winds and wandering rivers have combined to carve weird figures on the prairies near Drumneller in east-central Alberta. The clay and sandstone pillars are in an area called the "Badlands" or "Dinosaur Valley" which covers about 250 square miles. Numerous finds of dinosaur and other prehistoric animal relics have been found in the district. The Alberta government is said to be considering turning the area into a provincial park.

Calgary Zoo Models Big Lizards

CALGARY (CP)—John Kanerva graduated from painting theatre backdrops in his native Finland and the United States to hand-painting early passenger cars in southern Alberta and eventually to sculpturing and painting model dinosaurs for the Calgary zoo.

Thanks to Kanerva, the zoo has an international reputation for the life-like models of prehistoric animals. Calgary has the only zoological park in America with 30 life-size models of the big lizards.

All are made of cement and the biggest, the brontosaurus, is 107 feet long and 32 feet high at the head. Six men helped Kanerva make it, the job taking three months.

FASCINATED BY MOVIE

All this started about 20 years ago when Kanerva took his wife to see the movie "Lost World." Kanerva was fascinated.

Kanerva studied books on the prehistoric ages and it became a five-year hobby. Then the Calgary Zoological Society, for whom Kanerva had done some wood carving, asked him what he'd like to make next. He said dinosaurs.

All of the dinosaurs at the zoo on St. George's island are made to scale. The legs of the towering cement models are solid. The tummies and heads are hollow. The framework is of quarter-inch steel rods and the cement is placed on model laths.

HUGE MODEL

The biggest model weighs 120 tons. In natural life such a reptile would weigh 65 tons.

Kanerva now is working on a new project soon to be unveiled. This is a 60- by 100-foot cement front for one of the zoo's fossil houses. It will have raised, life-size figures of humans and animals.

The sculptor-painter likes to recall his car-painting days around 1917 when cars were something of a novelty and those that kept their paint for more than three years were unusual.

In those days, black or green paint seemed to be the only colors the manufacturers liked. When it started peeling, people would take their cars to Kanerva for repainting in brighter hues. It took him 20 hours to paint a car by hand and he charged $25 a car. Stripes then were popular, and Kanerva recalls it was some trick to put them on.

PAINTING DINNY—Calgary has the only zoological park in North America with 30 "life-size" models of prehistoric dinosaurs. They are the work of John Kanerva, a former theatre backdrop painter in his native Finland. He started on the project 20 years ago after seeing a movie version of dinosaurs. All are made of cement and the biggest is 107 feet long and 32 feet high at the head, weighing 120 tons. Here Kanerva and his son repaint one of the big lizards.

Influenza Epidemic Spreads Rapidly Across France

PARIS (Reuters) — A three-day-old influenza epidemic today spread to include 20 per cent of the school children of Nancy, in eastern France. Other centres in the area report similar high tolls.

Here in Paris 1,200 post office employee are laid low by the disease, now at its annual peak in the bitter mid-winter weather.

Hundreds of boys at Rennes state school in Britanny have been sent home because of the outbreak and the student technical college at France, has also been closed.

No deaths have been reported from the disease and most outbreaks have been "sudden but slight," health officials said.

France is the only European nation to announce an influenza epidemic, though the illness is widespread in most areas.

NOT EPIDEMIC

In the Netherlands a government spokesman said the country has more influenza cases than usual for the time of year but added that it has not reached epidemic proportions.

Belgian health ministry officials in Brussels report only the "usual seasonal cases," stating there is no such thing as an epidemic.

Absenteeism in Belgian offices and factories through influenza has been "extremely low."

In the Scandinavian north, reports show no widespread incidence of the disease. In Stockholm, an official said Sweden has "pockets of influenza" but no general epidemic.

Only deaths reported due to influenza in Sweden have been those of two children. But the 83 inhabitants of Oak Island on the south coast all succumbed together and took to their beds for several days.

Denmark and Norway also provided negative reports. Danish authorities in Copenhagen said there was apparently even less illness than usual for this season.

Britain, plagued by heavy fog, slushy snows, cold snaps and rain, has a heavy incidence of influenza but no epidemics have been registered. The number of those staying away from work is reported to be high.

Italy, enjoying a milder-than-usual winter, has had few cases to report.

Quebec MPP's Get Together Vote Each Other Raises

QUEBEC (CP) — Members of Quebec's Legislative Assembly, strict party-liners most of the time got together amicably Thursday on the question of increasing their salaries.

Differences were put aside as discussion began on a government bill to increase salaries of cabinet ministers and Liberal house leader George Marler even suggested the measure should be amended to give Premier Duplessis an increase of $4,000 annually.

Mr. Duplessis said he felt the salary of Mr. Marler should be increased.

"As a matter of fact I would be sympathetic to the idea of increasing the salaries of all members if the feeling is unanimous," Mr. Duplessis said.

LOUD APPLAUSE

Loud applause followed Mr. Duplessis' statement, leaving no doubt there was unanimity.

The bill was sent back for revision and changes that apparently will include an increase of $4,000 annually for Premier Duplessis.

It was believed salaries for Mr. Marler and members of the assembly would be proposed in separate bills.

Mr. Duplessis said he would grant the members an amount on which "there is unanimity" and it was believed members would agree on an increase of $2,000 annually that would bring salaries to $6,000.

Mr. Duplessis' salary now is $18,000—$10,000 as premier, $4,000 as a member, $4,000 for expenses.

The bill proposed $2,000 annual increases for cabinet ministers with portfolio. They now earn $6,000 as ministers, $2,000 for expenses and $4,000 as members.

Convict Farmer Of Manslaughter

HULL, Que. (CP) — Roland Charbonneau, 24-year-old farmer, was acquitted Thursday night on a charge of murdering his 15-months-old son, Michel, but was convicted of manslaughter and will be sentenced by Mr. Justice Paul Ste. Marie Jan. 30.

Charbonneau broke down and wept when the jury brought in its verdict, after two hours of deliberation.

The baby was shot Nov. 9 in the Charbonneau farm home near Perkins Mills, some 10 miles northeast of here, and died the following day in hospital at Buckingham, Que.

During his trial, Charbonneau testified he gave two versions of the shooting in statements to police in Montreal. He gave a third version in court Thursday.

He said he arrived home about midnight, a few hours before the shooting, after an all-day drinking bout.

"I felt so discouraged that I decided to commit suicide. I jumped up, ran to the wall and took down my rifle. That is when the gun went off and Michel was shot."

He said that in fear of being arrested for attempting to commit suicide, he instructed his wife to tell police that the gun went off when he took it from the wall to shoot something moving outside.

He testified the gun went off in a room beneath the bedroom where Michel lay.

In earlier testimony Wednesday, Charbonneau said he first told police Michel was shot when the rifle discharged accidentally as he took it down to shoot something outside. He said that story wasn't true, and that the true facts were in a written confession he made describing the shooting as deliberate.

Thursday Charbonneau said that story also wasn't true.

Institute Plans Irish Stew Supper

BUCKHORN — Mrs. Harry Shearer was hostess to the members of the Buckhorn Women's Institute which met on Tuesday night. The roll call, a source of much fun, was answered by each lady giving her waist measurement. Committees were appointed to make plans for an Irish stew supper.

Mrs. Charles Jones was in charge of the program and introduced the speaker. H. Wilcox who spoke on community affairs. Mrs. B. Ball read a paper on the same subject and Mrs. McPhee a poem entitled "Your Town and You." Refreshments were served by those in charge.

Cancer Treatment Interests St. Jos. Aux. Dinner Guests

Invited as guest speaker at the annual meeting Thursday evening of the Ladies' Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital was Dr. Wm. Blastorah, a local young man who has had seven years specialized training in gynecology, obstetrics and surgery. Dr. Blastorah was born in Harwood and received his secondary schooling in Peterborough, then going to University of Toronto Medical School.

Before commencing practise in Peterborough recently Dr. Blastorah was at Roosevelt Hospital, New York, and he chose to tell of the new method of treating cancer with radium commenced while he was there. This hospital owns one fortieth of the world's supply of radium, which he estimated would be contained in a glass saucedish on the table, and is worth over a million dollars.

The doctor described the room prepared to house this radium and in which treatments are taking place 24 hours a day, usually for two hours each. (He remarked that a waiting list had accrued very shortly after the experiment was begun.) The room is blasted from underground rock and is completely lined with two foot thick walls of lead. A window through which to observe the patient is sealed with plate glass, the two foot wall space being filled with water. These walls are necessary to prevent the radiation affecting attendants and even passers-by on the street above, he said. A beam from the radium which is in a carefully shielded ceiling fixture is directed directly upon the cancerous tissue by this new gadget and it is hoped thus to prevent the burning of healthy living tissue by the radium.

Dr. Blastorah said results of the experiments have not yet been published, but he feels sure they will be successful. He also referred to the cobalt bomb with the inference that it may be somewhat less effective than the radium bomb.

A new treatment of goitre, in which the patient drinks iodine in water, was mentioned and the doctor said the treatment had been found to cure a number of other diseases, including leukemia.

Miss Louise Flynn introduced the doctor and he was thanked by Mrs. J. V. Gallivan, who asked that he suggest some equipment the Auxiliary might be able to provide to the hospital. He replied that he feels a "recovery room" is very necessary at the hospital, and he has noticed the need of a suction machine.

President Mrs. Bernard Monaghan was chairman of this dinner meeting which took place in the hospital cafeteria with 150 attending. The delicious turkey dinner was prepared under direction of the Sister in charge. Those attending were:

Elect Mrs. Toombs President At Presbyterian Presbyterial

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS) — Peterborough Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada held an annual meeting at St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, Wednesday. A large number of delegates from various part of the Presbytérial attended. President, Mrs. A. N. Reid presided at morning and afternoon sessions. An executive meeting preceeded the regular session when Miss M. Lees, Mrs. F. H. Rowan and Mrs. H. G. McKenzie were appointed to the finance committee.

Centreville was chosen as the community to send a delegate to the Glen Mohr Camp this summer.

New president is Mrs A. E. Toombs of Campbellford and she was delegated to attend council meetings in London in May. Mrs. G. G. Stephens of Campbellford was named as the first alternate and Miss M. Lees of Peterborough the second.

Mrs. A. E. Toombs, Mrs. D. Ruthertord of Bailieboro and Mrs. R. C. McCulloch of Campbellford were named delegates to the Synodical to be held in Sudbury in April.

An invitation was received from Centreville for the W M S to hold the semi-annual meeting there on May 7th. Port Hope auxiliary will look after the program.

Mrs. W. Perks, Mrs. D. T. Diplock, Mrs. O. M. Steer, Miss M. Lees were named as the nominating committee for 1954.

After the morning session was opened with a call to worship by Mrs. A. N. Reid, Mrs. F. H. Rowan of Peterborough extended welcome to the delegates and visitors. Reports from committee heads were all encouraging, and each department showed progress during the past year. Mrs. W. W. Blewett of Lakefield was in charge of the devotional period.

Miss Lois McCulloch and Sharon Garneau, both of Campbellford, attended the Glen Mohr Camp in the summer of 1952, and both girls were on hand to report on the pleasant time they spent at the camp. Mrs. C. E. Meiklejohn gave the dedicatory prayer following the offering.

HERE FROM INDIA.

Mrs. H G. MacKenzie introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. L. C. Knox, who, with her husband and two daughters are at present on furlough from Bhil Mission Field in India.

In her opening remarks, Mrs. Knox said the fields in India are ready to harvest, and told of the dress and customs of the Bhil people. Some interesting exhibits of clothing and jewellery were shown to give the ladies a better understanding of the people.

It was suggested that a time be set apart each day during which prayers for the missionaries should be offered. The missionaries are hopeless and helpless without prayers of the people at home. Special mention was made for prayers for a doctor and nurse for the Bhil field. "They could bring much joy to so many people," and it was pointed out that Bhil people have faith in the whites. Indian people need the prayers of Canadians, and pray for the people of Canada each day.

Mrs. Knox and Mrs. A. E. Toombs sang a duet in Hindu.

Mrs. Monaghan Acclaimed 2nd Term St. Joseph's Aux.

MRS. BERNARD MONAGHAN

Mrs. Bernard Monaghan was acclaimed the 1953 president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital at the annual meeting Thursday night. Mrs. Monaghan has completed one year of service in this office which has been outstanding in its progress. The members unanimously voted to have her leadership again.

His Excellency Bishop Berry, in brief remarks after the dinner, said the organization is "snowballing" —and certainly he was not referring to the weather.

In a president's address preceding the business session, Mrs. Monaghan praised the work of her executive in the past year and said they had worked in harmony on all projects. But she said the credit for accomplishments was due the people of the city and district who gave money, time and effort so willingly.

Purpose of the Auxiliary is to make it less difficult to run the hospital, she said, and thus an infant resuscitator, an oxygen tent, and cafeteria equipment were purchased in 1952. The present project is a bookkeeping machine for the office, and while it is not yet purchased, members are seeking to know of other needs they might supply. A suggestion was gained from the guest speaker of the evening, Dr. Wm. Blastorah, who hopes for the installing at the hospital of a recovery room in which there would be needed a suction machine.

Assisting Mrs. Monaghan this year will be the following vice presidents, Mrs. Joseph Paquette of St. Anne's, Mrs. James McCormick of Immaculate Conception, Mrs. D. Driscoll of Our Lady of Assumption, Mrs. S. Gilmour of Sacred Heart, Mrs. D. Dwyer of Douro, Mrs. F. Coveney of Hastings.

Other officers elected were Miss Louise Letellier of Sacred Heart as corresponding secretary, Mrs. P. J. Anglesey of St. Peter's as recording secretary and Mrs. H. J. McLarnon of St. John's as treasurer.

Mrs. Frank Lynch conducted the election of officers who were nominated by a committee of Mrs. N. W. McConkey, Mrs. P. J. Anglesey, Mrs. R. McCabe and Mrs. Lynch, and were installed by Mrs. J. V. Gallivan. No nominations from the floor were brought to a vote.

The Auxiliary constitution and amendments were read by Mrs. J. Duignan. Some discussion followed on the standing of an advisory board which has existed the past two years. Members voted to retain this body which is composed of Bishop Berry, Rev. Mother Anita and the past presidents. Its purpose is to relieve the Sisters of acting in advisory capacity more than necessary.

Membership in the city, reported by Mrs. J. Paquette, showed an increase to 1,522 which was 65 per cent of the names listed for contact in the fall campaign. Ten new life members were added and to date there are 142 life members. Mrs. D. Driscoll reported 272 members in the district and three life members.

Mrs. J. Deannard gave the sewing report in the absence of Mrs. R. Paquette and said 1,554 articles had been made last year. Mrs. F. Hickey stated the St. Joseph's cupboard is well stocked at present.

Miss Louise Flynn stated the Auxiliary might feel justifiably proud of the tuck shop for the voluntary attendants from the Auxiliary hear daily praise of its service to the public using the hospital. Mrs. S. Gilmore said more than 50 visits were made in the hospital last year and twice a month there were chocolates and gum distributed. The library report by Miss B. Malane also gave a total of 50 trips through the hospital, carrying books and magazines. She said 2,751 contacts were made and 754 books loaned.

Two dances, two parties, the graduation dance and a tea were given last year by the nurses-in-training committee Mrs. Grace Poole reported. Mrs. J. J. Crowley had charge of the decorating for the graduation and for the annual dinner meeting and was also responsible for the tray favors at Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas, and fancy serviettes on Hallowe'en.

For Douro parish Mrs. A. Hayes reported 57 members. Besides participation in the Auxiliary work last year they had donated quilts. Mrs. Albert O'Donell of Lakefield Auxiliary reported 50 members and said five full baby sets and other items had been turned in, $10 donated for violet day and $50 was given to Mother Priscilla Thursday to be applied on something needed in the hospital.

The ward and meanit report by Mrs. N. W. McConkey dwelt particularly on the booth at the Peterborough Exhibition and she said: "We seem to be establishing a place at the fair." The "violet day" was another large source of revenue, bringing in $1,071.

Miss Agnes Grant, corresponding secretary, reported on her work last year and also read the minutes of the last annual meeting for Mrs. E. O'Toole. Mrs. P. J. Anglesey read the treasurer's report in absence of Miss G. Collins.

DOROTHY DIX

Tell Motherless Children Before Father Remarries

DEAR MISS DIX: I am very much in love with a widower who has two children. He is in love with me, too. We have talked about getting married, but we have not told his children. I am 21, he is 31 and the youngsters are 7 and 8. Should we tell them before we marry, or will they accept me just as well if they are unprepared?

T. M.

ANSWER: You underestimate the perception of children if you think their father can remarry without arousing their suspicions. It would be very unfair to go ahead with your wedding plans without letting the youngsters know of them. Surely you are in a position to win their love and trust before embarking on the role of mother. See as much of them as possible—a course that will be wise for all of you, since it will give you an opportunity to learn their characteristics.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Whenever I date with my boy friend, he brings another boy along with him. This means that at the last minute I have to scout around and find a girl for the extra boy. I don't want to hurt the boy's feelings, but he is so shy that girls don't like to go out with him. He never has anything to say. What can I do? I'm 16.

UNDECIDED

NECESSARY TACT

ANSWER: This is an occasion that calls for a little of the tact that you should be acquiring as the foundation for your success in life. Since you know that your boy friend is going to bring the extra boy, why not have a girl friend ready to take over for you? Surely the lad must have some redeeming qualities as an escort, even though he is shy. This type calls for a girl with a little extra initiative. When you go out on the double date, don't make the mistake of ignoring the other couple—who are already having their troubles—to concentrate on your own date. Make it truly a foursome, with everyone sharing the responsibilities of making the evening a success. By drawing out the extra boy, learning his interests and making him and the other girl take part in the conversation, you'll earn his eternal gratitude.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a senior in high school and in love with a boy in my class. Though he was friendly at one time, he now ignores me completely. He pays more attention to other girls than he does to me. In fact, he seems to avoid me at times.

L. M. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You don't seem to have much choice about forgetting the boy since he ignores you. Forget him!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My fiance is divorced, and I am wondering if I should find out why he was divorced?

MRS. E. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: By all means you should get this very important information. It may have a direct bearing on your chances for future happiness.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My home is the scene of constant bickering, and since my health isn't too good the doctor has advised me to find quieter surroundings. Friends in a distant state have asked me to come and stay with them, but I'm afraid I'll be homesick if I go.

JUST 18

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since the step is not an irrevocable one, the idea of a visit seems very logical. It's doubtful if you'll decide to stay away from home altogether, but the change will undoubtedly be beneficial.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Although I'm only 16, I have been going steady for three years. My mother never approved, neither has my father. When my mother finds out that I've been seeing my boy friend she deprives me of something I like. For instance, I went out with him last night, and now she won't let me have a birthday party next week.

J. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are getting from your mother exactly the treatment you deserve; she should, if anything, be more severe with you. By sneaking out to have dates, you are forfeiting all right to trust.

A WARDROBE that's vacation bound now might include these new designs. They are pretty to look at and fun to wear. Later, they could go into a summer wardrobe. Tourist (left) drinking cocoanut milk wears a tucked and gored dress in snowy white and in needlepoint pique. It has high-rising waistline and very full skirt. Traveller in the tropics (right) watches a log being hollowed out into a boat, the oldest boat-building method known. She wears a cotton blouse that's re-embroidered for three-dimensional look with needlepoint pique toreador pants that end just below the knee.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Make Fish Family Favorite Not One-Day-A-Week Dish

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Fish may be widely regarded as a Friday dish but it can be a family favorite two and three times a week if the homemaker knows her business.

Jubilee Guilds of Newfoundland where fishing is a tradition have prepared a booklet of recipes which every Canadian housewife would do well to have on hand. Some of the dishes described are well known, others such as baked cod tongues and Kedgaree are specialties of this east coast province

Kedgaree recipe: Two-thirds cup raw rice; two cups cooked fish; one-quarter cup melted butter; two egg yolks; one teaspoon finely chopped parsley; one-half teaspoon salt; pepper.

Cook rice in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Remove bones and skin and flake fish. Add to rice and heat in a double boiler. Stir melted butter into slightly beaten egg yolks. Add parsley and seasonings. Combine with fish. Cook one or two minutes stirring gently.

Baked cod tongues: wipe cod tongues with a damp cloth, place in salted milk (one-half cup milk to one tablespoon salt); roll each in breadcrumbs; place on a greased baking-sheet and cook 10 minutes in a hot oven. Serve with tartar sauce.

The tartar sauce is easy: one tablespoon butter; one tablespoon lemon juice; one tablespoon vinegar. Melt butter in pan. Add lemon juice an vinegar and heat.

SWEET AND SIMPLE

A dessert that is good and also easy to prepare is one that most mothers are always seeking.

Appled oat pudding: Six apples; one-half cup sugar; one-third cup shortening; one-third cup brown sugar; one egg; one-half cup milk; one-half teaspoon vanilla; one-half cup sifted flour; two teaspoons baking powder; one-quarter teaspoon cinnamon; one-half teaspoon salt; one-half cup rolled oats

Pare, core and slice apples and put in greased baking dish. Sprinkle with one-half cup of brown sugar. Cream shortening (or margarine) and brown sugar and add beaten egg an vanilla and beat well. Mix and sift flour, soda, baking powder, cinnamon, salt, mix with rolled oats. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk to creamed mixture. Pour batter over apples and bake in moderate oven for 40 minutes or until apples are cooked. Serves six.

What's Right?

A much older person than you makes a statement with which you do not agree.

WRONG: Come right out and say you think the person is wrong.

RIGHT: Don't disagree unless you are sure you can do so without sounding impudent or as though you thought you knew more than the older person.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Readers' Friday Column By Mary Moore

ENID B'S LETTER (continued from last week): . . . Susan's diet (eggless) has forced a change in meal-planning . . . it is interesting to note that the new regime is more economical . . . our lunches are now homemade soups, the more substantial varieties such as pea, potato, etc. I beat the soups with the electric beater which produces a froth the children love. A simple favorite lunch is baked potato, opened, a dab of butter and a poached egg to top it, served with celery and carrot sticks, milk. We rarely want bread.

"Your brisket with onion gravy made a hit with my family. It is delicious and beautifully economical. Thank you sincerely.

"Enough of diets. Now may I ask you a few questions that puzzle me? Whenever I cook potatoes in the pressure cooker and then attempt to mash them they are not as fluffy and nice as they should be. The only way I get nice mashed potatoes is by peeling and boiling in the usual manner. When I pressure cook them I leave the skins on. My other dilemma—I know that vegetables prepared ahead of time lose food value. But my rush hour comes at 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. as I generally bathe the children and have them ready for bed before my husband comes home—so that we have a leisurely dinner and yet get the children in bed in good time. I sometimes prepare dinner as much as possible right after lunch, but always wonder how much damage I am doing the vitamins and minerals. I have just about decided that a hectic mother does more damage than the loss of a little food value. This thank you note has turned into a volume. I do appreciate the help you have given me and it has been fun to chat. Enid B.

ANSWER: As you can see Enid I have printed most of your letter this week and last—and for a good reason. First I want to tell you that the recipe for the wheatless bread did not appear because I have not produced one I think is good enough to put in print—but am still working on it. Second—your problem of mashing potatoes boiled in their skins and the age-old problem of preparation of vegetables ahead of time—is everybody's. I know personally of two specific cases where vegetables are prepared and soaked in cold water every day—and have been for 23 years. Everyone in both families is suffering in one degree or another from mulnutrition—the older members have arthritis—one of the children rickets, nearly all of them tooth decay. I know their doctor personally and he says he can't make them change their ways nor supplement their soaked vegetable diet with salads. You can't fool nature. Vegetables are the only sources from which you get some minerals and vitamins and if you soak them out you never get them. Either bake the vegetables in their natural state—sweet and white potatoes, squash, tomatoes, onions, carrots (around a roast) OR move your dinner time on one-half hour with your husband and quick-cook them on top of the stove in pressure cooker or in as little water as possible. Make your salad at the last minute, and immediately coat all of the cut salad plants with dressing to prevent oxygen destroying vitamins. As a flavor-treat we have mashed potatoes, peeled before cooking, about twice per month. It pays off in the good health of your family to obey all of these tedious rules. Thanks for airing the subject.

QUESTION: Your column is great. You have a lot of patience to smooth out all of our cooking troubles. When you are not too busy "How does one make really good fudge?" I used to be able to but now mine always turns out caramel. It won't lose the gloss and as much as I beat it it is the same caramel mixture . . . Mrs. W. H.

ANSWER: A thermometer is essential for foolproof smooth creamy fudge.

SMOOTH CREAMY FUDGE

Two and three-quarter cups white sugar (not brown), 6 level tablespoons corn syrup, ½ cup good quality cocoa, 1/16 teaspoon baking soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅓ cup milk. All measurements are made in measuring cup or measuring spoons and are accurate and level. Mix ingredients in order given and place over low heat in large saucepan, put thermometer in syrup and heat to 234 deg. Fahr. Wipe down sides to remove sugar crystals. After temperature reaches 225 deg. Fahr. stir very slowly until it reaches 234. Immediately remove from heat and cool by standing in pan containing cold water. Cool to 120 deg. Add 2 tablespoons butter if desired at this point. Beat until it begins to leave streaks of spoon or beater on the surface. If nuts are to be added, add them now. Pour into buttered pan and smooth top. Mark into squares. Chill. Let me know how you like this.

DISTRICT BONSPIEL for the right to enter the Ontario Tankard playdowns was started today with rinks competing from Sunderland, Oakwood, Lindsay and Peterborough. Bert Everson's Lindsay rink (top left) entering the second round this afternoon by defeating a Sunderland rink. Dr. Ralph Clark (bottom left) is after bonspiel honors to match honors which his rink won last year when it represented Ontario in the Dominion bonspiel. An Honor To Be Picked For Jury Duty, Women Find

No woman who attended the Local Council of Women's luncheon meeting Thursday—and there were 85 of them—will write herself an exemption to jury service because of ignorance of the duties and set-up. But whether she accepts the call to service or not, she will hold herself with greater pride, knowing that it is a compliment to be selected and indicates the men in authority in the municipality consider her to have integrity of character and soundness of judgment.

Mrs. Thelma Kerr Thomson, barrister, of a legal firm in Lindsay, was the speaker for this LCW annual meeting day and her subject was "Women Jurors." She preceded the reading of a carefully prepared paper by extending the thanks of the Ontario Board of the Business and Professional Women's Club for her invitation to speak. This board has selected a number of qualified women in the province and equipped them with material for speaking on this subject.

First sub-topic was the kinds of juries: grand jury on which there are 13 jurors who decide if there is sufficient evidence to hold a trial; trial or petit jury of 12 persons; and coroner's jury on which there are five people. Mrs. Thomson explained it is the petit jury which sits on criminal cases and decides if the prisoner is guilty or not guilty and on civil cases to decide the issue. "The jury's duty is to hear the evidence and establish the facts of the case. Application of the facts as found by the jury is up to the judge," she emphasized.

DO NOT SET SENTENCE

Thus it was made clear to the women they will not be expected to decide the sentence to be imposed on the prisoner if found guilty—though they may recommend leniency if they see fit—or to set the terms of settlement in a civil case. The judge will in all cases give them clear instructions what they are to decide from the evidence presented in court. They need not know any points of law.

In criminal case deliberations the jurors must be unanimous in their decision, Mrs. Thomson pointed out. Civil cases may be concluded with only 10 jurors agreed.

She explained in some detail the long established system of choosing jurors. This begins with the latest municipal voters' list with a "J" being marked beside the name of each person there qualified to serve on a jury. Wide groups of people are exempt, some 22 categories being listed, including senators, members of parliament, all persons over 70, every minister, priest, rabbi or practicing religious leader, barristers, physicians, dentists, veterinarys, service men and women, newspaper editors or reporters, etc., and in most cases their spouses; also any person convicted of treason, felony or perjury.

A selector's meeting is held each 5th of September to select a proportion of persons thus marked in proportion to the number of voters in the municipality. The clerk of the peace, the mayor and the assessment officer then meet on November 10th to select persons for each of the three juries. This is done alphabetically and continues on each year. They first choose double the number required, then reduce it to two thirds and finally they shake up the ballots and draw out the exact number needed.

EXEMPTION SLIP

Jurors are advised of their selection by letter and male jurors have little choice but to serve. However, an exemption slip will be included with each woman's notice and she may sign it and refuse to serve without even giving a reason.

It was on this point that Mrs. Thomson urged the women not to take advantage, but to present themselves as jurors in as large numbers as possible so that the court can not set them all aside by "challenging" and thus prevent women from sitting on the jury even though it is their right by law.

There is a "peremptory challenge" with four being allowed in a civil case and four also in a criminal case with lesser penalty involved, but up to 20 such challenges are allowed where the penalty may be death, the lawyer explained. There is also "challenge for cause" which may result in the juror being examined in the witness box. Any number may be asked to "stand aside", but they may be reconsidered in order to secure 12 jurors. The petit jury is empanelled by the drawing of lots from an urn, and if not challenged or set aside the jurors are immediately sworn in.

Mrs. Thomson emphasized that the sworn juror is under complete direction and control of the judge and is under the care and protection of the sheriff throughout the case. "We will therefore have to have women sheriffs" she said. A petit juror is paid $6 a day and if living outside the city, given travelling allowance of 15c a mile. Coroner's jury pay is $1.50 a day. These payments are subject to income tax," she added.

The grand jury and coroner's jury are selected by the same committee of three, but only 13 grand jurors are chosen. Sometimes a coroner's jury must be secured on short notice and police may be instructed to conscript people from the street, though always making sure they are eligible for jury service.

"Women have served on juries in Alberta, British Columbia, England and most states of the U.S.A. There is no question but Ontario women are as well equipped to serve as these," concluded Mrs. Thomson.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. C. G. Collins and was tendered the thanks of the council by Mrs. E. Chambers.

Retiring president Mrs. W. C. Steinkraus was chairman and introduced special guests and the officers of council.

BRIDGENORTH SCHOOL

BRIDGENORTH (ENS).— Jack Twigg, of the juvenile and family courts of Peterborough, was guest speaker at the January meeting of Bridgenorth Home and School Association. In his message dealing with family court, he spoke of citizenship, probation, and parole.

He said the most vital work of family court is to help as much as possible the first offender during probation. Dealing with probation, the most common portion of family court work, he said it was defined as a short sentence affair. All first offenders were put on probation, when special supervision is most necessary in order to help offenders with their troubles.

Of parole, Mr. Twigg said statistics showed that a high percentage of parolees are worse off when released than they were when they were committed to a penal institution.

President Mrs. Ray Harding presided and two solos were sung by Mrs. W. G. Ray, accompanied by Mrs. C. Telford. Questionnaire on citizenship was read by Mrs. E. Blewett, who then introduced Mr. Twigg. Mrs. A. Watkins thanked the speaker.

Membership convener Mrs. E. Bryons reported 56 members paid up. Reports were given by Mrs. A. Connors and Mrs. K. Thomson on the tea, bazaar and Christmas party held before Christmas.

Health convener Mrs. C. Payne gave a short reading on first aid. Mrs. Harding announced that Mrs. Payne had accepted the position of nominations convener. Future events announced included films to be shown in the old school on January 28 and a ladies' minstrel show for two nights at the end of February to raise money for a piano for the junior room of the school.

Guests of Bridgenorth Home and School at the February meeting will be the members of Elms Corners Home and School (SS 6, Smith). That meeting will take the form of a fathers' night.

Miss Murphy's room won the prize for the most mothers present. Refreshments were served by Mrs. E. Whitehill and committee.

Montreal Singer Hit At Met. Critics Decide

NEW YORK (CP) — George London, Montreal-born baritone, is acclaimed by music critics for his singing of the title role in Mozart's opera "Don Giovanni" at the Metropolitan opera house Thursday ight.

The New York Herald Tribune says London "dominated a wellnigh perfect cast and revealed himself a more than worthy successor in that role to the great Pinza.

"With a natural voice of wondrous beauty, a vocal and histrionic schooling impeccable and the finest pair of male legs shown on any stage in many years, he seems to have everything the part demands," the Tribune says.

The New York Times says London's performance had "poise and vitality." He "sings the part with style and impact and he acts with force. . .He is already a striking Don Giovanni and should become a great one."

London, 31, a former student at Strathcona Academy at Outremont, Que., has had only one major role with the Metropolitan previously—as Amonosora in "Aida." He has sung "Don Giovanni" in Vienna.

New Type

Pre-arrangement, an idea funeral directors have been promoting in recent years is the basis of MGA operations. Fast talking salesmen sell householders on "buying now," and not putting off the purchase of a cemetery plot until they are forced into it by sudden emergency.

In the U.S., MGA offers a complete package deal, including funeral service, casket, vault, grave, flowers, marker and bronze memorial but the Canadian Memorial Gardens Association is only concerned with cemetery promotion.

J. H. Edwards, Canadian general manager of MGA which has its head office in Toronto told the Examiner Wednesday that last summer, his firm indicated to the owner of the Lillico property that they were interested in it.

MGA engineers surveyed it, and approved of it as a cemetery site. Then, "before we got around to it, others got it," Mr. Edwards added.

What happened was this. George Guy, one of the directors of Floral Haven Memorial Park Cemetery Co., who appeared before North Monaghan council on Monday used to be a saleman for MGA.

OWN COMPANY.

Being an enterprising fellow, Mr. Guy decided to get into the cemetery business himself and left MGA to form his own company. Somehow, he got wind of MGA's interest in the Lillico property and picked up the option on the land while his former employers were still toying with the idea.

In a telephone interview, Mr. Edwards, the Canadian head of MGA said he still believed his organization will be the one which will be developing the Lillico property in spite of the fact the other company appears to have its foot firmly in the door at the moment.

One of the features of the new type of cemetery is that no individual momuments are permitted. The company which operates the cemetery; also forbids the planting of flowers on individual graves. A large central memorial on a religious theme is erected and the area is landscaped with roads, and flower lined flagstone paths winding through it.

"First we put our staff of engineers to work on the property, probably a local firm, under the supervision of our chief engineer," explained Mr. Edwards. "We make a topographical survey of the whole property. From that, our internal engineering department is able to draft and prepare a complete plan of roads and gardens for the property.

"Secondly, having done that, we are then in a position to take the first 'garden,' a plot of from two and a half to four acres and plot every individual grave. From that, our salesmen can sell and customers can select."

"The old way to obtain a cemetery," Mr. Edward continued, "was for some unfortunate individual to buy about 50 acres and over a period of a long time, gradually establish a cemetery. The second generation generally reaps the benefit."

At this point, Mr. Edwards took off on flight of promotional confidence and said "The MGA is the economical way. We get enough plot owners right away to get a beautiful cemetery in a few years."

PERPETUAL UPKEEP.

Turning to provision for perpetual upkeep of graves, as required by provincial statute, Mr. Edwards said „We put 15 per cent or more into the perpetual care fund. We only get the income from it The fund doesn't provide perpetual care of any subsidiary services such as vault, but in addtion we set aside tetn per cent for the upkeep of subsidiary services."

"No tombstone can be erected," he went on. "We put in flowers ourselves. We don't permit individuals to plant flowers. We embellish the whole garden with a central memorial, despicting some phase of the life of Christ. There are flagstone walks with flowers on both sides. So the individaul is not burdened with the cost of doing something for their particular graves."

In outlining how the cemeterles are operated, Mr. Edwards said "each one is operated as a local project. The manager joins the Board of Trade, or Chamber of Commerce and becomes a part of the community. We stay in the field forever (representatives are of course replaced from time to time.) We lay long range plans."

Speaking for MGA in Canada, Mr. Edwards said, "we don't hope or plan to make any money in a property for five or six years. The whole basis is a long range proposition."

Court Rules Judge Wrong To Give Order

ATLANTA, Ga. (C)—The Georgia Supreme Court ruled Thursday that a judge has no right to order a newspaper to print a specific story or photograph.

The unanimous ruling grew out of the court's dismissal of a contempt-of-court charge against two editors of the Atlanta Constitution.

Superior Court Judge H. E. Nichols had sentenced editor Ralph McGill and managing editor W. H. Fields to 20 days in jail and fined each $200.

The case stemmed from a highway safety campaign run by the Constitution. One article said there were cases of persons arrested on driving charges but never brought to trial. It listed some of these.

Judge Nichols objected and demanded that the Constitution publish photographs of court records showing that bail was put up in one of the cases.

The editors refused and Nichols cited them for contempt of court.

The Supreme Court ruling said there were no grounds to sustain a contempt conviction because space in a newspaper is private property and a judge is without power to compel publication of any story or picture unless he pays for it as an advertisement.

40 Workers Picket Plant

HAMILTON (CP) — Some 40 women workers from McLaren's Ltd., picketed the plant for the second straight day this morning in protest of their dismissal by the company.

The workers were fired when they arrived at work Thursday morning after failing to obey a company order to work overtime Wednesday night. According to the workers, the "work or else" order was issued by company officials after they had learned of a meeting of their workers which had been called for the same night by Wilfred Bircher, AFL area organizer.

Mr. Bircher said this morning that a meeting had been arranged with Labor Minister Charles Daley for 10 o'clock Monday morning at Queen's Park in Toronto.

"Our number one objective is to force the company to take back these women," said Mr. Bircher.

TB Death Rate May Have Hit New Low In Canada In 1951

OTTAWA (CP)—Rapid advances in recent years have indicated to federal health authorities that Canada's health standards can be brought to levels as high as any in the world.

Views of the authorities in the health department's annual report, tabled today in the Commons by Health Minister Martin, were in a foreword signed by Dr. G. D. W. Cameron, deputy minister of health and Dr. G. F. Davidson, deputy minister of welfare.

The 85,000-word report, covering the fiscal year ended March 31, 1952, told how millions are being spent each year to control some diseases and to find cures for others.

The highlights:

1. Poliomyelitis showed a marked increase in 1951 with a rate of 18.3 per 100,000 compared with 6.6 in 1950. The highest incidence occurred in Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and Ontario.

2. Tuberculosis, still one of the leading causes of death in the ages 15 to 39, declined 10 per cent in 1951 to what may have been a new low.

3. Canada has a higher birth rate than the United States, the United Kingdom, countries of Western Europe, and Australia.

4. Canada continues to have a relatively low and declining death rate, a reflection, in part, of a young population.

5. While Canada has made notable progress in reducing infant mortality in recent years, the rate is still higher than that of the United States, the United Kingdom and several other countries.

6. Canada's narcotic addict population remained practically unchanged during the year.

7. On the welfare side, highlight of the year was the inauguration of $40-a-month pensions to all Canadians 70 and over and the payment of similar pensions to needy persons between 65 and 70.

8. The total paid in family allowances since they started July 1, 1945, climbed to $1,900,000,000.

9. Pensions now are paid to 11,000 of the 19,000 blind persons in Canada.

The report said that among the main causes of death in Canada are heart disease, cancer, congenital malformations, nephritis, violent and accidental deaths, pneumonia, bronchitis, tuberculosis and diabetes.

Under the national health program approximately $3,500,000 is made available annually to the provinces to combat cancer.

The federal government spent more than $4,000,000 during the fiscal year to fight tuberculosis. The tuberculosis death rate continues to decline, dropping from 200 per 100,000 of population at the turn of the century to 25.9 per 100,000 in 1950.

ADVANCES MADE

Under the national health program "definite advances have been made against venereal diseases," but:

"The venereal disease problem persists as a serious threat and in order to cope with it intensive effort and adequate expenditure will be needed, not only in protecting public health as a whole, but also in support of the defence effort, both the armed services and essential production."

Several research projects are under way to find cures for arthritis and rheumatism.

Further study is being given to major blindness prevention problems.

D. J. Fairclough Dies In Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—David James Fairclough, 86, a life-long Hamilton resident and retired owner of the Fairclough Printing Company, died Thursday night.

Mr. Fairclough, born here, began his long career in the printing trade with the old Hamilton Times at the age of 14. He started as message boy in the editorial room and later became a copy-holder. When the Herald first published in August, 1889, he joined the latter newspaper and remained with it for many years.

In May, 1913, he started his own business on Charles Street, which later grew into the present Fairclough Printing Company. He retired in 1946, at the age of 80, leaving his son, Gordon, to carry on the business.

Surviving include two sons, Gordon, whose wife is Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Hamilton West, and Herbert, also of Hamilton. A daughter, four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also survive.

Sarnia Only Area Not Yet Organized

SARNIA (CP) — —Sarnia is the only target area in Canada not organized for civil defence, Col. W. H. Marriott told members of the Western Ontario Study Association this week.

"The civilian population must minimize any effort of the enemy to batter it into defencelessness by being trained to combat disaster in the event any blow falls," he said. Preparedness in the home and the school was important.

U.S. Senator Sees Approval Of Seaway

Senate Committee Said Weighted In Favor of Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Alexander Wiley (Rep.-Wis.) of the Senate foreign relations committee expects his group to approve a St. Lawrence seaway bill as one of its first acts this session, it was learned today.

The six new members on the committee have tipped the scales heavily in favor of the long-debated project, which failed again last year to get congressional approval.

The House of Representatives public works committee also is reported to be more favorably inclined toward the project now.

Wiley told a reporter he will introduce, probably next week, his proposal calling for a more limited participation in the seaway than was suggested earlier. The measure will have numerous co-sponsors.

SEE FULL SUPPORT

Supporters of the power and navigation project are confident they can count on full backing from the new administration.

Senator George Aiken (Rep.-Vt.), who long has tried to get congressional action on the St. Lawrence proposal, told a reporter that the new secretary of the treasury should assure it sympathetic treatment.

George M. Humphrey, President-elect Eisenhower's choice to run the treasury department, has been chairman of the M. A. Hanna Co., which has an extensive stake in the development of the new Labrador iron-ore fields. He resigned to take the cabinet post.

ONE NEED CITED

The need to assure economical transportation for ore from these fields to Midwest steel plants has been cited in recent years as the chief argument for the seaway.

Canada determined last year to go ahead with the seaway on its own after the United States Congress declined to act.

Naguib Thwarts Conspiracy Dissolves Political Parties

CAIRO (CP)—A conspiracy by Communist and Wafd party members aimed at laying the groundwork for a revolution in Egypt has been crushed by the arrest of 25 army officers and 15 civilians, Premier Mohammed Naguib's chief of staff said today. Col. Abdel Nasser, speaking for Naguib, told the Associated Press that a Communist and Wafd "preliminary conspiracy to create a sedition" has been smashed. Nasser said no coup d'etat was attempted but the conspirators were planting the seeds of rebellion, intending eventually to seize power in Egypt from the strongman government of Gen. Naguib.

Smashing of the conspiracy was followed by an announcement that Naguib had made himself sole ruler of Egypt for the next three years and that all political parties had been dissolved for that period.

Those arrested include Serag El Din, former leader of the strongly Nationalist Wafd, Prince Abbas Halim, and retired Col. Rashad Mahanna.

Nasser, acknowledged to be the No. 2 man in Egypt, said six Communist newspapers were closed down and every known active Communist would be arrested.

He said the seditionists planned to create disturbances Jan. 23, first day of a four-day celebration marking the end of six months since King Farouk was ousted.

The capital was quiet following Friday night's announcement that all parties had been dissolved, that their treasuries were being confiscated and their activities were being banned for three years.

Naguib, meanwhile, called an emergency Cabinet session for this afternoon.

TLC President's Plan Offers Aid To Idle Through Illness

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—President Percy R. Bengough of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada suggested a modified national health plan Friday but said it would not take the place of a full national health scheme for which labor will continue to fight. In an address before the opening session of the seventh annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Labor, TLC-AFL he said a modified plan was "something less than what labor wants."

The plan he outlined called for extension of the Unemployment Insurance Act to provide payment to workers idle because of illness.

There was no justice, he said, in the present system of paying insurance benefits to a man idle because no work was available while another worker was not paid when illness prevented him from working.

SHORT TERM HOPE

"I am not suggesting . . . that we give up labor's 25-year fight for a national health plan, but I am aware of how long it may take to get the whole thing. This, I am suggesting, is something we can get in a short time if we go after it promptly."

Workers would contribute a small amount in addition to that already paid for unemployment insurance. The machinery was already in existence through the present coun-

U.S. Jets Fight Duel With MiGs

SEOUL (AP)—Two United States Sabre jet pilots today fought a running air duel with eight Communist MiG jets and said they shot down one.

The Sabres picked the fight. They jumped the eight MiGs at 45,000 feet over northwest Korea. Capt. Vincent Stacy of Crystal Falls, Mich., was credited with the kill.

In Tokyo, the air forces disclosed that two B-29 Superforts were shot down by Red night fighters during the week and that 13 MiGs were destroyed as against no Sabres.

Australian twin - jet Meteors roared out in the morning hours against Communist supply vehicles. A low overcast held down the number of flights.

The Fifth Air Force said its Sabres gunned 13 MiGs to flaming death in the week ended Friday without losing a plane in air combat. But Communist ground gunners shot down five Allied planes and three planes were lost to other causes, presumably mechanical failure.

During the week's heavy raids, the vital network of road and rail bridges north of Sinanju took a pasting. Allied planes destroyed six bridges and knocked gaping holes in 28 more.

Ground action flared briefly across the frigid battle front Friday night and early today, the Eighth Army reported. Temperatures fell below zero all along the line.

Pope Receives Cardinal Leger

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope today told Canada's new cardinal and a group of Canadian pilgrims that today's rapidly changing conditions require the Church "to arm for a new existence."

The Church, the Pontiff said, must "make known and put into practice" its social doctrines.

The Pope received Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal in private audience, and afterwards received the pilgrims in Consistory Hall.

Addressing the pilgrims, he said that "the flowering Christianity of French Canada should be proud of the new prince of the church which has been given it."

The diocesans of Montreal will find in Cardinal Leger the leader they need, the Pope said, but added that a bishop cannot do everything himself.

Among those at the audience Montreal; Emery Sauve, who came to Rome as representative of Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal; Rev. Emile Bouchet, rector of the Canadian Pontifical College, and the 40 students of the college.

Later the Pope received James Cardial McGuigan of Toronto in private audience.

Timber "Honeymoon" Over For Ontario, Rowe Declares

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Earl Rowe, president of the Great Lakes Paper Company, says "the honeymoon is over" for Ontario's forest industries and a period of adjustment is in the offing.

"These are days in which the timber industry should take stock," Mr. Rowe said at a dinner meeting Friday night which concluded the annual session of the Thunder Bay Timber Operators Association.

"We are coming back to normalcy from the days when, as the old saying goes, 'any damn fool can be a success,'" he told 50 representatives of companies cutting timber between the Algoma Central Railway and the Manitoba boundary.

Mr. Rowe, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Dufferin-Simcoe and the party's former Ontario leader, said the whole industry "is in a better position than at any time in the last quarter century because the public is beginning to realize its value. I have emphasized that agriculture has stolen the limelight—but the forest operations are our great basic industry. It contributes most and has received least from the dominion treasury."

Mr. Rowe said the woods and allied industries were foremost in employment, paid the highest wages and brought more United States funds into Canadian coffers than any other industry.

Earlier the operators heard a speaker say that high costs are beginning to squeeze the timber industry in northwestern Ontario and that further increases through freight rates and higher crown dues would threaten its development and expansion.

H. R. (Bert) Styffe, returned to his eighth term as president of the association, said in his report that "costs have crept dangerously high."

Urge Warning Signals For Fatal Crossing

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury recommended Friday night that electric wigwags and signs warning of double tracks be put immediately at a level crossing here, where five persons have died in the last three months.

The jury made its recommendation at an inquest into the death of John Poka, 30, a Toronto trucker. He was killed Dec. 27 when his truck was hit by a westbound Canadian National Railways train and an eastbound Canadian Pacific Railway train.

At the same crossing last October Norman Gooder, his wife and two children were fatally injured.

Communist Paper Ignores Russian Claim To Penicillin After Crediting Britain

LONDON (AP) — The Conservative Daily Telegraph uncovered a bit of Communist nationalist deviationism Friday —right inside the office of the London Daily Worker.

In a tongue-in-cheek editorial on Moscow radio's claim that one Andrei Polotebnov discovered penicillin 81 years ago, the Telegraph said of Russia's strange delay in waiting 81 years to publish Polotebnov's discovery: "Better late than never, we all say, except the Daily Worker. On Thursday, November 27, the Daily Worker carried an article which declared penicillin was 'entirely a British discovery'."

The Daily Worker ignored the Moscow radio story, which ignored Western suppositions that Sir Alexander Fleming, a Briton, made the discovery.

Crash Kills 14 Aboard U.S. Bomber

Aircraft Hits Ground Mile To East Newfoundland Base

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A four-engined American military transport plane crashed Friday night near Harmon air base at Stephenville, on Newfoundland's rocky west coast, and indications are that all 14 persons aboard perished.

The plane, similar to the Canadian North Star, was coming in for a landing at the time of the accident and apparently hit some obstruction on the ground and disintegrated.

Those aboard are believed to have died almost instantly. Hours after the crash searchers were still probing the wreckage for clues to the identity of one of the victims.

A United States air force spokesman at the base said a board of officers will conduct an inquiry to determine the cause of the crash, which occurred about one mile east of the base at 9:07 p.m. NST while the C-54 was making a routine flight from St. John's. All aboard were believed to be American military personnel.

He declined to say whether there were any survivors but the tenor of a telephone conversation with reporters here indicated there were none. He said names of casualties will be released after notification of next of kin.

The Halifax weather office reported that weather over the area of the crash was "generally good," with occasional snow flurries and 35-mile winds with gusts to 40.

Reds Jail Chief Of Hungary Jews

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungary today announced the arrest of Lajos Stoeckler, president of Hungary's Jewish community

A one-sentence communique said police "found a considerable quantity of dollars and Swiss francs" in the home of Stoeckler, who was described as "a former industrialist."

Stoeckler had headed the Jewish Church of Hungary since the end of the Second World War. It is understood that the community administered the funds of the American joint distribution committee since the Jewish welfare agency ceased to exist here as an independent body three years ago.

Hungarian newspapers two days ago said the country's danger from "undermining activities" by the AJDC, known as JOINT in Europe, was greater than in the Soviet Union.

The newspapers recalled that Israel Jacobson of Buffalo, N. Y., was expelled in December, 1949 but said his banishment did not mean all traces of the organization's activities had been removed. The newspapers said Jacobson had been expelled for "spying."

On And On And On

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Treasury Secretary John Snyder said his goodbyes to treasury correspondents on Friday. "What do you think about taxes, Mr. Secretary?" one of the asked. "They will continue," said Snyder.

GENERAL MOHAMMED NAGUIB today announced that with the arrest of a number of army officers and civilians a possible revolt in Egypt has been averted. The general, who seized power last July and forced King Farouk into exile, said the conspiracy was the work of Communists and the Wafd Party. The Wafd has been blamed for much of the corruption Naguib is trying to clean up.

Says FBI Vetoes Appointment Of 2 Ike Aides

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Eisenhower's headquarters has refused to confirm or deny a published report that two minor New York office employees have been barred from prospective White House jobs on the basis of inquiries by the federal bureau of investigation.

The report came as Eisenhower made ready to announce more appointments to positions in the new administration.

The President - elect today planned to be at his desk for a final round of work in Manhattan. He leaves for Washington Sunday for his inauguration next Tuesday.

The general spent Friday afternoon at Columbia University, where he said a sentimental farewell to the students and faculty. His resignation as president of the university is effective Monday.

The New York Times says today that two employees at Eisenhower's New York headquarters "have been denied White House jobs tentatively assigned them, on the basis of unfavorable FBI reports."

NONE NAMED

The Times story, by W. H. Lawrence, does not name the employees. It says they had been engaged in secretarial and clerical work and were not slated for important White House positions.

The FBI, at the Eisenhower headquarters request, has been screening all persons picked for jobs in the incoming administration. The practice was started after State Secretary John Foster Dulles asked that the FBI investigate him.

Referring to the two who are reported to have been barred, the Times says:

"This marks the first time that the FBI has reported unfavorably on any of the new employees tentatively selected by the Eisenhower administration. . ."

NO CONFIRMATION

Eisenhower's press secretary refused to confirm or deny the report.

While Eisenhower was saying farewell to friends at Columbia University, his headquarters announced he had appointed:

1. Mrs. Oswald B. Lord of New York to succeed Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt on the United Nations human rights commission.

2. Mrs. Alma Kittredge Schneider of Mount Morrison, Colo., as superintendent of the mint at Denver.

Trainmen Demand 35% Increase, Cut In Work Week

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's troubled railway-labor scene was dangerously close to boiling over again today. A country-wide strike has been set for Feb. 2. This time it's over a wages-hours dispute by the carriers' running trades employees—the 25,000-member Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. The country still has not forgotten the nine-day strike in August, 1950, of 124,000 non-operating employees that paralyzed Canada's 40,000 miles of railway and halted telegraph and express services.

And still fresh in the nation's mind was the threat of another country-wide tie-up by 144,000 non-operating employees who came to terms with the carriers only a month ago.

The new threat came Friday night from W. P. Kennedy, president of the BRT, who made the statement following two days of meetings here of a committee representing the various trades within the brotherhood.

TRADES IN UNION

In the trades are represented conductors, trainmen and porters, as well as engineers and firemen working in shunting engines in yards, road and yard service employees and yardmasters.

Regular engineers and firemen are represented by another union.

Mr. Kennedy's statement said the committee voted unanimously to "withdraw the men from service at 6 a.m., Monday, Feb. 2, if a satisfactory settlement can not be reached before the designated time. . . ."

The union is seeking a reduction in the work week from 48 to 40 hours and a 35-per-cent wage increase. The average basic wage now is $1.29 an hour.

ADVISE GOVERNMENT

The statement said the minister of labor and railway managements have been advised of the action of the committee and that both carriers "have been informed that the negotiating committees are ready to resume negotiations immediately and meet with the managements of the two railways, starting Jan. 17."

Duplessis Asked To Settle Strike

QUEBEC (CP) — The Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor has asked Premier Duplessis to settle a textile strike at Louiseville, Que., and announced its willingness to co-operate with the government "in the interest of social peace."

The announcement, made Friday night, was the latest move in a situation of mounting tension between the government and the 90,000-member organization which has threatened a general work stoppage.

The CCCL added it was "ready to set aside its grievances."

Whether the labor group has decided to call off its work stoppage plan in the face of obvious government intentions to declare it illegal was not clear. Labor officials could not be reached for comment.

The statement, largely devoted to rebuttal of government speeches made during Wednesday's violent debate in the legislative assembly on the Louiseville tie-up, closed with the brief appeal:

"The CCCL believes the government, and especially the premier, who seems to be the only one with the power to do something, should put an end to the suffering of Louiseville's workers by imposing, if necessary, a fair settlement.

RCAF Jet Ace Wins 1st DFC Of Korean War

OTTAWA (CP)—Flt. Lt. Ernest A. Glover Friday was awarded the first Distinguished Flying Cross ever won while Canada is officially at peace. He destroyed three Communist jets and damaged two others in Korea.

The 30-year-old pilot from Leaside, a Toronto suburb, flew 50 missions against the Communists with the United States Air Force. The way he told it at a press conference it sounded as easy as driving an automobile home from the office. But his citation told a different story.

"Flt. Lt. Glover, while attached to the United States Air Force, fourth fighter interception wing, in the Korean theatre, displayed the most commendable aggressive spirit coupled with excellent fighting ability," the citation said.

ABOVE AVERAGE

"Because of his above average qualities as a combat pilot, he was rapidly promoted to flight leader, and whilst so employed, completed his duties with distinction, valor and merit.

"During his tour of duty he destroyed three MiG 15 aircraft and seriously damaged two others. This excellent record not only brings credit to Flt. Lt. Glover but has greatly enhanced the reputation of the Royal Canadian Air Force in this theatre."

The slim, black-haired pilot told reporters how he bagged his first jet without firing a shot last Sept. 8. In the same fight, he added one damaged jet to the MiG he damaged in an Aug. 30 action.

He said he came on the two MiGs during a sweep up the Yalu river just south of the Manchurian border. He fired at the leader who was flying low. The two planes tried to escape by skimming low over a hill. One turned suddenly to get out of his sights and crashed into the hill. The leader was seriously damaged by Glover's bullets.

SECOND KILL

In his second "kill," Flt. Lt. Glover said, he was escorting fighter-bombers when he spotted a MiG. He closed to about 800 feet and fired. The plane caught fire and the pilot baled out behind the Communist lines. That happened the day after he bagged his first plane.

Seven days later, Flt. Lt Glover said, he and two companions ran into about 20 Communist jets. He fired at one from behind and it caught fire. The Communist pilot baled out and Glover and his companions headed for home.

Mayor Scores Raiding By Windsor Union

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Arthur Reaume Friday condemned tactics of a few brass hats, who, he said are doing labor's cause great harm in Windsor by raiding rival unions.

The mayor was invited to welcome delegates attending the seventh annual convention of the Ontario provincial Federation of Labor (TLC) in the Prince Edward Hotel.

Actors Jailed, Bailed

Vancouver Police Seek To Close "Tobacco Road"

By DAVID STOCKLAND

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Jeeter Lester clan, free on bail, rollicked through the delayed third act of "Tobacco Road" early today.

But Ellie May's sharecropper sarong stayed behind as police evidence in a case charging five of the players with participating in an indecent show.

The principal players went to jail Friday night during the second act of the Erskine Caldwell stage hit after the Everyman Repertory Company defied a morality squad ultimatum that "Tobacco Road" be cleaned up or close down.

There was an intermission of more than 1½ hours while the cast arranged bail, but nearly all 800 customers stuck around for the fun and, finally, the completion of the play.

The actors and actresses, bundled off to the police station by seven morality squad officers who strode onto the Avon Theatre stage to the jeers of the audience, said they were more than willing to defy police again tonight and continue "Tobacco Road's" run. The actors shouted their lines over their shoulders as the plainclothesmen rushed them through the wings into waiting police cars.

Decision on whether to fold or continue will be made sometime today after the group has had another discussion with its lawyers.

Part of the delay in freeing the cast was caused by the Ellie May costume, a scarlet dress just slightly longer than a sweater. Police demanded the bit of fluff as evidence and actress Tamara Dlugo had to wait at the station until her street clothes arrived from the theatre.

So in the third act, Ellie May, a man-crazy gal with a sort of wallowing approach to sex, looked mighty prim by contrast in a blazer and plaid skirt, "normal length and cut."

Besides Miss Dlugo, those arrested were Doug Haskins, the lecherous Jeeter Lester; Ted Babcock, the idiot Dude Lester; Douglas Hellier, a character called Love Bensey, and Louise DeVick, Sister Bessie Rice.

Tamara said questions about her costume, put to her by a police matron, included whether she was wearing anything underneath it and how she managed to keep it over her legs while she was wiggling across the stage.

"I don't know what I'm going to do about another dress if the show goes on tonight," she said. "If I get another like the one the police took, they'll probably take that one, too."

Miss DeVick said she and her companions were lodged in cells for about half an hour during their stay at the police station. They were set free in bail of $100 each.

"Tobacco Road," which police termed "lewd and filthy" after they investigated a citizen's complaint, has been playing nine days to full houses in what is a former burlesque house.

Police planned to close down the play at the end of the first act Friday night, but the company, in a stalling tactic, skipped the first intermission, merely dimming the lights for a few seconds.

While the extended second intermission was going on, surviving members of the cast put on skits, served free coffee and then conducted a sing song.

The most popular melody: "There's No Business Like Show Business."

Adjudicator Turns Director At Festival

OTTAWA (CP)—The adjudicator at the Eastern Ontario drama festival Friday night turned his hand to directing a short scene from "Ten Little Indians," the Agatha Christie mystery staged by the Cobourg Opera and Drama Guild.

John Allen said this method might be the most effective way of saying what he wanted to say to a group which had admirable spirit but not much experience.

Three plays by Canadian playwrights are among the four productions which close the festival today.

In the afternoon, three one-act plays will be performed. They are: The Ottawa Little Theatre Workshop in "Rise and Shine" by Elda Cadogan of Durham; the Knox Theatre Group of Peterborough, in Sir James Barrie's "The Twelve Pound Look," and the Port Hope Community Theatre in "Overlaid" by Robertson Davies of Peterborough.

Mr. Davies himself will produce the evening play, written by him. It is "King Phoenix," with players from the Peterborough Little Theatre.

Howe Warns Peron Of Red Danger

BUENOS AIRES (CP)—Canada Friday informed Argentina—land of strong-man Juan Peron—that countries which give up the fight for free trade may play into the hands of the Communists.

The note of caution was delivered by Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, Canada's trade minister, in a speech before a combined meeting of Buenos Aires chambers of commerce. Some 500 Argentina business men and officials attended.

"We, and I include countries like Canada and Argentina, cannot afford to give up the fight for freer trade," he said.

"There are evil men and evil forces in the world today that hope and believe we shall fail to break down the barriers that divide the Free World and that our divisions will weaken us fatally."

The Iron Curtain, he noted, now cuts off huge areas and populations from normal commercial channels. Parts of Asia and Europe—about one-quarter of the world's land area and more than one-quarter of the world's population — now were, fenced in.

That's why Canada has constantly hammered home in the councils of nations the need for removal of trade barriers, but restrictions still abound," Mr. Howe said.

Mr. Howe, who observed his 67th birthday Thursday heads a 12-man Canadian goodwill trade mission on a five-week, 17,000-mile tour of nine Latin-American countries.

Appealing for more Argentina trade, Mr. Howe said he was here "mainly because I should like to see closer commercial ties between Canada and Argentina."

UWO Gazette Joins Attack On Censoring

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Gazette, University of Western Ontario student publication Friday joined eight other student newspapers in attacking censorship of college papers.

In an editorial the Gazette said in part.

"It is through serving the student body as a whole that the college newspaper derives its reason and right of existence. As such it can ultimately answer to the student body as a whole for all of its activity.

"Yet, because of censorship from a variety of bodies the college newspaper is often denied the opportunity to fulfill these functions which are its right and its duty."

Albion Wins 2-1 Over Preston To Head League

LONDON (Reuters) — Star forward Leslie Nicholls today slammed home West Bromwich Albion's winning goal to beat Preston 2-1 and put the team at the head of the English League Division One.

A crowd of 42,001 soccer fans roared as Nicholls scored 15 minutes from the end of play, enabling West Bromwich to take over the premier place it lost at the turn of the year.

The new leader changes places with Sunderland, which lost 3-1 to Derby, 19th in the 22-team First Division table. West Bromwich now has 33 points, Sunderland 32.

Burnley, held to a goalless draw by Newcastle, remains in third spot with 31 points.

All top clubs in Division Two won their games today. Sheffield United 5-0 victor over Plymouth, retains its lead with 40 points, three ahead of Huddersfield, which defeated Barnsley 4-2. Leicester follows with 33 points.

Bristol Rovers won their 12th successive league victory, beating Gillingham 4-0, to hold the leadership of Division Three (Southern) with 44 points, seven ahead of Northampton, 4-1 winner against Watford today.

In the northern section of Division Three, Oldham and Grimsby, which have clashed all season for top place, fought to a 1-1 tie. Oldham still has a comfortable five-point lead with 41 points to Grimsby's 36.

East Fife, held to a goalless draw by Queen of the South, still leads Scottish League Division A by a point. Hibernian, its nearest rival, drew 1-1 against Rangers and failed to reach the top spot.

Hamilton and Stirling Albion continue to share top place in Division B with 32 points each. Hamilton beat Alloa 2-0 and Stirling made the same score against Dundee United.

$7,500 In Jewels Shown At Trial

HAMILTON (CP) — Jewellery worth $7,500 was displayed in Supreme Court today during proceedings to extradite two men charged with the slaying Nov. 9 of a Buffalo, N. Y., jeweller.

Maurice O'Dell, 27, and Walter Griffen, 26, have been indicted by a Buffalo Grand Jury on a charge of murdering 46-year-old Frank Hurd.

Mrs. Doris Hurd, widow of the jeweller, today identified rings and watches as similar to those taken during the hold-up of her husband's store Nov. 9.

She told the court that the evening before the hold-up three men walked around the shop. Describing events which took place Nov. 9 she said that O'Dell asked to see some rings and she went to get a tray of them. She noticed Griffen had a gun in his hand.

"A few seconds later I heard a shot—I knew it was my husband," she said.

Mrs. Hurd told how store employees were ordered into a back office one by one and of how two attendants were compelled to face the wall while Griffen, she said, took their wallets.

"Then Fred Bartsch, the store's repairman, was struck on the back of the head three times by Griffen, and fell to the floor."

Mrs. Hurd clasped her hands tightly together in front of her face to demonstrate how she was forced to stand while her wrists were bound with adhesive tape.

Included in the stolen jewellery was her own diamond ring which had been on her desk and which she identified as the one Hamilton police took from Joyce Munroe, a friend of O'Dell.

Miss Munroe testified today that she became engaged to O'Dell, whom she has known since August, the night before he was arrested.

The hearing was expected to end today.

Element Shortage Bad For Crops

TORONTO (CP) — A lack of minor elements in the soil is contributing to decreased production and poor keeping quality of fruits and vegetables, Dr. Enn Terasmae of the Ontario Agricultural College, said Friday.

The trend away from the use of barnyard manure on the land is one reason for this deficiency, he told the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association.

Dr. Terasmae said the elements included iron, copper, magnesium, manganese, molybdenum, zinc and others.

Dr. Terasmae recommended soil management and fertilizer booklets be provided each year by the department of agriculture.

M. M. Robinson, secretary, said the only answer is to "rest" portions of the farm each year.

Earlier, William Walker, chairman of the commodity marketing section, urged that contracts between producers and processors be signed on a tonnage rather than an acreage basis. This would make for stabilized prices, he said.

Officers elected were: President, Harold Willan, Leamington; vice-president, C. M. Bonham, Grimsby; secretary-treasurer, M. M. Robinson, Toronto; executive, A. W. Oughtred, Clarkson; J. E Reynolds, Leamington; Charles Huffman, Harrow; Harry Dawson, Niagara-on-the-Lake; Leon Van Neck Blenheim; William Walker, Dunnville; W. C. Nickerson, St. Catharines; A. L. Bruner, Ruthven, and Irwin Colwill, Newcastle.

Wiley contends that it is vital for the United States to share in the project so that it will have some control over it.

His bill calls for expenditure of about $100,000,000 to build a 45-mile section of the seaway on the American side of the St. Lawrence along the International rapids. It would be a self-liquidating project with tolls paying off the bonds.

Earlier St. Lawrence legislation called for a joint Canadian-American project including both the seaway and St. Lawrence power development, the U. S. putting up $566,000,000.

Newspaper Says Don Lacks Staff

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Daily Star says today in a newspage story that recent firing and resignations of Don jail guards have left the prison short of 40 civilian employees.

The paper says 17 provincial police, borrowed from detachments throughout Ontario, are doing guard duty at the prison but the total staff still stands 23 men short of the recommended 95 required. The Star says the provincial police officers have been billeted at a hotel here for almost five months.

Poor pay is held largely responsible for the inability to secure replacements for the large number of guards who have resigned in recent weeks or been released because they were "found to be unsuitable."

A special Cabinet committee was appointed by Premier Frost following receipt of a report of a Royal Commission set up to investigate conditions at the jail after the escape of the Boyd gang last September.

The Star's story says that two of the 15 provincial police billeted at a downtown hotel, Sgt. Lee Walker of Cornwall and Constable Douglas Ross of Peterborough, have been living there since the escape of the Boyd gang.

(The Examiner's information is that all 17 provincial police on guard at the jail are living at the St. Regis Hotel in Toronto. And the only two who have been there since Sept. 9, when provincial police first took over the guard duties, are Cpl. Joseph Hanson and Constable Ross, both of headquarters here.

(A third man has also been present from Peterborough, working on a rotational basis. Constables Bert Howden, Tom Armitage, Ken Barber and Harold Armstrong have all done stints that have varied up to two months. Constable Ernest Lunn has just gone to Toronto to begin his spell of guard duty, relieving Constable Armstrong.)

Asks Federal Inquiry Of Aircraft Plants

OTTAWA (CP) — Rodney Adamson (PC-York West), a veteran of the Royal Canadian Flying Corps of the First World War, said Friday an inquiry should be made into the question of why one Toronto aircraft plant has an excellent production record while the other runs into difficulties.

Mr. Adamson told the Commons that the De Haviland Company of Toronto is producing aircraft for 40 different countries and 11 different air forces.

Almost next door the A. V. Roe (Canada) Company was running into continuous difficulties.

"Is it because of government interference?" he asked.

He suggested the situation was one that should be investigated by the defence expenditures committee of the Commons.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Declines in U.S. grain prices were reflected Friday in an easier tone on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Commercial demand was not especially aggressive. Shippers bought some oats for eastern feeding requirements and also some barley. Processors took flax on the decline. Rye trade was mostly local. Prices of top grades of IWA wheat were down one and one-quarter cents. Class 2 prices were down one-quarter cent.

Much Time Left Ere World Ends

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's chief astronomer says the earth may some day be engulfed and disintegrated in a colossal explosion of the sun. But it won't happen for "at least billions of years."

Speaking Friday night at the annual meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, Dr. C. S. Beals of Ottawa, chief of the Dominion observatory and retiring president of the society, forecast the sun's explosion as one of the ways in which the world could end.

He said stars have been known to suddenly increase enormously in size and brilliance. Some at maximum size would fill the entire orbit of the earth.

"If such an outburst of the sun should take place, its consequences would surpass in destructiveness any other that astronomers could imagine," Dr. Beals said.

"If the increase were 10,000 times its present size, a common occurrence among other stars, it would be accompanied by an increase in the sun's diameter capable of engulfing the earth, which could then lose some of its orbital velocity and fall inwardly to the sun to be merged with the solar mass. This would indeed be the end of the world in a very literal sense.

"On the basis of present astronomical knowledge, it seems highly improbable that our steady old sun would ever embark on such an extravagant orgy."

Gambling Czar Asks For Parole

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank Costello, the imprisoned one-time reputed czar of big-time gambling, today asked for parole and a hearing.

The application was filed with the United States parole board.

Costello, 61, is in the Milan, Mich. federal correctional institution serving an 18-month term for contempt of congress. His conviction was based on his refusal to answer questions before the senate crime investigating committee.

Costello started his sentence Aug. 15, 1952, and will be eligible for parole Feb. 14.

Carleton College Plans New Campus In 1955

OTTAWA (CP) — Carleton College, which began classes in 1942 in rented high school classrooms, will start building a new campus in 1955.

President M. M. MacOdrum said Friday night it will be on a 130-acre tract beside the Rideau river on the south side of Ottawa and will look out on the Rideau canal.

Dr. MacOdrum said 92 acres were recently purchased for $133,900. The college now occupies several older buildings in the residential Glebe section in the middle of the city.

Trainmen Demand

Mr. Kennedy said the committee "unanimously rejected the majority reports of two of the boards as being discriminatory, not in accordance with the evidence as presented and entirely unacceptable."

He was referring to the majority reports of two conciliation boards, both headed by Judge W. S. Lane of Picton, Ont., which offered an across-the-board increase of 12 per cent on condition the unions accept certain changes in working conditions requested by the railways.

The union, in its submission to the board, requested—apart from the hours-wages demand—insertion of an escalator clause to tie wages to the cost-of-living index.

The 12-per-cent increase, computed on the average basic wage, would amount to 15½ cents an hour.

ENDORSE PRINCIPLES

The statement added the committee "endorsed the principles outlined in the minority report of the two boards as an objective in further negotiations."

The minority report recommended a 20-per-cent wage increase and reduction of the work week to 40 hours.

Available railway spokesmen said as far as they knew management had not yet received notice of the union decision.

Last month, the 144,000 non-operating employees from two national and 15 international unions settled for an increase of 16 cents an hour, effective Sept. 1, the date their last contract expired.

In 1950, the strike started Aug. 22 and ended Aug. 30, after emergency legislation, passed by a special session of Parliament, ordered them to do so.

They finally got an increase of seven cents an hour and a reduced work week.

High U.K. Steel Aim

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's steel industry announced today that it has set a 1953 production target of 17,500,000 tons, the highest ever aimed at or achieved. Last year's production, recorded by the British Iron and Steel Federation, amounted to 16,418,000 tons against 15,638,000 tons in 1951.

Leukemia-Stricken Girl Gets Chilean Peaches

TORONTO (CP)—Nine-year-old Rhonda Hayworth got her peach Friday.

The girl, stricken with leukemia, is in the Hospital for Sick Children here. She has eaten scarcely anything for the last week. Thursday night she asked for a peach.

Relatives were unable to find the fruit anywhere in Toronto. They appealed to a large grocery concern and the head fruit buyer got in touch with officials in New York. Chilean peaches were available there.

The peaches reached here Friday by plane.

Admits Don Staff Below Strength

TORONTO (CP) — Ralph Ayres, prison inspector and acting governor at the Don jail, said today that 17 provincial policemen have been doing guard duty at the jail for four months.

Commenting on a report that the jail staff is 23 men short of a recommended 95, he said that the jail is short of staff and that recruiting is continuing but that no figure has been set down as a required strength.

"We can use a few more men," Mr. Ayres said, "but there is no official number recommended."

A report here today stated that the large number of guards who have resigned in recent weeks or been released because they were "found to be unsuitable" have left the prison short of 40 civilian employees and held poor pay largely responsible for the inability to secure replacements.

A special cabinet committee was appointed by Premier Frost following receipt of a report of a royal commission set up to investigate conditions at the jail after the Boyd gang escape.

The service was conducted in St. John's United Church at Alliston. Attending from Peterborough were: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kitney, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Pirie, Mrs. Elmer Frost, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heard, Mrs. W. K. Sloan who were accompanied by the Rev. H. D. McCormack, successor to Mr. Craik at St. James' Church, and Mrs. McCormack.

Assisting in the service were Rev. W. A. Hunnisett, president of the Toronto Conference, Rev. F. G. MacTavish of Bradford, secretary of the Simcoe conference.

The body was removed to Montreal for burial.

Sarnia Seaman's Arrest Solves $25,000 Thefts

MONTREAL (CP) — Adjacent Westmount police reported Friday the solution of at least 10 house burglaries involving about $25,000 in jewelry with the arrest of a 32-year-old seaman. Part of the loot was reported recovered in Toronto.

Identified as William Brooks Johnston of Sarnia, Ont., employed for years on Great Lakes steamers, he was arrested Saturday after an alleged attempted break-in of a Westmount home.

Police said a valise containing part of the stolen jewelry had been checked at a bus terminus here while some $17,000 worth was found in two valises in a bus terminus and a railway station in Toronto.

163,984 DPs Admitted To Canada In 5 Years

OTTAWA (CP)—A total of 163,984 displaced persons were admitted to Canada as immigrants between April, 1947, and March 31, 1952. This figure was given in the annual report of the immigration department, tabled Friday in the Commons by Citizenship Minister Harris.

The report, covering the fiscal year ended March 31, said 211,220 immigrants were admitted in the 12-month period, an increase of 147 per cent over the previous fiscal year.

The total, largest for any year since 1913, included 41,016 displaced persons from Europe.

There were 40,102 British, 7,388 French and 163,730 representing 38 other racial groups.

Russia Pours Out Bitterest Attack

MOSCOW (AP) — The newspaper Trud, commenting on the case of the nine Soviet doctors charged with plotting on Western orders to shorten the lives of Russian leaders, today poured out the bitterest attack on "United States imperialists" yet to appear in the Soviet press.

The editorial in the Trade Union Council organ, also denounced Jewish Zionist organizations. The announcement Tuesday of the doctors' arrest charged that they received their orders from a Jewish organization in the U.S.

Trud said charges against "these agents of the American and English intelligence services" have "aroused the wrath of all Soviet people."

"The atrocities of American imperialism which strives to transform the free peoples of the world into slaves, to throw back humanity to times of barbarism, arouse the burning hate of hundreds of millions of people," the newspaper said.

Among the adjectives Trud used were: beast-like, bloody, carnivorous, most reactionary, most insane, monstrous, brigandish.

"Zionism has become a weapon of the American and English warmongers," the editorial declared. "The monopolists of the U. S. use widely for their dirty purposes Jewish Zionist organizations. . . ."

A-Bomb Pilot Says It Wasn't Necessary

TORONTO (CP)—The man who guided the first atom bomb to Hiroshima, Theodore VanKirk, 31, said today he doubts it was necessary.

VanKirk, a major in the United States Army Air Force when he made the flight in 1945, told an interviewer he thought the war with Japan could have been finished without dropping an atom bomb.

VanKirk, now a Niagara Falls, N.Y., chemical engineer, is here in connection with the showing of a film dealing with the atomic bombing.

SEVERE MEASURES

Cabinet Minister Fuad Galal, a spokesman for the premier, said in a radio broadcast Friday night that Naguib was tired of battling corruption and would take the "severest measures" necessary to clear a path for three years of open government.

Referring to the British troops stationed in the Suez canal zone, he said "the first aim of the revolutionary movement is evacuation of foreign forces from our land."

Of those arrested, Prince Abbas Halim is a cousin of exiled Farouk; Serag El Din is a former Wafdist interior minister and strong man in the party, and Col. Mahanna was on Egypt's three-man regency council when Naguib first assumed power. He was ousted from the council when Farouk was deposed.

Prince Halim was one of the founders of the Egyptian Labor party. Naguib jailed him with a number of other political leaders last September and released him in December.

Under the reign of Farouk he was accused of buying faulty arms for Egypt. Naguib made this a key point when he staged the coup that exiled Farouk.

CRUCIAL TIME

The new shake-up comes at a crucial point in Britain's negotiations with Egypt on the future of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. Naguib had been expected to reply to Britain's latest proposal this morning.

The 25 military officers arrested earlier were not identified, but the announcement of their arrest promised a swift investigation of their activities.

In a dramatic country-wide radio broadcast, Naguib charged that the political parties—targets of frequent charges of corruption and graft—were a "grave menace to the country's existence." He added that some "had connived with foreign powers and had engaged in conspiracies." He did not name any foreign powers.

The announcement of the arrests came only a week before the country was to begin a four-day celebration of the ousting of King Farouk last July.

TO REBUILD NATION

By dissolving the political parties, Naguib clearly showed that his army movement intends to rebuild the country's political life completely. A three-year "transitional period" has been started, he explained during which a "good constitutional regime will be worked out."

There was no reliable estimate of the value of confiscated party assets, which the premier said would be used for public welfare. Some major parties, however, were reported to have been worth more than $1,000,000.

Mr. Bengough told the 400 delegates he could not see how there could be outside opposition to his suggestion.

SEES NONI OPPOSING

Doctors would not oppose the plan because they would still get paid. It would not upset any present medical plans.

"It certainly would not cost a fraction of what a full health program would cost. We certainly don't want a fee-for-service plan such as some medical men would provide because this means for the doctor the more sickness the more pay. The per-capita basis is the only sound basis."

Doctors, generally, would receive more than they do now. However, it would perhaps affect adversely some of the work of specialists, he said.

Grand Jury Finds No Indictments In Brinks' Case

BOSTON (AP)—Three years of tedious federal bureau of investigation investigation into the startling $1,219,000 cash holdup in 1950 of Brink's, Inc., came to a flat ending Friday when a federal grand jury reported no indictments.

The result of the grand jury proceedings left federal authorities with two major unsolved Massachusetts holdups involving almost $2,000,000.

Last February a U.S. trucking corp. truck was rifled of $681,000 in Danvers, Mass., while the crew was enjoying morning coffee.

The grand jury report said:

"The grand jury feels it does not now possess complete, positive information as to the identity of the participants in the Brink's robbery."

"This," the report said, was "due mainly to three conditions:

"1. The participants were effectively disguised;

"2. The lack of eyewitnesses to the crime itself;

"3. The refusal of certain witnesses to give testimony and the inability of the grand jury to compel them to do so."

U.S. Attorney George F. Garrity had "no comment" but a source close to his office explained "the armed robbery phase seems to be close but the case is still open. If any person is found with Brink's money he can be arrested and tried whenever he is found."

The U.S. statute of limitations, after which the participants normally cannot be prosecuted in federal court, expires tonight at 7:10 p.m. EST, third anniversary of the crime.

Will Publish Biography Of Willa Cather

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—Alfred Knopf will publish in March the biography of Willa Cather by the late Edward K. Brown, former professor of English at the University of Toronto.

Leon Edel, who spent his childhood in Yorkton, Sask., completed the Cather biography on which Brown had been working at his death in 1950.

Lippincott publishers also announced Friday that they will publish in April the first volume of Edel's three-volume biography of Henry James. Edel has been long regarded as one of the foremost authorities on the works of this novelist.

Miss Cather, who died at the age of 70 in 1947, became interested in Canada with her first novel "Alexander's Bridge," based on an idea she got from news stories about the collapse of a Quebec bridge. Later, one of her best-known works was about 17th century Quebec—"Shadows on the Rock." She had a summer home at Grand Manan, N.B.

TRACES INTERPRETATION

Brown, considered one of the finest critics ever produced by Canada, traces in the biography Miss Cather's interpretation of the pioneer spirit on the American prairies, the southwest U.S. and in Quebec.

The executors of Miss Cather's estate asked Brown to write her biography. He had been corresponding with the novelist for some years. They had never met, but Edel recalls that in a letter Brown had told him he had seen Miss Cather aboard a Canadian ship returning from England in the 1930s—long before he considered writing about her.

Edel's completion of Brown's work was an ironic twist on an agreement they had made in 1943 when Edel joined the U.S. Army. Brown said then if Edel were killed he would finish editing a book on James' plays on which Edel had been working.

Edel came through the war unscathed. Soon after Brown died while he was professor of English at the University of Chicago, his widow sought out Edel to complete the biography of Miss Cather.

Brown and Edel were students together at the Sorbonne in Paris in 1929 and had continued their friendship while Brown was at the University of Toronto and later at Cornell University. Edel worked in succession for The Canadian Press in Montreal and New York and for the Montreal Star.

Brown was a special assistant to the later Prime Minister Mackenzie King during the war.

Junior Firemen

SEAFORTH, Ont. (CP)—Plans to form a junior fire brigade of boys aged 14 to 16 are being worked out in this town near Stratford. A large number of youths attended a demonstration of fire extinguishers and saw a film on fire hazards. The Seaforth fire brigade will sponsor the boys' brigade.

Good Record

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Provincial officials reported Saskatchewan had a below-average forest fire season in 1952. There were 135 outbreaks, compared with an average of 250, and fire-fighting costs were roughly half the average of recent years.

New Type Magnetometer Being Installed Finds Ore

A new type of magnetometer—the electronic instrument that has discovered new wealth in the Peterborough district— is being installed in aircraft.

Previous models have been of the trailing type, sheathed in steel cable, which dangle behind an aircraft flying over territory suspected to hold oil or ore. The new model is installed in the tail of a plane.

Installation of the new magnetometer is being done at Oshawa's airfield, one of two points on the continent equipped to handle such work. The other airfield is in the United States. Further development of the magnetometer was by a Canadian firm, Photographic Survey Corporation.

SURVEY RHODESIA

Most recent installation was in a British aircraft, a twin-engined Percival Prince. It will take part in a magnetometer survey of Rhodesia by a subsidiary of a huge English group of companies —the Hunting group.

Both Photographic Surveys and the Percival aircraft firm are components of the Hunting group.

Magnetometer surveys sponsored by Bethlehem Steel Corporation revealed the deposit of low grade iron ore now being developed southeast of Marmora. They have also shown a definite pattern in these low-grade ore pockets stretching from Calabogie in the Ottawa area southwest to the lakeshore almost directly south of Peterborough.

However, most of these deposits have been tested and found too small to be worth while developing.

The magnetometer does not reveal the location of ore or oil deposits, but does reveal where such deposits are likely to occur.

SENSITIVE INSTRUMENT

A magnetometer is highly sensitive to the magnetic field of the earth. If it is taken through a locality where the lines of magnetism are upset by bodies of ore or oil, these disturbances are registered on a graph.

Experienced engineers, reading the results of the survey as shown by the graph, can tell which of the registered disturbances are likely to be mineral deposits. A camera, taking pictures of the ground being surveyed, provides the engineers with photographic evidence of the type of ground covered.

Disadvantage of the old type of trailing magnetometer was that it tended to whip when it was being hauled back into the aircraft. As a result, the most sensitive and most expensive part of it, at the end of the cable, was often broken off and lost. The new installation, which costs roughly $50,000, eliminates this disadvantage.

The Percival corporation hopes to interest the Department of Transport in their Prince, which is reported to be an excellent aircraft for survey work such as will be done in Rhodesia.

HOPE TO SELL FIVE

They would sell a fleet of five to Canada, three of which they suggest as survey craft, the other two for ferrying VIP's. Air Vice-Marshal Cowley, head of the Transport Department, has flown in the new craft.

One feature of the Prince is that it can continue to climb on take-off even if one engine is cut out—a feat few other twin-engine piston-powered craft can accomplish.

"Paper Bag" Bandit Gets Theatre's $150

STRATHROY (CP)—An armed lone bandit held up the King theatre cashier here Friday night and escaped with the night's receipts. Loot was estimated at less than $150.

Sixteen-year-old Marilyn Richardson, cashier, told police a man suddenly appeared at her wicket, thrust a gun at her and said:

"This is a holdup. Give me the cash—all you've got."

The young girl pushed the money across. The man scooped it into a paper bag, then ran around the corner.

Fire Guts Home

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Mrs. Louise Little and her three children were left homeless Friday when fire gutted their four-room dwelling, a converted garage. The children were at school and the mother also was out at the time the fire started, apparently from an overheated woodstove. The contents of the house were destroyed.

Driver Out, So Is Case

MONTREAL (CP)—Judge Omer Legrand ruled Friday that a motorist cannot be convicted of drunken driving unless there is proof he was arrested inside his vehicle. Police arrested Oscar Rheaume while he was standing outside his car on the street. They said his car had sideswiped two others. Judge Legrand said the case lacked direct proof and presumption.

Kills Three, Suicides

UNION, N.J. (AP)—A mother and her two children were shot to death as they slept Friday, and the body of the father was found slumped over one child's body, a rifle by his hand. All had bullet wounds in their heads. Police said the husband shot his wife, son and daughter and then himself. Dead were Herbert Settel, 36, partner in a New York jewelry firm, his wife, Maxine, 30; their son, Neal Jr., 2, and a daughter, Jean, 6.

Penny Dogs Boost Share Volume To Highest Point

By HARRY KINGDON

"Penny dogs" this week chased the share volume on the Toronto stock exchange to its highest point of 1952-53.

The low-priced mining issues—known along Bay street as penny dogs—were set in motion by rumors and reports of ore finds from as far as Saskatchewan and New Brunswick.

The Saskatchewan reports were not new this week. Uranium discoveries in the St. Mary's channel area of northern Saskatchewan were attracting interest before Christmas.

Gunnar, one of the main holders of property in the area, got into stride this week. The company traded 799,250 shares for a gain of $2.25, closing at $4.20. Other companies in the same area joined the boom.

OVER A MILLION

Chimo, New Delhi, Homer Yellowknife and Nesbitt-Labine traded a total of 1,131,910 shares and all gained.

From New Brunswick came reports of a lead-zinc discovery made by interests associated with M. J. Boylen. New Larder U jumped from 40 cents to 83 cents this week in a turnover of 1,816,377 shares. Nubar traded almost as actively to gain 10 cents and close at 29 cents.

New financing rumors and reports of nickel deals with the United States sparked rapid movements in a number of other stocks. Still others followed with "sympathy movements"—buying in expectation that the companies involved would get in on some of the new discoveries.

A large part of this week's volume of 26,414,000 shares came from the activity of the low-priced shares. But while they were climbing, the indexes for base metals and western oils shifted slowly upward and industrials and golds moved as slowly lower.

In Toronto Monday, prices were mixed while in Montreal they slipped. Prices continued mixed in Toronto Tuesday while industrials gained in Montreal and papers weakened.

Wednesday saw weaker markets in both centres, but a small rise set in at Toronto Thursday. Montreal prices mixed. Both centres reported declines Friday.

On the New York market, prices slipped Monday, rose Tuesday and turned mixed Wednesday. The market continued mixed Thursday until a selling flurry lowered prices Friday.

From Friday to Friday, the Toronto exchange indexes showed industrials down 2.87 at 322.29, golds down .89 at 83.85, base metals up 1.27 at 184.13 and western oils up 2.58 at 127.41.

In the Montreal averages banks were up .14 at 32.77, utilities down 7 at 91.8, industrials down 1.1 at 210.0, combined down 1.0 at 170.5, papers down .42 at 714.01 and golds down .67 at 64.10.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks on the New York exchange was down 30 cents at $113.80.

Forced To Drive Thief

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—An unidentified man Friday forced Frank P. Campbell to drive him around the city for more than an hour before he robbed him of $15 and fled. Campbell told police the man approached him as he was about to enter his car and told him to "slide over and get going." He left $5 in the wallet.

Assuring Bon Voyage Aboard Liner

Streamlining of service is invading everything these days, even the larger steamship lines operating between Canada and Europe. The familiar practice of queuing up for dining room and deck chair reservations is about to become a thing of the past, at least with the larger companies.

Passengers are being encouraged to mail their requests for such reservations so that when they get aboard they won't face the tiring and confusing task of waiting in line that usually fills the first hours of a voyage.

By planning ahead, the tedious paper work is done long before the passenger even sets foot on the gangplank. In cabin and tourist classes it is customary for the second steward to keep such requests in an envelope in his alphabetical box. Then when the passengers come along and say they have made advance reservations, he hands them the covering table slip.

On deck, the passenger goes to the part of the ship where he requested that his chair be placed, looks for a chair with his name on it and later pays the deck steward or purser the customary rental fee.

AGENT DOES WORK

As a rule, if the passenger books his trip through an agent, the latter is expected to take care of such reservations if asked. The Cunard and French Line supply agents with printed forms which need only the names of the passengers, the number of persons in the party, and their preference as to first and second sitting at mealtime. The same form has space for advice about where the traveller would like to have his deck chair placed.

Those buying tickets direct from the steamship companies should indicate to the clerk what they would like in the way of dining room and deck accommodations.

Lines offering this service include: Cunard, American Export Lines, French Line, Holland America Line, Home Lines and United States Lines.

CATERING SERVICE

Another of the newer services being offered by steamship firms is the catering service. This covers particularly arrangements for pre-sailing parties in first class and the delivery of wine and sometimes flowers to passengers as gifts.

This has helped to avoid a duplication of gifts which often pile up in the traveller's stateroom on the day of sailing. It allows the giver a chance to have his gift presented midway in the voyage or just before the boat docks on the other side. Wine and flowers are the two predominating things at the present time.

To place an order, a person sends a cheque or money order to the catering or passenger department of the boat line with a letter stating to whom, where and when the gifts should be delivered and if a card is required.

Winter Posy

HALIFAX (CP)—A pansy with beautiful green leaves appeared in Mrs. Charles Manley's garden at Woodside early in January.

Using Masks To Identify Wanted Men

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's police force is using masks in its latest efforts to identify criminal suspects.

The plaster-of-paris masks combine almost every type of feature and will be used to help witnesses identify wanted persons.

The new device is used after identification of a suspect has failed through the department's rogues gallery with its 70,000 photographs.

Detective Captain Paul Meunier, head of the identification and fingerprint bureau, said:

"We have the witness stand before the seven masks. He says, for example, that the suspect had a nose like the one in mask No. 1, eyebrows of No. 4, forehead of No. 6 and so on until a composite picture is obtained."

The composite picture and a lengthy questionnaire filled out by witnesses are sent to RCMP headquarters in Ottawa. There the mask is completed from clay in three-quarter, profile and full-face views.

Photographs of the mask are then distributed to police throughout Canada.

Personal Sacrifice For Public Service

Prime Minister St. Laurent drew applause from all sides of the House of Commons when—partly in defence of General Simonds—he spoke of the sacrifice many men make in public service. Certainly no one imagines that Mr. St. Laurent himself holds public office for the pecuniary compensation of it. His total income as Prime Minister is $23,000 a year. Before he entered public life his income from an outstanding practice as corporation lawyer was several times that amount.

* * *

Mr. St. Laurent properly qualified the term 'personal sacrifice'. He referred only to monetary sacrifice. It is a delusion of some public servants that theirs is sacrificial service. Not so; men enter it for the compensations they get and not because of any sacrifices they may have to make. Their rewards are greater than their monetary loss, and they themselves must believe this, otherwise they would not stay in the public service.

* * *

Everybody "sacrifices" something in advancing any special interests he may have. Commercial travellers sacrifice a steady home life. Men intent on making a million may sacrifice family, friends and health. Martyrs sacrifice their lives. Gourmands sacrifice their svelt appearance. Golfers are said to sacrifice their wives. Sacrifice is voluntary in a peaceful democracy. Men in public life may (but not necessarily always) sacrifice monetary gain for prestige, popular acclaim, a niche in local or national history, or for power. Perhaps the most alluring reward is power. That power, wisely wielded in the interests of one's town or country by a person sensible enough not to believe that he is right all the time, that he is unassailable and above criticism, and that he is irreplaceable, provides good public service which others honour.

* * *

Mr. Charles E. Wilson is again entering American public service, this time as Defence Secretary in President-elect Eisenhower's cabinet. It is well for his country that men of Mr. Wilson's abilities can be secured for public office. Mr. Wilson has resigned as president of General Motors, the largest recipient of U.S. military contracts — which Mr. Wilson's department will award. We note that he has hedged his pecuniary losses in accepting this office. He plans to keep the $2,500,000 worth of General Motors stock he has. He will get a $40,000-a-year pension from the company, $635,000 in bonus payments and 1,800 additional shares of stock. Mr. Wilson obviously sets a high value to his public service whose pecuniary losses he has underwritten so heavily.

Our Mother Tongues

Canada has two official languages and fourteen million people. Yet so separate are the English-speaking and the French-speaking communities of Canada that only 1,727,447 persons speak both languages. Of these bilingual people, 1,038,130 live in Quebec, only 359,965 Ontario people speak both French and English.

The majority of the bilingual Ontarioans live near the Quebec border and in Northern Ontario. In 1941 283,195 of Ontario's 3,787,655 people spoke both English and French—eight per cent. of the Province's population. The percentage had risen by 1951 to 12.3. Included among these are the 39,745 in the Toronto area who claim they can speak both languages. One must take this large number as a credit to Toronto's schools where "la plume de ma tante" is laboriously taught; and to Toronto's new flush of Chez Pierre et al restaurants.

The degree of bilingualism in certain Ontario communities is remarkably interesting. For instance Prescott county has 10,718 people who speak both French and English, and 11,535 who speak only French. Considering that the total population of that county is only 25,576, Prescott must now be said to be a French-speaking community. Out of a total population of 17,702, Glengarry county has 7,587 who speak both languages, and 1,890 who speak French only. Gone, obviously, are the Scottish school-days of Glengarry of Ralph Connor's boyhood. There are 6,132 bilingual people in Renfrew county in which Ottawa is situated; only 340 who speak only French. Those who speak only English number 59,702.

Nipissing is representative of the French-speaking air of Northern Ontario. Its total population was 50,517 in 1951. Of these 27,022 spoke English only, 6,827 French only, and 16,502 both French and English.

Most of the increase in French-speaking and bilingual persons in these eastern and Northern Ontario counties is due not to increased literacy or desire to have a second language on an English tongue, but to the spread of French-Canadians into these districts. An echo of history is heard in Essex county, whose chief city is Windsor. That area was first settled by early French-Canadians, when it was a defensive outpost and fur-trading centre. Today—that is, according to the 1951 census—Essex county contains 33,559 persons who speak both French and English.

We have loosely used the word bilingual to mean fluency in both French and English. Actually there are many thousands of other bilingual people in Canada, whose mother tongue is German, Italian, Dutch or some other language, and whose second tongue is English or French.

Here are the chief mother-tongues of Canadian citizens, as found by the census enumerators: English, 8,280,809; French, 4,068,850; Ukrainian, 352,323; German, 329,302; Indian and Eskimo, 144,787; Polish, 129,238; Scandinavian, 106,848; Yiddish, 103,593; Italian, 92,244; Dutch, 87,935.

The complete table shows more than eighteen "mother-tongues"—including 28,289 Chinese and 49,402 Magyar. They indicate that Canada seems more polyglot than it is. Only 152,775 persons living in Canada in 1951 could speak neither English nor French. As our figures have already shown, the vast majority speak either one or the other.

Some English-speaking, red-white-and-blue Canadians may be worried lest English is being swallowed up by French. They need have no fear. There are more people in Canada today who speak English than the total poulation of the country in 1931. The number of persons who speak French, either as their only language or a second tongue, has also increased, but the percentages have not varied greatly in the last twenty years, as the following figures show:

Official Language	1931	1941	1951
English only	67.5	67.2	67.0
French only	17.1	19.0	19.6
English and French	12.7	12.8	12.3

In Peterborough county, whose total population at the time of the census was 60,789, 59,676 spoke English only and 988 said that they could speak French and English. It is interesting that 37 were able to speak French only, and 88 could speak neither English nor French. The enumerators found more than eighteen "mother tongues" in the county.

We should explain that by "official language" is meant French or English, and that the census sought to determine the number of persons able to speak one or both of these languages. By "mother tongue" is meant the language first spoken by the person in his childhood. The mother-tongue of infants was listed according to the language commonly spoken in the home.

Two Railways Finished Before Year's End

Two short railways under construction now will be finished and in operation before the end of this year. One is the 360 mile line linking the site of the iron ore development on the Quebec-Labrador boundary with the port town of Sept Isles. The other is the 4.6 mile underground line linking down-town Torontonians with their homes and buses at north Yonge Street.

There is no connection between the two railways except some financiers who may use both once in a while; they have a relationship only in time and cost. It is welcome news that both are to be completed before December. The rails to take iron ore from the hinterland to the St. Lawrence are part-and-parcel of a $225,000,000 development. (The Federal Government has spent two millions on a new wharf at Sept Isles.) The Yonge Street subway will cost about forty million dollars. In addition the Toronto Transportation Commission is spending eight millions on rolling stock for the subway, and a million and a quarter on a signals system.

One question we have. By the time the next section of Toronto's underground railway system is laid (the Queen Street subway, planned for 1960), will iron ore from the Quebec-Labrador deposits be going into the Toronto rails, or will it all be sailed down the St. Lawrence to American ports, for American use?

NOTES AND COMMENT

A Windsor man slapped a waitress, but the charge against him was dismissed because he was drunk, and not accountable for his actions. Moral: when you want to slap somebody, get drunk first.

First it was Lady Wonder, the American talking horse; now it is Nicky, the Australian talking dog! Nicky can say "Hello, hello, here I am," over and over again. He also greeted a reporter with "Hello, Mom," which is vaguely insulting. Having found so many animals who can speak, let us not relax our search for the human who has enough brains to keep quiet.

The Journal of Samuel Marchbanks

SUNDAY: For the past week I have been fighting a cold, as the saying goes, though "fighting" is a misleading description of what I have done. With me a cold begins with a cloud of depression, which I invariably mistake for some deep philosophical discontent; I argue with myself, I trouble deaf Heaven with my bootless cries; I look upon myself and curse my fate. But then, one morning, I find that my throat is sore, and I realize what has been happening; instead of going through mental agonies I should have been taking aspirin, drinking barrels of water, and resting my bones at every opportunity. But by then it is too late, and the cold has won the first engagement in the campaign. I struggle, but I know that defeat is inevitable. I succumbed today, and lay prone upon a sofa, moaning softly and discussing my will with anybody who would listen. I ran through lists of my friends, trying to match up a set of pall-bearers. I sneezed like the hydrogen bomb. I enrheumed myself, as the French so expressively say.

* * *

MONDAY: I think that I have a cold because I have not been getting enough sleep. For about ten day I have not been in bed before two o'clock. This was not riotous living, but a strenuous attention to duty; I have been working like a dog. (As a matter of fact, several parties of ambitious dogs came to observe me, so that they could copy my methods.) Although this leaves me weary, it also leaves me thoroughly relaxed, and I think that there is a message here for medical science: relaxation is supposed to be healthful, and doctors are always advising it; but few well-rested people are able to relax fully; in order to be utterly relaxed one must be dog-tired . . . How do dogs get into this field of psychological speculation? "Working like a dog"—"dog-tired"; these phrases suggest that the dog is a creature of boundless creative activity, whereas we all know the truth about dogs, which is that they are spongers, who make a good living by flattering the human race . . . But anyhow, I am so relaxed that I can barely sit up in a chair, and walk by clinging to the furniture. Deliquescence expresses my condition better than relaxation.

TUESDAY: It is wrong to say that Canadians have no distinctive national characteristics; what about our national custom of Keeping Down With the Joneses? In other countries people keep up with the Joneses; they vie with one another in the acquirement of showy and prestige-giving possessions. But the crafty Canadian always wants his neighbours to think that he has less money than he really has. He underdresses, for the possession of more than two suits might suggest affluence and a desire to seem glorious in the eyes of men. His wife probably has a fur coat, but she wears it to do the shopping, and to sweep off the stoop, so that it is really the equivalent of an overall, and not a token of wealth. He eats good food, but he likes it to be disguised, so that even the tooth-test sometimes fails to reveal how good it is. It is only when he goes on a holiday to the U.S.A. that he splurges, takes suites in hotels, gives huge tips to hirelings, and drinks pearls dissolved in wine. At home he likes the neighbours to think that he is just keeping out of jail. Surely this is a striking and unusual national attitude?

* * *

WEDNESDAY: I see that Leopold, of the murderous team of Loeb and Leopold, thinks he should be let out of jail on parole. When he was sent to prison I was a lad, and my parents kept all the newspapers with news of the Loeb and Leopold crime out of my grasp. They feared, I suppose, that I might become a delinquent, or a thrill-killer. But I read every line about the murder, and the trial, and what the psychologists said, for I saved my pennies and bought my own papers. Similarly the Babylonian downfall of Fatty Arbuckle was concealed from me, but I read all the news of it in a public library. But am I a delinquent today? Certainly not as a result of reading about those crimes. I think parents worry too much about what their children read, for children are often intelligent and usually excessively moral and censorious in their outlook. I simply wanted to know what was doing in the world, and when portions of Fatty's victim were brought into court in a bottle of alcohol, I wanted to know which parts they were, and what the sawbones had to say about them. Intellectual curiosity of this sort should be fostered. Who knows, with parental encouragement I might have become a great detective.

* * *

THURSDAY: I see that Sir Arthur Peel has left his private diary, to be opened 100 years from now; I can hardly wait. Where has he left it, I wonder, and will there be any peeping? Apparently it contains scandal of the highest possible vitamin content, and I yearn to know it. Diaries fascinate me, and for years I have kept three: there is this one, which is rather loosely guarded, and the contents of which are sometimes known to a few very select and highly intelligent people; there is another, in which I record what I really think about each day's doings, and which I guard closely; there is a third, in which I write only at intervals, and in which I embalm a synthesis of my life and thought. This last volume is protected by a huge and ferocious dragon, in an underground cave. I can't understand people who live without a diary. What a hodge-podge their past must be, as they review it!

* * *

FRIDAY: In my office there is a device called a humidifier, which is supposed to diffuse dampness in an invisible and stealthy manner through the air I breathe. Unfortunately its motor has a loose bearing and it makes a noise like a threshing-machine, but otherwise it works well. It has a control knob on it, so that I may have very little humidity, or a great deal. But as I have always erred on the side of excess, I turn the knob as far as it will go, and in a short time I am gasping in an atmosphere suggestive of Devon in July, or a trip up the Amazon. The wallpaper hangs in sodden strips from the walls, there is bluemould on the furnishings, and I have to wear my rubbers to keep my feet reasonably dry. Strangers, coming in suddenly, are apt to strangle and make signs that they are drowning. But I like it. Damp is good for me. What is more, I am free of that static electricity which is one of the curses of the Canadian indoors at this time of year. In the atmosphere of the hothouse I flourish like an orchid.

* * *

SATURDAY: Because of an ice-storm there were two failures of electric power this evening, and I was with a large group of people during both of them. What interested me was that everybody was perfectly orderly and sensible. Nobody's wallet was stolen, nobody crashed into anybody else, nobody was kissed against their will; there is a folk-belief that when people are disguised by darkness they do reprehensible things but this does not seem to be true of the kind of people I know. Nor did I myself feel moved to take advantage of the darkness to steal anything, or defile any sacred monuments. How then, have all those funny stories and comic songs been conceived, in which girls are kissed in tunnels, and old men stripped of their wealth? The late Sir Harry Lauder used to sing a song "Stop Your Tickling, Jock," which leaned heavily upon this supposition. Either Sir Harry's knowledge of human nature was more rich and varied than my own, or he was trying to remake the world along lines congenial to himself. But he was a Scot, a notoriously passionate and inordinate race; we Canadians are of a strictly disciplined temperament.

A Meeting In Vienna

(By Senator Rupert Davies in the Kingston Whig-Standard)

A RECENT despatch from Springfield, Missouri, records the fact that Robert Henry Best, aged 56, had died there in a federal prison, of a cerebral haemorrhage.

When I read it I recalled meeting Best in Vienna in August, 1939, and the peculiar circumstances surrounding that meeting.

While in Vienna, to meet some newspaper correspondents, I became friendly with the correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, and later, he introduced me to the correspondent for the United Press, a man known as "Bob" Best.

I met Best and being a likeable fellow I asked him to come to the hotel to have tea with me the next afternoon. I was surprised when he arrived to find that he had brought with him a young woman, who was not unattractive, and a good conversationalist.

Later, a young German appeared and was introduced to me. We all had tea together. But Best and I talked very freely, I felt that being the correspondent of a United States news agency he was a safe man and a friend of those forces which would be lined up against the Nazis, in the event of war breaking out.

It was a great shock to me when war did break out, and the United States became involved on the side of the Allies, to read that Robert H. Best had chosen to stay in Vienna, and had sided with the Nazis.

My eyes were opened, I realized that while he and I were talking so freely in that Vienna hotel, that all our conversation was being interpreted to the young German, who did not speak English.

It was very cleverly done and had all the appearance of innocence. The young woman produced from her bag a lot of snapshots, which she proceeded to show the young German, with what I assumed were explanations of them. I realized later that she had used the snaps as a cover for relaying the conversation between "Bob" Best and me to the German.

Luckily, it was of little significance, merely an interchange of views between an American and a Canadian.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then was brought unto him one possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw . . . But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils.

And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand: and if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand? And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges. But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you. Or else how can one enter into a strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will spoil his house. (Matt. 12: 22, 24-29.)

* * *

When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? And they said, Some say that thou art John the Baptist: some, Elias; and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets.

He saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the son of the living God.

And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-jona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven. And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. (Matt. 16: 13-18.)

Letters To The Editor

"RENDERING" OR "RENDITION"

Sir: With reference to a news item in today's Examiner quoting the English Daily Telegraph as praising Ray Dudley's "rendition" of some studies by Liszt, I feel compelled to protest at this misuse of the English language. Rendering yes, but "rendition"—Oh, no! not the Daily Telegraph.

R. D.

ED. NOTE.—The Shorter Oxford English Dictionary gives as one definition of "rendition"—"The act of rendering, giving out or forth, performing, etc." and dates this usage from 1658. We thank our correspondent for a letter on English usage, and will welcome others on the same topic.

COMMEND'S MOTHER'S ALLOWANCE.

Editor: I would like to express some opinions, regarding a couple of articles I read in the Jan. 13 copy of your fine paper.

In the matter of Mrs. Corbin, sympathy is all very well, but not enough. As was truly said with three such small children, it is impossible for her to do any other job. But why should she? She is certainly eligible for the Mother's Allowance, and should get it without delay. There should be no red tape or muddling with a lot of questions that don't matter. Red tape is only there to be cut when necessary, I know that it may be that the payments are not very large, in regard to the cost of living, but they would give her something for a background for her problems. I know that the payments have never been large in opposition to the cost of living, but it would help a lot I know, because I was left a young widow with two small boys and an unborn child. My health was very poor for a long time and I always felt that the Mother's Allowance payments were like a backlog. Later she could consider what she could do, and still not neglect the children.

Then there is the matter of the old man who has been sent to jail, because he is old and unable to work enough to make a living for himself.

Well, I say shame on any place that treats their old folks like that. It is no crime to grow old, as indeed, we, are all doing it. But if he cannot get the Old Age Pension why not put him on relief? He deserves it more than a lot that are getting it now. It is a terrible thing to grow old in years and infirm in body, if one has to be treated like a criminal. I am old myself, and I certainly would not like to have to end up like that, just because I lived too long. I hope something will be done, in both these cases I have mentioned and soon. Remember he helps twice who helps fast. I hope you will print this letter, and thank you for the space.

Fooling the Little Pigs

(Calgary Albertan)

A firm in England has developed a mechanical sow which promises to greatly increase that country's pork production. The device consists of a long milk-filled case with 14 artificial teats sticking out of the sides. An infra-red lamp keeps the piglets warm. Purpose of the device is to take over most of a normal's sow's eight-week nursing job, saving the mother pig's strength and fat so that she can have three instead of two litters a year.

A-F-I-E-L-D with NICK NICKELS

You can't quench the fishing spirit of the Kawarthas just because it happens to be a closed season. Whether a lot of them received tackle for Christmas or have been doing a lot of reading on the summer sport, I don't know. But they are getting itchy.

Not content to wait for the smelt runs up Lake Ontario tributaries in mid-April, they cry now:

"How about the ice fishing?"

Bay Of Quine (Trenton)

My contact man in the Air Force Town, Jesse Baker, has been in a Kingston sanitorium for nearly a year but his buddies at the Fire Hall expect him home soon. I visited Jesse a year ago and he took me to his hut out on the Bay and explained the whole business. He knew all the answers and kindly offered the use of his shack to me any time.

The ice fishermen have been shacked up now for three weeks, new informers tell me, and the first week of sport was excellent. It has since tapered off and is not what they call "fair", according to Trenton tradition. The bay is dotted with about 50 shacks at the present time, all of them privately owned.

The best thing for Kawarthans to do, if they haven't built themselves a portable shack that can be trailered to Trenton, is to phone Fireman Gerald Lewis, 4444, or his home, 5953, before setting out. He might be able to fix you up with a hut and arrange for purchase of bait but warns not to go down there cold canvassing; accommodation is not unavailable without prior arrangement, difficult even then.

Lake Simcoe (East Side)

Ice fishing has been going on here for three weeks and at Beaverton there are about 45 shacks, available for renting. I understand the day rate is from $2.50 to $3 which includes bait, fuel and gear. The owners to contact WELL IN ADVANCE OF WEEKENDS are the Bronte Bros., Gil McRae and John Hodgson. Herring and whitefish have been taken in goodly numbers—about six to eight fish per fisherman per day. The weather is still not cold enough for lake trout.

At Gamebridge there have been as many as 25 rented shacks occupied on recent weekends on the Trent Canal at Riverside Beach. Again, Bronte Bros., are the boys to contact.

At the south end of the lake around Duelos Point fishermen have found the best luck of all so far this season. Freddie Johnson at Pefferlaw Bridge is your contact man.

There won't be anything doing at the Codrington trout rearing hatchery, south of Campbellford, until around June, district forester A. B. Wheatley reports. We Wuz Robbed

The postie staggered up to the newsroom on Thursday with a 44-page supplement issue of the Waukegan News-Sun, the occasion, the manufacture of the millionth Johnson Outboard motor. The issue was packed with information; full-page spread of South American sales outlets, sales pictures from Sweden, and so forth.

But there wasn't a word about the Canadian (Peterborough) plant, the third largest manufacturing unit in the Johnson empire.

I was browned off.

Construction manager Jack Hayward talked enthusiastically to me this week about their colossal cottage project 14 miles from Haliburton village. Building will start humming by mid-March—cottages will not be prefabricated—and already bulldozers are chewing away on roadways and building sites for the 800-odd cottages that will eventually sprout around the edge of a lake's 12-mile shoreline. There is very little frost in the ground up there now, Jack says.

With shopping centre, service station, motel, boat livery and plane-docking facilities the cottage colony will cater to more than 5,000 summer people. Real estate men say it is the largest project of its kind in Canada. Officials are hoping to have one of their $2,500 model cottages on display at the Canadian Sportsmen's Show in March.

I listened to a fellow reporter interviewing a recent Peterborough visitor, Mrs. A. H. Friedgut, wife of the Canadian Zionist Organization in Jerusalem, and was intrigued by one of her anecdotes.

Before she went to Israel three years ago her husband, who had preceded her, wrote to his wife—Prairie-born and Winnipeg-bred—to pack everything, that was everything, and bring it to the Holy Land. She did so.

Mr. Friedgut howled when his wife unpacked the rusty old snow shovel. He thought it was about the most useless thing they could give storage room to. He was so wrong.

Two months later a two-day storm covered the Eternal City with five-foot drifts, and the Friedguts were the only people in the community to shovel themselves out. (Good old Canadian background.)

Owls, Beavers, Old Scrap

Henry Vansickle of Marmora heard a ruckus outside his home at breakfast time on Wednesday. He looked out to see a large horned owl—42-inch wingspread—kill the family cat. While struggling to make off with its trophy, Henry let loose with his thutty-thutty and killed the bird.

Conservation officers in Hindon township found a dead beaver this week. While attempting to chew down a poplar the beaver had cut the underside of the tree. The sliding butt pinned the beaver's fat tail to the ground and held it there until the animal died.

Two hunters who had been shooting illegally were being pursued by the law when their car was blocked at a country crossing by a passing freight train. To get rid of firearm evidence one of the hunters threw his gun onto a flat car loaded with scrap iron. The gun hasn't been found to date.

Timepieces From 1686 Dentist's Hobby

By NICK NICKELS

Dental Surgeon William X. Blackburn of 546 Water St., collects clocks in about the same ratio as other people collect stamps, old coins or china. It would be more correct to say that he WAS a collector because he once owned from 50 to 60 timepieces and now has about two dozen.

Athough he says he is not of mechanical bent his main interest in clocks is to purchase old models and put them in running order. Then he gets rid of them except for some that have sentimental value.

Dr. Blackburn claims that the hobby sneaked up on him during the First World War and did not blossom into passion for many years after. He was only a bit of a lad when he served overseas in the Canadian Army when he found a china-encased clock in an old French chateau. He also found a gunmetal wristwatch, the property of a buddy of his who was killed. He still has both pieces. They were the nucleus of his collection.

Following the war he studied medicine for a year and switched to dentistry and was a graduate of the Class of '26. Dr. Blackburn practised in Fort William for 15 years and came to Peterborough in 1946. From that time on he combed the Kawartha district and any where on his travels for old clocks.

ORMOLU TIMEPIECE

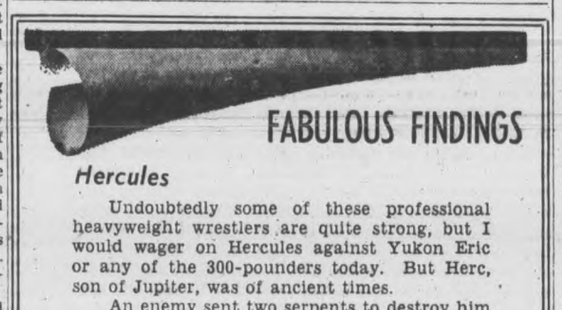
His favourite is a French ormolu timepiece about 150 years old which ticks away on his living room mantel. (Ormolu is gilded bronze.) He picked it up in Ste. Anne de Bellevue. Another piece of the same age, called a lantern clock, came from Quebec City.

A large grandfather clock chimes the time in his front hall and other pieces are scattered throughout the house and in a basement workroom. Some of the models are:

A bell — jar-covered German clock that runs for 400 days with a horizontal brass disc weight instead of the regular pendulum.

A miniature English grandfather clock about six inches high.

An American mantel clock in zebra mahogany veneer with the design of Eagle and Thirteen State stars on the glass door. Clocks in ceramic cases, pottery cases, a steeple-type that once belonged to Sir William Mann of Grand Trunk Railway building fame.



1686 WATCH

One of the most interesting of Dr. Blackburn's collection, and certainly the oldest—1686—is a chain-driven English hunting case watch in a solid silver case. The handmade workings are handsomely engraved and so is the case with English hunting scenes of that era.

Of Peterborough interest there is a walnut-cased mantel clock from the Court House. Dated 1850 and of American make, Dr. Blackburn does not know its history nor where it was displayed "on the Hill."

Peterborough is the home of Canada's largest timepiece manufacturing concern, Western Clock Company. Its 700-odd employees turn out a milion and one-half timepieces annually.

"I've never been in the Westclox plant," said Dr. Blackburn. "It would be an interesting experience for me."

Hercules

Undoubtedly some of these professional heavyweight wrestlers are quite strong, but I would wager on Hercules against Yukon Eric or any of the 300-pounders today. But Herc, son of Jupiter, was of ancient times.

An enemy sent two serpents to destroy him as he lay in his cradle, but this precocious infant promptly strangled them both. He grew up to slay lions with his bare hands, a nine-headed monster and various other enemies in what must have been an adventuresome life.

One mission was of a more delicate nature, a king sending him to obtain the girdle of the queen of the Amazons. A warlike nation of women, the Amazons ran him out of their country, but Hercules had first obtained the girdle.

This might be hard to believe, but it is reported that Hercules once took the weight of the heavens from the shoulders of Atlas while the latter went looking for apples! However, Atlas eventually returned and resumed, if reluctantly, his load. He defeated the mightiest in wrestling and even visited Hades and returned safely. Quite a man.

More or less accidentally, he was poisoned nigh unto death, and he built a huge funeral pyre, laid himself upon it and had the torch applied.

Well, that ended the earthly ramblings of this pre-Homer hero, but Jupiter promptly took him up to dwell among the stars.

It is related upon fairly reliable authority that the added weight in the heavens made poor Atlas rather round-shouldered.

Your Garden:

Befriend Birds In Winter

By HENRY PREE (NEA)

Birds, without exception, are true friends of gardeners, for without their aid we would have to fight many more millions of harmful insects on our flowers, vegetables, trees and shrubs.

Birds such as the cardinal, bluebird and robin, by their sprightly actions, their welcome songs and their dashing colors, also add much to the pleasure of the garden.

Until now the birds have had plenty of food in most areas. With the coming of real winter weather, food sources are covered by snow and shrubs and trees are denuded of fruit. Sadly, but inevitably, this means that in some places many birds will starve to death.

The more birds we keep alive over the winter by giving food every day, the fewer insects we will have to contend with next summer.

DDT and other insecticides are valuable assets, but they reach only those plants within reach of our weak duster or sprayer, while the birds are everywhere.

What does it mean to us to buy food for winter birds? Very little in dollars but a great deal in effort. If effort is the graden price, let's feed the birds each day during the next few months.

You will probably be able to buy a standard mixture of seed for birds at your garden supply store. Approximately $5 spent for seed will supply enough food for all the birds in your vicinity for nearly three months. If you don't feel that you can afford seed, at least save bread crumbs, stale bread, potato and apple parings and bacon rind for your garden helpers. (If possible, put food in a feeding station instead of throwing it on the ground.)

A well-stocked feeding station will please the birds, and provide a constant show for you.

Birds have wonderful memories and will come back time and again to the same spot, if provided food and protection from cats. Among the most valuable trees for birds are the small flowering trees like the hawthorn, dogwood and crabapple, because their fruits last a considerable time.

Shrubs to be remembered when planting are the cotoneasters, the barberries, the privets, firethorn, elderberry, wild roses, sweet briars and the many viburnums.

First requirement of birds at any season of the year, but especially in freezing weather, is water. Birds experience great difficulty in finding water during the winter, so if you would cultivate their friendship provide water and see that it is not frozen over.

Supplying grit is just as important as supplying food. A bird may starve to death with a full crop unless it has grit with which to make the food available.

Gardening Questions

Q—Is it harmful to cut branches from Rhododendron and similar evergreen shrubs? We enjoy using them for indoor decoration.

A—Judicial cutting of these greens is beneficial as it removes straggly growth, induces new growth on the inside and keeps the plants within bounds.

Q—A large multiple-crotch Silver Maple close to our house is so top heavy that we fear that winter winds will cause severe breakage. Friends advise cabling. When should this be done?

A—Engage a competent arborist who knows the proper placing, size of cable to use and a thorough knowledge of such problems. Trees with trunks that divide into several stems are likely to split down under the stress of ice or winds.

Q—What are the cultural requirements of the Wax plant?

A—The Wax plant, hoya carnosa, needs a rich, humusy, well-drained soil, abundant sunshine and plenty of moisture during the spring to fall months. In the winter it should be kept drier and cooler, from 50 to 65 degrees F. to give it rest. Avoid overpotting as plants bloom better when pot-bound.

Q—Is severe trimming and pruning of large pine trees recommended as a winter chore?

A—No, because the resinous sap which protects wounds does not flow readily in winter. Prune in early April when the first new growth appears.

Q—What are the fastest-growing shade trees suitable for the average home lot?

A—The fastest and best, in the order named: Thornless Honey Locust, Littleleaf Linden, Sugar Maple, Sweet Gum and Red Oak.

Q—How can I induce the geraniums which were brought into the house last autumn to continue blooming through the winter mothns?

A—The only way of assuring winter bloom on established geraniums is to prevent them from blooming during the summer by picking off all flower buds as soon as they appear. Geranium plants grown from early summer cuttings will flower in winter if placed in a sunny window, in a cool room.

Kawartha Literary Pioneers: VII

Rice Lake Indian Writer John Coppaway Wrote Verse And Prose, And Preached; Autobiography Tells Of His Wanderings

By E. C. GUILLET, M.A.

Among the most remarkable literary productions of the pioneer period is The Ojibway Conquest, a Tale of the Northwest, a narrative poem of some sixteen hundred lines by a Rice Lake Indian, Kah-ge-ga-gah-bowh, whose name anglicized became John Copway. His poem, and several prose wor of comparatively little va were published in the United States, where, at the middle of the nineteenth century, he had connections among the Methodists which apparently facilitated publication.

John Copway was born in 1818 near the mouth of the Trent, and for some twelve years lived the wandering life of the Indian, hunting and trapping about the shores of Rice Lake and its headwaters to the north-westward In his autobiography he describes the early fur trade at Rice Lake and Smith's Creek (Port Hope). the whiskey sprees which resulted, and the speedy demoralization of the Indian.

John D. Smith, the chief trader at Port Hope, is credited with efforts to divert Indian desires from whiskey to other goods, and encouraging contact with Methodist missionaries while Major Anderson, trader at the Indian Village on Rice Lake, is said to have tried to keep the natives from Methodist contact by suggesting that they would all be killed.

CAMP MEETINGS

In 1826 Methodist camp-meetings and revivals were first held among the Rice Lake Indians, and native preachers and teache rs began work among them. A school at the Indian Village, first under the Reverend James Evans, was possibly John Copway's first contact with the white man's education and religion.

As a small boy he accompanied his father to a camp-meeting near Cobourg in 1826, and his description of the experience delineates a phase of local history which characterized that region for some years. Under the influence of the missionaries the Indians were aroused to the evils of whiskey-drinking, for Copway says:

"My father arose and took the keg of whiskey, stepped into one of the small canoes, and paddled some thirty feet from the shore; here he poured out the whiskey into the lake and threw the keg away. He then returned and addressed us in the following manner: "You have all heard what our Brother (Peter Wasson) said to us: I am going with them this evening: if any of you will go, do so this evening the children can attend the great meeting some other time'. Every one ran at once to the paddles and canoes, and in a few minutes we were on the water. The missionaries had a skiff, in which they went from the Island to the opposite side. They sang again, their very oars seemed to keep time on the still water. O how charming!

The scenery of the water, the canoes moving in files, crossing the lake to visit their first camp-meeting. When we arrived on the other side it was about dusk, and we bought five candles for a dollar (!), and obtained an old lantern. We marched on a new road the whole of Saturday night in order to reach the camp ground. During the journey we had to wade through the deep creeks. Just before the dawn we were about half a mile from the camp ground: here we tarried until daylight, and then approached the camp . . . On the third day many of our company were converted: among this number was my dear father! As I entered the ground in the afternoon I heard many voices, and among them my father's voice.

"I thought my father was dying: I ran to him and found him lying partly on one of the seats. 'My father', said I, 'what is the matter with you? Are you sick?' 'Come here, my son: I am not sick but I am happy in my heart' . . . I became agitated: my bow and arrows had fallen from my hand. The Indians lay about me like dead men . . . The shouts, praises, and prayers of fathers, mothers, sons, and daughters were heard from every quarter."

WHISKEY BEATEN

With all the emotional frenzy which camp-meetings engendered among both whites and Indians, and the undoubted excesses which occurred, there is yet no question of the great value of the Methodist zeal for souls. Whether or not the Indian understood much of the true nature of Christianity, it was a great social gain when the savage war-whoop was replaced by the ringing refrain, "Jesus, the name that charms our fears," and when the Indians marched through the woods to the fur-trader's to the swing of:

"Q for a thousand tongues to sing
My great Redeemer's praise!"

Copway himself was converted at the age of twelve at a camp-meeting near Colborne. He then attended intermittently a mission school at Rice Lake under the direction of Miss Pinney, and soon afterwards became a native preacher. In 1834, when a mere youth of sixteen, he passed through Toronto on his way to the mission fields of Lake Superior. While working among the Illinois tribes he received some twenty months' teaching in a mission school, and there his formal education ended.

After some months in Albany, New York, Boston, and other American cities, where he was kindly received and supported by Methodists, he returned to Rice Lake in 1839. It was but a brief visit to his old home in the Indian Village, and he then set out once more for the central west, stopping long enough in Toronto to marry Elizabeth, daughter of Captain Howell, a Methodist of English origin.

With his wife and her sister, Caroline, Copway made his way westward, and the party endured great hardship and danger as they carried on missionary activities among the Indians of the plains. Except for a reference to a son born on April 9, 1842, there is little else in Copway's autobiography to indicate with any clarity his later life.

Apparently, except for a journey to Europe, he resided in the eastern United States and there published his books. In the preface to his first publication, his autobiography, Copway says that a friend corrected all serious grammatical errors, leaving the rest to indicate the author's style—or the lack of it.

"MY POOR PEOPLE"

His motto throughout, he says, is "My Poor People", and the greater part of the book is composed of somewhat irrelevant material on the customs, hardships, and sufferings of the Indians, and their treatment by the whites. Although undoubtedly an "intelligent" Indian, as Mrs. Traill calls him, he retained a primitive belief in dreams, some of which he describes in great detail.

His third publication, The Traditional History and Characteristic Sketches of the Ojibway Nation, is perhaps the least valuable. It is sketchy and full of legend, with digressions on hunting, nature, and kindred topics: and unnecessary topopgraphical descriptions and accounts of French explorers pad out the book. Altogether, there is but little in it which is not to be found much better in Schoolcraft's Indian Tibes, and elsewhere.

Various editions of Copway's life, travels, speeches, etc., appeared in England and the United States, and each had a new title and occasionally a little new material. On the title page of one of these it is stated that, after considerable missionary work in the North-West, he was then (1850) "the projector of the Concentration of the North-Western Indian Tribes, for the Better Promotion of their Physical Improvement". In that year he travelled to Europe, lecturing for two months in England and Scotland to raise funds for his project of giving 100,000 American Indians a grant of 150 square miles "between the falls of St. Anthony and the west of Minasotah", to teach them farming and the arts of peace. (The London News described him as a man of "commanding presence" and a fluent speaker in English.)

Another purpose of his journey, however, seems to have been to attend the Peace Congress at Frankfort, Germany, to which he went at the suggestion of Elihu Burrett, "the Learned Blacksmith". In 1851 a book on his European experiences was published in New York, and comprises accounts of his reception, addresses, and impressions. (See Copway's Running Sketches of Men and Places in England, France, Germany, Belgium and Scotland.)

The Liverpool Standard carried an account of his arrival there, stating that he was a "very intelligent man". His complexion was, of course, "rather dark, and his hair long and black, and he is a tall, well-proportioned, and handsome man, with the manners and graceful dignity of a perfect gentleman".

His autobiography and his poem, The Ojibway Conquest, the Standard observed, showed that he was a writer of "close observation, of original thought, and of sound judgment". John Copway died in 1863.

EPIC POEM

Copway's epic poem, The Ojibway Conquest, a Tale of the North-west, is a literary production of very different calibre from his prose. It is, in fact, so excellently done that one is led to wonder at his facility in the language, and even to suggest that he must have received considerable help. He was an Ojibway chief himself, and his love for his nation inspired the choice of topic.

PETERBOROUGH RINKS, skipped by Garth Braund and Dr. Ralph Clark advanced further along the Ontario Tankard trail Friday by winning the district bonspiel. Shortly the rinks will play in the next round in Oshawa. Dr. Clark's rink held a slight edge on Lindsay's Sid Elsden rink while Mr. Braund's rink overpowered Bert Everson's rink, also from Lindsay. Two Peterborough Rinks Win In District Tankard

By HERB. MARTIN.

Producing a brand of curling that was not to be denied, the two Peterborough Tankard rinks, skipped by Garth Braund and Dr. Ralph Clark, defeated the Lindsay rinks of Bert Everson and Sid Elsden 35-17 in the final game of the Ontario Silver Tankard for Group No. 3.

The Peterborough rinks will go to Oshawa in the near future to play in the next round.

In the morning game it was just a light workout for both Lindsay and Peterborough, but the final game in the afternoon was different.

HAD SLIGHT EDGE

The Clark-Elsden game was closely played for most of the 14 ends, with the doctor's boys having a slight edge. There was some fine curling, and credit goes to the doctor's rink as his three players were playing Tankard for the first time. They did well and can hold their own in any company.

ONE-SIDED

The Braund-Everson game was all Braund. Starting off on the first end with a big three, the game was never in doubt. And the further it went the further the local boys pulled away. True, the Lindsay boys were off color, but it would have taken a lot of curling to defeat Braund's quartette.

They could do anything, any time, and generally did. That last shot of Braund's in the 16th end when, with three shots lying against him, he drew past a bunch of guards, and landed fair in the two-foot circle. It was a fine effort.

We join with all curlers in hoping that when they go to Oshawa for the next round, they will have real good hunting.

Although this is his first appearance locally the Mask's reputation is well-known. He has yet to suffer a defeat. A good supporting card has been lined up. Earl McCready meets Joe Christie in the semi-final and George Scott takes on Ray Clarke in the opening match.

Lindsay And Kenner Split Cage Twin Bill

Lindsay Collegiate and Kenner Collegiate split a basketball doubleheader exhibition Friday afternoon, Lindsay juniors edging Kenner juniors 35-33 while the Kenner midgets walloped Lindsay bantams 39-22.

The large crowd, which was entirely behind the home teams, was kept on its toes during the first game which saw Lindsay hold one and two-point leads in the fourth quarter. Lindsay juniors led throughout though 11-6 at the first quarter, 17-16 at the half and 25-21 at three-quarters.

Foul shots kept Kenner in the game as they dropped in 13 out of 37 while Lindsay recorded only five in 22. Kenner had a slightly better shooting percentage but Lindsay actually carried most of the play.

Kenner's Malby led the scoring with 13 points; his closest rival was Lindsay's Teel with 10.

USED HEIGHT

The Kenner fans had something to cheer about in the second game as their midgets used height and experience. They took a slim 14-13 lead in the first quarter, lengthened it to 19-14 at the half and then broke away in the third quarter 30-18.

Lawrence and Fee, Kenner's tall men, were used sparingly in the second half. Even then Lindsay couldn't cope with the taller and more experienced Kenner lads.

Lawrence topped all the scorers with 10 points while teammate Frise had eight. Lindsay's best was Weldon with eight.

FIRST GAME

Lindsay CI Juniors—Beighton 2, Sinclair 4, Arnold, Blackwell 3, Teel 10, A. Truax 7, Webster 4, R. Truax 2, Georgas 3, Bowry.

Kenner CI Juniors — Allen, Floyd 9, Hancock 1, Malby 13, McKinney 2, Pearl 3, Ward 5.

SECOND GAME

Kenner CI Midgets (39)—Howden 2, Frise 8, Ball 4, Burns 3, Linsey 5, Lawrence 10, Fee 7.

Lindsay CI Bantams (22)—Gilson 2, G. Dawson 4, Breese 3, Bovie, D. Dawson, Weldon 8, Daniel, Rich 2, McLean, Bell 3.

ARCARO ON FAVORITES

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Jockey Eddie Arcaro finds himself in the somewhat enviable position of riding the favorites in both the Santa Anita's twin features races today.

He'll be aboard Calumet Farm's Mark-Ye-Well in the $25,000 added San Fernando Stakes, last and most important prep of the season for the rich Maturity Stakes.

Then he'll ride the C. H. Jones and Son colt Lights Up in the companion $20,000 San Carlos Handicap.

Foremen Like Ted Reeve At Lively "Do"

Ted Reeve, huge Toronto columnist, swept the CGE Co. foremen's association off their collective feet (some 150 of them, foremen, that is, or 300 feet) on gales of laughter last night at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. The genial big fellow was voted the most entertaining speaker the association has had as he quipped his way through a most interesting 20-minute address.

The association, some 300 strong, including supervisors, was well represented at their first meeting of the year, and a few guests from press and radio were allowed to hear Reeve speak. The former noted athlete and later football coach—and an outstanding Canadian sportswriter—lived up to expectations. He was highly interesting and had his audience laughing heartily all the way through. He is often compared with the late Stephen Leacock as a Canadian humorist.

PRESIDENT SPOKE

Len Anderson, president of the Foremen's Association of Peterborough's largest industry, spoke highly of the speaker after an interesting film on football. Mr. Reeve was introduced by Curly Krug, who played for him at Queen's University. The speaker later was thanked by Ed Foley.

Ted Reeve, while speaking in a very humorous vein, managed to compare and parallel sports with every-day work. He spoke of such things as conditioning, adaptability, reserve strength, spirit to go ahead, and so forth, but made his interesting talk much more interesting with his side angles and humorous anecdotes. He praised Peterborough as a fine sports centre, and spoke of oldtime athletes like Gene Hurtubise—"a really great athlete in the old days"—Ross Craig, and others.

The association served a buffet luncheon afterward and many stayed later for cards and the television program.

Nurses-Collis Get Wins

Nurses eked out a 25-22 win over Lindsay and Collis set back Black's 25-15 Friday night in the girls' city league basketball doubleheader at the YWCA gym.

Nurses' Jean Bell, counting two field baskets and four foul shots for eight points, helped Nurses take a one-point lead, 14-13, at half-time. Marj Owen with seven and Ruth Gilson with six kept Lindsay close.

But the Nurses clung to the slim lead during the second half as they distributed their scoring better among Marie Rich, Bev Dawe and Betty Jaquith. Lindsay's Biddy Green, Helen Robertson, Owen and Gilson counted nine points during the half but not enough for the win.

HAD AN EDGE

Collis' lasses held a definite margin during their game with Black's. Mabel Gillen's quintet managed to stay within four points of Collis' during the first half. But points by Collis' Marg Borland, Polly Stewart and Joan Dunk gave them a 13-9 score.

Collis' distributed their 12 scoring points well during the second half and at the same time stemmed any Black attack. They limited Black's to six points, all by playing coach Mabel Gillen.

First game:

Nurses (25)—Taylor, Bell 12, Rich 1, Dawe 4, Jaquith 8, MacLachlan.

Lindsay (22)—Copp, Owen 10, Gilson 9, Green 1, Cullis, Robertson 2, McFadden.

Second game:

Collis' (25)—Thompson 1, Byers 2, Borland 7, Poast, Dewarga 1, Callan, Stewart 5, Wharry, Maudsley, Dunk 9.

Black's (15)—Hollingsworth 1, Frederick, McGill 1, Middleton, McIlhagga, Raper 4, Nayler, Laidlaw, Gillen 9.

Collegiate Midgets Gain Second Victory

Ken Beck's last-minute basket enabled PCVS' midgets to win their second straight city midget league game Friday night by edging St. Peter's High 40-39. The Garnet and Grey, coached by Ted Cranfield, won the league's opening game over Kenner Collegiate earlier this week.

The verdict was always in doubt from the opening whistle until the last. Quinlan's five field baskets in the first quarter gave St. Peter's a two-point edge, 11-9 in the first quarter. But PCVS came back on the strength of points by Bell to take the lead, 20-17 at the half.

CLOSE ENOUGH

Quinlan rallied the Saints in the third quarter to again turn the lead in favor of St. Peter's at three-quarters 28-27. From there the lead changed in the fourth several times as PCVS distributed their scores and St. Peter's relied upon Quinlan for points. Beck's basket with 35 seconds to go gave the game to PCVS.

Quinlan's scoring spree netted him 24 points and the individual scoring honors. Simmons sank 10 in the losing cause. Meanwhile Bell paced the Garnet and Grey with 14.

St. Peter's High (39)—Quinlan 24, Trudeau, Mackey 2, Legros, Minicola, Rowatt 1, Simmons 10, Crowley 2, Twomey, Loescher, Ronco, O'Keefe.

PCVS (40)—Bell 14, Allin 6, Brown 4, Beck 9, Sparorw 3, Morton, Long 4, Hawkins.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

As January and the hockey season grind along, thoughts of summer sports pop into the minds of many fans. Club officials, too, begin bending efforts toward the necessary rebuilding job during the winter months if a successful summer campaign is to become a fact. Senior lacrosse is by far the biggest sport now in Peterborough. It outdraws hockey, baseball and football by a hefty margin. Any sport than can average more than 2,000 paid customers a game over a long season (approximately five month) in this city certainly must be classed as the major athletic attraction. And any team that can win a Canadian senior crown two years in a row commands respect.

* * * * * *

Well, the Peterborough Timbermen are after a third Mann Cup title. Their experienced and hard-working officials are laboring right now behind the scenes to come up with another classy club for the 1953 gutted-stick season which opens early in May. For the record, we might mention that Orillia Terriers took the Mann Cup three times hand-running in 1934-35-36. And away back in 1911-12-13-14 the Vancouver Athletic Club of B.C. captured in four straight times. St. Catharines, Brampton and Peterborough have each been successful in two straight tries, and the Petes hope to make it three in a row this year, making the long trip to the west coast in October again.

Thorpe To Coach Again

Bob Thorpe will again be playing coach for the team, his success last season assuring him of the job. Born in Port Dalhousie, Bob worked his way up through minor lacrosse in St. Kitts, played senior for Brampton, Quebec and St. Catharines (helping the latter win the Mann Cup in '44), and served a stretch in the army. Toured the States in pro hockey but has his application in now for his amateur card to play hockey here. Has been a popular and capable lacrosse performer here the past several years, coaching the club in '52. With several established senior aces of other centres anxious to come here this year, Bob says the local veterans will all have to earn their places on a strong 1953 team.

Haven't the info yet from Belleville on the Petes' game there Friday night. Locals have a game in Orillia next Wednesday, there being no OHA senior or junior action here for nearly a week. OHA recently polled senior "B" clubs re using two refs, but only Belleville insisted on the two, so the other teams at home will go with a ref and a linesman. Incidentally, Jim Ellis was the chap who first sent Red Sullivan to St. Catharines via Doug Mowry there. Red didn't make the junior "A" club that year but went on his own next season and caught on. St. Kitts were hooked up then with Bruins, and probably that's the first time Hal Cotton (Boston scout) saw the local redhead in action. Sullivan plays now for the Bruins.

For The Figure Filberts

Clare Ferguson and Bill Twist lead the junior Oddfellows in scoring to date with 21 points each, according to figures compiled the other day. The list is in tonight. Gord Coyle is also doing right well up there with 20 points and Red Robinson has 18 in the 10 games he played. Young Bob Gardner, a juvenile, is potent on the attack, too. Dick McCracken is another hard-worker. Several more are producing, while several aren't clicking too well when it comes to lighting that lamp. However, the team as a whole is doing okay in a grood grouping. Husky Leo Sullivan not only plays a lot of defence but he leads the blue-line brigade in sniping with 13 points in 15 frays so far. Some of these games are four-pointers.

Len Anderson and his CGE foremen's association were good enough to invite us out to their monthly meeting at the Kawartha Club last eve to meet again Ted Reeve, who was the speaker. The big Tely columnist was as good as ever (says he makes that resolution every year not to make another speech) and the big gathering enjoyed it thoroughly. Also the grid film, luncheon and sociability. Amazing how many foremen down in that big plant are former athletes—and even the odd lawn bowler. Just kiddin', Fred. It was so much fun that we had to turn down about 11 urgent invites to have lunch while we nursed our coke and kept jabbering. After all, you can have lunch any day. A good show, and there's only one Ted Reeve. Ian McRae dropped in to hear him and got a big kick out of his talk.

Red Wings' Boss "Learns A Lot"

MONTREAL (CP) — Margaret Norris, 25-year-old president of the Detroit Red Wings, said Friday night she is "learning a lot" about the management end of the National Hockey League clubs.

Miss Norris was introduced to newspaper and radio men at an informal reception arranged by general manager Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens. The league-leading Red Wings and the second-place Canadiens meet here tonight.

Someone got around to wondering if Miss Norris, in addition to hockey, had more personal interests, as far as the future is concerned.

She smiled and passed this off with, "I'm single and strictly free."

Then there was talk about hockey players. The name of Ted Lindsay came up, the rugged and extremely capable little wingman of the Detroit club who is the most penalized player in the league and has the reputation of being the most proficient at swearing during a game.

"Does Lindsay meet with your approval, Miss Norris?" she was asked.

"I have neverr met Ted on the ice," she replied sweetly.

Kitchener Wins Double Victory Over St. Peter's

St. Jerome's College of Kitchener presented St. Peter's High juniors and seniors with their second straight setback Friday night in the Ontario Catholic Conference basketball. Too powerful in both games the Kitchener juniors racked up 66-29 score on the junior Saints while their seniors bettered the senior Saints 56-30.

Quinlan presented a one-man display in the first half of the junior game for the Saints by scoring 16 points. But even the St. Jerome's quintet had little trouble as the whole team distributed points for a half-time score of 44-26.

In the second half the Saints were held to foul shot points while St. Jerome's kept rolling but not at the same pace as in the first half.

St. Jerome's Peterson was the top scorer for Kitchener with 14 while the game's individual honors went to Quinlan with 18 points.

The senior Saints, against the experienced St. Jerome's seniors, were not entirely overwhelmed. They did show fairly well considering the wide margin between the teams.

Doug Galvin hit his stride in the first half and at first it seemed that the Saints would hold their own. But again the St. Jerome's quintet worked too well and took a 30-20 score at half-time.

SAINTS SLOW UP

St. Jerome's kept their scoring pace in the second half while like the juniors, the Saints dwindled. That half only lengthened the margin between teams.

Walcott Stalls On April Match

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether Rocky Marciano defends his heavyweight boxing title April 10 against former champion Jersey Joe Walcott may depend on the physical condition of Walcott's manager.

The joint review board of the National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission ruled Friday that Marciano must put his title on the line by that time, against Walcott or somebody else.

But Walcott told the board he was not going to do any fighting until his manager, Felix Bocchicchio, was well enough to direct him. Bocchicchio, 46, is in hospital in a critical condition from a heart attack.

"As far as Jersey Joe Walcott is concerned," Walcott told the board, "there will be no fight as long as Felix Bocchicchio is not well. I don't care whether it's six weeks or six months."

Jim Norris, head of the International Boxing Club which holds Marcia's contract, says the fight will be held April 10 in Chicago stadium.

Intermediates Gain Momentum

TORONTO (CP)—Intermediate football is gaining momentum in Ontario.

Bill Fry, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate series, said Friday six new clubs are asking for entry in 1953. The nine 1952 teams expect to be back and one which has been inactive for years is likely to return to the football wars again. There is a possibility of an entry from a four-team group in the Sudbury district of Northern Ontario.

The 1953 picture will be settled at the annual meeting in Toronto Saturday, Jan. 24, and Fry emphasized that there still is time for more clubs to enter.

Oakville's new team will be the Black Knights, sponsored by John Black who has been in a wheelchair since he was injured in a football game some years ago. New entries are Welland Volunteers, Orillia Bombers, Toronto Balmy Beach Canoe Club, London Falcons, St. Thomas Yellow Jackets and Toronto Parkdale Lions.

The nine 1952 clubs were: Peterborough Orfuns, Hamilton Panthers, Cobourg Galloping Ghosts, Oshawa Red Raiders, Toronto East York Blue Devils, Toronto Ryerson Institute, Sarnia Wild Cats, Kitchener Rams and Kingston Tanks.

Bill Prentice, ORFU intermediate president, said the organization aims to keep the game Canadian. It will bar United States players although teams may have U.S. coaches.

SEDGMAN TOPS KRAMER

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—For the third straight time, Frank Sedgman of Australia, Friday night tamed Jack Kramer in straight sets in a pro tennis match.

In a match that was an anti-climax to the Francisco (Pancho) Segura-Ken McGregor singles, Sedgman won 6-4, 10-8.

Segura for the eighth straight time conquered McGregor, Sedgman's Davis Cup doubles partner, 6-2, 6-8, 6-3. The match marked the second successive night that McGregor was able to take a set from Pancho.

Kramer is suffering from a cold.

Floyd's Screen Shot Gives Petes Win Over Glen Roys

BELLEVILLE (Special)—Don Floyd's slashing screen shot from thirty feet out that Goalie Parisi has yet to see, broke a six-all stalemate late in the third period and gave the Peterborough Petes a 7-6 victory over the Glen Roys here last night. The game was a nip-and-tuck thriller all the way with Referees Stan Scrutton and Bill Reason of Kingston having a comparatively easy time. Five penalties were handed out, one a misconduct to the Petes' Montgomery in a clean hard-fought battle that was a thriller to the last whistle. The Petes drew four of the sentences.

The Petes, bolstered by former Eagles Crowley, Hill and Mortimer, staged a fierce checking game featured by potent offensive forays that netted them a 2-1 lead in the first period.

They increased the lead to 3-1 early in the second heat and the Glens roared back with two goals to tie the count, but the fiery Petes slashed back savagely and rapped home a brace of markers within a minute to take a 5-3 period lead.

The Glens took over at the start of the third period and in a driving offensive drove home three goals within as many minutes to take the lead for the first time.

The Petes concentrated all their power in a battling comeback and tied the count with eight minutes to go.

Harding and Parisi, respective goalies staged brilliant performances at this point and it looked like overtime.

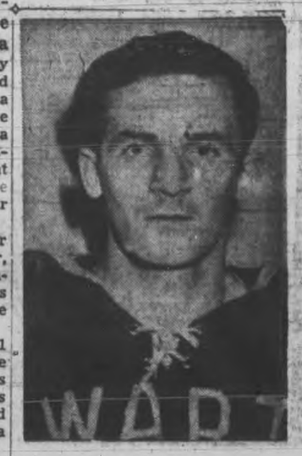
But Don Floyd ruled otherwise. The fleet Petes' forward took a passout and fired the rubber from behind a crew of battling players and the puck whistled past a surprised Parisi for what was the winner.

From then on it was a fierce battle. The Glens roared to the attack and Harding rose to some kind of heights to thwart driving Glen offensives.

Playing coach Red Doran, sidelined through injuries, yanked goalie Parisi with 30 seconds to go and tossed six forwards at a Petes' goalmouth faceoff, but the strategy misfired.

Brian Mulvihill led the Glens' offensive with two goals with Peter Jones, Keith MacDonald, Sammy Mulholland and Ted DeGray getting the others.

While Don Floyd was the hero of the piece, Ted Collins sparked the Petes with a two-goal effort. Gus Leonard got one and two assists, with Fred Mortimer, Toody Greenlaw and Chum Fryia contributing singles.



Greenlaw broke the scoring ice after eight minutes of play when he drove Leonard's pass into the Glens' net. The lead was short-lived, for a minute later Mulvihill blasted Wardaugh's pass by Harding to tie it up. The checking was hard and Leonard on a breakaway eluded Tom Schrieder to sail in and score unassisted.

The Glens' passing was not clicking and they missed several close-in opportunities. Early in the second period Montgomery flipped Mortimer a pass and Parisi famed on that one. Hunter got the gate for interference. Brian Mulvihill fired home the puck on a breakaway and a minute later Peter Jones tied the count from Schrieder's pass. Play speeded up and the Petes flashed back savagely with Collins scoring from Floyd and repeating 30 seconds later to give the Petes a 5-3 period edge.

The Glens struck back fiercely in the third period with MacDonald, DeGray and Mulholland scoring within three minutes to give the homesters a 6-5 lead. The Petes drove back as both teams struck a fast tempo. Chum Fryia finally hit the hemp for the equalized from Leonard's pass. With eight minutes to go both squads turned on the heat with the Glens having the edge. The clock said four minutes to go when the Petes ganged fiercely and Floyd slung his screened shot past Parisi. That was it.

OHA Decision Gives Game To Sarnia Sailors

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association Friday night reversed the result of a Senior A series game between Sarnia and Kitchener and awarded the game to Sarnia.

Sarnia Sailors protested the game played in Kitchener Jan. 10, and won 5-3 by Kitchener Greenshirts, on the grounds that Don Gallinger of Port Colborne, under suspension from organized hockey by the National Hockey League, had coached the Kitchener team.

Gallinger, 24-year-old former player with the Boston Bruins, was suspended indefinitely with Billy Taylor of New York Rangers in March, 1948 for association with Detroit gambler James Tamer. Taylor was suspended for life.

Bob Bauer, president of the Kitchener club, Friday told the OHA executive that Gallinger was hired as assistant coach to Bob Rafferty, formerly club publicity director, last week and assisted at a practice Jan. 9. He said, however that during the Jan. 10 game the suspended player sat in a seat far removed from the Kitchener bench throughout the game. Sarnia had also charged that Gallinger visited the Kitchener team in the dressing room but the OHA executive found this did not give grounds for protest.

The decision to award the game to Sarnia was based on the fact that Gallinger was not officially registered with the OHA and so ineligible to coach the Kitchener team. Bauer said that Gallinger was dropped as assistant coach when it was learned that Sarnia had filed a protest.

A counter-protest by Kitchener that John McKennel, forward with Sarnia, who also played in the Jan. 10 game, was ineligible to play was turned down at Friday night's meeting.

It was decided that since McKennel, former player with the University of Michigan, was under suspension from a league not affiliated with the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States and so not connected with the OHA, there was no basis for the Kitchener protest on his status.

Three Jockeys Hurt At Arcadia

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Two jockeys were injured in a spectacular four-horse spill during Friday's second race at Santa Anita.

Hurt were Mel Peterson and Pete Moreno. Also involved in the mishap, the worst of the season at this track, were Willie Shoemaker and Ray York. Both got up and walked to the judges stand.

Shoemaker was aboard Purvin which apparently crossed his legs coming into the home stretch among the leaders and went down. York on Dawn Patrol tumbled over him and Daily Record with Peterson and Sunny Sands with Moreno piled on. None of the horses was hurt.

Peterson and Moreno were carried unconscious from the track but regained consciousness at the track hospital. They were transferred to hospital in Pasadena.

Peterson is believed to have suffered a broken collarbone and possible fractured ribs. Moreno has either a badly bruised or broken leg.

HEADS BOMBERS—Karl G. Slocomb, 58-year-old executive of a financial firm, has been elected president of the Winnipeg Rugby Football club for 1953. He succeeds Culver Riley, who heads an association which proposes to give Winnipeg and its Blue Bombers a new stadium next fall. Slocomb also is a director of the association.

Ranger Line "Scavengers" Says Former Coach Patrick

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lynn Patrick, a usually mild-mannered fellow who coaches Boston Bruins, has stirred up a hornet's nest in New York. Patrick, who played for New York for 10 years and then served as their coach for two seasons, has attacked the Blue Shirts' first line as "scavengers."

That line consists of Paul Ronty Wally Hergesheimer and rookie Neil Strain. Ronty leads all centres in the National Hockey League in scoring with 36, Hergesheimer is second in the league scoring race with 44 points, and Strain is one of the few bright spots in the tail-end club's roster with 16 points, a good effort for a first-year man.

Patrick claims Ronty and his mates are scavengers because they are "pouncing on loose pucks" instead of skating hard and trying for smooth passing plays.

"SOUR GRAPES"

Ronty, the blonde bombshell, claims the opinion of the fifth-place clubs' coach are "just sour grapes." The 25-year-old centre, who came to New York from Boston after the 1950-51 season, says Patrick "can't get over the mistake he made in trading me away."

Two years ago Patrick sent Ronty to New York in exchange for defenceman Gus Kyle, now in the minors; Pentti Lund, still with the Bruins, and $2,500.

Ronty was an instant click with the Blue Shirts and became one of the hockey heros to the kids in the second balcony of Madison Square Garden.

The only nice thing Patrick said about Ronty had its sour side, too—Ronty was a better hockey player than Hergesheimer.

MAX BACK

While the New York and Boston camps argued there was a happier note in Toronto. Max Bentley will be in action tonight when the fourth-place Maple Leafs play host to New York. The flashy centre has been out of the line-up for seven weeks with a strained back. He will play between Gordie Hannigan and George Armstrong.

Another injury victim, Billy Reay of Montreal, may return to action tonight when the third-place Canadiens meet league-leading Detroit Red Wings in Montreal. His fractured cheekbone is almost healed.

Another name in the Canadien line-up may be Dickie Moore in his first appearance this season. He suffers from a trick knee and has undergone several operations. Lately he has been skating well and his doctors have approved his return to action.

Sunday night Toronto travels to Boston, Montreal to Detroit and New York to Chicago.

Bilts Trim Spits For Seventh Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Alf Pike of the Guelph Biltmores, last year's Memorial Cup champions, is muttering about the jinx of the Rangers.

Pike sits disconsolately on the end of the Biltmore bench and flips a roll of adhesive tape while considering how injuries in the New York Ranger system have practically condemned his Ontario Hockey Association Junior A entry to miss the playoffs.

Early season injuries to the parent Rangers of the National Hockey League took three of his best players in Andy Bathgate, Dean Prentice and Harry Howell. Then Chick Chalmers, one of his best centres, fractured his skull in Barrie. Hardly was Chalmers back in the line-up when Billy McCreary, one of Pike's top scorers, retired to hospital to have his appendix removed. Finally Ron Murphy, his best forward, broke his wrist while the team was touring Quebec.

The Biltmores iced a make-shift team last night but managed a 4-0 win over Windsor Spitfires to move into seventh place. Oshawa Generals stayed in sixth place, the last playoff spot, by defeating Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 8-6 in overtime at Kitchener.

In a Toronto doubleheader, Marlboros and Barrie Flyers battled to a 1-1 tie in regulation time. In the other game Toronto St. Michael's defeated Three Rivers Reds 4-1 in an interlocking schedule contest. It was the Reds' third loss in three tries on their current tour.

Galt Black Hawks hung on to fifth place by blasting St. Catharines Teepees 8-2.

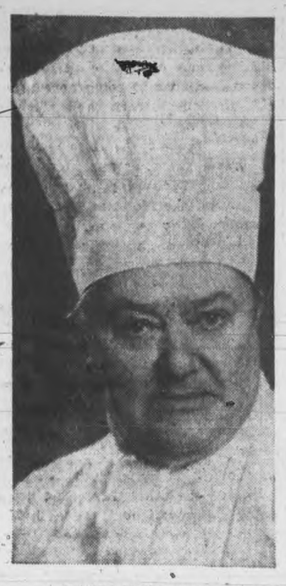
End Of 2-Platoon System May Bring Injury Decrease

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Those two-platoon football adherents who claim its abolition will bring an increase in grid injuries were told they are wrong today by a man who should know.

Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, chairman of the committee on injuries and fatalities for the American Football Coaches Association, has made a 20-year study in efforts to reduce accidents.

"I don't expect any increase in injuries or fatalities as a direct result of the elimination of the two-platoon system," he said. "And there may be a decrease. Fatigue is not the main factor in football injuries. Lack of adequate warm-up is more a factor."

Dr. Eastwood, dean of students at Los Angeles State College, said the greatest number of fatalities and probably injuries occur during the first five minutes after a player enters a game.



In the 21st annual survey of football fatalities which Dr. Eastwood submitted to the coaches association last year, he stated:

"Recently, with the free substitution rule and defensive and offensive platoon system, a reduction of fatalities has not been substantially affected."

And he said today this statement applies also to injuries.

Before the National Collegiate Athletic Association tossed out the two-platoon system, Dr. Eastwood had advised high-school and college coaches that to cut fatalities, "a technique must be developed to keep players warmed up between the offensive and defensive substitutions which have been greatly increased by the modern platoon system."

He says players who come out of a game, sit on the bench a few plays and then return to action aren't adequately warmed up when they go back in.

Hamilton Drops Another To Redmen 11-5

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Officials of the Sarnia Sailors have long memories.

Last Saturday night Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen scored a 5-3 victory over Sarnia in a scheduled Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game but Sarnia won the same game Friday night in Toronto.

Officials of the Sarnia club learned that Kitchener had hired Don Gallinger as an assistant to coach Bob Bailey. Someone remembered that Gallinger was under indefinite suspension by the National Hockey League for associating with a known gambler, James Tamer, in 1948. Sarnia announced, after losing the game, they would protest the result to the OHA.

Friday night the OHA executive, meeting in Toronto, awarded the game to Sarnia because Gallinger was not registered with the OHA as a coach. The Kitchener club dropped Gallinger's name as soon as the protest was started.

Kitchener gained two points to replace those they lost by defeating Chatham Maroons 4-1.

Brantford Redmen stamped a bit more life out of Hamilton Tigers by lambasting them 11-5. Al Bennett was called upon for 49 saves in the Hamilton net. Stratford Indians moved to within one point of the leading Owen Sound Mercurys by winning 7-3 over Sarnia Sailors.

Sudbury Wolves boosted their lead in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior southern group by downing North Bay Trappers 5-2.

Jack MacKenzie scored twice for Kitchener. Harvey Jacklin and Charlie Brooker added two more in a game that was marred by few penalties. Joe Carveth scored for Chatham late in the third period.

Bill Semple whipped three goals past Al Bennett for Brantford. Don Oberholtzer and Sam Kennedy scored twice. Others were by Lloyd Kemp, Bill Shill, Taylor and Dugan. Don Hammond notched a pair for Hamilton. Doug Ritchie, Sam Divinski and Hugo Bolzon scored others.

Herve Dejordy scored two for Stratford. Lloyd Ferguson, Jack White, Dinny Flanagan, Bill Flick and George Aitken were other Stratford sharpshooters. Alf Lewsey, Chuck Glaab and Don Emms scored for Sarnia.

Gord Heale sparked the Sudbury attack with two goals. Mauno Kauppi, Red Barrett and Nick Tomiuk added three more. North Bay goals were by Vic Jackson and Fred Valenti.

Chatham Maroons visit Owen Sound while Hamilton is at Sarnia and Stratford travels to Kitchener. A Stratford win combined with an Owen Sound loss could put the Indians in front again.

North Bay trappers visit the Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians for the only game in the NOHA southern group.

GRACEFUL AS BIRDS, PCVS' Dave Langhorne (22) and Oshawa Collegiate's B. Harris (behind shooting) stretch up towards the basket. Harris scored one of many baskets despite Langhorne's attempt to check him. But Langhorne went on to guide his team to a 79-46 victory over OCVI. In the junior game, the Garnet and Grey juniors completely crushed OCVI juniors 47-21 to open the collegiate basketball season officially.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

PCVS Seniors And Juniors Take Hoop Wins Easily Against Oshawa Opponents

With sights on their ninth straight COSSA championship series, PCVS Garnet and Grey junior and senior basketball teams crushed Oshawa CVI Friday night here to open the 1953 season. Zoltan Temesy's juniors, although playing below form shown in exhibition games, ran roughshod over OCVI's juniors 47-21, while Bev Goulding's seniors played the season's best to trounce the OVCI seniors 79-46. In both games the Garnet and Grey easily over-matched the Motor City teams, indicating better coaching.

The Garnet and Grey seniors after a few unsteady moments early in the first quarter came back strongly, particularly on rebounds, to grab a 14-7 score. They began to weave their passing patterns in the second quarter and rocketed up to 36-13 at half-time.

From there in the Garnet and Grey began to coast and the second quintet was used more than in previous exhibition games. Oshawa took advantage of this particularly in the third quarter, their strongest. But in the last quarter the seniors romped again to pile up the baskets.

LED THE WAY

Pivot Dan Griffin, working well in front and from the corner, paced the collegiate attack for 16 points. Shifty Dave Langhorne, who seemed to govern the team's play, was deadly on his shooting, collecting 13 points. Lionel Hempstead, the smallest man on the floor, jump-shot for 14 points.

But the game's individual scoring honors went to Oshawa's B. Harris who worked hard throughout the game. He was most effective in the second half when Oshawa began to break quickly up the floor, often catching PCVS off guard.

The Garnet and Grey juniors didn't impress fans as much as they could have in their victory over OCVI juniors. It seemed that during the first quarter they realized Oshawa was weak offensively and then they sat back. Even then they overpowered the Motor City quintet with ease.

WEAK SHOTS

Oshawa juniors were most noticeably weak on shooting and passing. In fact they scored only one field basket in the first half which saw the collegiate up 22-5. They continued this poor display throughout the third and began to hit slightly better in the last quarter, but too late.

Boorman and Roberts, the PCVS spearheads, each sank 12 points, while Paul Davis, who was fouled continually, scored 10. Oldfield was Oshawa's best with eight.

Lineups:

Senior Game — OCVI (46) — Sutherland 5, Harris 23, Mallet 4, Parry 2, Gibbie, Fisher, Kovac 2, Abbot, Pascoe 2, Carnwith 8.

PCVS (79)—Boorman 8, Hempstead 14, Langhorne 13, Grafstein 8, Griffin 10, Cuinningham 4, Ash 4, Geale 8, Allan 4.

Junior Game—OCVI (21)—Burbess, Welsh, Oldfield 8, Knight 2, Hamilton 1, B. Wilson, R. Wilson 1, Nichol 5, Nicholls 4, Hewat.

PCVS (47) — Boorman 12, Roberts 12, Davis 10, Carleton 3, Foote 1, McKinney 1, Cournyea 6, Keeting 2.

LAVAL WHIPS MCGILL

MONTREAL (CP)—Roger Lagace, with a goal and a pair of assists, Friday night paced the Laval red and gold team to a 6-1 victory over McGill Redmen in an intercollegiate hockey league game here.

It was Laval's second win. They previously downed University of Montreal and were defeated by Toronto. It was McGill's first game.

Marlene's 150 Three Off Pace

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Defending champion Louise Suggs shot steady golf Friday for a one-stroke lead at the halfway point in the $5,000 Tampa women's golf tournament.

She carded 36-37—73 to go with Thursday's 74 for a 36-hole total of 147.

Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont. Canadian women's close champion, was among the leaders with a 75 Friday to give her a total of 150.

Tied for second at 148 were Mary Lena Faulk, amateur, and pro Betsy Rawls.

Miss Faulk, who went into Friday's round with a four-stroke lead after a first-round 70, blew to a 78.

Miss Rawls, leading money winner on the 1952 women's pro circuit, came back with 72 after a 76 Thursday.

Patty Berg was another steady performer with a 75-74—149.

Betty Jameson was the day's low scorer with a sensational 68, two under men's par for the 6,093-yard Palma Ceia course. Women's par for the tournament is 37-37—74. A shaky first round 82 put her 36-hole total at 150, tied with Miss Stewart.

The veteran Babe Zaharias, of Tampa, and pro Peggy Kirk, Ponte Vedra, Fla., both of whom were tied for second at 74 Thursday, took 77s Friday for 151.

Havelock Takes TVL Tilt 9-6 Over Lakefield

HAVELOCK (ENS)—Playing before a hometown crowd in the Havelock arena, Havelock outscored Lakefield 9-6 in a TVL game Thursday night.

Reid opened the scoring in the first period for Havelock, with Willshaw and Hamilton getting assists. The second goal for Havelock was scored by Gooley, assists Richlark and Eakins.

Lakefield's goals in the first period were scored by McCracken assisted by Wilfred and Birch, and Birch unassisted.

Havelock, second period: Reid, assist Caravoggio; Caravoggio, assist Gooley; Newman, assist Hamilton.

Lakefield, second period: Birch, assist McCracken; Lonsberry, assist McCracken.

There were two penalties in the second period, both to Lakefield, McCracken for roughing, and Wasson for charging.

Havelock, third period: Newman, assist Berardi; Kearns, assist Richlark; Gooley, assist Hamilton and Eakins; and Gooley, assist Caravoggio.

Lakefield, third period: Birch, assist Miller; Wilfred, assist Birch.

Penalties — Lakefield: Marshall for boarding.

Birch of Lakefield and Gooley, Havelock, both performed the hat trick by scoring three goals each.

The fourth goal for Havelock which was scored by Caravoggio was disputed by the referee, but later allowed because of the good sportsmanship of the Lakefield captain, Wasson, who came forward and declared it was in.

There was a fair crowd, and the locals were glad to see Hamilton back to take his place on the team again.

Lineup:

Havelock—Goal, Dobson; defense, Berardi and Hamilton; forwards, Eakins, Caravoggio and Gooley; alternates, B. Laing, Newman, Ruttan, Willshaw, Kearns, Richlark, Buchan.

Lakefield — Goal, Wingett; defence, Marshall and Miller; forwards, Lonsberry, Wasson and R. Colberry; alternates, Birch, McCracken, Wilfred, Sabatino, P. Colberry and Hopkins.

Referees: Puffer and Moss. It was a good clean game with but three penalties being handed out, all to Lakefield.

High Costs Worry B.C. Stadium Heads

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Empire Games Society is finding higher prices affect stadium-building just like everything else.

The society figured that $1,250,000 would get it a 36,000-seat stadium, including 12,000 covered seats, for the 1954 games here. This would be the biggest sports bowl in Canada.

So Vancouver ratepayers pledged $750,000, the city threw in another $200,000 and the society prepared to launch a general campaign for the remaining $300,000.

But the society got the bad news this week. It will cost at least $1,400,000 to provide the kind of stadium it wants. For $1,250,000 it can get only 26,000 seats, 1,500 less than Toronto's Varsity Stadium.

DEAD-EYE DICKS — Six-foot-eight Bobby Speight, left, is take-charge guy of the North Carolina State attack. Dick Ridgway, centre, is scoring for UCLA after a year on the sidelines. Ed Kalafat keeps Minnesota in the Big 10 race with deadly shooting.

WESTERN CAGERS WIN

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The University of Western Ontario Mustangs were no better than they had to be Friday night as they downed an inept Queen's University quintet 62-39 in a senior intercollegiate basketball game played at Thames Hall here.

The win was Western's second straight in senior intercollegiate competition this season. The Mustangs already hold a 73-56 decision over Assumption whom the Gaels play tonight in Windsor.

Western's record for the season is 4-3 while Queen's is 1-7.

Captain Doug McNichol was again the big scoring gun for the Mustangs with 18 points while Walt Karabin hit for 12. Ken Atwood topped Queen's with 12 points.

In the preliminary game, Western Colts after being held to a 26-26 score at the half, put on a drive in the last two periods to down the Ontario Agricultural College Aggies, 70-51.

JOHNSON WINS DECISION

NEW YORK (AP)—Harold Johnson, Philadelphia lightheavy contender, Friday night dragged out the heavy artillery in the late rounds to take a unanimous 10-round decision over Jimmy Slade of New York at St. Nicholas Arena. Although he shook up Slade repeatedly, Johnson never was able to drop his willing opponent. Johnson weighed 175½, Slade 177½.

The 24-year-old Johnson, ranked with former champion Joey Maxim as the two logical contenders for Archie Moore's title, won going away as he turned to heavy punching down the stretch.

Landy Runs 4:08 Mile Just To "Loosen Up"

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australian miler John Landy, who will attempt to set a world record at Perth on Jan. 24, ran a 4:08 mile today in an inter-club meet at Melbourne's Olympic Park.

The time compares with Gunder Haegg's world record of 4:01.4, set in 1945 and Landy's previous efforts of 4:02.8 ad 4:02.1.

Lady decided before the mile that he would not extend himself in Melbourne's 85-degree heat. He referred to it as "having a trot" to loosen up.

Little Mo Wins Aussie Singles

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., added the Australian women's championship today to her United States and Wimbledon titles by beating her teammate, Julie Sampson, of San Marino, Calif., 6-3, 6-2, in their all-American final of the Australian national tennis tournament.

After Maureen's victory, 18-year-old Ken Rosewall, who had eliminated Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, in the semi-final, won the men's singles championship by beating his countryman, Mervyn Rose, in straight sets 6-0, 6-3, 6-4.

Maureen, at 18, is the youngest ever to win the title. She is the fourth American to do so.

Rosewall, like Maureen in the women's division, became the youngest ever to win the Australian men's title.

He dazzled the lefthanded Rose with uncanny accuracy, giving the first seeded Australian the most humiliating drubbing of his major tennis career.

Rosewall and Lewis Hoad, Friday won the national doubles title. They defeated countrymen Mervyn Rose and Don Candy, 9-11, 6-4, 10-8, 6-4.

The doubles triumph followed a victory earlier in the day of Miss Connolly and Julie Sampson in the women's doubles, who took the title by defeating Mary Hawton and Beryl Penrose of Australia 6-4, 6-2.

Marmora Whips Hastings 8-3 In TVL Fixture

MARMORA (ENS) —Marmore captured another two points in the TVL standing on Friday evening in winning at home against Hastings by the score of 8-3.

The visitors failed to threaten in the first period. They had no luck around the net. Marmora at the same time attacking with fast rushes, netted the puck four times.

In the last minute of the third Lavender got the only goal of the period and his third in the game to make the final score read Marmora 8, Hastings 3.

Ken Watson's Curling

RIGHT UP TO THE BROOM HANDLE

One thing you would notice when you watched Gary Thode and his Canadian school champs from Saskatoon perform, is that when each member of the team delivers a stone, he seems to throw his whole body and soul as well as his stone, right up the broom handle. The forward swing of each of these lads is a dream in motion. Their co-ordination is so finely adjusted and their delivery motion so smooth and unhurried, that their stones seem to flow from them like cream from a jug.

✧ ✧ ✧

To achieve this has required countless hours of practice, something that each of us must be willing to devote time to if any degree of perfection is to be reached. Too many boys want to be good at all sports. They play in all but perfect none. Pick out one sport. Live it! Sleep it! Eat it! Dream it! And work at it if you want to be good at it. There are very few Jim Thorpes and Lionel Conachers!

Once you have reached the top of your backswing concentrate on one thing only . . . swing that rock toward the broom . . . forget all else. The broom is your target . . . keep it in mind and in sight. Turn the handles of the stone during your forward motion so that it is turning as it flows off the tips of your fingers.

Swing your rock ahead of the body so that when it touches the ice your right arm is stretched forward and ahead of you. Keep in behind the stone. Above all, do not set it down on the ice under your body and ride it. Keep one thing in mind—swing—swing—swing then reach—reach—reach. that right leg stretched out straight behind you and the right arm stretched out ahead of you. Don't double it up and ride out on your right knee or you will become a "pusher" for certain. Tuesday . . . To Slide or Not to Slide?

Five Directors Elected To Fair Board

Five new directors were elected Friday night at the annual meeting of the Peterborough County Industrial Exhibition.

They are Mrs. Floyd Curtis, the second woman on the 18-member board of directors; Dick Stewart, county warden; Donald A. McGillis, Peterborough hotel owner; Jay Whittington, South Monaghan beef cattle farmer, and Stan Blewett, horseman.

The other 13 directors were returned in a ballot of 30 candidates. Six junior farmers have still to be named, and at a future meeting the directors will elect the 1953 president and officers.

Last year's directors, returned again in 1953, are President Norman McConkey, Frank Savigny, Don Milburn, Mrs. G. K. Fraser, John Kitney, Melville Johnston, Harold Millen, Charles Quinlan, Manson Cathcart, Archie Clysdale, Dr. Harry Hamilton, Clarence Mann and Burritt Mann.

RETIRES

Charles Moore, a fair board member for 45 years, announced Friday night that he would not be a candidate.

"I think I should make way for some younger men," he said.

Hugh Stewart, a former president, also declined to stand. He said that he didn't have the time to spare but he promised the 1953 board his support in any venture.

Mr. Moore praised the cattle show this year but said the ring site was not good enough.

"The poor attendance wasn't encourging to directors and exhibitors. We changed the date not to conflict with the harvest . . . To those attending the fair I say, 'Try and see the exhibit of cattle'."

Mrs. G. K. Fraser, in charge of the home craft displays, said she didn't know how all the applicants could be accommodated in the old building.

"The interest shown by the women of Peterborough was very satisfactory," said Mrs. Fraser . . . "But I would like to see a new building and we could turn the old one over for cattle."

FEW AMATEURS

William Wilks of the horticultural committee said because the fair dates were set back this year the amateur entries were "weak". He said he and other members of the committee appreciated the contribution of local florists to the show.

Mr. Savigny, in charge of sheep and swine, said: "The quality and quantity of the exhibits have outgrown the present accommodation. We'll either have to cut down on the numbers or get new buildings."

"The grandstand performance was a little better than last year," said Clarence Bacon of the entertainment committee. "And receipts were greater than in 1951."

Mr. Cathcart reported that the committee felt "terribly let down" with the midway. It had been signed up the previous February and the understanding was that the concessions would be the same as in 1951. However half of the midway went to Welland.

"The midway was a flop," admitted Mr. Cathcart. "They let us down. I advise the incoming board to have nothing to do with them."

It was constructed with the definite purpose of bringing more tourist dollars into Italy. Altogether, more than 40 artists and sculptors worked on the 31 public rooms aboard.

Agriculture Matching Industry In Expansion

The giant strides of Ontario industry during the past few years are being matched by Ontario agriculture.

John B. Nelson of the provincial department of agriculture, guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Peterborough County Industrial Exhibition Board, gave a few statistics to back this up on Friday night.

Ten years ago there were some 35,000 tractors on Ontario farms; by 1951 there were 100,000. In 1941 the value of machinery per farm in the province averaged $600; by 1951 this had increased to $3,000.

Since the Second World War output per man on Ontario farms has increased by 35 per cent., said Mr. Nelson.

"There are not nearly as many men doing farm work but we are putting out more stuff. At one time men were leaving the farms at the rate of 1,000 a month; yet production is up."

MANY CHANGES

Mr. Nelson said that there has been more change in agriculture during the last 10 years than in 30 or 40 years previously.

Most of his address was taken up in reminiscing about agriculture in Peterborough in the '20s and '30s. At one time Mr. Nelson was agricultural representative here.

He said he was delighted to see that veterans such as G. A. Gillespie and Charlie Moore were still active in fair board work. Men of their calibre were pioneers in encouraging boys' and girls' agricultural activities in the district.

Mr. Nelson was introduced by Frank Paterson and thanked by Melville Johnston.

Have Shade Trees Placed To Add Comfort Of Home

Properly placed shade trees can add immensely to the pleasure and comfort of your home. Careful selection and placement are needed, however, if shade is to be obtained in the desired area. Frequently, a home owner plants too many trees and plants them in straight rows — often providing undesired shade for his neighbor's flower beds.

Keep in mind that the parts of the house and grounds most often used in the afternoon and evening, and therefore in need of shade, are the living room, and the outdoor porch or terrace and picnic area. If they are so located that the afternoon and early evening sun is too bright and hot, a shade tree planted south-west or west of them will make these places more comfortable.

Your dining room and kitchen are used at intervals during the day. The position of windows in these rooms and the compass direction they face will determine the location of a tree that will provide shade where and when it is needed. Shade may be desired against bedroom windows for early morning or early evening sunlight.

DECIDUOUS TREES USUALLY PREFFERRED

Deciduous trees, those that drop their leaves in winter, are usually preferred in most of the situations mentioned because winter sunlight is needed here. Evergreens would shade the areas both in winter and in summer.

You may shade a seat or bench in your flower garden or at the edge of a shrub border by a small-growing tree. A large-growing tree would be harmful to the best growth of flowers and shrubs.

AVOID PLANTING IN STRAIGHT LINES

If you have large lawn areas, you may need more shade trees than those suggested in the preceding paragraphs. You may need some to screen an undesirable view, others to frame a good view and still others to give privacy. In general, place the trees at unequal distance, if possible in a triangular pattern, and not in straight lines.

Avoid planting trees or shrubs in lawn areas that are to be used for games—however, a play area for small children might well be shaded by a large tree.

In planning the location of trees, drive stakes in the ground to help you visualize the effect. It is easier to shift the position of a stake to a proper location than it is to move a tree after it is planted.

CROWDING GIVES POOR SHAPED TREES

No hard and fast rules can be given for the distance between trees. From three to five trees might be planted together, as is sometimes done with birches, to obtain a naturalistic effect. Except for special-purpose planting of this kind, large-growing shade trees should be spaced 40 feet or more apart. The same applies to street or roadside trees.

If existing shade trees on the lawn or street are closer together than 40 feet, it would be well for you to consider the possibility of removing some of them. Remove the poorest trees, those that are poorly shaped, somewhat diseased, seriously rotted or broken. Usually it is better to have a few good trees than a lot of poor ones. Crowded trees soon become poor trees, because the heads become missshapen, the roots compete for food and the soil is rapidly depleted of moisture and fertility. Not only are the trees weakened but the lawn, shrubs and flowers nearby are stunted.

PLANT MINIMUM OF 20 FEET FROM HOUSE

A large-growing shade tree may be planted as near as 20 feet to the house or any other building. For new plantings, 20 feet could be taken as a minimum distance. If a large tree is already growing near a building, the condition and shape of the tree will determine whether or not it should be removed. If it has become weakened by decay or if a large branch extends over the house, a storm might break the tree and cause considerable damage. Such a tree is a hazard and should be removed.

Sees Guided Missiles Crossing Ocean Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Secretary Thomas Finletter said Friday that guided missiles capable of crossing the ocean—and of operating accurately—will be available "fairly soon."

He did not say what he meant by "fairly soon." He added that it will be about 30 years before air war passes fully into the phase of the guided missile.

In a farewell press conference, Finletter also said earnestly that some international system to bar war and control modern weapons must be devised "or the human race will blow itself off the globe."

"Unless such a system is devised, and whether we win the war or not, civilization cannot survive," he said.

Order Scholars Forget Einstein

MOSCOW (AP) — A high Communist official Friday warned Soviet scholars anew against the methods of Albert Einstein and other western scientists. They have strayed from the path of strict scientific objectivity, he said.

Yuri Zhdanov, a scientist, and member of the Communist party's central committee, issued his warning in a half-page article in the party organ Pravda. He also singled out for attack certain Soviet scientists, among them Academy member Orbeli Beritov and a Prof. Anokhin, for opposing the "objective works" of the late Russian scientist Ivan Pavlov.

(Pavlov, who died in 1936, is associated with "behaviorist psychology," which holds that every human action has a cause and thereby parallels soviet theories of cause and effect in the economic field.)

Zhdanov quoted statements by the Danish atomic physicist Nils Bohr and the late British Astronomer Sir Arthur Stanley Eddington to prove that they, like Einstein, were guilty of "subjective distortions in natural science."

Prisoners Give Blood 4 Times A Year

DORCHESTER, N.B. (CP)—Four times a year, the blood of men imprisoned in Dorchester penitentiary is tapped to help save lives on the outside. Since the end of the Second World War, volunteers behind the institution's walls have donated 1,500 bottles of blood to the Canadian Red Cross

To Mr. X, who cannot be identified otherwise, went the distinction of giving the 1,500th donation since 1945. He had been a donor several times previously at the penitentiary.

Prisoners at Dorchester may contribute blood once every three months, when a Red Cross mobile clinic visits the prison. Mr. X does more than give his own blood for the benefit of a society from which he has been separated. He canvasses his fellow prisoners so successfully that 177 men were on the waiting list the last time the clinic arrived.

CONTINUE DONATIONS

C. H. Foss, in charge of the clinic has found that many of the men who first donate blood while in Dorchester continue doing so after their release.

He recalled that Kurt Meyer, former Nazi major-general, gave "five or six" blood donations while a prisoner here. One of these was his 20th, those before his imprisonment have been for the benefit of German troops. Meyer, sentenced to life imprisonment for responsibility in the shooting of Canadian prisoners of war, was transferred to Germany in late 1951.

Some of the Dorchester donors have made 20 contributions, earning certificates signed by the governor-general in his capacity as national president of the Canadian Red Cross.

MARMORA (ENS). — The executive of St. Paul's WA were re-elected at the annual meeting held in the home of Mrs. R. G. Winters on Thursday afternoon. These officers are: President, Mrs. R. G. Winters; vice-president, Mrs. E. Hewitt; secretary, Mrs. H. Price; treasurer, rMs. W. D. Lavender; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. R. Frost; delegate to diocesan annual, Mrs. W. D. Lavender.

Canon J. M. Brownlie opened the meeting with prayer and the Bible reading was taken by W. J. Cottrell, lay reader.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Price and confirmed. She also read the minutes of the last meeting of the diocesan board which showed that the diocesan pledge for 1953 is the same as last year, namely $4,503.60, and mentioned May 6-7 as the dates for the diocesan annual. The treasurer's report given by Mrs. W. D. Lavender showed receipts to have been $95.29 and a balance on hand of $24.31 after the pledge had been met, as well as other expenses.

As a tribute to the labors of Mrs. George Kerr, who died towards the close of last year, one minute's silence was observed. Mrs. R. Frost gave her report as Dorcas secreta y dealing chiefly with the bale that was sent to an Indian mission in the Northwest.

Mrs. Winters and Mrs. Brownlie were appointed to meet representatives of the WMS of St. Andrew's United Church to plan for local observance of the World Day of Prayer on February 20. Neglect Of Any Ear Infection Can Lead To Hearing Trouble

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Many hearing difficulties start with an earache or a running ear acquired during childhood. The neglect of symptoms related to the ear can have disastrous effects in later life. Particularly disturbing, therefore, are letters from parents such as one which came in not long ago from the mother of a four-year-old boy.

She wrote that her child had had a bad cold and that this was followed by pus coming out of the left ear. "Will this clear up by itself," asks the correspondent, "or should something be done about it?"

Certainly, something should have been done about it long ago. There are too many chances that this might turn into a chronic disease of the ear, developing into difficulty of hearing or even lead-in to mastoid infection.

There is good reason why an ordinary cold sometimes leads to ear infection. There is a tube or passageway leading from the nose to the middle portion of the ear, and it is easy for germs to pass up this tube and cause infection in the middle portion of the ear.

This situation is particularly likely to occur in small children and often leads to earache. Not infrequently the earache is the result of pus accumulating back of the eardrum, and proper treatment consists of making a little slit in the drum membrane so that the pus can escape and relieve the pressure which is causing the pain.

But the present generation of children is luckier than we were. Many of these middle-ear infections can be nipped in the bud by giving the sufa drugs or penicillin. And, even more important, these drugs have almost wiped out one of the common and serious complications of such infections, namely mastoiditis.

INFECTION ENTERS BONE

This complication is a spread of the infection to the bone lying just back of the ear and it usually required a delicate and costly operation. Today, the number of these operations has shrunk almost to the vanishing point.

The development of a perforated eardrum or a chronic running ear which may be hard to cure is best avoided by prompt treatment. However, even in the long-lasting cases of ear infection, more can be done now than in the past. But parents have a real responsibility in seeing that any early signs of ear infection are not neglected.

Louis Neault Living Legend Of Early Days

MATTAWA, Ont. (CP)—When you listen to the story of Louis Neault, you can hear white water roaring, the lusty songs of lumbermen, the cracking ice shattering the stillness of a northern night.

Old Louis is a living legend in this country, one of the few survivors of a great bread who wrested the treasures from the land whose passing is lamented with the other vanishing symbols of 19th century Canada.

Louis is 85, but his affable countenance and alert, grey eyes reveal little of rugged years spent in the wilderness.

He once walked and ran 74 miles from a lumber camp to a railhead in 16 hours when a daughter was born and now is embarking single-handed on the construction of a two-storey house for a daughter and son-in-law moving here from Sudbury.

He came to Mattawa, 40 miles east of North Bay, in 1874. Only two other white families were here. One was the Timmins family, and Louis shared a bench in a log schoolhouse with the late Noah and Henry Timmins, who later became giants in the mining industry and had a thriving northern city named after them.

FINE SPECTACLE

He still recalls those early days. "The Indians came down each spring from the north to trade," he said. "The finest spectacle I ever saw was their 40-foot birch canoes plunging through the white water, 10 men paddling on each side."

Like most of his free-spirited comrades, Louis travelled. He went to the Pacific coast and spent a winter in a Rocky mountain tie-cutting camp. He drove logs—n camps at the upper end of Lake Superior, and wandered over northern Ontario trapping and prospecting.

Louis eventually settled down in Mattawa and raised nine children.

In his latest project, the house for his daughter, he quarried the stone for the foundation from outcroppings near town, and hauled it in with a wheelbarrow. But for Louis it's only another job, for a man who finds doing nothing is doing the impossible.

They were remanded by Mr. Justice W. S. Spence for sentencing to Jan. 23. A warrant is out for the arrest of Henry Jallep, 25, also of Niagara Falls in connection with the same robbery.

Thermostat Location Important

Have you a thermostat-thumber in your home? Many households do.

He is the chap who is unfortunate enough to live in a home that just can't be heated comfortably. So he fusses with the heat-control (thermostat), thumbing it up and down the scale.

The blame for his discomfort rests, more often than not, with the person or persons who installed the thermostat in an improper location. According to the Small Homes Council, there are several places that should be avoided.

Cold air from windows or outside doors, warm air from registers, radiators or fireplaces should not be allowed to flow over the thermostat. It shouldn't be placed on an outside wall, or on a wall heated by hot-water pipes, warm-air ducts, or chimneys. Nor should the sun's rays reach it.

The reasons for these rules are obvious. The thermostat must be placed at a spot where it can measure temperature that is representative of air throughout the house. Near hot or cold spots, it cannot do this.

The thermostat should be away from heat sources and drafts. Even the heat from a lamp, television set or radio under or near a heat-control will affect its operation.

The Small Homes Council advises placing the thermostat from twoandahalf to four feet above the floor, or at a height about half-way between the floor and the "breathing level."

Incorrect use of the thermostat is another common cause of failure to maintain comfortable temperatures. To use a room thermostat properly, the temperature setting should be raised or lowered only one degree at a time until the most comfortable temperature is reached. Then it should be left alone.

The thermostat's job is to maintain a uniform temperature. It should be allowed to do its job, and should not be used as a hand-operated off-on switch. Frequent adjustment should not be necessary.

If it is desirable to raise the temperature, such as after an overnight setback, set the dial at the desired temperature and not at the top of the scale. A higher setting will not make the temperature reach the desired point any faster.

Similarly, setting the dial at the bottom of the scale won't cool the house any faster than if the indicator were lowered only a few degrees.

Some conditions justify a change in temperature setting. In a poorly insulated house having low wall-surface temperatures, the thermostat may have to be reset as outdoor temperatures change.

The thermostat setting may be reduced five to 10 degrees during the night and this can result in fuel savings of five to eight per cent.

Fortunately, the control arrangement that provides maximum comfort usually results in lower heating costs.

IN ORDER to maintain uniform temperatures, thermostats must measure air that is representative of air throughout the home.

WASHINGTON WRECK — Track 15, above, marks the end of the line in Washington's Union Station but it failed to stop a crack Pennsylvania passenger train arriving there on schedule Thursday morning. The runaway giant, with brakes out of order, crashed the barrier, plunged through a concrete floor and came to rest in a workshop below the concourse. Rescue squads stood by stretchers to care for the estimated 50 persons injured in the crash.

Many Factors Affect Risk In Insurance

A review of an up-to-date accounting of the Medical Assurance Underwriting was given by Dr. A. J. McGanity, Medical Director for the Dominion Life Assurance Co. at the monthly meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Life Underwriter's Association Friday at the Empress Hotel.

Dr. McGanity described the various factors affecting medical underwriting.

People living in hotter climates are considered greater risks than people living in the northern areas. People suffering from ulcers today are not considered a big risk as they used to be, since doctors now operate on ulcers and remove them.

Rheumatic fever according to medical science is slowly dying out but it is still considered one of the bigger risks, since it is indirectly connected with heart conditions.

Occupational hazards, too, can put people into a higher risk bracket.

Greater quantities of alcohol are bein gconsumed today but this is not considered too great a risk by insurance companies, unless the individual consumes great amounts. Then he is considered a risk. Insurance companies regard reformed alcoholics as insurable only after four years, when they are considered cured. Church authorities consider this practise unfair. But insurance, said Dr. McGanity, must be practical.

Insurance doctors when examining applicants for insurance with heart conditions, he warned, should not allow them to be alarmed, for it might give them a set back and ruin their chances of recovery.

Chairman for the meeting was Les Reichardt. Paige Rowell introduced Dr. McGanity who was thanked by David Schellenberg.

Country Suitable For TV Dutchman Not Interested

HILVERSUM, Holland (Reuters)—Holland's two-year experiment with privately-operated television minus commercials may end this year unless the government comes to its rescue.

The phlegmatic, home-loving Dutchman doesn't think much of TV.

As far as he is concerned, it is just "canned" entertainment.

A mere fledgling compared to other national networks, television here is run at present by the two radio organizations on a two-year experimental basis.

But only between 4,000 and 5,000 sets have been sold in the whole country, and programs run on only two days a week, for two hours at a time.

URGE STATE ASSISTANCE

The two-year trial period ends in October and the sponsors, the four radio organizations who make up the Netherlands Television Foundation, say they cannot carry on without state aid.

Psychological factors apart, Holland seems ideally suited to the medium. The flat countryside is suitable for transmission and reception, while Holland also has the manufacturing facilities and knowledge to produce first-rate transmitting equipment and receivers.

Great care has been taken to keep television here clear of advertising and commercial exploitation. The foundation at the start announced that programs would be largely devoted to cultural and educational subjects.

The four main radio organizations each put up 300,000 guilders—about $84,000—toward the two-year experiment, and the government gave indirect aid.

Now, after little more than a year, and with money running out, the man-in-the-street seems completely unconcerned.

Lands Near Pole With Supplies

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—A four-engined U.S. transport plane landed Thursday on the ice of a floating man-made lake within an hour's flight of the North Pole.

It carried supplies and replacements for men who report the weather from the air force-manned ice floe at the top of the world. Known as Fletcher's Island, it is only 250 miles from the pole.

The C-54 was the second four-engine craft to land there since it was occupied in 1951. In contrast to a C-54's hazardous landing on the snow last spring, Thursday's landing was on a frozen lake that the polar party had created on the floating ice island.

During the summer, the airmen dammed one end of a trough between two low ice ridges to create a lake of melting snow. When cold weather came, it froze the lake into a landing field 200 feet wide and 5,000 feet long.

Planting Trees For Coronation

LONDON (CP)—Thousands of trees will be planted this spring throughout the United Kingdom to commemorate the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

Plans have been formulated for large-scale plantings along highways in Hertfordshire, Oxfordshire and Berkshire. In Scotland it is proposed to place trees along main roads leading to Glasgow and Edinburgh.

Many communities are also working on plans which will turn the country into a veritable garden for the event. Huge floral schemes are being prepared for the ministry of works to beautify London. Hundreds of lily bulbs will be planted in the royal parks, a gift from the people of British Columbia. Special floral designs are being arranged along the Mall, in the heart of London, as well as boulevards and gardens along the Thames embankment.

An appeal will be directed to the people in the provinces to "say it with flowers" and industrial areas are urged to spruce up with colorful floral window-boxes.

Veteran Political Reporter Still Going Strong At 92

BOSTON (AP)—James Morgan, who left school at 10 to become one of America's great political reporters, was 92 years "young" Dec. 18.

The Boston Globe's editorial writer and political analyst for 68 years says he can never grow too old to learn from "my teacher, curiosity."

The youngest of 10 children, Morgan's parents dubbed him "old inquisitive."

"He still has the sharpest mind in the office," a Globe executive said.

Morgan recently wrote a friend: "We are not responsible for the binding of our book of our life, but we are responsible for its contents. So long as we keep it open to new ideas and hopes we are young."

LONG COVERAGE

Morgan has chronicalled for millions of readers the careers of almost a third of the presidents of the United States and covered the presidential conventions of both major political parties for more than 50 years.

Yet, rather than rest on his laurels, when he was almost 92 Morgan raced the newspaper's deadline to pound out the Globe's lead on the greatest story of the year—General Eisenhower's election as president.

He wrote one of the most tender love letters of his life when he was 91. It was to his wife, Helen, on their 58th wedding anniversary. They never had been separated for a single day of their married lives.

When he was 90 he flew—for the first time—across the country and learned to type.

REACTIONARY HABITS

Although Morgan is intellectually young, he confesses to being "a reactionary in my habits."

He was 40 before he would carry a watch, a gift from Globe associates. For years he refused to have the privacy of his home invaded by a telephone and wrote his news stories in longhand.

Curiosity was his teacher but reading and travelling were his playmates.

Mention "travel" and Morgan's face lights up like a lamp. Yet he has crossed the Atlantic 24 times and this continent 28. He spent two years retracing Napoleon Bonaparte's footsteps through Europe, Asia and Africa.

Morgan's impartial but crisp writing is a model for any cub reporter.

"The words just pop out," Morgan explains modestly. "I never need to use a dictionary. Sometimes, though, I have to be careful to get the right rhythm in the words."

Graciousness and composure—perhaps those are the secret of his youthfulness. Associates say they have never known him to lose his temper, raise his voice in anger or swear. Rare qualities, indeed, in a newspaper man.

Name Prescott Judge Claims Commissioner

OTTAWA (CP) — The secretary of state's department Friday announced appointment of C W. A. Marion, judge of the county court of Prescott and Russell, a sa deputy war claims commissioner.

The announcement said Judge Marion's appointment will enable the commission to begin investigating war claims in the next few weeks. Claims will be paid from former enemy assets, reparations and settlements held by the federal government.

The announcement indicated that further deputy commissioners will be appointed later to assist the chief war claims commissioner, Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell of Prince Edward Island.

Judge Marion, a native of Rockland, Ont., has been judge of the Russell and Prescott county court since 1944. A graduate of McGill University, he was called to the bar in 1923. He was named crown attorney for Russell and Prescott in 1930 and held that post until appointed judge.

Asks $100,000 Damages

DENVER (CP) — Trans-World Airlines was sued for $100,000 damages in Denver district court Friday by Mrs. Dorothy J. Roy for the death of her husband last year off the British Columbia coast. Warrant Officer Maurice L. Roy, 32, was killed in the Jan. 18 plane crash near Sandspit, B.C., which took the lives of all but seven of 43 persons.

Dies In Rescue Try

NEW YORK (CP)—John Hargreaves, 30, a television program manager, plunged to his death Friday while trying to get help for his wife and child, both of whom he believed to be trapped in a fire. Police said Hargreaves, a member of the night staff of NBC-TV, died in a 10-storey drop from a bathroom ledge outside his Manhattan apartment. They said he had apparently been overcome by fumes. His wife and children, and an overnight guest, were rescued by firemen.

Magnetic Survey To Take 7 Years

VANCOUVER (CP)—About 24,000,000 square miles of the Pacific, Indian and Atlantic oceans are badly in need of a magnetic survey, says a University of British Columbia professor.

So he's building a non-magnetic, 34-foot yacht and will set sail this summer to do the job himself.

Dr. Bohdon Medusa Cwilong, associate professor of physics at UBC, estimates it will take him seven years.

With the 44-year-old physicist will go a crew of four on the yacht Non-Magnetic III.

"My wife will be one because she's a good sailor," he said. "And I don't anticipate any shortage of volunteers when the time comes."

He explains his projected trip this way: "We can measure the earth's magnetism but we have no idea of how it began or why it exists. To investigate it, one must be as far as possible from the ground, as it is a weak force, subject to disturbance. The ocean is the best place."

The yacht will cost about $5,000 to build. Copper, bronze and special non-magnetic stainless steel will replace magnetic metals for rivets, chains, anchors and metal supports.

Prof. Cwilong's program calls for three years in the Pacific, studying 15,000,000 square miles; two years in the Indian Ocean (6,000,000); and two years in the Atlantic (3,000,000).

Son of a Polish judge, Prof. Cwilong was educated in Poland and fled to Britain with the Polish air force in 1939.

5 Years For Robbery

TORONTO (CP)—George Pallister, 29, arrested last week in Windsor, Ont., Friday was sent to penitentiary for five years for armed robbery. Evidence was that he and another man stole $190 from a cigar store Nov. 29 and robbed another cigar store of $40 Dec. 11.

UEW Displaces Last Of Company Unions

TORONTO (CP)—Ross Russell, director of organization for the United Electrical Workers (Ind.) said Friday employees of the North American Cyanamid Co. Ltd., of Niagara Falls, voted 373 to 351 to displace the employees' council in favor of the UEW.

The council has been the bargaining unit for company employees for 10 years. The vote was held in Niagara Falls Wednesday and Thursday.

Mr. Russell said the council "represented one of the last major footholds of company unionism in the Niagara peninsula."

SeawayDecisionShows Canada Independent

PROVIDENCE, R I. (AP)—Canada's decision to go ahead with construction of the St. Lawrence seaway without the help of the United States is a symbol that Canada realizes it must handle its own destiny, Dr. George S. Patterson, Canadian consul-general at Boston, said Friday night.

Dr. Patterson told the British Empire Club here that Canada is a "people on the march." He said that vast deposits of uranium in Canada will make that country one of the important in the atomic age.

Democrat Vote Tops GOP In House Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—The aggregate vote for Democratic House candidates last November topped that for their Republican opponents by 239,271, despite President-elect Eisenhower's majority of 6,616,233 over Adlai Stevenson.

Statisticians for the House Republican campaign committee came up with the figures Friday, adding further evidence that Eisenhower's was a great personal victory.

Child Killed By Car

OTTAWA (CP)—Judy Cathcart, 8, was fatally injured Friday at Stittsville, 15 miles south of here, when she was hit by a car as she walked home from school. Police said the driver, Lyma Playfair, 56, of Montreal, picked up the injured girl to drive her to hospital here but she died on the way. Mr. Playfair was driving from Montreal to attend the funeral of his father, near Perth, when the accident occurred.

Aiding Friend Costly

TORONTO (CP)—It cost Robert Coxon $30 Friday for trying to prevent his friend from getting a parking ticket. He told the court that when he saw a policeman coming, he drove off in Charles Wilson's car and hit a hydro pole. He was convicted of careless driving, not having a driver's licence and having liquor in an unlawful place. Wilson was fined $10 for permitting an unlicensed operator to drive his car.

Cavan News

The WA of Ebenezer United Church held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Roe Stewart on Thursday evening. Eight members were present. The president, Mrs. Morris McGee, presided, Mrs. Stanley Sharp read the Scripture reading, and Mrs. Percy Stewart gave the topic, "The Kingdom and Its Promotions." Readings and poems suitable to the occasion were read by the members. The secretary, Mrs. Harold White, read the minutes of the December meeting. The hostess assisted by the committee served lunch.

Quebec province covers 594,860 square miles, compared to 267,339 for Texas, largest state of the United States.

Canada Witnesses Upsurge Of "Concern For Culture"

OTTAWA (CP)—H. S. Southam, chairman of the board of trustees of the National Gallery, said Friday that Canada is witnessing a "great upsurge of public concern for cultural values."

This was all the more striking when it occurred in a country as young as Canada, he said. And it came perhaps as a result of the widespread attack on the ideals of the democratic world in recent years.

Mr. Southam made the statement in the annual 1951-52 report of the board of trustees of the gallery, tabled in the Commons by Citizenship Minister Harris. He said that in the press, in Parliament and elsewhere fresh evidence is to be found almost daily for the growing interest of the public in the arts.

This movement had reached a climax last year with the appearance of the royal commission report on national development in the arts, letters and sciences. And it would be surprising if this trend did not affect the National Gallery.

The report of the board detailed the work of the gallery during the year and the steps being taken to provide a new building in Ottawa to house the gallery, now cramped for space. The building is to be on Ottawa's Cartier Square and a competition is being arranged among leading architects for its design.

Transfiguration Of Jesus

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

It is a truism that every event or happening must have an adequate cause or explanation. It may not always be easily determined, but it is always there.

In the history of human affairs, especially in man's religious history, nothing is more remarkable than the transformation of three Galilean fishermen and their apostolic fellows of equally humble origin, into builders and world leaders. For such they soon became as they obeyed their Master's command to go into all the world and preach the Gospel, and make disciples of all nations.

Once the worldly ambitions of these earnest, intense young men were overcome and discovered the true nature of the kingdom Jesus was to establish, there was much in all their contacts with Him to develop vision and action.

But when one seeks the causes of all they became and did, I think one fact and experience stands out above all else: the Transfiguration of Jesus when Peter, James and John went up with Him onto the mountain.

The vision given there was limited to the three. And as they came down from the mountain they were told they should tell no man of the vision "until the Son of man be risen again from the dead," a saying that may well have puzzled them at the time.

But the story of the Transfiguration became well known after the Resurrection. In addition to all the rich memories of Jesus, it must have been to all the disciples, as the three prominent leaders made it known, a powerful incentive to conviction, inspiration and courage, all vitally needed in the times of diffculty and danger that lay ahead.

A study of the part that special visions have played in religious faith and achievement would be interesting and rewarding but it would cover an amazingly large and varied field, for dreams and visions have had a very large part in the background of actual achievement.

We should also, I think, have to distinguish between delusion and illusion. They are very different.

I knew a young man once who had a vision. At the age of 14 he experienced a highly emotional conversion. One day he went up into the hay mow to pray. As he prayed the roof of the barn seemed to open and a great light shone in.

When I knew him he regarded it all as a delusion. He failed to come out of the vision seeing Jesus only, and with the profound and strengthened realism of faith with which Peter, James and John came down from the mountain.

As for myself, I am a rather prosaic person, and have never had the sort of visions I have studied in others. But perhaps we all need moments of transfiguration; and as it is written (Joel 228 and Acts 2:17) that "old men shall dream dreams," there may be hope for me yet.

1956 PLOWING MATCH

Oshawa is interested in Ontario county intention of bidding for the 1956 international plowing match. Proposed location is the Heber Down farm at Brooklin. The County Plowmen's Association have already discussed the proposal with Oshawa Chamber of Commerce. So far everybody is in favor of putting in a bid to the provincial association.

GREAT FLAVELLE RINK

Times have changed at the curling rink since the famous Lindsay rink used to clean up the district Tankard Cup preliminaries, consistently including Peterborough in its victims. Only Dick Butler remains of the powerful rink of which the other members were: J. D. Flavelle, skip, Larry O'Connor, afterwards Judge L. V. O'Connor, of Cobourg, vice-skip; Walter Reesor, second. Dick Butler was the lead.

CAR TURNS OVER

A 1936-model car driven by Rex Wilson, 44, of 512 Aylmer St., was badly damaged early Friday night when it skidded on some ice near Young's Point and rolled over in the ditch. Wilson was not hurt. He was driving east on the Selwyn-Young's Point road, two miles west of Young's Point, when the car skidded on the patch of ice and plunged into the south ditch where it rolled over on its roof. Damage was estimated at $350. OPP Constables Wallace Mohns and John Gray investigated.

WHY NO NIGHT RACING?

"We have the lights and the track I can't see why we can't have harness racing at night," Dr. Art Johnston said at the fair board meeting Friday night. Last summer the Ontario Racing Commission put their foot down on any further night meets. Dr. Johnston and four others put up purses and offered to turn over all racing profits to improving the exhibition property. It was a non-betting venture. But the commission, following a province-wide policy, said no. The 1953 exhibition board will probably be asked to use their influence to change this ruling, Dr. Johnston intimated.

OH! THESE EARLY PRACTICES, moans Otonabee Wolves' Jim Heron (top left) as he shuts off his alarm clock at 6:20 a.m. and prepares for hockey practice at the Civic Arena. This year minor league teams are taking advantage of the hour, 7:30 a.m. to 8:30 a..m., for practice. It's about the only available time at the arena and it's free. Despite the early hour the boys really practice, bumping each other around like Garry Carr bounces Wellie Cowie (lower left) into the boards. The boys also take time out for some extra study sometimes and Wolves' Bob Whitnell and John Johnston (right photo) are no exceptions.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Junior Has No Trouble Getting Up For Hockey

Rrrriiimnggg!!! The alarm clock on the bureau jangles as the minute hand reaches 6:20 a.m. From the bed beside the bureau there's a moan, a rustle of sheets and a good healthy yawn. Then from under the covers arises a sleepy-eyed boy. He gropes for his clothes and then yells "Mom, where's breakfast?"

Minutes after the alarm goes off, the boys are out the front door and off to the Civic Arena. There they shake off their early morning drowsiness by puck-chasing for an hour before going to school. The reason for the early morning activity is hockey practice.

Half the Peterborough minor league hockey players have followed a similar pattern many times this year as they try to work in as much hockey practice as possible.

MILD WEATHER

This year the mild weather has sent practically all leagues scurrying to the Civic Arena for games rather than waiting for natural ice on outdoor rinks. The result is that there's very little practice time available at the arena.

The best times available for practice are taken by the teams which can afford to pay the fee of $10 an hour. The result of this is that the only hours left are: an hour before school, the time before noon (some of which are taken up with school skating) and a few hours in the afternoon.

The boys can't practice during school hours, so the only alternative is the free hour, 7.30 a.m. until 8.30 a.m.

So far this year about 50 per cent of the teams in the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association have taken advantage of the early hour. In fact, more than 75 per cent of that free time has been used. It'll probably be used more as the playoffs approach.

A DIFFERENCE

The same boys probably grouse when they have to get up at 8.30 a.m. for school. But they don't seem to mind getting up a couple of hours earlier for hockey practice. In fact some boys get up earlier and are at the arena at 6.40 a.m. (it's unbelievable, mothers, but true) for the 7.30 a.m. practice.

This week the Otonabee Wolves, a minor team which draws players from throughout the district, held a morning practice. Admittedly some players weren't there. But the boys who were there came from distances of a mile to as much as 14 miles for hockey.

This enthusiasm indicates a promising future for hockey in Peterborough. For if the young players continue that enthusiasm into their junior and senior games, the calibre of hockey will be comparable to any played in Canada.

18 Languages Spoken Through County

More than eighteen languages are spoken in Peterborough county. This was discovered by the census-takers in the summer of 1951. The figures on tongues spoken in Canada have now been compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and released this week.

The enumerators asked two questions about language: first, if the person were able to speak only English or only French, or both. The answers to this question were tabulated under "official languages." The second question was to determine the "mother tongue" of the people. By this was meant the language which the person spoke in childhood. In listing the mother-tongue of infants, the language commonly spoken in the home was taken.

NEARLY FORGOTTEN

Here are the figures on the mother tongues in Peterborough county. Perhaps some persons have all but forgotten their mother tongue; nevertheless they once used it. English was spoken as the mother tongue by 59,218 persons in the county. French by 450 persons. These were the two largest groups. The next in number were 370 persons speaking Indian as their mother tongue.

Here is the rest of the list: Italian 171, Polish 100, Dutch 89, Chinese 73, Scandinavian 58, German 56, Yiddish 34, Ukrainian 30, Magyar (Hungarian) 22, Slovak 17, Finnish 9, Russian 8, Gaelic 8, Japanese 1. There were 75 persons speaking other mother tongues than these which are not itemized separately, or who could not remember what it was.

PROMISE OF SPRING

Today's mail brought the first catalogue of flower seeds and shrubs of the new year. Its context reminds home gardeners of the prospect of color and fragrance from early spring until the autumn frosts.

Exhibition Board Reports Lost $1,420 On 1952 Work Revenue Totalled $50,813

Money Lost On Fair Totalled $760
Burning of Barn Causes Added Expense
Spent More Money In Prize Lists

On the year's operations the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board ended with a deficit of $1,420.51, leaving them with a bank balance of $6,349.62. In 1951 the operating deficit was $1,703 and the year before that, $760. A deficit of $706.56 was incurred on the 1952 exhibition; another $729.20 deficit on general operations, and a surplus of $15.25 was made on grounds improvements.

The summary of receipts and disbursements was given Friday night at the annual meeting of the fair board.

In 1951 there was a surplus of $3,240 on general operations but this year one of the barns burned down causing an additional expenditure of $2,530 over the 1951 figure. At the same time rents received from the grounds were down $1,540. The result was a $729.20 deficit.

The surplus of $2,016 in 1951 on the exhibition itself was replaced this year by a deficit of $706.56. Receipts were $33,462.70, nearly $2,600 less; expenditures were $135 more.

The extra outlay included $1,500 more for prizes, and $763 for insurance. On the losses side of the ledger were $875 gate receipts and $1,498 revenue from the midway.

The ground improvements account showed receipts totalling $11,129.12 ($6,000 in grants and $5,129.12 in fire loss insurance), and $11,113.87 in disbursements.

Altogether total recepits were $50,813.32, about $300 less than last year, and total disbursements were $52,233.83.

DETAILS OF RECEIPTS

Receipts were: rents from grounds $6,221.50, admission sales, $19,859.40, proceeds from midway $2,769.52, booth space rentals $4,584, prize list advertising $1,085, exhibit and race horse entry fees $1,989.68, federal grants for judges and prizes $1,000, Province of Ontario grant $800, memberships $374. County of Peterborough grant $500, sundry grants $501.10, Ontario grant for improvements $3,000, Dominion grant for improvements $3,000, fire loss recovery $5,129.12. Total $50,813.32.

Room Needed As Exhibition Grows Rapidly

The rapid growth of the Peterborough County Industrial Exhibition is posing some problems for the directors. Lack of accommodation for the exhibtors is one of pressing concern.

President Norman McConkey suggested the cattle men might take a leaf from the book of CNE directors: show dairy cattle for two days of the fair, and beef cattle for the other two days.

Mrs. G. K. Fraser who is in charge of the handcrafts building said flatly that she didn't know how she could make room for all the new applicants. She suggested a new building for hand crafts and convert the old one into a cattle barn.

The same story was heard from Frank Savigny, in charge of sheep and swine. Cut down on the number of entries or get new buildings, he said.

RENOVATION NEEDED

Dr. Art Johnston said the racehorse barn was badly in need of renovation. He personally had to take materials down there during the past year to patch up the stables.

Dr. Johnston had one specific suggestion: raise the building and put it on a concrete base.

Because of the change in dates in 1952 the fair was particularly popular with children, Mr. McConkey explained. Almost too popular. More than 8,000 children attended on children's day.

At one point a sweating director had turned to Mr. McConkey and said: "If any more children come in we'll have to move out."

The 1952 president suggested that there be two days for children to relieve the congestion. For example, he said, one day could be for rural children and the other day for urban ones.

The problem will be tossed into the lap of the 1953 directors.

Cancer Societies To Be Formed

Plans are being made to organize sub-units of the Peterborough Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society in Lakefield, Norwood and Havelock.

These plans were reported at the executive meeting of the Peterborough Unit which was held Thursday night by Mrs. Maurice Holt, president.

Tentative plans were also made for a large open meeting for women to be held in the first week in April.

Mrs. John Bradshaw and K. O. Birken were appointed representatives of the unit to attend the organizational meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association to be held Monday night.

A committee was appointed to arrange for the distribution of literature in industries and offices in the city. The committee members are J. S. Hendry, chairman; N. E. Elliott and W. J. Fortner.

Mrs. Bradshaw reported that dressings are still being made and that one of the groups are making other garments suitable for cancer patients.

12 Scholarships Offered At Kiwanis Music Festival

Scholarships are the new note in the Seventh Annual Peterborough Kiwanis Festival to be held May 4 to 12. This year the festival committee has 12 scholarships with a total value of $600 to offer festival entrants. These scholarships, along with cash awards, shields and trophies are being donated by industries, interested organizations and citizens of the city.

This week the 1953 festival activities got underway with the mailing of approximately 600 syllabuses. More than half were sent to out-of-town centres.

In 1952, at least one-third of the 842 entries came from out of town and the committee are anticipating a greater number of visitors this year.

SPEAK TO SCHOOLS

The committee has also organized a group of speakers to attend service club and home and school club meetings and visit schools in other centres in 15 communities of the festival area. The area extends from Toronto to Kingston and north to Gelert in Haliburton county.

The purpose of these visits will be to explain the festival, attract entries and interest and solicit aid for the transportation of entrants.

As in former years two musicians from England who come to this country to adjudicate at the chain of festivals across Canada will be at the Peterborough festival.

This year the adjudicators are G. H. Heath-Gracie and John Russell.

Mr. Heath-Gracie is well-known in Peterborough's musical circles. He was one of the adjudicators at the 1949 festival. A well-known adjudicator in England for a number of years, Mr. Heath-Gracie is organist and master of choristers at Derby Cathedral. He is an examiner to the Associated Board of the Royal Schools of Music, London, and a special commissioner of the Royal School of Church Music, Canterbury, England. Another of his posts is musical advisor to the Derbyshire Education Committee.

BROADCAST ON BBC

The second English adjudicator, John Russell, is music advisor to the county borough of Reading, Berkshire. He has broadcast many times on the home service and light program of the BBC as lecturer, pianist and conductor and has twice toured Western Germany with a full orchestra of young people from Berkshire.

The drama and verse speaking section of the festival also has a well-known adjudicator. Miss Irene Fairclough, LRCT of the Hamilton Conservatory will be adjudicating these classes. Miss Fairclough who has had a great deal of experience in this work and also in the field of drama is coming to the Peterborough festival for the third consecutive year.

She has been associated with Tampa, Florida Little Theatre at Los Gatos, Long Beach, and was a director of the pageant there. She is a member of the Hamilton Players Guild and has appeared with them in many productions.

The closing date for festival entries this year is Feb. 28. Syllabuses and entry forms may be obtained by writing Mrs. Angus Rees, 576 Bolivar St.

To Settle Dispute By Conciliation

Efforts to arrange a settlement on a contract dispute between union and management at the Western Clock Co. have broken down and a conciliation board will be set up.

Earlier this week George Fenwick, conciliation officer from the Ontario Department of Labor, was unsuccessful in his bid to mediate the dispute. So he will recommend setting up a conciliation board.

Local 570, International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL), are the bargaining agents for about 500 Westclox production workers.

They want a wage increase of 14 cents an hour; reduction of the work week from 42½ to 40 hours with an eight-hour day; health plan; union shop, and circulating cafeteria system.

It is understood that management have offered four cents an hour but this is felt to be insufficient by the union. The agreement ended Dec. 1, 1952.

Money Makers

Parking Meters Total Take $177,782

Peterborough's total parking meter receipts to the end of 1952 were $177,782.48, as reported to the council by City Clerk Outram.

Receipts from street meters "since the commencement of operation May 12, 1947, and not including City Square meters," amounted to $160,979.44.

City Square meters, which began taking parking tolls on July 21, 1951, have contributed $16,803.04. These two items together make the total of $177,782.48.

The same statement sets out separately the meter income for December at $2,763.60 as compared with $2,369.27 in the last month of 1951 and $1,896.32 for December 1949.

Meter receipts on the full yearly count were: $31,256.45 in December 1952; $30,594.20 in December 1951; and $26,780.22 in December 1949.

PARKING TICKETS

Parking ticket receipts for December were $527 (527 at $1 each); against $160 in December 1950; and $201 in December 1949.

Here is another item from the City Clerk's report:

"City parking lot tickets (December)—parking violation cards issued, 248."

Vital statistics are given only for births and deaths. The total of marriages has been transferred to Toronto for registration.

Total births for 1951 were 1,715 and 1,810 for 1952, twelve months. December births were 134 as compared with 116 in December 1951.

The number of deaths last year was 535; and 522 in 1951. December deaths were 50, and were 37 in December 1951.

Total receipts in December at the office of the City Clerk were $7,060.21 in the following items: licences, $665.50; police court, $1,604.38; miscellaneous, $680; rest room, $48.15; parking meter money, $2,763.60; City Square meters, $1,298.08; amounting to $7,060.21.

DECEMBER FIRE LOSS

In his first report to the council, Chief J. R. Leonard estimated the December fire loss at $42,355 on buildings and $30,790 on contents.

There is this brief note about himself: "Chief R. Leonard reported for duty at the Metropolitan store fire December 31, 1952, at approximately 11.35 a.m."

Fire loss in November was: $27,667 on buildings and $75,500 on contents.

Total fire loss for November and December was $176,312.

Possibly city council may give some attention to further off street parking accommodation as the year advances.

It probably has not escaped the council's notice that private interests were recently reported as planning a merchandising centre outside the city limits of Kitchener, with stores, homes, theatre and other community details. Probably the more off-street parking space provided centrally in a city the size of Peterborough, the less likelihood of that kind of commercial opposition developing outside the city's borders with consequent loss of revenue to the rather highly assessed downtown property.

Peterborough has been one of the secondary Ontario cities to set up a parking area within a few steps of the centre of mercantile business. It is a facility which visitors expect and particularly those living within easy motoring distance of the city who look to the larger community of Peterborough for opportunities of buying and selling and for diversions and attractions such as theatres, sports arenas, hairdressing and beauty shops and for various other personal services.

Incidentally, all the parking meters have been paid for excepting the last group at the north end of the City Square.

They are installed on a basis of 60-40 of the receipts of which the larger proportion goes to the city for a period of 11 to 14 months, usually, when the manufacturing company is paid off. Revenues are turned in to the city treasury, instead of being pooled for the purchase of new parking property and meters.

The Kitchener report is significant of present day trends and might be anticipated here by the council's purchase of some other central property for enlargement of the parking accommodation.

Tears Printing Ethics Violated In Currie Case

OTTAWA (CP)—George Murray, long-time publisher of a British Columbia weekly newspaper, said Friday he is concerned lest the ethics of the printing trade may have been violated in the acquisition by the CCF of an advance copy of the Currie report.

The Liberal member for Cariboo said in the Commons that he has a high regard for Canada's printers and their high code of ethics. They would learn with great regret of the removal of an advance copy of the report of George S. Currie from a Montreal printing office, as indicated Thursday by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

"If this office is under the International Typographical Union I assure you that I will expect the executive of the union to make a most careful inquiry and to fix on their behalf the guilt in this matter."

FINEST CRAFTSMEN

Canada had no finer craftsmen than its printers. Without them the affairs of Parliament could not be carried on. But if the removal of an official document such as the Currie report which criticized administration of a branch of the army, was to be tolerated, there would be nothing to prevent some printer removing a copy of the secret budget speech on the eve of delivery.

"Under this system, if persons are allowed to use these documents, a certain political or financial group would be able to procure a copy of the speech from the throne hours before it was delivered in this House and exploit it.

"Similarly financial statements of banks, mining companies and other industries would be open to those who would desire to make gain by wrongfully securing news and information in advance.

"And, as I say, official documents of a secret nature between nations would not be safe.

"Therefore to condone this sort of thing is to follow in the best pattern of communism, where the extractions of plans, drawings and documents is reduced to a fine art, as has been exemplified in the recent trials in Ottawa and at Washington where enemies of the country were brought to book on charges of espionage."

FORGOTTEN WAR — Ammunition dumps, fortified positions and a landing strip for scouting planes feature this French command post created for a surprise encirclement of Communist guerilla forces south of the Indo-China Tonkinese delta. Speedy mobile troops(below), landed on the beaches in the Van Ly district, succeeded in trapping rebel Vierminh units operating in the area.

Movie Column

Eddie Cantor Returns To Comedy Hour

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Eddie Cantor, whose monthly appearances on NBC-TV's "comedy hour" were interrupted by a heart attack nearly four months ago, returns to the show Sunday. He says the illness has taught him that the old saying, "the show must go on," is all wrong.

"Whoever said it had to go on?" the pop-eyed little comedian wondered aloud in the study of his home the other day. Around him on the walls were photos of one-time cronies in nearly 44 years of show business — Flo Ziegfeld, Fanny Brice, W. C. Fields, Will Rogers.

"In the old days we went on with a broken leg or pneumonia and a fever of 104. What happens when you don't go on? Somebody else goes on. So why worry about clapping your hands, rolling your eyes and singing 'Susie'?

"It's more important that YOU go on."

LOUD RECEPTION

The other night Cantor faced his first studio audience since the attack and got a loud reception. 'You may be glad to see me," he grinned, "but you don't know how glad I am to see you."

Cantor, at that time, kinescoped an eight-minute taxi-driver bit for Sunday's show.

These are some of the advance-preparation methods by which Eddie now will try to lick "the mounting tension through the week" before a TV show. Where possible during the show, he'll sit instead of stand.

How's his heart now? It's good but Eddie's doctor wants him to cut down on his tours to sell Israel bonds or collect blood for the Red Cross.

He said he's going to try to follow the advice of a fan who wrote him: "Eddie, take it easy. We'd rather see a little less of you over a longer period of time."

SABRES FOR BRITAIN—Norman Robertson, Canadian High Commissioner in London, has turned over these Canadian-built F-86E Sabre jet fighters to Britain's secretary of state for air. They are the first of nearly 400 of the American-designed planes to be delivered to Britain, and flown from Canada by RAF pilots. The ceremony took place at the RAF station, Abingdon.

Jail Fix Jockey For 3 Months

WELLAND (CP)—Johnny Perron 24, a jockey agent named by the Crown as a key payoff man in the 1951 Ontario racing scandal, Friday was sentenced to three months in jail and fined $1,000.

Perron pleaded guilty to being a common-law cheat, but innocent of conspiring. The charges were in connection with bribes which the Crown said Perron paid jockeys to fix races.

At his preliminary hearing in November, former jockey Robert Wankmueller of Newark, N.J., said Perron had given bribes to himself and several other jockeys.

The charge of conspiring was dismissed.

Sentence was imposed by Judge H. E. Fuller, who last June gave an identical sentence to Harry (Swabby) Swartz, 36, of Toronto. Perron gave himself up to police several months later.

The Fort Erie race track scandal broke in July, 1951, when the horse North Drive paid off $17 after beating the favorite Hemjohn. A woman, later identified as Mrs. Swartz, collected large bets on the winner.

Investigations led to the banning for life of jockeys Philip Marches, George Thompson, Wankmueller and John Bromby.

Westwood WA Holds Inaugural Meeting

WESTWOOD (ENS)—Mrs. J. S. Sargent opened her home Tuesday evening to the newly-organized women's Association of St. Andrew's United Church for the first meetin. The Rev. N. Cole was present for the installation of officers: President, Mrs. J. S. Sargent; vice-president, Mrs. Ronald Warner; secretary, Mrs. Wilbert Graham; treasurer, Mrs. Max Brackenridge; parsonage committee, Mrs. Ernest Warner; Christian Fellowship leader, Mrs. Aubrey Wood; group leaders, Miss Marjorie Huffman, Mrs. A. Wood and Mrs. E. Warner.

The secretary, Mrs. W. Graham, read the report of a recent executive meeting when plans for social activities were suggested and discussed. It was decided to hold a crokinole party in the Community Hall on January 30, with Mrs. T. J. Cardwell and Mrs. Hugh Neilson as committee.

Group leader Miss M. Huffman took charge of an interesting program revolving around the theme "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." Mrs. Hugh Neilson gave the scripture reading.

Appropriate readings were given by Mrs. I. Russell, Mrs. Max Brackenridge and Mrs. T. J. Cardwell. The president, Mrs. J. Sargent, closed the meeting with a hymn and prayer.

In the social hour which followed, a "word" contest was won by Mrs. W. J. Breckenridge.

Hostesses for refreshments were Mrs. T. J Cardwell, Mrs. I. Russell, Mrs. Hugh Neilson and Mrs. Max Brackenridge.

Addicts' Ages Range Up To 29

OTTAWA (CP)—Convictions indicate that Canada's narcotic addicts mainly range in age from 25 to 29.

They are located largely in British Columbia, Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Statistics covering convictions were contained in the federal health department's annual report, tabled Friday in the Commons by Health Minister Martin.

The report, covering the fiscal year ended March 31, 1952, dealt with all phases of the department's activities. It said the health of Canadians is continuing to improve and experience shows that Canada's health standards can be brought up to those of any country.

A section dealing with narcotic control said "Canada's addict population during the year remained much the same." No figures were given.

A total of 376 convictions were obtained under the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act during the year ended Sept. 30, 1951.

There were 205 convictions in British Columbia; 80 in Ontario; 58 in Quebec; 17 in Manitoba; 13 in Alberta and three in Saskatchewan.

Only four of those convicted were under 20; most of the others were between 25 and 29. Sentences ranged from six months to seven years.

Three nurses were among those convicted. The report added:

"One nurse and one physician were also convicted under the Criminal Code, on charges relating to narcotic matters."

Abortionist Sentenced To Five-Year Term

TORONTO (CP)—Alec Jacobs, 54, and Henrietta Hertzy, 59, termed by the Crown "a professional abortionist," Friday were both found guilty of procuring an abortion. The woman was sentenced to five years, the man to one year.

The pair was convicted on the same charge in October, 1951, but the appeal court granted them a new trial on the grounds that some inadmissable evidence had been presented.

Old Trails

LIMA, Peru (CP)—Explorer Victor von Hagen and his wife have started a two-year exploration of the ancient Inca highway system. They aim to map a vast area between Peru and Ecuador to find how much of the historic system can be tied into the modern Pan-American Highway.

Appoint Brockington Loyalty Panel Head

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (C)—Secretary-General Trygve Lie Friday announced appointment of Leonard Brockington of Ottawa as chairman of a United Nations loyalty panel.

The panel will assist Lie in dealing with cases of staff members charged with subversion. It was set up in compliance with a proposal by a commission of jurists which examined the status of American employees accused of disloyalty to the United States.

Brockington was the first chairman of the CBC board of governors and now is president of the Odeon Theatre Corporation.

King Technique WouldHaveWon

OTTAWA (CP)—R. R. Knight (CCF—Saskatoon) said Friday former Prime Minister Mackenzie King would have handled things differently if he was head of the government when the Currie report was presented.

Speaking in the Commons, Mr. Knight said Mr. King would have written out a letter of resignation and Defence Minister Claxton would have been asked to sign it as soon as there were reports of "inefficiency and maladministration" in the defence department.

Mr. Knight added:

"Then the late prime minister would have gone out and chopped off the two top heads of the army administration. Then he would have come into this House and made the speech of his life.

"He would have said that he had personally saved this country from military rule. He would have said that no military authority must be allowed ever to have influence on the civic rule of this country.

"He would have saved this country and then he would have done what this government has not got the courage to do. He would have dissolved this House and gone to the country and won an election—something this government knows it cannot and will not do."

Too Tired, 3 Escapees Recaptured In Florida

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla .(AP)—Three escaped prisoners who said they "were too tired to go any further" were recaptured Friday and faced an investigation that may lead to murder charges for all three.

The trio escaped Thursday in a prison break in which one guard was killed and another beaten into unconsciousness.

They were caught 12 miles from the Loxahatchee state prison camp from which they fled. A warning shot fired by police hit one escapee, Thomas George Madden, 35, on the lobe of the ear and creased his scalp.

Madden and his companions, Robert Swyers, 23, and Donald Lee Willis, 21, surrendered.

Arrest Halifax Man In $50,000 Fraud

HALIFAX (CP)—RCMP said Friday night they had arrested John O. Morse of Halifax on a charge of misappropriation of funds, said to total about $50,000, belonging to National Thrist Corporation Ltd.

A spokesman for the corporation identified Morse as a former general manager of the company. He was charged with misappropriating the money between April and November, 1952.

Divorce Court Motion Killed

OTTAWA (CP)—Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre), Friday made his annual move in the Commons to have divorce applications taken out of the hands of parliament. But, as last year, his suggestion got nowhere.

The Winnipeg United Church minister introduced a bill to have the Exchequer Court consider divorce cases from Quebec and Newfoundland, the only provinces without divorce courts.

He said he respected the wish of Quebec and Newfoundland not to establish divorce courts within their borders. But divorces should not be handled by Parliament and the Exchequer Court could be empowered to deal with them in Ottawa.

Mr. Knowles noted that more than 100 divorce bills already have been given second reading by the Commons. Perhaps 200 more would be presented before the end of the session and under the present setup parliament was in effect a divorce court.

His motion was "talked out" by opposing French-language members. Mr. Knowles spoke for about 15 minutes and the other speakers took up the remainden of the hour given to consideration of private members' bills.

Mr. Knowles' bill now goes to the bottom of the order paper and may be reconsidered at a later date.

Canadians Can Get Coronation Seats

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians can still obtain places among the 8,000 seats allocated to Canada along the Coronation route.

State Secretary Bradley, chairman of the Coronation committee of Canada, said today a "good number" of seats still are available, although large numbers of applications are being received from day to day.

A source close to Coronation planning said Canada will get 8,000 seats along the route Queen Elizabeth will take to and from the Coronation ceremony in Westminster Abbey June 2.

Another 500 seats are available in front of Canada House, and 300 seats in the abbey itself are being allocated to members of the official delegation and persons invited by the Coronation committee on the basis of official precedence.

Today's announcement said that applications should be made before Jan. 31 to the Coronation committee of Canada, Department of the Secretary of State, West Block, Ottawa.

CPR Proposal Varies With U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian Pacific Railway proposal for a new means of setting rail rates in Canada is at variance with United States practice, a U.S. transportation expert said Friday.

Not in 32 years has the rail-regulating body of the U.S. set a rate of earnings for railways as is asked by the CPR, Ernest W. Williams of New York told the board of transport commissioners.

Mr. Williams, associate professor of transportation at Columbia University, was testifying for the provincial governments—all except Ontario and Quebec—that are opposing the CPR application.

An earlier witness, Dr. J. C. Bonbright, professor of finance at Columbia, said the "rate base-rate of return" system proposed by the CPR might reasonably be used as one of the factors—but not the controlling one—in determining freight charges.

The two provincial witnesses opposed generally the Canadian Pacific's application to the board that it should be allowed a stated annual return on its net investment in railway property, under which ceiling freight rates might be moved up or down. At present, the board allows freight tolls on the time-to-time needs of the CPR, which it uses as the "yardstick" for railways generally.

The CPR proposal is for a 6½-per-cent yield on a' "net investment" of $1,146,000,000 in its railway property. This would indicate a freight rate increase of more than 30 per cent.

Birthdays Fix Brains Schoolteacher Says

REIGATE, England (AP)—Were you born between June and December?

Then the odds are you're a dimwit, according to school teacher Norah Hines—who has been checking up on her students' birthdays.

She discovered nearly all the bright kids were born in the first half of the year; the dunces in the second.

Her facts and figures so impressed Frederick de Havas, principal of Salmon's Cross school here, that he is carrying out a national survey to test the theory that brains and birthdays are connected.

Some of the famous who would find themselves among the boneheads if Miss Hines' theory became accepted—President - elect Eisenhower, Winston Churchill, Stalin.

Among the brainy — President Truman, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Albert Einstein.

Turn Intellectuals Into Skilled Factory Workers

By IAN FRASER

ESSE, West Germany, (Reuters) —The name of Krupp usually is associated with the huge combine that turned iron into Tiger tanks for the Nazis.

But now, in one corner of the great ruined Krupp steel plant here, the firm is turning opera singers and pianists into lathe hands and the like.

For West Germany is suffering from a surplus of intellectuals and a critical shortage of skilled workers. The lecture rooms and concert halls are not what they were between the wars.

A cold wind of realism and money-making has swept into Germany since the currency reform of 1948 made money difficult to get.

HAVE NO TIME

Most West Germans now are too busy working to have much time left over to go to the opera, attend lectures, or even a night club.

On the other hand, there is a critical shortage of skilled lathe operators, grinders, machine operators and metal cutters for the booming steel industry.

So the Essen labor office has set up a "conversion school" to teach men who have never seen a machine before to grind gearwheels and bore holes in ships' plates.

There example has been followed by several other Ruhr industrial towns.

NEARLY 1,000 CONVERTS

The Essen school has "converted" nearly 1,000 men. Ninety per cent of them surviced the 13-week course and went on into the metal-working industry to earn wages starting at 42 cents an hour.

One little fellow with the sharp features and unmistakeable accent of the born Berliner, applied to be "re-converted."

The director of the school asked him: "What is your profession?"

"Acrobat," he answered.

But the jump from trapeze to automatic lathe proved too much and after a few weeks the acrobat went back on relief.

A man of 30, bending over his lathe, told his story: "I was a pilot. . .since the war, I have sold a couple of radio plays and I am now working on a book. But there is not much money in it and I have got a family to keep."

An older man said that he had been a baritone in an East German opera, but has now given up hope of getting back to his art. "I want to learn something complicated," he said.

YOUR VOICE—Do you catch an echo of your voice when your small daughter tucks her dolly into the doll carriage for a walk in the fresh air?

For Parents Only

Much Can Depend On Way You Speak To Your Child

By NANCY CLEAVER

"It's not so much what my mother tells me to do, but the way she says it!" a rebellious adolescent exclaimed. "She orders me around as if I was still a little kid—and then she is surprised and hurt when I get mad!"

Teen-agers are notorious for being critical of their parents. But in fairness to them, some of their complaints have a trace of truth in them. No child, especially one on the verge of growing up, wants to be dictated to in an imperious tone. Mothers and fathers, who realize the importance of a happy relationship with their children, do take care how they express themselves.

The way a person speaks may be either an asset or a liability. The emphasis on a pleasant voice in various "Personality" or "Charm" articles which are so popular in magazines, prove this. The value of the ability to speak in public is shown by the large registration of ambitious young men in various public speaking courses.

Recently an expert on voice production pointed out that a relatively small amount of attention to voice culture by parents and teachers of young children would accomplish more than a much larger amount of instruction and drill at maturity. Helping a child speak correctly and fluently is one of the most important parts of a child's education. The tone a mother uses—the way she speaks, has a very great influence on a man or woman's speech in adult life.

Children learn the right pronunciation of words, their meaning, the correct order of words in a sentnce by copying the adults in the home. A little child who is well, usually has a delightful inflection. A whining voice does not necessarily show a spoiled child. It often indicates a youngster who is fatigued or in poor health. Children look to their parents to show them the kind of voice to use. One small girl said to her mother, "I like to hear you speaking. Your voice is soft like velvet. Mary Lou's mother sounds like the noon factory whistle. She always screams at her."

No mother would feel flattered if she overheard this judgement of her voice! Many mothers should be more careful of the tone which they use. A European visitor declared that women on this continent have the prettiest legs and the ugliest voices in the world. Too many women use too high a pitch, they speak not only in too shrill a voice, but too rapidly. The result is indistinctness and poor enunciation. Monotony in speech comes from using one tone almost all the time with little variation. There should be contrast of occasional higher and lower tones.

If a recording machine was used in your home on an ordinary day, would you be proud of the record of your speech? Perhaps you would be surprised, and even a bit perturbed by the sound of your voice! Would it by any chance, fit Shakespeare's words, "Her voice was very soft, gentle and low, an excellent thing in woman."? Do you catch an echo of your own voice as you watch your small daughter tuck her dolly into the doll carriage for a walk in the fresh air?

Commend Airman For Quick Thinking

NORTH LUFFENHAM, England (CP)—LAC D. S. Beach of Trossachs, Sask., has been commended by letter for the "quick thinking and prompt action" that saved a life more than a year ago.

Beach shut off the engine switch of an RCAF Sabre jet fighter when a fellow airman was sucked into t air intake vent at Renfrew, Scotland. Another airman hauled the victim out alive.

Beach's letter was received from Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, chief of the RCAF air staff. The other rescuer, LAC Roland Gelinas, now stationed at St. Hubert, Que., earlier received the British Empire Medal.

Rather Operate River Boats Drive In City

CALGARY (CP)—A couple of northerners say travelling on northland rivers is easy compared with operating a pick-up truck on Calgary streets.

For Barney and Woods Streeper of Fort Nelson, B.C., driving around Calgary was also complicated by the fact that they hadn't driven in traffic for about 35 years.

The brothers are northern river boat operators. They hadn't been in a city for 35 years when they drove about 700 miles to Edmonton and then to Calgary "on business."

Barney says Calgary "sure has changed some. The last time I was here I remember. . . seeing only one large building. I was on my way from Nevada to the north."

The pair operate two river boats on the Liard and Mackenzie rivers, travelling each year to Aklavik and other far northern points with supplies hauled on scows.

The brothers say they've no intention of moving to a city and are happy in the north.

Forbidden In Singapore But Tongs Still Do Business

By WILLIAM PARROTT

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—Tongs, the Chinese secret societies with colorful names and a reputation for violence, still thrive in Singapore although they have been banned for 60 years.

But today ritualistic feuds are not their main business. The Tongs have been taken over by petty racketeers as instruments of gangsterism.

Police say there are about 360 of these societies in operation here today.

The biggest headache to police are the 15 which they list as "troublesome."

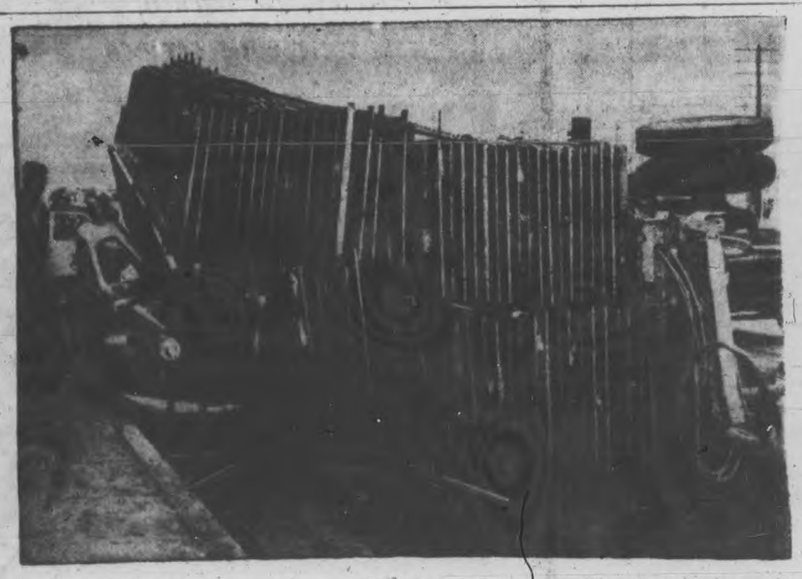
Singapore's modern secret societies are degenerate descendants of the numerous and powerful triads whose roots are sunk deep in the mists of Chinese antiquity.

GOOD PURPOSE

The tongs originally had admirable patriotic and social motives. But rivalries and disorders had already set in when they established themselves in Malaya and Singapore early in the 19th century.

A fight in Singapore between Cantonese and Hokkien societies in 1854 lasted 10 days and resulted in about 600 persons being killed and an equal number injured.

From 1869 onward, legislation was passed in Singapore aimed at suppressing the secret societies. But they clung tenaciously to life.



Today, the societies are little more than gangs of toughs, drawing their membership almost entirely from the uneducated, and carrying out extortion as their chief activity.

PROTECTION RACKETS

Through protection rackets, they prey on coffee shops, small stores, hawkers, rickshaw boys, prostitutes, pickpockets, opium dens, gambling houses and the like.

One of the few similarities between today's secret societies and their forbears is in their fanciful names such as "The New Up With Righteousness," "The Upright and Just," "The Eight Dragons," "The Iron Dragon," "The Malayan Tiger," and "108."

But initiates no longer swear horrible oaths in blood and, after watching a white cock killed, agree that "the unfaithful and disloyal shall perish like this cock."

SAVED BY COFFEE — Because he wanted a cup of coffee, Fred Christman (standing left), 54, got out of this car just before it was crushed by a huge lumber trailer in Los Angeles. The seat of Christman's car was pushed halfway down to the pavement after the truck rolled over as it made a turn.

Three Canadian Destroyers Patrolling Korean Waters

OTTAWA (CP)—Sharp patrol action along the bleak Korea coasts and a growing integration with NATO naval forces highlight the 1952 logbook of the Royal Canadian Navy.

The record also shows a steady growth in ships and men.

For the third successive year the Christmas season finds three Canadian destroyers—the Athabaskan, Haida and Crusader—shelling Communist shore targets in Korea, guarding friendly islands and helping to protect carrier forces. It will be the Athabaskan's third Christmas in the Far East.

Across the Atlantic, on another frontier against communism, the carrier Magnificent and cruiser Quebec gave Canada a good record in three NATO naval exercises during the year.

REACH TURNING-POINT

In a year-end review, naval headquarters say:

"The Royal Canadian Navy is looking forward to 1953 as a year in which the long, strenuous process of rebuilding the service after post-war demobilization should show real results."

The Navy maintained a constant force of three Canadian destroyers in the Far East under a rotation plan that saw the Iroquois, Nootka, Cayuga and Sioux take turns this year.

Some 2,900 navy officers and men have served in the Korean war, some for the second or third time.

The Korean patrols have been dangerous, often carried out in narrow channels and shallow waters within easy range of Red shore batteries. The navy's first casualties in Korea came this fall, when three were killed and three wounded on the Iroquois by an enemy shell.

The carrier Magnificent took part in three major NATO exercises in 1952 — Castanets, Mainbrace and Emigrant—and the training cruiser Quebec, commissioned in January, joined her in the latter two exercises.

Byt the end of October the Navy had more than 15,000 officers, men and women on full-time duty, compared to 6,775, five years ago.

Canada's main naval responsibility under NATO is [illegible] against submarines, and [illegible] year saw the launching of the second of 14 destroyer escorts, Canadian-designed to meet the threat of modern submarines.

Britain Lags In Hygiene

COUPAR ANGUS, Scotland (CP) —Experience in one of Toronto's streamlined super-markets convinced Walter Whyte, 51, of two things.

One was that cleanliness is the first essential of any grocer and the other that Great Britain lags "far behind" other countries in hygiene.

So when he opened his own small shop in this Perthshire town in 1948 he quickly earned a reputation as the cleanest grocer in Scotland.

His store, modelled after the Canadian super-market in every aspect except size, is considered unique although efficient.

This is a picture—

but not the full story

UNTIL YOU READ these words you might not know that these girls are nurses . . . Navy nurses . . . and that they have been taking swimming lessons . . . and that the final lesson consists of jumping fully clothed into the water to learn how to swim under emergency conditions.

A picture, a headline, a brief announcement can whet your appetite for news, but cannot satisfy your hunger for the whole story.

It takes words—sometimes many—to satisfy your curiosity about the who, what, when and where of any picture or headline.

Words bring meaning, words bring understanding, words bring news. Newspapers bring news.

Only the newspaper brings you full stories day after day—pictures and sufficient words.

Only the newspaper can bring you the full story as soon as your appetite is aroused. Fast, without delay.

● This goes for advertising, too. The brief message that hangs in the air . . . or the brief headline here or there . . . may indeed have a momentary interest.

But the newspaper ad carries the brass-tacks quality, the urgency of the newspaper itself.

Like a news item, the ad can be examined and re-examined. Can be read any time. Anywhere. Can be clipped and carried in a pocket or pocketbook.

Like the news, the ads themselves have the same important local quality. No other medium can match this quality.

Add to all this the fact that the newspapers reach everybody in town, and you know why the newspaper is the nation's most powerful advertising medium.

The newspaper is always "first with the most"

Jewelled Sweater Easy To Wash But Work Quickly

If you've questioned the washability of sweaters decorated with pearls, rhinestones, or sequins, now being worn with evening skirts, you can be sure of the answer now. They are as washable as plain sweaters.

With these glamorizers, you use exactly the same washing technique that you use for any sweaters. Gentle handling is the secret. Make plenty of rich lukewarm suds and lightly squeeze the sweater through them. Never allow the garment to float around freely in the water, but keep supporting it with your hands. It's particularly important not to lift it out of the water without support, for the weight of the water will pull it out of shape.

A soft-bristled brush can be used for scrubbing soiled necklines and cuffs. Scrub up and down the ribbing, rather than crosswise.

Because you must work quickly, it's better not to let the sweater get too soiled before washing. Rinse in water of the same temperature. At least two rinsings will be needed to restore fluffiness.

Squeeze out excess water. Lay sweater between two Turkish towels and press out excess moisture with your hands.

If your sweater is permanently blocked—a point you should make sure of at the time of buying—you won't have to take special steps to bring back the shape. Otherwise, a wool sweater should be put over a wood or wire drying frame. If you haven't one, you can make one out of cardboard.

Before washing, trace your sweater on cardboard and cut out the shape. Fit your damp sweater over the blocking frame and lay it on a Turkish towel to dry.

Nylon, dacron and orlon sweaters can do without blocking.

Straw No. 1 Fabric For Spring Hats

LOS ANGELES—Straw is the No. 1 fabric for spring and summer, but not just plain straw. Manufacturers have given it new finishes, new glazes, and flecked it with yarn or rhinestone, and metallic brilliance. Contrast interest is achieved by combining straw with velvet and jersey.

With straw so beautiful, trimming takes on less importance. In fact most designers were rather restrained, choosing classic pearls in clusters and patterns in preferance to the veritable flower garden so popular in the past season.

The one flower that stood out almost as an unanimous choice, especially in the larger hats, was the rose. Often a single huge rose was the accent, while other times they appeared in cascades or scattered nochalantly over a wide brim.

John Bethune in 1786 organized at Montreal the first Presbyterian congregation in Canada.

Resort Clothes Now In Stock Good For Summer

NEW YORK — Clothes in the vast category of resort and cruise wear are important and worth keeping an eye on whether we are stay-at-homes or globe-trotters. These are the colorful and original clothes which we'll see in stores from now through February and March.

They are clothes with a purpose. They make us comfortable and happy during relaxed moments, and enable us to play easily when we play. They include, too, the most delightful range of "dress up" fashions for occasions which demand them.

And these clothes, appearing at the time they do, actually forecast things to come for spring and summer. The more expensive collections are trend-setters to be watched for color and style indications. You may see them repeated in low-cost togs this summer, or even the next.

Too, there are winter holidays, cruises to Bermuda, and packaged tours, angled toward the girl on a budget as well as college girls on mid-term holidays. These demand low-cost resort clothes, and designers have been quick to see the possibilities in serving such a market. Those who buy now, with an eye to future wear, are ahead a jump, too. One store estimates that probably half its customers buy resort and cruise wear now for use in spring and summer.

A Little Effort Will Renew Winter Footwear

It is just around this time that rubbers and overshoes begin to look weary and shabby. With a little effort however, they can be given a new lease on life.

An imporant rule to keep in mind is that rubber galoshes and overshoes should be washed with soap and water only. They should never be cleaned with gasoline, kerosene or any cleaner containing oil or grease. If any of these fluids are used they might crack the rubber, wrinkle it and possibly remove the glossy finish. Another thing to keep in mind is never to leave rubbers in too hot or cold temperatures. They should be taken off and wiped with a damp cloth immediately after wear. If this is done after each wearing, it will prolong their life and appearance.

Winter overshoes, made with nylon, canvas or velveteen, should first be allowed to dry thoroughly and then brushed off with a semi-stiff brush. They should not be washed with water or oil containing chemical cleaning fluids. When vacuuming the house it is a good idea to go over the inside of the overshoes at the same time. This will help remove some of the loose dirt which accumulates there.

Reconstruction Plan Starts In Korea

By CORLEY SMITH

SEOUL (Reuters)—The United Nations launched in December its long-delayed program for rebuilding shattered South Korea.

By June, 1953, $70,000,000 will have been spent. The full reconstruction job will take about five years.

Delays caused considerable impatience. Nowhere was it felt more keenly than among the UN workers, many of whom have been here 15 months waiting for work to begin.

The UN Korean reconstruction agency was formed on the wave of optimism during Gen. MacArthur's drive to the Yalu river. Intended to embrace the whole of Korea, its program was scheduled to go into effect six months after a truce was arranged.

NO TRUCE

But a truce did not come. As arguing continued month after month at Panmunjom, President Syngman Rhee asked for money and materials so that his government could go ahead with its own five-year-plan in the south.

Military authorities were reluctant to see a long-term reconstruction program launched before a truce was signed in the first week of October when UNKRA's agent-general, J. Donald Kingsley, came to an agreement with Gen. Mark Clark, supreme allied commander, and President Rhee.

It was decided that the main work of reconstruction should be in the hands of the Koreans themselves. But both the military authorities and UNKRA would have a say in what was done

The first stage of the program, from December, 1952, to June, 1953, is ainmed at repairing some outstanding gaps in Korea's economic and social life. While this is under way, plans will be completed for the main long-term program.

Since the summer of this year, four team of experts have visited Korea to survey the situation.

The full reports of these teams will be used for planning ahead into 1953 and later.

Projects for the initial period include a cement factory and a glass plant.

MRS. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, seated in her Morningside Heights home in New York City yesterday, displays the formal gown she will wear to the Presidential Inaugural Ball in Washington, D.C., on January 20. The foamy evening dress, of Renoir Pink Peau-de-soie, is decorated with more than 2,000 rhinestones. It was designed by Nettie Rosenstein, New York stylist who was commissioned to the job by Nieman-Marcus, of Dallas, Texas. The skirt is set on a small yoke just below the waistline, with a snugly fitted bodice above.

MRS. NIXON MODELS—Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, wife of the vice-President-elect, models the gown she will wear at the inauguration. The gown is soft blue-green net skirted, fashioned with long fitted bodice of white patterned brocade.

Slinky Sheath Newest For Evening

For all but the most formal occasions, the choice of an evening dress is almost entirely a matter of personal taste. Those who like separates may indulge their liking. Those who prefer the waltz-length evening dress may wear it, or may have nothing else for evening wear if they prefer.

Added to the separates, the formal, full-length gown and the waltz-length dress in the long, slinky sheath that clings to the figure. Because it's new, it has fashion impact. It looks very different to eyes which have become accustomed to full and floating skirts. But it does demand near-perfection from the figure that wears it.

This figure should be slim, though not skinny. It should be a figure inclined to willowy tallness. Otherwise, this sheath loses its impact and becomes just something else to put on.

We show here two new dresses for a spring evening. The slinky sheath (left) is by Adele Simpson. It's a real siren. A black-and-white abstract print zigzags over pure silk surah that's studded with rhinestones. These catch and reflect winking candle flames or the brilliance of steady light.

The skirt has a modified trumpet flare for easier movement. There's a stole with a loop at one end to slip over an arm. The other end of the stole is banded in black fox. Altogether, this is a dress exacting to wear but high in its rewards for the slim figure.

The waltz-length dress for late day into evening (right) is white straw braid lace over pink taffeta, and over a crinoline. This is strapless, simple of cut, taking its pretty rosy look from its delicate coloring. Designed by Harvey Berin, it has a fairly full skirt and, therefore, is not so demanding of the figure.

Ski Patrol Looks After Skiers' Scrapes, Injuries

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's glistening snows and tangy air will lure some 100,000 skiers this winter from their air-conditioned offices, busy shops and bustling factories.

Most will be week-end skiers with only a cursory knowledge of skiing and little more than a nodding acquaintance with the obverse side of their picture of flashing downhill runs, graceful turns and breath-taking jumps.

Possibly 500 skiers will be injured. Most injuries will be slight but about five per cent will involve broken arms, legs or even a broken back. But probably no one will die of exposure after an injury.

That's because more than 500 members of the Canadian Ski Patrol Association, equipped and trained for first aid, work voluntarily to prevent skiing accidents and maintain order on crowded hills.

STARTED IN 1940

The association took shape in 1940 with only 50 patrolmen for all Canada. It and the American Ski Patrol in the United States were organized when a New England skier died of exposure after he broke his leg.

The Canadian patrol was founded by Douglas Firth, an osteopathic physician in Toronto who worked with the Canadian Red Cross Society and the St. John's Ambulance Brigade to produce a first-aid handbook especially designed for skiers. An enthusiastic group of amateur skiers joined the embryo association.

Canada was divided into five regions, national and local administrative units set up, a fund-raising campaign established and a long-range safety program devised.

The ski patrol service now includes immediate first aid, treatment of initial shock and transportation to a doctor, free of charge.

Qualifications for the service include an examination in a regular Red Cross or St. John's Ambulance course of not less than 12 hours and then a further eight hours of instruction in first-aid under winter conditions, together with practical tests of skiing ability.

On week-ends, at ski resorts and clubs, first-aid stations are opened early in the day. Teams of four or six patrollers, distinguished by red parkas with a blue maple leaf crest containing a gold cross and the words "Ski Patrol," worn on the left arm, begin a continuous patrol of the area.

BUTTONS PROVIDE FUNDS

Despite the voluntary nature of all work, money is needed for equipment and incidental expenses. Funds for local areas are raised by tag days and solicitation. The association issues a ski patrol button for distribution and sale on a national basis. Sale of the button, bearing the words "The Canadian Ski Patrol—Ski Secours" will, it is hoped, provide the main source of revenue.

The association last year asked provincial and federal government authorities to investigate the possibility of licensing ski tows and tow operators. It is hoped that under such a system the association would be designed the unit responsible for seeing that regulations are met.

The program includes the extension of an experiment last winter at Mont Tremblant, Quebec, where association members were provided free board and lodging and an allowance by the management in return for their services.

FLYING OFFICER AND MRS. DELBERT DUNFORD. —(Duke Studio Photo)

Young Airman Marries

The marriage was solemnized Thursday, January 15th, at Peterborough of Marilyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Windsor of Apsley, to Flying Officer Delbert Dunford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard M. Dunford of Young's Point. The ceremony took place at All Saints' Anglican Church and was performed by the Rev. C. A. G. Spence, for many years minister at Apsley.

The bride wore a grey suit and grey hat and matching accessories and had a corsage of red roses. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. R. H. Trotter, who wore a taffeta afternoon dress and matching hat with green accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mr. R. H. Trotter gave the bride in marriage and also acted as groomsman.

The bridal couple then left to spend a few days in Cleveland, Ohio, and on return will go to Montreal to take up residence while the groom is stationed at Dorval airport, where he has just been posted after returning from Saskatoon.

Cotton Dresses In Demand In London's Fashion Circles

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Surprise of the month in London's west end fashion circles is the demand for cotton dresses.

Attempting to cash in on the sales appeal of styles similar to those worn by the Duchess of Kent on her recent tour of the Far East, a Regent street department store put on a January display of up-to-date summer fashions, probably the earliest of its kind ever attempted.

"It was a gamble," said a representative of the firm. "But to everyone's surprise they are selling freely." Dozens disappear from the racks daily and shortage is already noticeable in several sizes and colors.

EARLY BIRDS

Prices range from £3 to £5, and although money is tight after the holiday spree, customers find definite advantages in buying early. For one thing, they have more choice. British women have long complained that when they want to buy summer wear, it is already a back number.

So, while frost whitened the sidewalks, women bought cottons in the brightest colors. The dark shades suited to cool spring days were passed over for bright pinks and blues, jade greens and brilliant patterns. The preference for color gives promise of a gay summer scene at the Coronation.

Present sales show that British women have gone overboard for the continental favorite—denim—and that close runner-up for popularity, mattress ticking.

The coarse materials that in grandmother's day covered only the bed mattress, gives such 1953 fashions as a wide-skirted dress with big patch pocket, neat waist and off-shoulder neckline collared in white pique. This comes in blue, pink or grey stripes on white and is an exact copy of a dress worn by the Duchess of Kent.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Ponders Keeping Job Or Leaving With Parents

DEAR MISS DIX: My father's business has been transferred to another state, and the family is preparing to leave here shortly. I hate to go as I have a very good position that I have worked up to in the past five years. I am 21 now, and have another good promotion promised for the near future. I have had offers from many people who have room for me, including our pastor and my aunt. I could spend week-ends with my family.

SUE G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: By the age of 21 most young people should be able to make major decisions for themselves. It's always hard on parents when their children begin to exercise these rights, but since such is part of life's cycle, it should be accepted gracefully, provided, of course, that the decisions are not morally wrong.

SOUND REASONS FOR STAYING

You have so many sound reasons for wishing to remain in your home town that I think your parents should agree to your choice. The two deciding factors, in my mind, are that you could spend every week-end with your family, and that you would be in good hands. If you are away only during the working week, they'll really see almost as much of you as if you were at home. It's highly probable that a dose of homesickness will send you off to their new home, but the exercise of your independence will not hurt you. Justify your decision, however, by continuing your rise in business.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I would like to get sewing to do at home, such as altering dresses, etc. Could you tell me how I can go about obtaining this type of work?

E. H. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I know of few kinds of work more in demand than the type of sewing you can do. Practically every family needs mending or alterations done at one time or another, and many women lack the ability, time, or desire to do them. You'd be welcomed with wide-open arms in many households. Contact the cleaning establishments in your neighborhood and ask if they'll permit you to place cards in their windows, specifiying the type of work you want.

Small dress shops would also be good prospects. A sign in the window of your own home, if permitted, will be helpful as would a notice posted on the bulletin board of an organization employing a number of women. In your locality there are many such firms, and I'm sure they'd be cooperative enough to render you this courtesy.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A very good friend of mine is having difficulty with her hair. She is 75 years old, lives alone and has no one to help her. Consequently, her hair, of which she has always been quite proud, has been neglected and is now woefully matted. She can't comb it and has now reached the point where she just puts hairpins in it. She doesn't want to have it cut, but perhaps can be persuaded to do so.

ALLIE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Certainly the only satisfactory solution, as well as the obvious one, is to have your friend's hair cut short. Have it done by an experienced operator, then perhaps you or some other kind neighbor will give the lady a home permanent, if her hair isn't naturally wavy. Short hair, well kept, is surely more attractive than long, uncared-for locks.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For the past few weeks I've been going with Phil. By our third date he was telling everyone we were going steady without consulting me. I told him that since I am only 18 and am not in love with him, I didn't want to go steady. He agreed, but has been very bossy on our date. He knows my sorority is having a dance, and informed me that he wanted me to take him. I feel that he is too officious, and I'd prefer going with someone else. My mother likes him, however, and thinks I should take him to be polite.

CAROL

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The young man is an out-and-out bully, Carol, and the sooner you dismiss him from your dating list the better. Tell your mother just what your objections to him are, and I'm sure she'll agree that he's not the boy for her daughter.

What's Right?

A married woman is introducing her mother to a person who would not know the mother's last name.

WRONG: She introduces her simply as "my mother."

RIGHT: She introduces her as "my mother, Mrs. James."

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

QUESTION: I once had a most delicious "Pumpkin Nut Pudding" recipe that I lost during the throes of moving. Do you have it? First you caramelize a bowl. There is a large amount of pumpkin and canned milk in the recipe. Also walnuts. Then you pour into the caramelized dish and bake in a pan of hot water. Served with a sauce, it makes a lovely large pudding. I'd love to get this again. I only made it once but it was wonderful. I really enjoy your column and have had great success with the waffle recipe you published for me. —Phyllis K.

ANSWER: I'm so glad the waffles turned out well Phyllis. I've had fun tracking down this pumpkin recipe. It was familiar to me too, but I had to send to West Palm Beach for it to be sure of the details.

PUMPKIN NUT PUDDING WITH CARAMEL

Make caramel to caramelize bowl: In heavy smooth saucepan or frying-pan put I cup white sugar and stir over low fire until sugar is melted and smoking a little. Caramel is straw-colored. Remove from heat, and pour slowly into caramel ¼ cup boiling water. This spatters, but must be stirred, so do everything at arm's length. Return to fire when you have stirred out the lumps and cook to a rich brown—about the color of good quality maple syrup—this last cooking takes about 8 minutes. For this recipe pour this caramel into a large baking dish, and tip it until the caramel completely coats sides. The surplus runs down into the bottom, but if you keep tipping the dish while you are making the rest of the pudding the coating gets thicker and the surplus in bottom of bowl is less.

MAKE PUDDING

(This is actually a pumpkin custard). Two cups strained pumpkin (canned or home coked), 1 cup soft breadcrumbs, 2 eggs, yolks and white separated, 1 cup evaporated milk, ½ cup water, 1 cup sugar, ½ to ¾ cup chopped walnuts (or cocoanut), 3 tablespoons melted butter, ¼ teaspon salt, 1 tablespoon each lemon and orange juice and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind. Combine ingredients in order given, but reserve egg whites, and beat them and fold them in. Pour mixture in caramel-coated baking dish and bake, standing pan in pan of water, for about 45 minutes at 325 deg. Fahr. Bake until custard is firm. Cool in bowl. Turn out on large dessert plate. Caramel runs down sides of pudding and is delicious.

Three or four eggs may be used if desired.

QUESTION: Would you please send me a recipe for Sponge Candy that does not contain either corn syrup or molases? I have a friend who has moved to Santa Cruz, Bolivia. They like to make and eat sponge candy, but their recipes calls for corn syrup and they cannot buy it there. They have written to me to send them a recipe with all sugar, but my recipe has syrup in it too. I am enclosing several recipes for eggless cakes and cookies. Hope they will be some help to the lady who was asking for them. You give your column such a friendly, homey touch that is often lacking in cooking columns.—Doris G. J.

ANSWER: Thank you for the recipes and compliment. I will use the recipes as I have space. Alas—I'm a failure. I have it from two candy manufacturers that sponge candy cannot be made without syrup or molasses or glucose. If your friends could buy glucose at the drug stores in Santa Cruz they could substitute it, ounce for ounce, for the corn syrup called for in their recipe.

READER WANTING EGGLESS RECIPES PLEASE NOTE

LETTER: Dear Chief Cook: I noted that someone wanted "eggless" recipes because of an allergy. On looking through my Kangaroo Pocket Cookbook I see "Chocolate Cocoanut Tea Ring" (p. 47), "Oatmeal Bars" (p. 134) which we cook, ice and serve as a loaf cake; Chocolate Gingerbread Men (p. 131) (have not tried it) and English Rolled Wafers (p. 137). She could make Shortbread and Matrimonial Squares (Date)—neither of which call for eggs. If she does not have the cookbook tell her to write and I will send the recipes.—Alice S.

ANSWER: Thank you very much Alice—if our reader who wanted the eggless recipes sees this and writes to me giving her address I will forward her letter to you. Let me help you sometime.

Bethany W.I. Packs Bale For Hospital

BETHANY — (ENS) — January meeting of the Bethany Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. T. S. Gault. Minutes of previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Harold Sanderson, and correspondence included letters of thanks from the Ryley family, from Mrs. James Turnbull, Mrs. Emma Kellett, Mrs. T. Malcomson and Mrs. James McKinnon; also a notice from the Provincial President, Mrs. Purcell, regarding the conference to be held at Guelph, and from a tea company regarding a rug competition they are sponsoring for Women's Institute branches.

Many from the village, including the school children have contributed to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, so a very worthwhile parcel of toys, books, etc. was packed for shipping. Bethany folk have a particular interest in the nursery school department of this hospital due to the fact that Miss Doris Muckle, Reg.N., formerly of this village is in charge. This nursery school, begun in 1947, has filled a great need in the lives of pre-school patients in the hospital.

Under the present arrangement Miss Muckle is in charge of the tiny school and with the aid of three nurses in training sees that convalescent children relearn the ways of family life. Following public school, Miss Muckle graduated from Lindsay Collegiate, entered as a nurse in training in the Hospital for Sick Children, graduating in 1942. For one summer she worked with the International Grenfell Association in Newfoundland, returning to Toronto and taking a post graduate course at the University of Toronto Institute of Child Study, going again to the hospital to assume the day nursery duties. Several student nurses are assigned to her each week to learn nursery school technique and psychology.

Mrs. Thomas Jennings had charge of the program and led in group singing. Mrs. W. R. Price gave a very informative paper on the Royal Winter Fair, describing the exhibits in detail and all the work that goes into the planning and preparing for this yearly event which has become world famous.

Mrs. Hope Rayson won the "Bird Contest".

Mrs. T. S. Gault delighted everyone with her description of her recent trip to England to visit her relatives. Accompanied by her two daughters, Mary Rose and Patricia, they sailed on "The Queen Elizabeth" from New York to Southampton, England and returned on the "Ascania". Souvenirs of the journey and pictures taken in England were shown.

Lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. T. Jennings, Mrs. W. R. Price and Mrs. Charles Reynolds.

Mrs. Hope Rayson voiced the thanks of the ladies to Mrs. Gault for the use of her home and her interesting talk.

6—In Memoriam

BOOTH—In loving memory of Henry Edward Booth, who died January 17, 1942

O, God, what a weight of sorrow
Your face we cannot see
But let this little token
Tell that we still remember thee.
—Ever remembered by his daughter, Mrs. M. Kelly.

COLEMAN—In loving memory of Mr. Albert Coleman, who passed away January 15, 1950

We often sit and think of him when we are all alone.
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak, when all other things decay,
Our love for him will still keep green and never fade away.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

HUGGINS—In loving memory of Mrs. Gladys Huggins, who passed away January 17, 1952

Sweet memories will linger forever,
Time cannot change them it's true,
Years that may come cannot sever
My loving remembrance of you.
—Ever remembered by husband David and children.

ROODE—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Roy Arthur Roode, accidentally killed January 18, 1946.

We weep with grief that one so dear
No more can share our smile or tear
But weep with joy that God has given
That hope to meet again in heaven.
—Always remembered by Mom, Dad, brothers.

WOOD—In loving memory of John C. Wood, who passed away January 17, 1952.

He is gone, but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Sadly missed by wife, Elizabeth and family.

Changing Name Doesn't Appeal To Belmont WI

HAVELOCK (ENS)—The main topic for discussion at the January meeting of the Belmont Women's Institute, held at the home of Mrs. G. Smith in Havelock on Thursday afternoon, was the possibility of having to change the name of the branch.

This came about through the receipt of a letter from Anna P. Lewis, of Toronto, director of the Women's Institute Branch and Home Economics Service, which stated that there were other branches carrying the same name and for registering under the Agricultural Association Act it was necessary to have a different name for each Institute in the province. The letter informed the members that their branch would need to be listed as "Belmont (Peterborough) Women's Institute" in order to distinguish it from others of the same name, and suggested that they might prefer to choose a different name so that the name would not be so long.

The Belmont Women's Institute has been organized for nearly 40 years. The members all expressed their reluctance to give up their name.

The secretary was asked to write to Miss Lewis asking for more information as some felt the right to the name should be given on the basis of seniority.

Mrs. Arnold Dafoe and Mrs. Randal Vansickle were appointed to represent the branch at a meeting at the YWCA in Peterborough on January 19 for the purpose of forming a unit of the Canadian Mental Health Society for Peterborough city and county.

Donations of five dollars were made to the Sick Children's Hospital and the TB Association.

It was decided to hold a quilting bee on Friday, January 23, at the township hall, a pot-luck dinner at noon.

Mrs. Keene's paper dealt with the report on education by the Royal Commission headed by Mr. Justice J. A. Hope, Justice of the Ontario Supreme Court.

Mrs. Keene gave nine aims of education as follows: (1) to develop capacity to appreciate and practice basic virtues; (2) to develop the power to think clearly; (3) to develop the talent to understand the views of others and to express one's own effectively; (4) to develop competence for a suitable occupation; (5) to develop good health; (6) to develop aptitudes for recreation; (7) to cultivate characteristics for happy family relations; (8) to develop good citizenship; (9) to develop the concept that education is a continuing process beyond school.

Roy Ferren Elected Head Of Millbrook Fair For '53

MILLBROOK —(ENS) —Roy Ferren of Cavan, was elected president at the annual meeting of the Millbrook Agricultural Society held in the council chambers on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Ferren has taken an active interest in Millbrook fair for many years, serving as director. His special interest has been Percheron horses in which class he has offered special prizes for yearling colts sired by one of his horses. He has acted as judge of Percherons at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

Leonard Smith of Millbrook was elected first vice-president. Mr. Smith has acted as a director of the fair for 45 years. At the meeting on Thursday it was voted that a diploma should be obtained from the department in recognition of his record of long service.

The calf which was born on January 24th, 1952, was an Aberdeen Angus. After winning the silver tray donated by the Royal Bank of Canada, Peterborough, for the Beef Calf Club, it was offered for sale at the Imperial Angus sale held in London, October 8. It was the youngest animal to be sold there and it brought $800.

Mrs. P. I. Bentley was appointed as secretary-treasurer. She had helped her husband before his death for many years and it was felt that she was most capable.

Jay Whittington of South Monaghan, the retiring president, was in the chair until he vacated it for the election of officers. He thanked all the directors for their co-operation which had made last year's fair better than preceding ones. While his two years in office were over, he assured them that he intended to work just as hard as ever for the continued success of Millbrook Fair.

Each director in turn reported good exhibits, and an improvement over previous years. L. W. Smith reported for the Clydesdale section, Roy Ferren, Percherons, J. J. Powell for thoroughbreds and standard breds, Harry Young in Jersey cattle, Stewart Donaldson for Shorthorns, Ted McDowell for Aberdeen Angus and Mervin Smith for Herefords.

The most outstanding increase in exhibits was reported by Leonard McNeil in the Swine Show. Entries had been four times as numerous as in the preceding year and had come from as far away as Hastings, Manchester and Blackstock. Norman Green from the last mentioned had the champion bacon hog.

The secretary-treasurer reported a successful year financially. There was a satisfactory bank balance with only a few small outstanding accounts yet to be met.

Mr. Whittington paid tribute to Percy I. Bentley who had been a wonderful help to the fair for many years serving as secretary-treasurer. He asked all to stand and observe a moment's silence in tribute to Mr. Bentley who had died since their last meeting. A letter of thanks from Willis Hall was read for flowers sent and for asistance given at the time of his father's death on the grounds the day of the fair last June. Gordon Staples, a past president, took the chair for the election.

The date of the 1953 fair was set. It is to be held on Wednesday, June 10th, subject to change if it should be found advisable later.

Leonard Smith and Ormie Larmer were appointed as a committee to look into the buying of the field adjoining the fair grounds which has been used for the keeping of the horses shown in the fair. It is understood that Mrs. Mulligan plans to sell her whole property in settling up her husband's estate, and it is hoped that the board could procure this one field.

Jay Whittington, Lloyd Hooton and J. H. McKnight were appointed as a committee to get particulars about a midway company offering 10 midway attractions including a Ferris wheel.

It was moved that the president, Roy Ferren, two vice-presidents, Leonard Smith and Ted McDowell, and Leonard McNeil should be delegates to the Association of Agriculture Fairs of Ontario convention being held in Toronto February 4, 5 and 6. It was hoped that at least two of these men would find it possible to attend.

The next meeting is to be held on February 7 at 8 o'clock.

Directors elected are: L. W. Smith, Charles Brockenridge, Elias White, Gar Robinson, J. J. Powell, Teddy McDowell, Roy Ferren, Harry Young, John Rickard, Mervin Smith, L. W. McNeil, Gerald Larmer and Harry McCamus.

Associate directors are: R. O. Larmer, John McKnight, Bruce Sargent, Gordon Staples, Stewart Donaldson, Eric Fallis, Ray Kelk, R. Hanbridge, Clarence Johnston, Delbert Olon, Lloyd Hooton, Harold Bradburn, Leonard Henderson, Clifford Hall, Joseph Thorn, Fred Brown, Jay Whittington, R. Staples, Fred Lowery, Percy Hamilton (in charge of school exhibits), Ken Moncrief and Tom McCamus.

Honorary directors are: John James, M.P.; Hon. Major John Foote, V.C., M.P.P.; Dr. John Wright (reeve of Millbrook and Delbert Orlan (reeve of Cavan township)

Walked Across Canada, Man Rejected As Unfit By Army

REGINA (CP)—Thirty-year-old Earl Mitchell, who walked 5,600 miles across Canada in 225 days in 1947-48, has been rejected by the Army as medically unfit.

Mr. Mitchell, a veteran of more than five years in the Army in the Second World War, crossed the Dominion from Vancouver to Halifax.

He walked into recruiting headquarters here recently to volunteer for the 27th brigade. The Army, however, turned thumbs down after looking at his medical record.

Mr. Mitchell got in some practice before starting his cross-country jaunt. He walked 1,300 miles over the Yukon's Klondike Trail from Dawson to Whitehorse and then packed supplies by dog team and lane, for Rev. Jean Renaud, famed "flying priest" of the north. He later worked with a pack-horse train from Whitehorse to Mayo, Y.T.

Then he decided to cross Canada from West to East on foot.

He got several firms to sponsor his hike and set out. He wore out 12 pair of boots on the long walk—they were provided by the makers of a logging boot. He used skiis and snowshoes over most of the prairie.

"Some days I covered up to 48½ miles," said Mr. Mitchell. "I got caught in two blizzards but I managed to get through."

He completed the long walk in Halifax in the spring of 1948 and then got a job with a circus. He toured as far west as Vancouver, and subsequently worked on a ranch at Kamloops, B.C. as a tourist guide at Banff, Alta., a hospital orderly in Calgary and a farm hand.

Born in Brandon, Man., Mr. Mitchell has been travelling since he was 12 years old when his parents moved to Vancouver.

Speculate Wilson May Lose Post In Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican senators today asked President-elect Eisenhower how to meet bipartisan objections to confirming Charles E. Wilson as secretary of defence if he retains his General Motors holdings.

Two possible avenues were being explored around a legal barrier against Wilson's dealing as a federal official with the motor firm, the largest defence department contractor:

1. Possible special legislation repealing present bans.

2. Interpretation of the spirit of the law to show it wasn't meant to apply to cabinet officers.

In New York, Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said he had no comment on the situation or on speculation that Wilson's name might be withdrawn.

Wilson has $2,500,000 worth of General Motors stock and the auto firm holds 60 per cent of the government's defence contracts on a dollar basis.

Chairman Leverett Saltonstall (Rep.-Mass.) of the armed services committee, which put off further action on the proposed Wilson appointment until next Monday, told reporters he wants to discuss the matter with Eisenhower, Herbert Brownell Jr. and Sherman Adams.

Brownell has been designated as attorney-general, Adams as presidential assistant.

While senators were wrestling with cabinet appointments Friday, members of the House of Representatives pulled the rug out from under President Truman's suggestion to ease Eisenhower's income taxes.

Chairman Daniel Reed (Rep.-N.Y.) said the ways and means committee voted to table a bill to allow the new President income-tax deductions up to $50,000 for special expenses.

Both chambers were out of session today.

Martin P. Durkin, to be secretary of agriculture, Friday became the fifth of Eisenhower's cabinet choices to be approved by committee.

Truck Plunges Down Big Drop

BANCROFT —(ENS)—Donald Welsh, 27, Maple Leaf, narrowly escaped death Wednesday evening when his heavy truck left the road and plunged over a 40-foot embankment near his home and came to rest on its wheels only slightly damaged. Welsh, a driver for Wasmund Lumber Products, Maple Leaf, was driving home from work when the accident occurred. Mechanical difficulty on the front end of the vehicle caused it to leave the narrow, icy road and plunge over the steep bank. The truck in its course grazed two trees which prevented it rolling over. Had Welsh been carrying his usual load of lumber the results might well have been serious. As it was the total damage from the accident was a bent bumper and fender. Welsh was unhurt. The big problem confronting him after the accident was the prospect of at least two days work getting the truck back up to the road.

Provincial Constable John Hutchinson, Bancroft, investigated.

Year's Activities Reported To WMS

MILLBROOK (ENS)—St. Andrew's WMS held the first meeting of the year at the home of Miss Maud Finnemore Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Estella Hetherington, the new president, was in the chair. The worship service was taken by Mrs. Wilfred Fallis with Mrs. John Rowland assisting.

Encouraging reports of the year's work were given by Mrs. Arnold Fallis, mission band leader, and by Mrs. John Ridge, who told of the work of the community friendship committee, the supply committee and the Missionary Monthly secretary. Fifty-one subscriptions for the monthly are now being sent.

Mrs. H. R. Edmunds, the treasurer, reported an increase in money paid in over last year. Mrs. David Lunn, last year's secretary, reported an average attendance of 27.

Mrs. Lunn conducted a short memorial service for the members who had died during the year. They were Miss Nellie Hetherington, Mrs. W. A. Reid, Mrs. Moses Sutton, Mrs. James Thorn and Miss Stella Pethick.

The Rev. Margaret Butler gave a presentation of the chapter of the study book dealing with educational work in Angola.

It was announced that the meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial would be held in St. James Church, Peterborough, on Jan. 27, with Mrs. John McKillop, Dominion Board president, as special speaker. Sessions would be held at 10 o'clock in the morning and 1:30 in the afternoon.

Miss Fennemore served refreshments assisted by other members of Group "C".

Help Athlete

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—A cheque for more than $1,700 was presented to Bill Boorman, former defenceman with Lethbridge Maple Leafs senior hockey club who was stricken with poliomyelitis. The fund was raised at a benefit hockey game.

Expect Debate On Report Extended By Several Days

OTTAWA (CP)—The political hornet's nest stirred up by the Currie report is going to hold the stage in the Commons well into next week.

That was indicated Friday as opposition members kept up a rapid fire on the government for irregularities disclosed in the findings of George S. Currie, Montreal accountant and former deputy defence minister, who investigated the army works services branch.

At one point a CCF speaker challenged the government to go to the country.

Progressive Conservative speakers reiterated demands for a full investigation of the defence department which spends some $2,000,000,000 a year. One of them, J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood) said the government appeared afraid of such an investigation.

SCORE GOV'T

The CCF criticized the government for using the RCMP to launch an investigation as to how an advance copy of the report fell into the hands of M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader. Mr. Coldwell is recovering from an illness and has not been attending Commons sittings.

Some big guns are yet to be fired. Agriculture Minister Gardiner has indicated he intends to enter the debate. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, also have yet to speak.

Defence Minister Claxton, whose resignation has been demanded by some opposition members as a result of the Currie disclosures, was unable to attend the fourth day of the debate. He was confined to his home with an infected foot, but his condition is not regarded as serious.

NEW NOTE

The only really new note in the debate was injected by a backbench Liberal, George Murray from the British Columbia riding of Cariboo. He said thefts from the army camp at Petawawa, Ont., were "trifling" beside the "epidemic of plunder and corruption during construction of the Alaska highway between 1942 and 1945."

He said it has been estimated that 14,000 pieces of equipment valued at some $10,000,000 disappeared during building of the highway. Indians and others still were digging up loot along the big road.

Mr. Murray finished by saying that Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, (PC—Nanaimo) had been general officer commanding, Pacific command, during that period.

Gen. Pearkes immediately jumped to his feet.

He said "the Alaska highway was not under the Pacific command in those years."

JUMP ON REMARK

Other Progressive Conservatives immediately jumped on Mr. Murray's remarks. E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) said the disclosures by Mr. Murray showed the record of past Liberal administrations was one of looting and plunder. They showed what had been going on in connection with administration of the defence department.

Mr. Murray said Mr. Currie was deputy minister at the time of the highway pilferings. He was not going to saddle Defence Minister Claxton with responsibility for something committed before he took office.

"This government was in power," interjected George Hees (PC—Toronto Broadview). "It is the same old government, the same old stuff."

R. R. Knight (CCF—Saskatoon) challenged the government to go to the country. He said the government should call an election now to find out what the people think about the haste-before-cost attitude among higher-ups in the defence department as pointed out in the Currie report.

TERRIBLE PRECEDENT

Percy Wright (CCF—Melfort) said it was a "terrible precedent" that Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, chief of the general staff, was permitted to speak out about the report. The general should have done his talking through the minister, but perhaps he did not have confidence in the minister.

The Melfort member also criticized Prime Minister St. Laurent for uttering "innuendos" about Mr. Coldwell. Mr. St. Laurent's remarks sounded like those of a second-rate debater on the hustings rather than those of a prime minister.

Mr. Fulton said when the opposition demanded a full investigation it was accused of trying to make political capital. The army could not be blamed and it was too bad that Canada was not as well served at the top level as it was by its sailors, soldiers and airmen.

The prime minister owed an apology to the taxpayers of Canada for allowing the situation to develop and for failure to take effective action to deal with it.

Rodney Adamson (PC — York West) said the defence expenditures committee should not be "hamstrung" to consideration of the Currie report. It should be free to go into the whole picture of the defence spending to see that the taxpayers got value for their money.

Mr. Macdonnell said all the government members apparently thought they wore halos. It was now apparently regarded as "an act of treason" to criticize the government.

NOT OPPOSED

The government would not be opposed to a full-scale investigation of the defence department if it believed another Currie report would "show a good state of affairs." The only conclusion to be drawn was that the government feared what another investigation might dredge up.

J. A. Ross (PC—Souris) said the committee to which the government wanted to send the ... was loaded with Liberals. Last year the ratio had been almost two to one. Apparently the government was "opposed to a full and proper investigation of the department of national defence."

The only minister to take the floor was Resources Minister Winters. He said replies to criticisms of defence construction contracts will be given when the defence expenditures committee is re-established.

Mr. Winters spoke after F. D. Shaw (SC—Red Deer) said the government had made no reply to his speech of last November urging investigation of construction contracts at Penhold and Namao air bases in Alberta.

STERILE FILLING of gamma globulin is done by girls who wear goggles, masks and hoods to help maintain sterility and also for protection from ultra violet light which floods the room.

IN COLD WEATHER GARB, girls at laboratories place pans of immune serum globulin in racks where it will be frozen solid preparatory to drying. Polio weapon takes three months to manufacture, will be in short supply for some time.

Gamma Globulin Best Hope In Polo Fight So Far

NEW YORK (NEA).— You had better familiarize yourself with the two words "gamma globulin." They may play a big part in your lives. For the moment, gamma globulin is about the best science has to offer you as polio protection.

It's far from perfect, far from complete. For one thing, there's not nearly enough of it to go around. For another, it only gives a child protection for about a month. And, thirdly, even then it's no guarantee — a child still may get polio, although probably not as readily and not as severe a case.

Despite these drawbacks, gamma globulin is a vast step forward. It means that, in the face of an epidemic, doctors at last have a weapon with which to fight back.

Gamma globulin is that part of the blood which contains antibodies. Everybody has antibodies in his bloodstream. They're the substances that your body forms to fight a disease, and they usually last long after the disease is licked.

Most people have mild attacks of polio as children. These are normally so mild that they're mistaken for a bad cold or mild flu. But they're polio, and your bloodstream swarms with anti-polio antibodies.

FIGHT EPIDEMIC

It is only the part of the blood that contains the antibodies — called gamma globulin — that's now given to a child in the face of an epidemic. It is, simply, a transfusion of antibodies. Unfortunately, polio antibodies will only last four or five weeks after being transplanted.

But, during those few weeks, they'll turn back most assaults by polio virus. In an exhaustive test made by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, 54,000 children were inoculated in three scattered cities. Half got gamma globulin, half got a harmless substance. Not even the doctors knew which child got which; only the Foundation knew.

Of the 27,000 children who got gamma globulin, 26 contracted paralyzing polio. Of the 27,000 in the "control" group, 64 were attacked. And the cases were much milder in the gamma globulin patients.

Manufacturing gamma globulin is a complicated, lengthy and costly process. The raw material is whole blood—blood which must be donated by everyone. For this, the Red Cross has taken over the job of collection, utilizing its existing network of blood donor stations.

The actual manufacturing is being done by commercial laboratories, many of which have been making gamma globulin for years, although in much smaller quantities. The serum has been used, since about 1944, as a treatment for measles and infectious hepatitis.

THREE-MONTH PROCESS

From whole blood to gamma globulin takes three months. First the liquid portion of the blood (plasma) is separated from the red and white cells. The gamma globulin is in the plasma, a colorless fluid. But the gamma globulin is in only about six per cent of the plasma, together with other proteins.

The other 95 per cent is called serum albumin, and is useful for transfusions. A blood donor can thus give for two great causes.

Slowly and painstakingly, the proteins are separated by a method called "fractionation." The usual fractionation includes about six separate steps before the gamma globulin—white powder—is isolated. It's then bottled in solution, ready for inoculation.

Actually, the longest part of the production takes place after the gamma globulin is bottled. It goes through eight weeks of careful testing before final shipment.

Partly because of this lengthy manufacturing process, and partly because of the scarcity of adequate manufacturing laboratories, the supply of gamma globulin will be short for some time to come.

One dose, which is enough to protect one child, takes one pint of whole blood. And the Red Cross estimates some 2,000,000 doses will be needed next summer, in epidemic areas alone. Undoubtedly, many more parents will want to see their children inoculated.

So at least 2,000,000 pints of blood will be needed for '53. Even if volunteer donors contribute that much, it is highly doubtful if the laboratories can process it in time. And much of the gamma globulin will continue to be earmarked for treatment of measles and infectious hepatitis, where its usefulness is completely proven.

That leaves a very vague total of anti-polio doses of gamma globulin for the summer of 1953. By 1954, perhaps, there will be enough to supply the demand. But, by 1954, there may be something better.

Norwood Fair Shows Credit $2,906 In Bank

Norwood Fair Board showed a credit bank balance of $2,906 in its financial statement for 1952 at the meeting of members Thursday night.

Bank balance Dec. 31, '52	$2,906.68
Total	$13,449.78

Salient fact in that statement, as it was reviewed by President G. A. Brethen, is the high proportion of income spaded back into agriculture through the prize money paid. In this particular Norwood last year returned to exhibitors some 50% of its receipts.

ONE-DAY FAIR

The gross of $13,449.78 shown in the receipts column is manifestly a lot of money for a one-day fair to handle. Take out the bank balance and the receipts for the year were $10,261.08 against the expenditure of $10,543.10.

Nothing is shown in the statement representing the intangibles, including the new Class B rating.

That was the board's objective last year, and they paid for it without stinting, and along with the official new classification went a new crop of goodwill.

As Mr. Brethen told the public meeting of several hundred people in Norwood town hall the other night, the fair directors will have to consider what is to be done this year, including the proposal of which already much has been heard to extend the Norwood show to two days, Thanksgiving Day and the preceding Saturday.

The risk of putting all their financial eggs in one basket would be considerably reduced by a Saturday program.

Nothing in the statement is shown for the community value of the Yorkshire pig program of last year, culminating on Fair day. One proposal for this year is a show of offspring of these sows in the swine section of the 1953 show.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Samuel Genis Friday was upheld in her right to hang bed sheets out of the window of her suite in the fashionable Beverly Hills hotel. The hotel attempted to eject Mrs. Genis and her husband because of the bedsheet episode. But the court awarded a $7,000 judgment and directed that Mr. and Mrs. Genis be allowed to retain their suite for two more years, until their lease expires.

Sues For Finger

CHEVY CHASE, Md. (AP)—An Ohio congressman sued the owners of a restaurant here for $50,000 damages Friday. Representative Michael A. Feighan (Dem.-Ohio) charged in his suit against the Twin Restaurant Corp. that Mrs. Feighan fell under one of their tables when the chair she was sitting on collapsed. He said in his attempt to extricate his wife, a part of the chair struck his finger and fractured it.

Sharps New Clash Develops Within Labor Party Ranks

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — Political quarters speculated Friday on the possible effects of a sharp new clash involving Britain's trade union leaders and the Labor party's left wing.

The immediate cause was an article in Tribune, weekly organ of the left-wing group led by Aneurin (Nye) Bevan, attacking Sir Lincoln Evans, steel union leader who has been widely regarded as one of the most able men in the trade union movement.

The Manchester Guardian and the News Chronicle, both with Liberal leanings, respectively termed the Tribune article "remarkable" and "striking."

The Tribune story refers to the knighthood recently bestowed on Sir Lincoln, suggesting that the honor has been "well earned" if the union leader has received an undertaking from the Conservative government that it intends to forgo the denationalization of the iron and steel industry.

STRANGE EVENT

"If not—if Sir Lincoln has accepted the knighthood from the same persons who are engaged in defying the desires of his union's members—it is surely one of the strangest events in the history of the labor movement," adds the Tribune.

In a separate article, the magazine talks of an alleged plan by Prime Minister Winston Churchill to drive a wedge between the Labor party and the trade unions. The Tribune claims that Churchill was ecouraged in this by the behavior of some trade union leaders, who, it says, "appeared to be taking the initiative in attacking the political wing of the labor movement."

This was a reference to recent published reports that some union bosses, including Sir William Lawther and Sir Arthur Deakin, are less inclined to commit themselves to a policy of full-blooded nationalization than some Labor party officials.

IMPORTANT PHASE

The Tribune article thus marks what may be an important phase in the long conflict within Labor ranks. These differences came into the open last year and were marked by many hostile statements, from the Bevan group on one hand and from more moderate elements, including trade union officials, on the other.

A truce was reached late last year following what amounted to an ultimatum from Labor leader Clement Attlee that the Bevan group must stop acting as a party within a party. Political writers suggested today that the Bevanites will not easily be able, following the new attack, to refute charges that they have broken the agreement on unity.

Crew Of Nootka Visit Singapore

The Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Armstrong of Trinity United Church recently received a letter from their daughter-in-law in Singapore, telling of a visit there of the Canadian destroyer Nootka.

Their son, Donald Armstrong, is Canadian trade commissioner in Singapore. One of the petty officers aboard the Nootka, Donald Howell of 576 Water St., paid several visits to the Armstrong family while the Nootka was docked there.

Mrs. Donald Armstrong writes in her letter of visiting the Nootka and having dinner with the captain, Commander Robert Steele of New Brunswick.

She remarks that the Nootka's docking in Singapore made everyone there acutely conscious of the fact there is a Canadian Navy. She said she learned it was the first time a Canadian navy ship had ever docked there.

Times Praises Hansard Man

LONDON (CP)—The Times gave its blessing Friday to a Hansard reporter in the Canadian House of Commons, who remained mute even when asked to speak.

In its light - hearted "Fourth leader," an editorial reserved for less serious comment, The Times said many will delight in the Hansard man's "sturdily maintained" silence — reminiscent of the old soldier who, asked who started the war, replied "it wasn't me, sir."

If the shorthand reporters did indeed start making speeches, in defiance of the understanding that they are not to speak in the House while it sits, "they might be tempted to stand for Parliament—and make their own speeches."

The editorial referred to an incident in the Canadian Commons Jan. 13, when a Hansard reporter, John Robertson, maintained his silence even after the Speaker, W. Ross Macdonald, asked him several times to read back some of his shorthand notes. Finally Prime Minister St. Laurent suggested the reporter be allowed to leave the House and send in a transcript of his notes. The Hansard man nodded emphatically and left the Chamber without a word.

Colonel Explains Mistake On Decoration

TOKYO (CP)—A colonel Friday ordered an explanation of mixup that led to award of a Thailand medal to an American soldier who was sure he had not done anything to rate the decoration.

The soldier, Pte. Walter M. Johnson, was taken from the Korean front recently, decked out in a dress uniform and presented with the silver medal by a Thai prince at a spit-and-polish ceremony.

"I don't have the slightest idea why I got the medal," the soldier said later, explaining that in his two months in Korea he had nothing to do with the Thai regiment.

In Tokyo, Col. Edward Farnsworth Jr., top U. S. liaison officer to the United Nations forces, said:

"It's all a mistake — and I know just how it happened."

"You see, some time ago the Thai government sent up a list of about 70 American soldiers it wanted to decorate.

"The list was written in the Thai language, which is a very difficult language.

"We sent the list to the adjutant general's office here, where they keep the records, and the clerks worked on it for some time.

"Now I can't say for sure at this moment, but I've got a pretty good hunch that the medal in question was supposed to be given to some M. Johnson, or Johnson W., or maybe even Johnson Walter.

"The AG probably figured it was this man and no one in the section realized that he had just arrived in Korea. So out went the orders and the next thing Private Johnson knew he was getting the medal."

OTTAWA (CP)—The manufacturers now are vying for Oscars.

Dozens have responded to a campaign by design-conscious consumers and industrialists to acclaim manufacturers with the best-designed merchandise.

The National Industrial Design Committee, campaign sponsor, expects there will be dozens more responding before the design competition closes Jan. 31.

Similar competitions, to judge merchandise for quality of design, have been held regionally in various countries, but Donald W. Buchanan, committee secretary, says Canada is the first to run the competition nationally.

DRIVE FOR SALES

The competition, which opened several months ago, climaxes the committee's long drive to help Canada catch up in the world of designing; to help her capture more markets with eye-appealing merchandise; and to attract Canadian shoppers to merchandise manufactured in Canada.

The competition is open to some 25 products for personal, household or office use manufactured in Canada. Three special advisory committees in Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto will appraise the entries on the basis of form, function, consumer acceptanee and originality.

OSCAR FOR DESIGNERS.—Competition is keen for this circular label which will go to the winners of a competition to choose the best-designed merchandise in some 25 types of consumer items. The competition, first of its kind in the world, is sponsored by the National Industrial Design Committee, made up of Canadian manufacturers, retailers and consumers. Three special advisory committees in Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto will judge the entries.

Judges, representing manufacturers, retailers, design schools, designers and consumers will make the final selections.

Prizes are certificates which the manufacturer can hang in his office and a label which the winner can use in his advertising.

LABEL ON PRODUCT

The label also can be stamped on the product and likely will play a big part in sales.

The label is circular with a large white check-mark crossing it. On it are the figures and words: "1953, Design Award, N.I.D.C. Canada."

The competition, to be held annually, covers such items as stoves, clocks, toys, hobby equipment, luggage, sporting goods, office dictating equipment and lamps.

Plane Shot Down, 2nd One Crashes 12 Men Missing

TAIPEH (AP)—A United States Navy patrol plane with 13 men aboard crashed off the coast of South China Sunday after reporting it had been hit by Communist ground fire. A U.S. rescue plane crashed into the sea after picking up the survivors. A second U.S. rescue plane radioed today it had been fired upon by an unidentified aircraft. Exact circumstances of the fast-breaking developments were not clear, but a welter of messages from rescue ships and radio pickups in Hong Kong and Manila indicated this situation:

Of 21 airmen aboard the two crashed patrol planes, two were killed in the first crash, seven have been picked up by a U.S. destroyer and 12 are missing.

U.S. warships and planes were making an intensive search of the area—about 10 miles northeast of Hong Kong.

DRAMATIC EPISODE

It was the most dramatic episode involving the U.S. navy in the Formosa strait since President Truman assigned the 7th fleet on June 27, 1950, to safeguard Formosa from a Chinese Communist invasion.

Signals received aboard one of the rescue vessels—the seaplane tender Suisun—gave this picture:

1. A P2V Neptune patrol plane on a routine flight parallelling the coast reported it had suffered moderate damage from anti-aircraft fire from the Communist island of Namoa near the seaport of Swatow. It crashed later, sometime before 3 p.m. Sunday.

2. An amphibious Mariner rescue plane from Okinawa picked up 11 survivors of the 13-man crew—then crashed in taking off. The navy reported that Mariner—which had a crew of eight—burned and sank.

3. A second rescue plane radioed tersely: "Trailed by unidentified aircraft and being fired upon." There was no further word.

HEAR WARNING

An American who arrived in Taipeh from Hong Kong Sunday night in a commercial airliner said the plane's radio intercepted some of the messages exchanged by rescue vessels, including this warning: "Don't go inside three mile limit."

The American said he got the impression that six rescue aircraft were dropping flares and that eight survivors had been sighted on a life raft.

Floods Batter Western U.S., 1,000 Homeless

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Flood waters raged through the California-Oregon coastal plains today, cutting a wide swath of destruction as battered communities faced their third consecutive day of storms.

More than 1,000 persons were driven from their homes during the weekend. Two days of torrential rain caused at least 10 deaths, blocked highways and railroad tracks and disrupted communications.

A state of emergency was declared in two northern California counties, Humbolt and Del Norte. Several communities were ordered evacuated.

The main coastal north-south route was under water at a number of places in both Oregon and California. From Eureka, Calif., population 23,058, over the mountains to the central valley, highways were blocked by slides and washouts.

ORDER EVACUATION

Evacuation of Klamath, Calif.—midway between Eureka and Crescent City—was ordered. Its 500 residents fled to high ground as the swollen Klamath river rushed five feet deep through the streets. Residents said some homes were sent floating downstream.

Similar conditions hit the Oregon plains. State police said 112 persons had been removed from farmland along the Coquille river. In some locations the water was up to second-floor windows.

FLOODS BATTER (Continued on Page 2)

Tanks Blast Red Bunkers

SEOUL (AP) — United States Patton tanks crunched over frozen rice paddies on the central Korean front today and blasted Communist bunkers and trenches in the Iron-Triangle sector for the fourth straight day.

Allied fighter-bombers bombed and strafed Communist positions north of the Punchbowl on the eastern front. Pilots reported at least 60 Reds killed or wounded.

The air strikes came after a series of savage infantry fights that flared in the frigid pre-dawn darkness on the eastern end of the battle line. Allied troops captured a Red outpost near Anchor hill and staved off Communist counter-attacks until dawn. Then they pulled back to their own lines.

The Pattons teamed up with the United Nations fighter-bombers Sunday and destroyed five Red tanks on the central front. Four Red tanks were damaged.

Artillery gunners and pilots caught about 1,000 Chinese in the open above Kumhwa Sunday and reported 260 killed or wounded.

Father Wrestles Bear, Saves Daughter's Life

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A 600-pound black bear escaped from his cage at a zoo Sunday and severely clawed an eight-year-old girl while her unarmed father wrestled the animal to save his daughter's life.

By the time the bear was recaptured the child's face and head bore gashes that required 22 stitches.

Little Priscilla Brown was not considered in critical condition. Her father, zookeeper C. E. Brown, escaped from the barehanded combat unharmed.

The bear began its rampage when Brown opened the cage door to feed it. The animal brushed Brown aside and set upon the girl.

Brown said he wrestled the bear free from his daughter three times and finally tossed her over a fence to safety, then leaped over himself.

The bear was prodded back in the cage by a helper.

Angry At Interference

Adenauer Says No Danger Of Nazis Seizing Power

BONN (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared flatly today that "no danger exists that a Nazi party on the Hitler model will seize power in Western Germany."

The chancellor made this statement to a group of foreign correspondents in the midst of a political storm here, aroused by Allied claims that neo-Nazism is surging back.

Dr. Adenauer commented on the British action last week of arresting seven former leading Nazis suspected of plotting to seize power, and the publication during the week-end of an American survey claiming a significant rise in neo-Nazism and nationalism in West Germany.

The chancellor saw the correspondents shortly before preparing to make a special broadcast to the nation on the subject of nazism.

The 77-year-old chancellor smiled as he pooh-poohed the Allied fears that democratic government might be overthrown here.

EXPRESSE DANGER

But he expressed anger at the contents of the American poll and the U. S. high commission's conduct in making it public before consulting him.

Adenauer said the American findings — based on questioning of 1,200 Germans — were "not a correct reading of popular opinion in the federal republic."

The U. S. high commission said it found in it survey that nearly half the West German people believe there is more good than evil in nazism and that 25 per cent would not care if a new Nazi party tried to grab power.

The survey also found that German youth "seems to be carried away by the appeal of a single strong national party."

In the last year, it said, there has been a "distinct rise in pro-Nazi orientation among the adherents of the Free Democratic party and other rightist parties."

The Free Democratic party is a member of Adenauer's three-party national coalition.

He added that the British arrest of the seven former Nazis and the publication of the American poll had "not created a good atmosphere for ratification of the European Defence Community Treaty."

"I deeply regret these events," he said.

Dr. Adenauer is fighting the political battle of his life trying to get parliamentary ratification of the Allied-Bonn peace contract and the European Army treaty under which West Germany would rearm as a partner of the West.

These bombshell charges about neo-nazism have supplied much ammunition to opponents of the treaties in Germany as well as other treaty-partner countries.

1,000 Rioting Convicts Defy Police

Set Fire To Prison In Pittsburgh, Seize Five Guards

PITTSBURGH (AP) — One thousand rioting convicts, who set fire to Pennsylvania's sprawling western state penitentiary and seized five guards as hostages today defied hundreds of police trying to force them into their cells.

The cursing convicts, shouting for prison reforms, started several blazes in the two cell blocks and prison workshops Sunday night.

Not a prisoner escaped and not a shot was fired.

Warden John W. Claudy waited for an early-morning conference with top state officials before making his next move. He vowed no compromise.

TAUNT FIREMEN

The convicts, huddled in darkened cell blocks of the 76-year-old prison, taunted firemen who fought 2½ hours before extinguishing the inferno. Claudy estimated damage at $50,000.

The rioters freed one of the guards, 58-year-old Frank Daugherty, within a short time after the outbreak started. But they refused to let the others go until their "13 concessions for peace" are met.

The peace demands were passed out in a note to Claudy early today.

The prisoners asked that there be no reprisals against the rioters. They also called for improved food, medical care, longer visiting hours, investigation into operation of the prisoners' fund, better mail service, a "complete change of the parole board" and an opportunity to study law books so they can file court petitions.

Claudy didn't bargain.

NO COMPROMISE

Governor John S. Fine told prison officials there will be no compromise with the convicts. He declared: "There will be no deals. We certainly are not going to let prisoners dictate to us what shall be done."

Claudy said he wanted to prevent bloodshed at all costs.

The guards being held are John Pilatic, 35; Joseph Guerra, 26; James Poole, 26, and Edward Ament, 42.

A note passed from one cell block, signed by Guerra and Poole, said both men were all right but

Tourist Booster F. J. Devine Dies

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Fee J. Devine, 56, one of Northern Ontario's best known tourist outfitters, died of a heart attack early Sunday.

Mr. Devine was known to thousands of United States tourists both as a business man and a personal friend.

He was described in 1949 by D. Leo Dolan, director of the federal bureau of travel and publicity, as "the best promoter of the tourist industry in the Dominion."

A director of the Sault Chamber of Commerce for more than 20 years, Mr. Devine served at various times on a number of international committees as a representative of the local chamber.

His widow and two children survive.

The funeral will be held Wednesday morning from the Church of the Precious Blood.

5 Hockey Players Hurt In Car Crash

BRONTE, Ont. (CP) — Five hockey players and their assistant coach from Malvern Collegiate, Toronto, were injured Sunday night when their auto crashed into a tree on the boulevard of the Queen Elizabeth way, near here.

The car, driven by John Stulac, 29, the school's physical training instructor, skidded on a patch of ice and went out of control, police said. Stulac said he was travelling about 35 miles an hour.

Treated at Oakville Hospital were Robert Pezzack, 18, Ian Kingston, 18, Harry Farro, 17, David Harris, 17, Jack Gregory and Stulac. None was seriously injured.

The players were returning from Buffalo where they defeated St. Nichols' high school 5-1 Friday night.

CITY'S SANDING SQUADS put in 77 man hours on Saturday night and Sunday to combat Saturday night's ice storm and make city streets and sidewalks safe for driving and walking. They spread 90 tons of sand Saturday night on roadways—bus routes, ambulance routes to hospitals and all the steep hills—and hand-spread 12 tons on Sunday on sidewalks. Today six trucks are busy and will continue sanding until the city streets and sidewalks are safe.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Reject Sask. Irrigation Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—A royal commission has rejected as currently uneconomical the proposed erection of a giant $250,000,000 irrigation and power project in the Saskatchewan dust bowl. Instead, it recommended that the federal government consider a chain of smaller and less-costly Prairie irrigation schemes, coupled with a realistic and farsighted provincial-federal program to use the 1,000-mile-long Saskatchewan river for the best interests of all Canada. The commission's 440-page 150,000 word report, product of a year-long study of a controversial political and economic issue, was tabled in the Commons today by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The commission's 440-page 150,-000-word report, product of a year-long study of a controversial political and economic issue, was tabled in the Commons today by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

It recommended:

1. Postponing construction of the South Saskatchewan river project, including a proposed mile-and-a-half-wide dam 70 miles south of Saskatoon and a 135-mile-long artificial lake sweeping back to the Alberta border.

2. Review of the project as possible relief for unemployment in time of depression or when the area becomes so heavily populated that big markets for high-priced food products may make the project profitable.

LONG-RANGE PROGRAM

3. Development "without delay" of a comprehensive, long - range program for the most beneficial use of the Saskatchewan river from its headwaters in the Rocky mountains and Montana to Lake Winnipeg in Manitoba and through the Nelson river to Hudson Bay.

4. The federal government should take the lead in developing and co-ordinating the Saskatchewan river basin program and try to resolve legal and constitutional angles involved and the conflict between those who want the river for irrigation and those who want it for power.

5. Water-short Regina and Moose Jaw might be assisted by pumping water from the nearby Saskatchewan into the Qu'Appelle river val-

Plead Innocent To Espionage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former American soldiers pleaded innocent today to charges of spying on U. S. military secrets as members of an espionage ring directed from the Soviet embassy here.

Otto Verber and Kurt Ponger, who were arrested in Vienna last week, entered their pleas before U. S. Judge Alexander Holtzoff, who set their trial for March 2.

Oran H. Waterman, justice department lawyer, suggested a later trial date, saying he anticipated there might be a new indictment naming other persons. Military investigators have been questioning a number of Americans in the U.S. occupied zone in Austria.

Holtzoff stuck by the March 2 date. He said "the court feels that it is in the public interest as well as the interests of the defendants that a case of this kind should be promptly disposed of."

Verber and Ponger, unable to raise $50,000 bond each, were returned to jail.

Naturalized Americans of Austrian birth, both were studying in Vienna under the GI bill of rights when they were arrested by U. S. military officials last week and flown back here.

$50,000 Blaze

DELHI (CP)—Fire today gutted the Flemish motor showroom and office and three second-floor apartments. Seven persons were forced to the streets of this village about 25 miles southwest of Brantford. Damage was estimated at $5,000.000.

Work Stoppage Plans Halted

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor today announced cancellation of plans for a general work stoppage of its 90,000 members in Quebec province.

Headquarters of the CCCL, which planned the action as a protest against failure to settle a textile dispute at Louiseville, said the step was to taken at a weekend meeting of a special work stoppage committee.

The committee met secretly in Montreal.

The CCCL statement declared that Premier Duplessis' "intervention" by a speech in the Quebec legislative assembly Jan. 14 was the reason for the change of plans.

The statement said the committee considered the "attitude adopted by the premier would profoundly modify the meaning and effect of the proposed work stoppage."

WON'T FIGHT GOVERNMENT

"By adopting, in his quality of head of the government, the cause of Associated Textiles Limited, Mr. Duplessis would oblige the CCCL to engage against its will in a purely political strike whose consequences would be disastrous for the province.

"Such a strike would take on the character of a fight to a finish between the union movement and the provincial government. The general work stoppage which the CCCL had in mind was due to be limited in its duration and to be simply a public protest against violation of union rights . . ."

The statement added that since the CCCL had already achieved "an appreciable part of its goal" of arousing public opinion, the special committee had decided not to follow up a resolution passed Dec. 21 at a general CCCL meeting authorizing the work stoppage.

Plane Lands On Track Misses Packed Train

BERLIN (AP)—A British cargo plane today crash-landed on West Berlin's high-speed intercity railroad tracks, missing a jammed commuter train by minutes and miraculously halting without injury to the two-man crew.

The Silver City airline ship straddled the double tracks of a line which carries 1,000,000,000 passengers daily and came to rest only about three minutes before a loaded train was due at the spot.

Flagmen halted the train in time and the entire system was warned.

Bedridden Father Sends Two Children Out Into Cold To Beg For Food Supply

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A bedridden father of four related today how it felt to send his children out into sub-freezing weather to beg for food.

"When your baby calls 'Daddy, I'm hungry'," he said, "what are you going to do?"

Lee F. Lynch said few welfare agencies had told him "You haven't been a resident of Oklahoma long enough for us to help you."

Lynch said he came to the state from Dallas, Tex., 4½ months ago. He contracted influenza, couldn't work, and his money and food ran out.

So he bundled up Donald, 12, and Eula Mae, 9, handed them a note, and sent them to neighborhood grocery stores. The note told of the family's plight and added, "if you see fit to help us, I'll pay it back as soon as I'm able."

The children went to two grocery stores and were turned down by suspicious storekeepers. Cafe proprietor Mary Jo Clanton took one look at the note and the children and called police. Two policemen accompanied Donald and Eula Mae home and found the note was no hoax. They radioed for help.

Miss Clanton fed the children sandwiches and sent boxes of groceries. Police tipped county welfare agencies and church groups and the groceries started pouring in.

Recluse, Son Die From Fumes, Hid $24,000 Cash

TORONTO (CP)—John Laughlin Jr., 62-year-old son of a 104-year-old millionaire recluse died today from the effects of gas which killed his father. The two were found in a rubbish-littered house where police discovered an estimated $2,000,000 in real estate deeds and more than $24,000 in cash scattered about the dwelling.

The father, John Laughlin, who built a small construction company into a fortune, was found dead, an accidental victim of cooking gas, Sunday.

The elder Laughlin's body was found in a tiny upstairs bedroom crammed with dusty ancient furniture and forgotten junk.

The son was unconscious in another bedroom. He was revived and taken to hospital but died today.

THINK SWEATER CAUGHT

Police theorized the old man, who had a habit of leaning against the old-fashioned kitchen gas range had accidentally caught his sweater on a tap and unknowing turned on the gas.

The money — in coins and bills up to $50 — was discovered stuffed in toes of old shoes, tobacco tins, drawers, paper bags and in wooden barrels in the basement. It totalled $24,589.84.

The son, graduate lawyer and one-time specialist in real - estate law, retired from practice in 1942 because of ill health.

The accident was discovered by Edward Kleme, manager of the Laughlin estate, after no one answered the door.

SEES JETS OPEN

Kleme arrived at the house to visit the two men. Unable to get any answer, he looked into the kitchen at the rear and noticed the two open jets on the stove.

He crawled through a basement window and made his way through a tangle of junk to the upstairs. He opened all windows and called the fire department.

Firemen worked over the younger Laughlin for 20 minutes before he recovered consciousness

The elder Laughlin was dead when firemen arrived. His bedroom was directly over the kitchen.

Details of the victim's wealth were not known until the official investigation began.

Police found calendars dating back to 1932 on the walls. In the living room were two rocking chairs and an old upright piano, covered with dusty and yellowed

Canadian Soldiers Wave Coronation Role

OTTAWA (CP) — Veterans of Korea, both those now back home and those at the front, are expected to have a big role in Canada's military contingent for the Coronation in June.

The 1st Commonwealth division said today in Korea that men from each of its component units, including the 25th Canadian brigade, will go to London.

In addition, Canada is planning to send a military group from her own shores which will number in the hundreds and include members of all three services.

Veterans of Korea will have a prominent place in its ranks. In addition veterans of the Second World War now associated with reserve units will be going, too.

Father Shoots Daughter 16 In Row Over Job

HUNTSVILLE (CP)—The bodies of Alfred Walter Edwards, 54-year-old farmer, and his 16-year-old daughter Shirley were found Sunday in an upstairs room of their farm home.

Police said the man had shot his daughter and then killed himself in the house at Ravenscliffe, 15 miles north of this Muskoka town.

The girl, who lived in Huntsville, as does her mother, had gone home to visit her two younger sisters and a brother. Usually she made the visits in company of an older brother, Myril, who also lives in Huntsville.

Jerry Edwards, 14, told police he heard a shot in the house while he was playing outside. Then, he said, he heard his father shout to go to the home of a neighbor and call police.

HEARS SECOND SHOT

Before he reached the gate he heard another shot. His two sisters, Hilda, 12, and Sheila, 10, came running out of the house. They ran with him to the neighbor's home.

Police found the bodies. The father had been shot through the mouth. The three children were taken to Huntsville.

Police said the father, in the presence of his other children, had asked his daughter to quit her job and return home because they needed her.

Mrs. Edwards has been separated from her husband for several years.

Make Emergency Landing In N.S.

HALIFAX (CP). — A United States transport plane with 60 persons aboard made an emergency landing at Shearwater air base early Sunday with its compass out of order and fuel dangerously low.

The C-118, carrying many ailing U.S. Army personnel, was flying from Germany to Westover, Mass., when it devoloped compass trouble and was guided to the navy's air base by the control tower.

The aircraft sent out distress signals about 6:45 a.m. EST Sunday. Its position was about 190 miles out of Halifax.

The C-118, with only enough fuel for an hour's flying, carried a crew of 10, two flight nurses, three flight technicians and 45 patients, most of them army personnel bound for New York. The patients were cared for at the base, across Halifax harbor, until another C-118 from Westover arrived to take them the rest of the way.

Union Tells Windsor Mayor To Mind His Own Business

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Arthur J. Reaume was told Saturday by the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) to "keep your nose out of our business."

UAW leaders, replying to charges that the union was raiding other unions, said the mayor's statement was an indication that "he has bitten the hand that fed him politically for so many years."

It called Mayor Reaume a "turncoat" and "betrayer" of his former friends. Members of rival AFL-TLC unions were warned they might get the "double cross" if they associated with the mayor.

The statement also criticized Percy Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Council of Canada. It was signed by George Burt, UAW regional director, and Earl P. Watson and Jack Taylor, president of locals 195 and 200 respectively here.

The statement was issued after the mayor Friday told delegates attending the Ontario Provincial Federation of Labor that the UAW was union raiding. The mayor said the auto union guided the TLC union which holds bargaining rights for Windsor's civic employees.

The mayor said the responsibility lay with "a few brass hats who seek only to advance their own interests."

The UAW said Saturday the mayor's charge "will only drive a wedge between the ranks of organized labor."

It also said that "the mayor's statement is not the mayor's statement because we believe that he was briefed. . .by his new pal Percy Bengough. . .If Mr. Bengough wants to challenge the Canadian Congress of Labor union to an organizational fight it does not disturb us in the least. . ."

"The UAW will continue with the rest of the CCL unions to organize plants which fall within our jurisdiction. . ."

Whip Challenge To Topple Iranian Gov't.

TEHRAN (AP) — Supporters of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today beat back a challenge by Iran's chief religious leader which threatened to split the country's dominant nationalist faction and bring down the government.

Bowing to repeated appeals and warnings, mullah (priest) Ayatullah Seyed Kashani withdrew his ban on debate by Parliament's lower house of a bill to extend for another year the premier's powers to govern by decree.

Mossadegh's triumph left unresolved, however, the rivalry between the two old men for control of the government. Continued tension was evident this morning in the tightly-shuttered bazaar section, where both have concentrations of supporters.

The restriction on Majlis spectators was so tight that some reporters were barred from the gallery.

PROTEST OPPOSITION

Reports reaching the capital said Mossadegh supporters had demonstrated Sunday in several towns in the south and closed their businesses in protest against the opposition to him. A delegation of 200 persons was reported en route here from Abadan, site of the big nownationalized oil refinery, to demonstrate for the premier.

The old mullah, who is speaker in absentia of the Majlis and whose support has been a mainstay of the Mossadegh regime, wrote the Majlis executive board today that he still insists the bill extending the premier's power is unconstitutional but "do as you like."

He had written the Majlis Sunday that he would not permit the debate to continue on the bill.

The frantic efforts of legislators to heal the breach between Kashani and Mossadegh appeared to have impressed the former with the gravity of the crisis.

On receiving Kashani's go ahead, the Majlis settled back for more speeches. It granted an hour to labor leader Musaffar Baghale, who last week launched an attack on the government in opposition to the extension of powers.

Kashani's broadcast statement said his earlier letter to the Majlis was "a simple legal warning purely aimed at preserving the constitution" but "some ignorant, ill-informed people" had misinterpreted it as a quarrel between him and the premier.

Mossadegh was reported to have said he was ready to carry the government-shattering issue to the people in a broadcast and call for a referendum to settle it.

Informed sources said Mossadegh had told a Majlis delegation Sunday that Kashani would be going beyond his power as speaker of the house to withdraw any bill from the agenda. The premier maintained that such a move would have to be petitioned by 15 deputies and then voted on.

Kashani's son said his father had agreed to the special Parliament session today.

Declare Trainmen's Strike Would Paralyze Transport

OTTAWA (CP)—A strike threatened by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen would effectively tie up Canadian rail transport, in the view of experts here. Though the 22,000 members of the union are little more than one-tenth of Canadian rail labor, they are placed in such key jobs that it is considered their scheduled Feb. 2 walkout would be as paralyzing as the 1950 strike of 125,000 workers.

PUISNE JUDGE — Stuart B. Ralston, 44, son of the late defence minister J. L. Ralston, has been appointed a Puisne Judge of the Superior Court, Montreal district, effective February 1. Mr. Ralston was born in Amherst, N.S.

The union, whose chiefs announced the walkout Friday night at Montreal over a wage dispute, includes such strategic personnel as conductors, brakemen, yardmasters and other yard workers and train baggagemasters, without whom operations would be stalled.

Even if the railways could use non-union replacements, the view here is that employees belonging to other unions would refuse to work alongside so-called "scab" labor.

LEAVE OPENING

Informants here are non-committal on the question of whether the BRT'S dispute will actually go to a strike. Though the union is demanding considerably more than a conciliation board recommends, observers noted that the union's condition for continuing work is a "satisfactory settlement"—not necessarily the full original demand.

The unions have indicated they are willing to resume negotiations, and Saturday the railways said they will be ready to suggest a date for new negotiations in a few days.

The government has been keeping a close eye on the dispute, hoping it will not again have to go through the compulsory back-to-work legislation of the summer of 1950. However, officials said that up to now the government has made no plans to move in on the union and companies beyond establishing the usual conciliation board procedure.

The labor department was notified officially of the BRT's action by the union Saturday. The union did not suggest government mediation, but the department is ready to set this up if the parties should ask for it.

This procedure was tried in the 1950 dispute after the parties became deadlocked following the normal conciliation. It failed to resolve the fight.

Sleet Causes Many Accidents

TORONTO (CP)—A small ice storm moved across Southwestern Ontario into Quebec Saturday. Freezing rain made roads treacherous and caused scores of minor traffic accidents.

The highways department reported Sunday night that roads are "pretty well normal."

Windsor was the first place affected. Freezing rain, then rain hit the area. In London, there were 20 accidents and one person was injured. There were 22 at Hamilton and three injured, and 12 minor mishaps in Toronto.

The icy road was blamed for a bus-car crash near Rockson, 10 miles southeast of Galt. Four persons were injured, including three passengers who were released from hospital after treatment.

The storm had passed over Ontario by midnight.

"Guerra is bruised up a bit."

As the warden sat tight during the night, 500 policemen kept their spotlights and guns trained on the cell blocks. A police cruiser was anchored in the nearby Ohio river, its spotlight and a machine-gun aimed at the roof of the four-storey prison. A few prisoners went on the roof but climbed back.

Claudy said the riot appeared spontaneous. One prisoner shouted through a window that the convicts rioted because a prisoner had been shot in the foot by a guard. This Claudy denied.

The prison — only four miles from downtown Pittsburgh — was the scene of a mass break last November when 10 prisoners overpowered five guards. All prisoners later were caught.

ley, raising the level of Buffalo Pound lake which feeds waters to the two cities and other communities. The federal government is already committed to help maintain water supply in this area. Irrigation for some 30,000 acres in the valley should be considered.

6. Wherever feasible, pumps should be used to help irrigate lands within reach of the South Saskatchewan in central parts of the province.

DIKING SCHEME

7. A diking and drainage scheme should be undertaken to reclaim 100,000 acres of rich delta land in a triangle west of The Pas, Man., and known as the Pasquia project. This would be the first step in further reclamation of the 4,000,000-acre delta which runs across the border into Saskatchewan. Cultivation of this land would be of "crucial importance" in the industrial and mineral development of northern Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

8. Explore the possibility of extending the Red Deer project into Saskatchewan. The Red Deer project proposes irrigation for some 500,000 acres in an area between Calgary and Edmonton.

9. Study of possibly providing more water on the south branch of the Saskatchewan by diverting water from the north branch above Rocky Mountain House in Alberta, about 90 miles southwest of Edmonton.

10. Study of the impact of current and future irrigation projects in Alberta and Saskatchewan on downstream power production on the Saskatchewan and Nelson rivers. Linked with this is the possibility of diverting waters from the Athabaska and Churchill rivers to help overcome any loss to power projects.

Grow More Food

NEW DELHI, India— (CP)—Prime Minister Nehru told a conference of state food ministers here that the time has come to make a determined effort to end India's dependence on food from abroad. He expressed hope the country would be self-sufficient in food within five years.

Says Claxton Kids People 6 Years

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Korean strife demonstrated the failure of Defence Department policies over six years, George Hees, Progressive Conservative MP for Toronto-Broadview, charged here Saturday.

He accused Prime Minister St. Laurent of "condoning" the entire defence record by his failure to "fire" the minister of the department, Hon. Brooke Claxton.

In an address to Western Ontario's Young Progressive Conservatives' meeting, he levelled most of his verbal darts at defence department conditions as exposed by the Currie report and by Korean warfare.

"For six years Claxton has been simply kidding the Canadian people," he said.

By "condoning" the defence department situation — the suggestions contained in the Currie report concerning conditions in the army works services—he charged that the prime minister "is inviting every other department to do the same thing."

He said the nation owed a "debt of gratitude to George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, for the final formation of a committee to study defence expenditures without which we would not know one tenth what we do now."

Top Canadian Criminal Shot

SALT LAKE CITY (CP)—A man shot fatally while fleeing from police here was identified Saturday as Canada's most-wanted criminal. Police said federal bureau of investigation records identified him as Hugh Kennedy, alias Hugh McIntosh. Kennedy, 35, of Winnipeg and Toronto, had recently been moved up to No. 1 spot on the Royal Canadian Mounted Police list of its most-wanted criminals. Kennedy escaped from police Nov. 27, 1948 while he was on his way from Toronto to Kingston penitentiary to serve eight years for forgery.

He was shot Jan. 8 by a Salt Lake City police officer, George F. La Tulippe, and died two days later.

WANTED FOR QUESTIONING

La Tulippe and officer F. Victor Devenish had gone to the room where the man lived to question him concerning a carnal knowledge case involving a 16-year-old high school girl. The officers said the man agreed to accompany them to the police station.

As they reached the street, the officers said, the man shoved La Tulippe and ran. The policeman gave chase and Devenish said he fired once over the man's head. Suddenly, they said, the man halted and turned to face them. La Tulippe said he fired at the man when the latter drew a gun.

The man died without regaining consciousness and before police were able to learn his identity. They sent his fingerprints to the federal bureau of investigation, in Washington, D.C., which resulted in his identification Saturday as the Canadian escaped convict.

Kennedy took over the top place as Canada's No. 1 bad man from Donald Mickey McDonald, now believed dead.

McDonald, who escaped from Portsmouth penitentiary at Kingston in 1947, is believed to have also met his end in the United States. Police think he was killed by fellow-gangsters for talking too much.

Canadians Lack Information On Own Country

CALGARY (CP)—John Calverley thinks that Canadians in general are not well informed about their own country.

The 21-year-old globe-trotter who has walked across Europe and Canada also said that people in this country "rarely speak of anything but their occupations."

He feels they lack interest in other parts of the country and his remedy is travel. He has an opinion on that, too.

"If you want to travel, then travel at a walk," he told a reporter.

EUROPEAN JAUNT

The Oakville, Ont., youth left his home early this year and went to England. From there he went to Greece via France, Italy, Switzerland and Yugoslavia.

As he hitch-hiked across Europe, he was constantly amazed at the interest in Canada.

"Wherever I went they asked me questions about the country—intelligent questions that I couldn't always answer," he said.

"They wanted to know what system of government we had. They wanted to find out the country's industrial potential and inquired about fishing on the west and east coasts."

Calverley answered as many questions as he could but he decided that when he returned to Canada he would find the answers.

WORKED FOR BBC

After 2½ months in Greece making motion pictures and sound recordings of Byzantine culture for the BBC, he travelled to Halifax and started the trek across Canada.

When he tired of "hitching," he would stop in a village or town that appealed to him, work for a while, study the customs of the people and then hit the road again.

To date, Calverley has travelled from Halifax to Vancouver and back to Calgary again.

BELLEVILLE (CP)—Eight passengers on a Colonial Lines bus escaped injury Sunday when the bus struck a truck, overturning it and shoving it 60 feet along the highway.

The truck driver, Morley Maracle, was taken to hospital for observation but later released.

The coast guard said Allegany on the north fork of the Coos river was surrounded by water.

Coast guardsmen, unable to reach the stricken areas Sunday night, planned another attempt today. Rescues in the coastal area were difficult because of 50-mile-an-hour winds.

The locomotive of a Northwestern Pacific Railroad work train was swept into the Eel river near Scotia Bluff, Calif., by a huge slide Saturday night. Three of four crew members were missing and presumed dead.

Northwestern Railroad officials said 50 slides and washouts are blocking 265 miles of track in Oregon and California.

The coastal areas faced still another storm bearing down from the north Pacific.

Priest Spent 52 Years Working Among Indians

CARDSTON, Alta. (CP)—An 81-year-old priest lives at St Mary's Indian school near here who speaks the Blackfoot language better than most Blackfoot; who knows more about Indians than most Indians and who has dedicated his life to Indians and Christianity.

Rev. Louis Levern has spent the last 52 years among the various Blackfoot Indian tribes in Alberta. He still is active, working among children at the school and in addition spending five or six hours a day in the chapel there.

He remembers the period from 1900 to 1927 when the Blood branch of the Blackfoot tribe had only 1,100 members. Now there are about 2,100 on the reserve.

CAME FROM FRANCE

Born in Lyon, France, Louis Levern heard in his youth of the missionary work being done among Canadian Indians by the Oblates of Mary Immaculate. In 1900, as a man of 29 and a member of the order, he came to Canada.

He moved from Ottawa to St. Albert, just north of Edmonton, and was appointed to the Indian school at Standoff, on the Blood reserve south of Fort Macleod. In 1907 he took over the principalship of the Crowfoot school near Clooney, staying there nine years.

Father Levern transferred to work among Peigan Indians at Brocket in 1916, spending 21 years there until he returned to his present school.

He has seen many changes among his charges, some that he says are good and some bad.

LIQUOR PROBLEM

They weren't as "wild" in the early days as they are today, he says, pointing to liquor as the biggest single evil in an Indian's life.

The elderly priest has seen the Blackfoot gradually give up nomadic life for the more settled livelihood of farming.

The younger generations have gradually changed their ideas of the sun dance from a form of religious expression to an annual feast and get-together.

"Today," Father Levern says, "the Indians spend a month or six weeks of the best time of the year, when they should be on their farms, at the sun dance—and from the dance come trouble and evil."

"It is hard to stop them though, because of the interest shown in them by tourists and other people."

Father Levern says the Indian standard of living has improved, particularly in the homes.

Claim Flogging No Answer To Sex Crimes

SYDNEY, Australia (CP).—The increase in sex crimes and crimes of perversion in Australia has brought on public controversy regarding the lashing of offenders. Some states still order occasional floggings, but New South Wales has not resorted to this form of punishment for 47 years.

Judge Horace F. Markell, who has just retired after 19 years on the bench, says flogging is not the answer to sex crimes.

"Over and over again these men have told me from the dock that something came over them and they simply could not help themselves," he says. "I believe them. Many were so normal and trustworthy in other respects. Where is the good or justice in flogging a man for doing something he couldn't help doing anyway? And will flogging stop him doing it again? I don't think it will."

The answer to sex crimes, says Judge Markell, is to give judges power to order indefinite imprisonment. Under present laws judges and magistrates could do no more than jail offenders for the maximum periods allowed.

But Judge Markell believes in the lash for crimes of robbery with violence. "These criminals have acted deliberately and from motives we can understand,' he says.

"These are nearly always bullies. They don't mind inflicting pain on others but they are terrified of it themselves.

In Hong Kong, fragmentary messages indicated that rescue craft worked throughout Sunday night in hopes of picking up survivors before the tide could carry them to the Communist Chinese mainland.

NO SPECIAL CONCERN

Hong Kong newspapers bannerlined the story, with emphasis on the Neptune's report it had been hit by Communist anti-aircraft fire. However, no special concern was evident in the British crown colony.

In Taipeh, some sources considered it possible that the Communists might have decided to fire on U.S. planes patrolling off the mainland in retaliation for a Japanese warning to Russia not to fly her planes over Japanese territory under penalty of being fired upon.

Grain Elevator Investigation Asked By Labor

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A royal commission to investigate conditions in grain elevators throughout the province was requested Saturday by the Ontario provincial Federation of Labor (TLC).

Special reference was made to the explosion at the Saskatchewan pool elevator at Port Arthur last September when six men were killed.

Cause of the disasters, said the federation, has never been satisfactorily explained, and the 1,500 employees in the industry at the Lakehead are in constant fear of another explosion. The federation added the loss of one grain elevator would seriously interfere with the orderly handling of grain during the rush season

ASK INVESTIGATION

The federation asked an investigation into the methods of cleaning tough and damp grain. It charged the terminal elevators are not properly swept to prevent an explosion's developing into a chain of explosions.

It suggested that a commission should inquire into reasons why recommendations of the National Protective Fire Association in 1945 were never given effect.

HIGHWAY LEAPFROG — Impossible though it seems, no one was seriously hurt in this deadly looking pile-up near Waco, Tex. The Mercury coupe on top of the pile collided with a truck, and leapfrogged onto what once was a Chrysler. Capt. Robert S. Hammer, who was driving the Chrysler, escaped with only a broken foot. James C. Land, top man in the pile-up, was only cut and bruised.

Oshawa Utilities Told To Pay Surplus To City

Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission has notified Oshawa Utilities Commission that it should remit to the city treasury an accumulated surplus of $15,410 from the waterworks and street lighting accounts.

The Commission objects that they did not collect from the city when the utilities deficits were encountered. Manager G. F. Shreve commented that the money Hydro was directing to be turned over to the city could very well have been used by the commission to lay an underground wire system around the new city hall as requested by council.

Custom in Peterborough, Howard Clegg, Utilities accountant said, was just as the Hydro has pointed out to the Oshawa Utilities Commission.

"If we have a surplus the city gets it, and if there is a deficit we bill them. At the Commission's last meeting we received a cheque from the city. It is just regular practice."

At Oshawa "during the time the late Peter Blackburn was city treasurer it was agreed between the city and the commission that no moneys should be passed back and forth, in view of the fact that all the services were then incurring deficits. It was felt that conditions would eventually right themselves and everything would come out on the right side of the ledger. It was said this was the first time the Commission had received such a letter from Hydro."

SCHOOL-DAZED — Students of Pleasant Grove High School in Dallas "fly" a sign from the school's flagpole, protesting their enforced holiday. When the Pleasant Grove school district was abolished as the result of a local election, students protested, said they were afraid that shifting schools might prevent them from graduating.

Students Lack Grounding Racial Heritage

WINNIPEG (CP)—Dr. Andrew Moore, inspector of senior high schools for Winnipeg, says education has become big business and should be handled as such.

Dr. Moore, a mild-mannered man with 40 years of teaching experience, has this to say about high school graduates:

"I don't think the present product of our high school is as well grounded in our racial heritage as the production of 40 years ago."

Putting teaching in Canadian schools on an assembly-line basis with emphasis on specialization has resulted in spoon-fed students he says. Students aren't as fit for life as their dads and grand-dads were because the students are not taught to think in patterns.

Dr. Moore is a member of the advisory board for the provincial department of education and a member of the high school examination board. He also is a representative of graduates on the board of governors of the University of Manitoba.

He says the vast numbers of students in high schools have forced teachers to become specialists and education has become compartmentalized.

"We are not giving to our bright pupils—the ones who will be our leaders—the attention they should be getting," he says.

The solution is better used of money for teachers and smaller classes.

Havelock Church Reports Year Of Progress

HAVELOCK (ENS).—The annual congregational meeting of the Havelock United Church was held in the Sunday school auditorium Friday evening. The Rev. R. G. Newman was elected chairman and Carman Coon, secretary.

Following a devotional period led by Mr. Newman the reports were given, which showed that 1952 had been a record year for contributions and receipts from the various activities.

The Women's Association had another successful year, providing requirements at the parsonage, and giving money to the Board of Managers. Other donations in the report presented by Mrs. Harry Agnew were: Missionary and Maintenance Fund, $50; Fred Victor Mission, $25; Training School, $25.

The Woman's Misisonary Society exceeded their allocation, having forwarded $318 to the Presbyterial treasurer. In addition, a bale of clothing was sent to Korea, a layette valued at $20 was also provided and mittens were sent to an Indian school. This report was presented by Mrs. H. A. Haacke.

Mrs. E. D. Chiles reported for the Evening Auxiliary. This group has an enrolment of 15 with an average attendance of 11. Under the leadership of Mrs. Russell Williams and Mrs. J. Wilde they met their allocation of $90, which was an increase of $15 over the previous year. A layette had been forwarded to the Fred Victor Mission and a large bale of clothing had also been forwarded for overseas work.

On motion by Fred Rogers a vote of thanks was extended to the member of the women's organizations for their work.

The report for the Misison Band showed that under the leadership of Mrs. Russell Williams that the allocation of $45 had been met.

James Watson, superintendent of the Sunday school, gave the enrolment as 110, with an average attendance of 60 to 64. A staff of 17 teachers and officers are engaged in the work of this organization. A picnic was provided in the summer and at Christmas the usual concert was replaced by a supper and party in which the parents participated. The allocation of $60 to the M. and M. Fund had been forwarded and there was a balance on hand of $134.35. The Cradle Roll, under the direction of Mrs. A. Holland, has an enrolment of 44.

YOUNG PEOPLE

The Young People's Union reported a balance of $72 on hand and that a bazaar had been held in February and a pageant was presented in the town hall at Christmas.

Mr. Newman reported for the Havelock-Belmont Bible Society. The collections for this fund from the Havelock-Trent River charge of the United Church amounted to $68.35.

Earl Pollock, superintendent of the Sunday school of Rush Point United Church in the Belmont Lake area mission, said that the school had functioned for 35 days, opening in May, with a total attendance of 648 and an average attendance of 18.5. They had a balance of $57.23 in the bank and their Christmas concert had been a big success, the proceeds amounting to $75.80.

Mrs. Cora Curtis reported for the Devotional and Handicraft Society of Rush Point which was organized last year.

There were 15 meetings held with an average of 39.7 per cent. The handicraft work that was taught included, knitting, crocheting, chenille work, doll making and shell work.

Fred Rogers, clerk of the session reported that Communion was celebrated four times during the year. There are seven honorary members and ten active members on the Session. Seven members were received into the congregation by certificate and three on profession of faith. At present the membership stands at 232 of which 46 are non-resident. There were 16 marriages, 18 burials and 16 baptisms.

$992 DONATED

Mrs. H. Agnew gave the Missionary and Maintenance Fund report which showed that $992 had been forwarded to this fund. A donation of $100 was made by E. C. Pace for the milk fund for Korea which was not included in the M and M receipts but forwarded through "Care". The church treasurer, G. Buchanan, reported receipts of $8,651 for the year.

MINISTER'S REPORT

Mr. Newman said that there had been many encouraging features during the year. During the first week of January, a series of special services were held in the United Church in co-operation with the other denominations of the village; the anniversary services in October were well attended. Other special services were a joint memorial service for the late King George VI; the Easter services; the WMS Thankoffering with Miss Ando of Japan as guest speaker and the Christmas Candlelight service which was one of the best attended services of the year. Several speakers occupied the pulpit on occasions.

James Watson, on behalf of the congregation, thanked Mr. Newman for his fine leadership and work during the year. A great deal of work, he said, was not shown in the report such as visits to hospitals in Peterborough and many other activities.

The organist, Donald Pollock, reported a successful year with the choir and the president of the choir, H. Agnew, also spoke of the work of that organization.

The following officers were elected:

Session (3 years): Frank Pollock, Fred Rogers, Wesley Johnston, Robert Newman and L. Parnall.

Board of stewards (3 years): Carman Coon, Ronald Newton, B. Johnson, J. Wannamaker, E. Stillman and Albert Smith.

Envelope steward: E. D. Chiles; church treasurer: G. Buchanan; M and M treasurer: Mrs. H. Agnew; trustee board: C. Roberts, C. W. Coon, F. Rogers, E. C. Pace, Wesley Johnston and Harry Peters.

M and M Fund committee: R. Rogers, H. Hoard, J. Watson, G. Buchanan, E. C. Pace, B. Johnson and Mrs. H. Agnew.

Parsonage board: E. D. Chiles, H. Hoard, J. Watson and B. Johnson.

Property committee: F. Rogers, E. W. Seeney, H. Thompson, W. Nobes, Sr., C. Roberts, B. Johnson and H. Balfour.

Auditors: Mrs. W. Nobes, S., Mrs. G. Hubbel; music committee: F. Rogers, J. Watson, H. Agnew; organist: Donald Pollock; assistant organist: Mrs. R. Campney; caretaker, Paul Newman.

Sunday school superintendent: James Watson; assistant, H. Hoard.

Salary increases were as follows: Rev. R. G. Newman $100; the organist's salary was raised to $8 per Sunday, an increase of $3.

It was decided to increase the insurance on the church.

Refreshments were served by the Women's Association.

Trinity Church Celebrates 80th Anniversary

Sunday marked the 80th Anniversary of Trinity United Church. Guest speaker for the day, was the Rev. T. W. Hazlewood, B.A., B.A., of Humbercrest United Church, Toronto. Reginald Heal, tenor solist of Timothy Eaton Church, Toronto was guest solist.

Mr. Hazelwood said that churches today were asked to do the impossible. "What other reason are we here for? The impossible can be achieved only through better faith in God and deeper prayer for we have powers in us that we do not know exist and can be brought out, only by prayer."

"In all of us there is the strength to do the impossible. This can only be obtained through prayer and belief in Christ".

A good example of this, he said was the story of, a young mother who was left alone on the farm one day and by chance happened to look out the window, she saw her youngest son, pinned beneath a log. Rushing to the spot, she tried to lift it but found she couldn't budge it. Saying to her eldest son, "When I lift the log, you drag your brother out.

That evening when her husband came home, she told him about the accident and he and the hired man tried to move the log but but found they couldn't even shift it. this proved, he said, that when this young mother saw her son being crushed to death, she found the strength to do the impossible.

"More changes in this world today are brought about by prayer and belief in God. Only Through prayer can we obtain the strength, spiritually; mentally, phyically, to achieve better aims in life.

"Before I touch any food in the morning, I spend some time reading the sacraments and praying with God. For prayer is the key to God's storehouse. We can all do the impossible through Christ who strengthens us."

The congregation and the Rev. Henry Cotton, minister of St. Andrew's United Church, joined in worship with the members of Trinity Church in the evening service. After the service there was a reception held in Trinity Hall.

Truck Assoc. Files Suit Against Railways

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — The Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association and 37 trucking companies Saturday filed a suit in U. S. district court seeking $250,000,000 damages from 31 railroads for what they allege is a "campaign of vilification and slander."

The railroads, which carry 80 per cent of the passenger and freight traffic in the northeastern United States, include the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways.

W. A. Mather, president of the CPR, and Donald Gordon, president of the CNR, are named as defendants, as are the presidents of the other 29 railroads.

ANOTHER DEFENDANT

The suit also names as a defendant Carl Byoir and Associates, a New York public relations firm which handles publicity for railroads.

The suit charges an illegal conspiracy began in May of 1949 to drive the truckers out of business. It claims the railroad presidents hired the Byoir firm to conduct a campaign against the truckers and that the firm immediately embarked upon a "vicious, corrupt and fraudulent campaign."

Failed To Give Room Driver Fined $10

COBOURG (ENS)—W. J. Robinson, Canada Steamship Lines executive of Toronto, was fined $10 and costs when found guilty of failing to give enough room in passing another car.

His car and one driven by W. Samson of Montreal collided on Shelter Valley Curve in Haldimand Township on Christmas Eve. The evidence was that Robinson had taken too much of the road in making the bad curve and collided with the other car.

Mrs. Helen DeCarlo

Pallbearers at the funeral today of Mrs. Helen DeCarlo, 35, of 513 Romaine St., were Bruce McNaughton, Vernon Grady, Joseph Armitage, and Guido, Fred and Rocco DeCarlo.

Mrs. DeCarlo was the former Helen Goselin, daughter of Mrs. Irene Goselin and the late Frank Goselin. She died in hospital Friday after a three-month illness.

The funeral was from her home to Sacred Heart Church where requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. G. F. Sullivan. Monsignor P. P. Butler was in the sanctuary.

Graveside prayers were said by the Rev. G. Gaughan and burial was in St. Peter's cemetery.

Confesses Killing Wife In Mexico

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A Hollywood machinist walked into the police station Sunday night and told detectives he had murdered his wife in Mexico, stuffed her body in the trunk of his car and left the car in a Tijuana parking lot.

Early today Mexican authorities found a woman's body in the trunk of a car in Tijuana.

Detective Clay Hunt said Phillip G. Bruno, 36, told this story:

He separated from his wife, Helen Louise, 28, two months ago and she had filed for divorce. Saturday he picked her up at her apartment and they drove to Mexico.

In Mexico they argued over the divorce. During the dispute Bruno pulled out a knife and stabbed her several times. He put the body in the trunk of his convertible, drove to Tijuana, and abandoned the car.

Lindsay Captures League Lead With 4-3 Win

LINDSAY —(ENS) — Lindsay muskies climbed back into sole possession of first place in the OHA intermediate Lakeshore League standing here on Saturday night, defeating Cobourg Comets 4-3.

The winning goal was scored by left winger Orley Crawford, with a minute and a half left in the game, and his team playing shorthanded. Other goals for the winners were scored by Lewis, Davis and Coombs. Cobourg tallies were by Bridges, Casey and Reeves.

The locals took a 2-1 lead in the first period, increased it to 3-1 in the second and then watched Cobourg turn on the pressure to tie the game midway through the third. Goalie Clark Somerville of the victors put on the best goaltending display seen here this year, as he turned aside 51 of the 55 shots thrown his way by the Muskies. Clare O'Connell in the winner's nets made 33 stops.

Penalties were few in the game as the teams played good hockey throughout. Best for the winners were Coombs, Crawford, Corley and Davies while Somerville, Casey, Reeves and Bridges led the losers.

Ice Covers Highway Drives Take Care

COBOURG (ENS)—Traffic crawled along No. 2 Highway in this area on Saturday night when snow turned to sleet and sheathed the snow-covered road in ice.

It was bad enough to scare even those motorists who speed along no matter what the highway surface is like and coming into Cobourg every car was proceeding at a snail's pace. Some trucks laid up for a few hours until conditions bettered.

A number of cars slid into the ditch along the highway but no bad accidents were reported. Sunday the snow had melted and ran in muddy rivulets along the streets, wonderful weather for the flu and mumps germs that are running rampant in this town.

Little Theatre Group Back From Ottawa

COBOURG (ENS)—Cobourg players of the cast of the Ten Little Indians returned Sunday from the drama festival at Ottawa, very glad of the experience. This is the first year that Cobourg has gone in for any little theatre work since it was interrupted during the years of the last war. The Cobourg Opera and Drama Guild restored the old opera house here to its former splendour and prepared an entry for the drama festival and although the entry didn't win, the Guild feels it has done a great deal, an opinion which is shared by the rest of the community.

SIMILAR TO CHECKERS

Articles in tombs of the Pharaohs indicate a game similar to checkers was played in ancient Egypt.

Mrs. Carl Liebers

Pallbearers at the funeral Saturday of Mrs. Carl Liebers, 74, of 293 Lake St., were Stephen Cadigan, Thomas Ryan, Bert Hamilton, James Brennan, Harold Moher and Jerome O'Toole.

Mrs. Liebers, a resident of Peterborough for 50 years, died on Thursday after a long illness.

The funeral was from the Duffus funeral home to Sacred Heart Church for requiem mass celebrated by the Rev. G. Gaughan. Monsignor P. P. Butler was in the sanctuary.

Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery with graveside prayers by the Rev. G. F. Sullivan.

Arson Charge Delayed

COBOURG (ENS)—Still another adjournment was granted when a 15-year-old lad charged with setting fire to the collegiate here in December, appeared on a remand. The examinations made by a psychiatrist indicated that some treatment along that line might be of value, although the boy is not mentally ill. Several remands have been made in order to make the necessary arrangements in that regard.

Aid Society Head Dies

BELLEVILLE (CP) —William Carleton Lockyer, 52, of Belleville, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, died in hospital Saturday. Born in England, Mr. Lockyer spent 26 years in this district and lived in Picton before coming here. He played a major part in the Belleville Baseball Association's minor division.

Shipyards Busy

DUMBARTON Scotland—(CP) — A record post-war output of 79 ships totalling 450,000 tons was launched on the Clyde during 1952. The tonnage at present costs is estimated to be worth more than £50,000,000.

Textiles Slump

MANCHESTER, England — (CP)— Manchester at the start of the year had 3,000 registered unemployed men because of a textile industry slump, according to the labor ministry. Vacancies numbered less than 600, whereas a year ago there were two jobs for every applicant.

Better Farming

ALDEBURGH, England —(CP) —Suffolk farmers report beet-sugar output is above average. An official of the National Farmers Union said "improved farming methods have led to a steady increase in the crop per acre."

GOP's Make Pre-Inaugural Whoopee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joyous Republicans started a final round of pre-inaugural celebration today in anticipation of the solemn moment when Dwight D. Eisenhower will be sworn in as 34th President of the United States.

From every section of the country they came—top dignitaries of the incoming administration, great names of business and industry, celebrities of Hollywood and Broadway, and cheerful throngs of plain Americans anxious to see Tuesday's historic event.

Eisenhower came in by special train from New York Sunday night. Persons who had gathered in front of Union station applauded as a closed car bearing the President-elect, his wife and close relatives sped past on its way to the Statler Hotel.

There in the presidential suite Eisenhower planned to remain until the hour of departure for the private service in National Presbyterian Church which will open the inauguration program.

TO BRING CLIMAX

Noon Tuesday will bring the climax of the day Republicans have dreamed of through 20 years in the political wilderness.

At that time the man from Abilene, Tex., will take the oath of office before thousands of onlookers in the Capitol plaza.

A three-hour, 10-mile-long parade will follow. Officials estimated a crowd of 500,000 will swell Washington's population.

Following tradition, Eisenhower himself decided against attending any of the public functions until he's actually sworn in.

His happy supporters, however, set off Sunday on a seemingly endless whirl of social activities that won't abate until the last waltz is played, and the last glass of champagne consumed, at the inaugural balls Tuesday night.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

On tap today: breakfasts, open houses and receptions by various state contingents. A Young Republicans' reception at 5 p. m. and, topping it all, the inaugural festival —a salute by the actors, singers, dancers, comedians and instrumentalists of the entertainment world—to be given twice tonight.

Some of the headliners: Adolphe Menjou, Ethel Merman, Edgar Bergen, Hoagy Carmichael, Lily Pons, Dorothy Lamour, Esther Williams, Walter Winchell, Irene Dunne, John Wayne, Allan Jones, Lionel Hampton and Guy Lombardo.

All seats have been sold for both performances, which will be attended by Vice-President-elect and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon and other key figures of the new administration.

Many of these dignitaries got together for the first time Sunday, at a reception for state governors and other eminent guests.

Like the reception held in connection with Herbert Hoover's inauguration in 1929, this was a dry affair. Coffee was the strongest stimulant served.

U.N. And U.S.

When the Rockefellers offered the United Nations the site on which the permanent buildings of the organization are erected, the action was hailed as practical international statesmanship and was generally acclaimed. The decision to locate the permanent establishment on this continent had been partly due to a desire to get away from the old quarrels and tensions of Europe, partly to reluctance to return to the scene of the failure of the League of Nations. Most commentators thought the American site would prove admirable; there were a few who expressed misgivings, but their voices were scarcely heard.

* * *

The recent uproar about the lack of screening of U.S. personnel in the U.N. working staff, however, has led to serious questioning about the wisdom of the present location of the U.N. headquarters. Walter Lippman, rated as one of the most authoritative American columnists, has declared that it is an anomaly, in the kind of world we live in, to have the headquarters "of a universal institution, designed to transcend and include all the diversities and conflicting ideologies of mankind . . . located in the heart of the biggest city of the biggest power" on one side of a world struggle. Mr. Lippmann is not an alarmist; the situation is exactly as he describes it, and it arouses speculation as to whether moving the headquarters to another country may become desirable at some future date.

* * *

Since 1950, the United Nations has been at war with the close affiliate of one of its principal members, and the United States has taken the major part in that conflict. That is an unpleasant situation for everyone concerned. It is difficult for the people of the host country to remain calm and sensible at all times with these anomalies and contradictions reported to them daily and in detail. And it cannot be pleasant for the Russians, knowing that the people of the United States are generally hostile. In short, it is not the proper atmosphere for an institution with the aims and objectives of the United Nations.

* * *

The U.N. and its members are thus suffering from what now appears to have been a colossal blunder. The clarity of vision conferred by hindsight reveals the error of locating the U.N. on the territory of a world power, rather than placing it in a small nation not a factor in world politics. It will be a difficult error to rectify, but a day may come when consideration of a change of location will be forced upon the U.N.

Big Hydro Business

The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission is very big business. Peterborough people get more than an inkling of its size from the towering pylons and heavy power lines which span the district carrying current between the Ottawa valley and Toronto, and from the twenty million dollar Ross L. Dobbin transformer station at Lily Lake. Commission Chairman Robert Saunders gave a Peterborough audience Monday another local indication of the extent of Hydro's business. In the last seven years the Ontario Hydro has bought $22,500,000 worth of equipment made in Peterborough by the Canadian General Electric Company.

The broad story of Hydro's development is told in Mr. Saunders' Annual Report. In 1933 Hydro provided 1,626,292,530 kilowatt hours to industry. In 1951 this figure has gone up almost six times—to nearly seven and a half billion kilowatt hours. In addition to the requirements of industry there has been a large increase in household demands. In 1933 the total Hydro revenue for all energy sold was $33,198,434. In 1951 it was $131,631,675.

To meet the demands for power and to produce this multi-million-dollar revenue, Hydro has undertaken since the war a truly vast program of expansion, now involving a total estimated cost of over one billion, one hundred million dollars. This is apart from the frequency conversion program now being carried out in the 25-cycle "island" of central and western Ontario. This work, begun in October, 1949, will cost hundreds of millions of dollars.

In addition—is there no end to Hydro projects and power?—the Commission will undertake to develop, in conjunction with an American authority yet to be designated—probably the State of New York—the power potential of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

This then is Ontario Hydro—a non-profit organization owned by the people of Ontario. The Hydro of millions of dollars of property and revenue, of billions of dollars of projects and of billions of kilowatt hours of energy. Perhaps the size of Hydro can be best realized among this welter of trailing zeros by getting right down to the basic product—one kilowatt hour of energy. In his Peterborough address Mr. Saunders gave this graphic account of a kilowatt hour, in relation to a working man:

Pumping or sawing, a man can do 1,188,000 foot-pounds of useful work in 10 hours, equal to about 45 watts or the power required to operate one kitchen fan.

Lifting a total of 65 tons up four feet in six hours, the man's power averaged 33 watts, equal to the power needed to operate one heating pad on low.

Hammering all day a man can do 480,000 foot-pounds of work in eight hours, an average equivalent of 23 watts.

Wheeling a total of 51 tons in a wheelbarrow up three feet in 10 hours, the man's power averaged only 12 watts.

Shovelling a total of 25 tons of loose dirt up to shoulder height in 10 hours, the man's power averaged only 11 watts.

A day of hard labour, using muscles for power, is always less work than one kilowatt hour. Hydro supplied Ontario in 1951 with 20,571,220,000 kilowatt hours, and Ontario used them. Fantastic power, but real. It is fitting that a man of Mr. Saunders' energy and common sense should preside over this colossus more powerful than anything mythology could devise, bringing to fantasy his Ontario touch.

Let Us Not Underestimate Russia

Russia is neither a big black bear scrambling through briar and hibernating in snow, nor a land of knaves, fools and illiterate peasants. Before the Communist regime Russia had a long history of culture as well as crudity. Since the Revolutions, whether we in the West like to admit it or not, Russia has advanced marvellously in technology, literacy and production. Russia is on the forefront of the world, industrially, economically and geographically—and some believe, politically. It is well to remind ourselves that in geographical terms, Russia is not remote, bound in a waste of snows. Moscow is no nearer the North Pole than Glasgow is, or Edmonton. Stalingrad is on almost the same parallel of latitude as Paris and Vancouver, the News Letter of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce reminds us.

According to Cyril Ray, who spent eighteen months in Moscow as reporter for the Sunday Times of London, Soviet living standards are rising slowly but perceptibly. Already they are higher than those in northern Greece and southern Italy. For the first time in history every Russian woman can afford perfume and cosmetics, Mr. Ray says. Mr. Frank Rounds, an American expert on Russia who has recently returned from his country's embassy in Moscow reports that the Russians are making "tremendous economic progress. Janes' All The World's Aircraft, published last month, notes that during 1951 "the Soviet aircraft industry is reputed to have produced 22,000 aircraft, one half of them fighters, and 63,000 aircraft engines." American production of military aircraft reached only 900 a month at the end of 1951—less than the Russian output.

It is folly to underestimate Russia or the Russians. If we do, we deceive ourselves and withhold the due that is theirs, a people whose material advance in the last thirty years against really great obstacles, including a shattering war, is as remarkable as the Canadian material achievement in the last dozen years.

Nor should Westerners think that the people are restive, wanting to throw off the yoke of Communist government. Mr. Ray has commented that "Russians feel grateful to a regime which has provided them with luxuries their fathers and mothers never knew—refrigerators, washing machines, motor cycles, nylon stockings, radio sets." Such are not the instruments of revolt. And the country which is making these is also producing great quantities of well-designed heavy machinery and military weapons; a fact of which Western defence planners are aware.

A psychologist in St. Louis says that if a wife serves her husband bad food it may be because she resents him. It could also be because she can't cook.

A realist is a man who stands between an optimist and a pessimist, with a smile on his face and his hand on his watch.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

"SCHOOLS" OR groups amongst composers are somewhat less frequent than in the world of literature or painting, yet there are one or two instances where composers have banded themselves together in order to assert their common viewpoint. I do not speak of the Elizabethan School or the Viennese School, which are modern designations for convenience sake, as these composers did not expressly associate themselves together. They used a similar idiom and thought on similar lines because they happened to live at the same time and in the same place.

◇ ◇ ◇

OF ALL THE groups of composers perhaps the most significant was the Group of Five, sometimes known as the Kutchka or the Mighty Handful. This association of Russian composers under the leadership of Balakirev revolted against the foreign domination of Russian music, first under the Italians, later under the Germans. Glinka, sometimes known as the Father of Russian music, had actually made a beginning, but this was the first organized attempt to throw off the foreign yoke. Balakirev gathered round him a group of ardent young spirits and imbued them with his ideals. He also imparted to them a good deal of his technique, for he was the only member of the Kutchka with a professional training. Of the others Cui (whose works are of minor importance) was a soldier and an expert on military fortifications, Mussorgsky was also a soldier and later a small government official, Rimsky-Korsakov was a naval officer, and Borodin a lecturer on Chemistry with an important treatise on that subject to his credit. It is a handsome testimony not only to their zeal and application but also to Balakirev's inspiring teaching that they were able to overcome the disadvantages of starting late.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE KUTCHKA, as befitted its nationalistic origin, went straight back to the sources of Russian folksong, a reservoir that had scarcely been tapped. In addition they made extensive use of Asiatic modes of musical speech, as if to remind hearers of the vast Siberian empire that Russia had little by little acquired within living memory. Nevertheless they kept the two idioms, Russian and Asiatic, quite distinct from one another. A particularly clear example of the difference between the diatonic Russian type of melody, with its short incisive phrases, and the florid Asiatic melismata is to be found in Borodin's short symphonic sketch, In the Steppes of Central Asia. This was written for an Exhibition and was played as a musical accompaniment to a tableau depicting the meeting of a group of Russians with an oriental caravan on what we might perhaps call the prairies of Siberia. First we have a Russian theme, planted firmly in A major, followed by the Oriental theme. Finally both themes mingle together in double counterpoint (here Balakireff's teaching bore fruit), and they eventually fade away as both parties resume their journeys across the limitless plains.

◇ ◇ ◇

WHEN THE RUSSIAN ballet came to Paris in 1909 Western Europe became for the first time aware of the full achievements of this group, and Tchaikovsky, who at first was hailed as a typically Russian composer was seen as somewhat Westernized. The dazzling orchestration and the insistent rhythms of the Kutchka found a ready response, and when to these was added the scintillating performance of the youthful Stravinsky (before his neo-classic austerities) the musical world of Western Europe lost its head. Thus the Kutchka, which had started as a purely Russian movement, became an important influence outside Russia.

◇ ◇ ◇

THERE IS ANOTHER group, whose present-day importance is apt to be minimized as just an aberration of the Terrible Twenties. The group of "Les Six", formed in Paris around 1920, was in revolt, not against foreign domination, but against the all too powerful influence of Debussy and his imitators. Naturally they could not help being influenced themselves by so original and powerful a genius, just as Debussy could not help being strongly influenced by Wagner, against whom he revolted. Debussy, with his subtle and delicate musical impressionism, had gone as far as it was humanly possible in his search for recondite sonorities. The mine was exhausted, and Debussy himself, racked with illness in the latter part of his life, was unable to point out a new direction. The late romanticism of Schoenberg sicklied o'er with the pale cast of the Twelve Tone System, did not appeal to the French mind, which has always clung to the notion that music is an entertainment that should appeal to the senses rather than an abstruse intellectual problem with transcendental overtones. The war had produced many new movements in art and literature, such as Dadaism and Surrealism, all of a highly experimental nature, and it became fashionable to tweak the noses of the traditionalists. A certain flippancy was the order of the day. Artists cut out pieces of newspaper and stuck them on their canvses; at one exhibition visitors were handed axes for them to use on exhibits that they disliked!

◇ ◇ ◇

THE YOUNG MUSICIANS of "Les Six", realizing that further progress along the path of Debussy was impossible, decided to go in the opposite direction. Instead of aiming at delicate atmospheric effects they went to the cafes chantants and the music halls of Paris. Music, they felt, had become too refined and exquisite and badly needed an infusion of the commonplace and the crude. Some of Poulenc's short piano pieces and songs illustrate this tendency, as also a good deal of the production of Milhaud, both of them members of Les Six. Milhaud became interested in bi-tonality, and in his "Saudades de Brasil" the left hand is frequently playing in one key while the right hand is playing in another. It is noteworthy, however, that he never abandoned the principle of tonality. Honegger, the only other important member of the group (the three others which I have not mentioned previously, Auric, Durey and Tailleferre, are of no particular consequence), gained a good deal of notoriety by his "Pacific 231", a realistic impression of a locomotive in action which I still think succeeds in being good music at the same time.

Unlike the Kutchka, whose members remained in close association with each other for some time, the members of the group of Six soon went their separate ways after asserting their community of views. Today the Bright Young Things of the Twenties have become highly respected composers!

WHERE ARE WE going in 1953? The following extract from a recent programme of the Metropolitan Opera suggests unpleasantly explosive possibilities: "IN THE EVENT OF AN AIR RAID ALARM REMAIN IN YOUR SEATS AND OBEY THE INSTRUCTIONS OF THE MANAGEMENT.—ARTHUR H. WALLANDER, DIRECTOR OF CIVIL DEFENSE."

An American Opinion: ASPECT OF THE CHANGE-OVER

A People Celebrates In Poetry

By CECILY MACKWORTH (UNESCO)

THE VISITOR who crosses the border from Saxon England to Celtic Wales cannot fail to realize that he has entered the Land of Music. Here everyone sings. Song is as natural in Wales as ordinary conversation on the other side of the river Usk. Perhaps this results partly from the fact that life is often hard and austere, and partly because the Welsh are a people devoted to an ancient tradition of song and poetry that can be traced back to the rites of the Druids and the Gathering of the Bards.

This tradition of the Bards has, in fact, never quite died out. Today it flourishes in the form of the National Eisteddfod, a festival held each year in a different town or village, alternately in North and South Wales. All the year long, musicians and poets prepare themselves. The miners of the Rhondda Valley spend their evenings practising in the male choirs that are the glory of Wales; in the high, sheep-farming lands, in Caernarvon and Merioneth, men and women trudge for miles by night from their isolated farms to join in the singing of the great choruses from the Messiah, the Elijah or songs by local composers. All over the country, people are hard at work at the poem—written in the traditional Welsh metre which is one of the most ancient and difficult verse forms—that will perhaps win the supreme recompense of the Bardic Chair. Even the children spend most of the year busily preparing for the junior singing and dancing competitions.

IN 1952, the Eisteddfod was held at Aberystwyth and the little town, as well as the neighbouring villages in a radius of nearly twenty miles, was packed with visitors. Some of them had travelled from Canada, from the United States, from South Africa—for these people are great travellers, given to emigrating, but eternally homesick for their own country. There were the London Welsh too, come to encourage their own choir, and Bretons from France—Celtic cousins, speaking a language sufficiently similar to make themselves understood — playing their eery bagpipes in odd corners of the Castle grounds. The Welsh Guards Regiment were there in spirit too, for they sent a telegram to remind us that they were holding their own Eisteddfod in Berlin.

The Eisteddfod is essentially a manifestation of local patriotism and it is a point of honour that only Welsh should be spoken. Each year there are a few practical minded people to point out that many more tourists would come from England, and some of the Committee's financial difficulties be solved if at least part of the judging were to be in English, but the motion is always voted down. There will always be someone ready with a courteous translation for the visitor from over the border, but the Welsh insist that this festival should remain the living proof of the vitality of the Welsh language.

In the same spirit, preference is given to works by local composers. The Mixed Choir event was won this year by the Skewen Choir, singing Arwel Hughes' Gweddi, while the winning Male Voice Choir was Treorchy (the mining village that is one of the leading centres of music in the country) singing a Welsh version of the Twenty-Third Psalm. On the other hand, the cup for the finest solo voice was won by a farmer from Penmaenfach, Mr. R. H. Rees, with the bass solo from the Messiah, "Why do the Nations . . ."

◇ ◇ ◇

COMPETITORS OF these events know that they are singing before a terribly severe audience. Musical culture here is not confined to specialists or even to the educated classes. It is innate in the average workman, agricultural labourer, miner, and the slightest fault is instantly noticed and commented on. Indeed, one of the most curious things about the Eisteddfod is the violent and highly technical discussions among the public that are to be heard after each item.

The judges of the "Gorsedd" (the group of Bards) are severe, too, and this year they refused to award the Eisteddfod Crown for the best poem in modern metre. There were plenty of other awards, though, for though the Eisteddfod is chiefly concerned with music and poetry, it covers every branch of culture. Mr. O. Roberts, for instance, proved by his collection of essays on biology and biochemistry, that an ancient language, spoken only by a minority, can be adapted for the clear exposition of abstruse scientific thought; prizes were given, too, for the best translations from French, Spanish and German into Welsh, for drama, folk dancing, arts and crafts, etc.

But the great moment, the apotheosis of the Eisteddfod, comes with the Chairing of the Bard. Twenty-thousand people waited this year in breathless excitement for the Chief Druid to name the man whom all Wales will revere, for the next twelve months, as her leading poet. Flanked by the blind, ninety-two-year-old ex-Chief Druid, by the Recorder and the Keeper of the Sword, all in their long white robes and veils; with the green-clad Gorsedd of Bards behind him, the Chief Druid began his allocution. Eloquence is one of the leading traditions here, and a great Welsh preacher must be able to play on the emotions of his audience as a musician plays on the instrument of his choice. As the tension mounted, the cries of Hwll! broke in tribute from the body of the hall. At last the name was proclaimed: John Evans, a school-master from Llanegryn, for his ode on Dwylo (Hands). Then the thousands of voices broke into the National Hymn, "Land of my Fathers", while the procession of Druids and Bards wound its way through the crowd to fetch the victor and carry him in triumph to the stage, where he was enthroned in the Bardic Chair and his poem read aloud to an audience fallen suddenly silent, straining to catch every subtilty of the intricate rhythm.

◇ ◇ ◇

EISTEDDFOD WEEK finished with a performance of Carmen, translated into Welsh by a local scholar and performed by the Welsh National Opera Company. Then is was all over. Audience and competitors were back at work the next day—down in the mines, tending their beasts in the mountains, teaching in the little country schools. One Eisteddfod is finished, but another is in sight and already the choirs are at practise on Saturday evenings, the harpists, the poets, the players of penillion, are dreaming of success . . . next year.

Unconsidered Trifles

Judy: I want a man who is good, handsome, and intelligent.

Trudy: You don't want one, you want three.

They had acquired a car, and the wife had been having driving lessons. "How are you getting along with your driving?" inquired an interested friend of the novice.

"Oh, fine," said the driving aspirant. "Yesterday I went at fifty miles an hour, and tomorrow I really mean to try opening my eyes when I pass another car."

French government changes have a way of turning out to be largely Cabinet shuffles. The same political groups, to a great extent, make up the successive coalitions, and the same figures of musical chairs has made a different man Premier, one could almost say Premier pro tem. One of the infrequent major changes in Cabinet makeup has occurred in the formation of the Mayer government, and it is impossible to regard the disappearance of Robert Schuman from the Foreign Ministry without regret and misgiving.

One of the most hopeful developments in post-war Europe was the move to draw France and Germany together on suspicions deepened by three wars in as many generations. Probably more than to any other man, credit for the conception is due to Schuman. It was good fortune that turned up Dr. Adenauer to head the West German government, for the two men worked together well. It is doubtful that two more compatible personalities could have been found to undertake the job of levelling the barriers between their two countries.

How hard Schuman's successor, Georges Bidault, will work to carry through the approachment remains to be seen. He is not considered to be as well disposed toward Germany as Schumen.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version).

Behold, the Lord will come with strong hand, and his arm shall rule for him: behold, his reward is with him, and his work before him . . . Who hath directed the Spirit of the Lord, or being his counsellor hath taught him? . . .

Behold, the nations are as a drop of a bucket, and are counted as the small dust of the balance: behold, he taketh up the isles as a very little thing . . . To whom then will ye liken God? or what likeness will ye compare unto him? (Isa. 40:10, 13, 15, 18.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Doth not wisdom cry? and understanding put forth her voice? . . . Unto you, O men, I call; and my voice is to the sons of man . . .

The Lord possessed me in the beginning of his way, before his works of old. I was set up from everlasting, from the beginning, or ever the earth was . . . When he established the clouds above: when he strengthened the foundations of the deep . . . Then I was by him, as one brought up with him: and I was daily his delight, rejoicing always before him . . .

Blessed is the man that heareth me, watching daily at my gates waiting at the posts of my doors. (Prov. 8: 1, 4, 22, 23, 28, 30, 34.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And he came out, and went, as he was wont, to the mount of Olives; and his disciples also followed him . . . And he was withdrawn from them about a stone's cast, and kneeled down, and prayed, saying, Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me: nevertheless not my will, but thine, be done.

And there appeared an angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him. And being in agony he prayed more earnestly: and his sweat was as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground.

And when he arose from prayer, and was come to his disciples, he found them sleeping for sorrow, and said unto them, Why sleep ye? rise and pray, lest ye enter into temptation. (Luke 22: 39, 41-46.)

Letters To The Editor

CHEESE AND PAGE NUMBERS

Sir: We like fresh, new soft cheddar cheese. We know of many others who do. We have no quarrel with those who like older harder cheese, except when they try to force the rest of us to use it or do without. Some time ago a government ruling compelling the holding of factory made cheese an extra 90 days, caused real hardship to those who wanted new cheese, and although the time has been reduced to 60 days, we still object. Obviously, such a ruling gives an unfair advantage to those companies which sell processed cheese at a much higher price than the plain cheddar.

Steps are being taken to replace those unsightly triangular cuts of hard dry cheese on the store counters with smaller attractive packages. The customer may have a choice of new or nippy cheddar cheese at a more reasonable price than that of the processed variety.

To change the subject completely, may we have an improvement in the method of numbering the pages of the Examiner? It is confusing to find two numbers on one page, or only the name of the month but no number to show the day.

RURAL READER

BEETHOVEN'S QUEEN IN C

Sir: With reference to your editorial, "The Queen In C" concerning a setting of the National Anthem in that key, it may interest you to know that this is the key selected by Beethoven for his variations on that theme. It was also said by Beethoven concerning that same "old, humped-about tune", as you call it, "I must show the English a little what a blessing they have in 'God Save the King'" Of course in Beethoven's day it was not so old and hackneyed, but a change of key and orchestration can work wonders with it. It only goes to show that there is still life and vigour in its phrases; together with an aristocratic dignity shared by few other national anthems of today.

Yours faithfully,
PETER PIPER

Winnie Still Lolling

(Windsor Star)

A news story tells of Prime Minister Churchill "lolling" in Jamaica. Evidently that is something he carries out well, and his mental performances down the years do the art of lolling no discredit.

Even in the middle of a war he stayed in bed until all hours, sometimes napping, often dictating at a furious pace, or setting commanders of fleets and armies, to say nothing of cabinet ministers, on their respective ears.

In Brooklyn the other day, at his mother's birthplace, he declined to climb the stairs. What he has he holds, including the strength to see him through each day on a minimum expenditure of physical effort.

Mr. Churchill may die with his boots on, but it won't be shovelling snow or running for a bus.

Effect Of TV Most Significant Sport Trend Of 1952 - Writers

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The most significant sports trend of 1952 in the United States was television's effect on attendance and popularity, and the future impact of TV on amateur and professional sports.

That was the concensus of U.S. sports writers and sportscasters replying today to the annual year-end poll of The Associated Press.

More than 50 replies dealt with some phase of video in relation to sports, after the first full year that facilities have been available to transmit major contests from coast to coast.

Most touchy question was the National Collegiate Athletic Association's tight restrictions on televising of college football games—with its "game-of-the-week" only permitted on the networks.

WORRIED ABOUT ATTENDANCE

Others were concerned with declining attendance at major- and minor-league baseball parks.

"The effect of TV (was) that it created probably millions of fans for boxing and nearly as many for football. . . yet proved detrimental in gate losses in boxing and especially in baseball," said Alan Gould, Jr., of the Elmira (N.Y.) Star-Gazette.

Jim Gorman of radio station KVOF in El Paso, Tex., said:

"The two most shocking examples of sports officials' restrictions regarding radio and television were: 1. The NCAA regulation of telecasts of football games, setting the limit as one game a week; 2. The major-league baseball clubs' restrictions on coast-to-coast broadcasting which forced the Liberty Broadcasting System to suspend operations."

Another noted the "increasing use of theatres to televise big sports contests," and one scribe declared "the public will pay to attend a good show—despite TV."

Frank D. Bliss, re-elected president of the club, said Voyles had accepted the offer earlier but waited until the annual meeting to announce it. The club offered Voyles his contract renewal after the Tiger Cats lost a tight playoff series to Toronto Argonauts for the Big Four championship.

Threaten To Withdraw Over Showdown On Raiders

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Provincial Federation of Labor (AFL-TLC), ended its seventh annual convention Sunday amidst threats of withdrawal by the Civic Workers Union unless there is a "showdown" on the question of protection from "union raiders."

The three-day convention, calm and businesslike until the storm of protests broke, earlier turned a cold shoulder on its rival unionists.

A motion to "offer the hand of friendship" to the rival congress of Industrial Organizations and the Canadian Congress of Labor was referred back to the resolutions committee which earlier recommended the resolution be defeated.

Civic Workers Union representatives demanded a "satisfactory solution" to their problem and suggested withdrawal from the TLC unless they get "protection from raiding by other unions who consider certain civic workers their rightful field for organization."

The federation executive ended the debate with a recommendation that the executive meet with local unions concerned and find "a solution satisfactory to all." No date for the meeting was set.

Recently, five Windsor civic employees were suspended from local 82, Civic Workers Union, after they took out union cards with the National Union of Public Service Employees (CCL). Later the local charged the CCL affiliate with "union raiding."

Earlier the 400 delegates re-elected President A. F. MacArthur of Toronto and his three vice-presidents, William Boothroyd, Toronto, A. F. Godfrey, Fort William, and M. Dodds, Windsor.

John Handcock of Hamilton was elected secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Boothroyd said the federation "may not be such a happy family after all." he added:

"We're certainly not going to get anywhere running away from the problem (of union raiding) and we should wake up to that fact. We should stand four-square for cleaning our own house and never mind worrying about raiding by CIO unions or any other."

A resolution passed by the convention urged laws to force lawyers and real estate operators, who handle funds of private persons, to be "bonded for amounts sufficient to reimburse such clients in the event their funds are misused or embezzled."

The convention passed a resolution seeking legislation to allow civic employees the right to sit as elected members of municipal councils.

Delegates over-ruled a non-concurrence recommendation by the resolutions committee and approved a resolution urging a change in the Labor Act to prevent labor union members working more than 48 hours a week.

At a Saturday session, Jack Kellythorne, TLC organizer, said "so-called smart employers" are cutting labor's throat and ultimately their own by practising intimidation to dissuade workers from joining unions.

He said the confidence of employees in the law and in responsible government is being undermined, leaving them receptive to communist propaganda.

Saturday, John Cauley, vice-president of the ntario workmen's compensation board, outlined a plan for establishment of physical treatment hospitals to promote better care for patiets and reduce over-all hospital treatment costs.

Cost of constructing a treatment hospital, to be operated in conjunction with an active hospital, would be about $5,000 a bed at the maximum while cost of an active hospital was about $25,000 a bed.

He said a treatment centre has been operating since 1947 at Malton, Ont.

Under the plan, a patient goes to an active hospital for necessary surgery or treatment and is transferred to the treatment centre as soon as possible where therapists and doctors oversee his recuperation.

Russ Official Arrested For Stealing

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet press and radio reported the arrest Sunday of a key member of the metals ministry for stealing a secret document. It warned that "whole armies" of United States spies are working against Russia and her Communist neighbors.

The Communist party paper Pravda disclosed that a consultant in the ministry of non-ferrous metallurgy, I Korshun, had been "brought to justice" after the disappearance of an important document." The paper blasted ministry officials for not being wary of Korshun, who was "not worthy of political trust and has been expelled from the party for serious misdeeds."

PROPAGANDA TROUBLE

Pravda also hit at officials of the Academy of Sciences of Kazakh republic for allowing a bourgeois nationalist agitator to spread propaganda in his lectures.

The lecturer was identified as B. Suleimenov, who, it was said, had wormed his way into the Communist party through deceit and had carried out "political double-dealing."

Accusing the United States of sending abroad armies of spies, Moscow radio said: "The Soviet people must put an end at least to the manifestation of political slackness which facilitates activities of U.S. imperialist agents in our country."

Juvenile Players Jump To Junior B Club Coach Asks For Suspension

By DON GRANT

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association will be asked to suspend this week three IOOF junior "B" hockey players for failure to obtain releases from the Marines juvenile club with which they played with last season. Marines' coach, Bert Hill, said that he intends to ask the OMHA to suspend Gary Kearns, Murray Byrne and Jerry Frizzelle until February 10, the last day for signing OHA contracts.

The three players have been with the Marines through bantam, midget and juvenile. But this year they decided to jump into the OHA junior "B" with the IOOF. Since they are juvenile age this season and since the player certificates signed last year also binds them for this year, the boys should have obtained releases from the Marines but either didn't or couldn't.

Coach Hill said the suspension would act as punishment for the boys jumping their player-agreements. He feels that if they "get away with it this year, others will do it in the future."

The suspension will end on the final day for signing with the junior "B" IOOF and Hill said "they can then go to the juniors." There will still be time to sign.

But if the OMHA does not grant the disciplinary suspension, Hill said that he intends to hold the players' certificates and not release them.

CHANCE AT TITLE.

Hill said that losing the three players, all key members of his team, "has ruined any chance of bringing a title to Peterborough this season."

Last year most of the teams in the provincial juvenile playdowns were composed of second-year juveniles. Hill declared, and the Marines were then only first-year players. This year, he feels, they would have had a good chance for an Ontario juvenile title.

Without the three players, Hill said he would be left with only one line and two defencemen.

He explained that earlier this year the IOOF needed a goalie "badly" and he released Bob Delahaye. Then, he said, the IOOF asked for permission for the three players to play three junior "B" games; permission was given. Hill believes he has co-operated with the junior club.

IOOF SAYS.

Meanwhile Glen Edwards, the IOOF team manger, said that the club endeavours to "promote hockey" and attempts to train the players" to the point where they can advance into junior "A".

He said the Marine team apparently believes in keeping the players in their respective age groups, contradicting the purpose of minor hockey.

"If the boys are ready to play junior "B" hockey, I feel they should come up," he said. He pointed out that Bob Gardner, a midget-age player released by Angus Bradley to the juniors, is an example, adding "he's not having any trouble at all in junior."

Edwards said the "boys are good enough for junior "B". Their parents want them to play junior B. The Marines have failed to give a suitable reason for not giving them their releases; they won't even talk about it."

Unless they are suspended, the IOOF intends to use the players "because they're making games for us."

APPROVE CONTRACTS

New contracts and playing certificates were approved by the meeting and secretary Jack Blakney was instructed to draw up a revised constitution incorporating recent rule changes.

Representatives were present from Guelph Maple Leafs and Galt Terriers but announcement as to whether these clubs will compete in the 1953 series is being withheld until the Feb. 1 deadline.

Don Gallinger, owner and playing-manager of Kitchener Panthers moved that visiting clubs receive 25 per cent. of home gates. His motion was not seconded.

The next meeting of the senior clubs will be Feb. 1 in Brantford.

Oshawa Asks To Join Intercounty

BRANTFORD — (CP) —The Oshawa baseball club made a strong plea Sunday for admission to the Inter-county League senior series.

John W. Harris claimed at a meeting of the senior clubs that the Oshawa team was financially strong and could hold its own with other senior inter-county teams. The matter was left over until Feb. 1, the final date for entries to be received.

Appointment of an administrator for the senior series was approved in principle. His interpretation of the constitution and rules will be binding. The man for the job will be named at the spring meeting of the league.

Oshawa Wins In Rough Game

COBOURG — Oshawa Junior Bees and Cobourg Jays beat a path to the penalty box here Saturday night, as Oshawa won, 8-2, in a district OHA Junior B game. Referee R. McCullogh of Newcastle, sent 22 men to the penalty bench, 14 sentences going to Oshawa and eight to Cobourg.

(Mac) Macdonald led Oshawa with three goals and was followed by teammate Lawrence, who notched two. Other Oshawa scorers were Boneham, Lowe and Piontek.

Rollie Campbell set up both goals for the Jays, one to Frank McIvor and the other to Dutch Boswell.

The rough battle gave Oshawa, a three-game edge in the season's series between the two and dropped the Jays deeper in the cellar.

The Barons are one point ahead of the second-place Pittsburgh Hornets who downed Buffalo Bisons 5-1. In Sunday's other game, St. Louis Flyers downed Providence Reds 5-3.

At Cleveland, the Warriors came from behind four times to tie the score until Ray Caresino sent the Barons ahead to stay late in the second with a pair of flashy markers.

At Buffalo, Bob Solinger led the Hornets' attack with a three-goal splurge. Dan Lewicki netted Pittsburgh's other two goals. Lorne Savoie tallied for the Bisons.

At St. Louis, the Flyers came from behind to hand the Reds their fourth loss in five road games.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

The hold that minor hockey league teams have on boys who sign player certificates will be tested shortly. Just how binding the certificates are will be known when the OMHA decides whether to grant a suspension, asked by the Marines juveniles, of three IOOF junior "B" players.

Marines' Coach, Bert Hill, is asking the OMHA for suspensions until Feburary 10 of Gary Kearns, Jerry Frizzelle and Murray Byrne. He alleged they failed to obtain releases from the juveniles in order to play Junior "B," OHA.

Coming up through bantam, midget and juvenile with the Marines, the threesome played juvenile last year as Marines. Therefore, the ruling is that if they are juvenile age this year, they must obtain releases before playing for another OMHA or OHA team.

OMHA district convener, Albert Watkins, former Marines' coach, declined to comment on the disagreement, saying that he wanted to stay on the sidelines.

But OHA convener, Frank Buckland, attacked the ruling saying "it is an unsatisfactory condition," depriving the boys of the opportunity of advancing, if they want to." He pointed out that if the boys are stopped, the purpose of both groups to promote hockey is not being carried out.

The whole affair has been poorly handled. A decision should have been made a month ago. Then if they felt they could not abide by the ruling an appeal could have been taken to higher authorities.

So far the juveniles have suffered and the juniors gained.

If the OMHA grants the suspension, the junior club will be weakened for several weeks. If the OMHA fails to grant a suspension, the use of player certificates will be questioned. The doom of the Marines juveniles is apparent.

All in all Peterborough hockey teams should provide funds in all their budgets for headache pills for the OMHA and OHA committees.

Ornamental Swimmers Form New Section

Now for something a little untimely, swimming. Don't turn away, fellows, its about Peterborough's Ornamental Swimming Club, coached by Mrs. Pansy Forbes. That's a girls' club, Hhhhmmm.

Considered one of the best synchronized swimming organizations in North America, the club is growing by leaps and bounds. Recently it formed a new section, for intermediates, girls from 10 to 14 years. These girls in several years will form the senior club.

Mrs. Forbes has worked with the other older girls, gradually building a reputation among synchronized clubs in Canada and the United States.

With an eye to the future, Mrs. Forbes realized that to keep the club at that high level, she must develop younger swimmers. Her first step was the formation, last year, of the junior club, three years to 10. The organization of the intermediate section is the second step. Now girls are taught synchronized swimming shortly after they take their first strokes.

The club's popularity among the girls is evident from the membership, now 64 in the three divisions. There is a lengthy waiting list.

The next big appearance is March 28 when the girls will swim for Gus Ryder in his Toronto pool. They will feature new numbers which they have been learning this winter. In addition they will perform Jumping Jacks, this time a 12-girl team, three more than the team which competed at the international meet in Florida.

Strong Basketball Teams In City

Basketball is enjoying its largest season in the city's history and early indications may point to several possible titles.

The new Kenner Collegiate has a strong bantam quintet which may win district honors. St. Peter's have a better than average chance for its first COSSA basketball title in the senior while PCVS'S juniors appear strong enough for COSSA junior "A" laurels.

Phil Mack's Blacks are entered in the LOABA intermediate "B" section this year. He will floor the same team as last year, plus additional youth and experience.

Last year, Phil's girls went as far as Toronto Tops and there ended the season. But this year with a stronger team he fully expects the Ontario championship to come to Peterborough.

Some of the lasses working out weekly at the PCVS gym are: Pauline Stewart, Wilma Byers, Joan Dunk, Sue Dewarga, Marg. Borland, Mabel Gillen, Jeannie Bell, Marion McGill, Grace Poast and Carol Raper.

Then there's a rather unexpected entry. Zoltan Temesy, PCVS art teacher with a flare for basketball, has agreed to enter a juvenile boys' team in the OABA. With cagers from PCVS, a number of the Garnet and Grey juniors, and others from St. Peter's High, he hopes for a second juvenile title in four years. But there's a rough road ahead.

Winnipeg Man Wins Nipawin Car 'Spiel

NIPAWIN, Sask. (CP) — Howie Wood, Jr., of Winnipeg Granite Saturday won the 1953 Nipawin car bonspiel. He defeated Billy Rose of Sedgewick, Alta., 11-10 in the second game of the best-of-three final to carry off the cars.

Wood won the first game Friday night 12-5 in 11 ends.

Trinity College Wins 6-3 Over Grove

Trinity College School of Port Hope handed Grove (Lakefield) Second a 6-3 setback Saturday afternoon in Lakefield, while in a second game Peterborough IUE Aces edged the Grove 3-2. Both games were played in the Lakefield arena.

Actually the score of the school game, 6-3, didn't indicate the play. Until midway through the final period the teams were staying close together, then TCS scored twice to lengthen the margin. The game was highlighted by the fact there were no penalties.

On goals by Seagram and Hyland, TCS jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first period. Play became more even in the second as Grove's Easson opened the scoring, followed minutes later by Hyland scoring for TCS. Creelman sent Grove up another only to have Hyland again score for TCS to make the second period score 4-2.

Grove cut the margin by one early in the third period on Easson's tally. But Hyland and Cristall each scored for TCS to assure a win.

Hyland led the scorers with four goals, while Grove's best was Easson.

The IUE-Aces-Grove game was much closer and therefore was slightly rougher. MacDonald started Grove off but the Aces rallied on goals by Pue and Allan for a 2-1 first period score.

From therein the teams battled on even terms, Grove tying the score on Whittemore's goal early in the second only to have Wasson score the winning tally a minute later. The third period went scoreless.

Five-Goal Rally Defeats Apsley

A five-goal spread in the second period gave Keene an 8-4 victory over Apsley Aces in an EPL game in Apsley Saturday night. The game, played on fast ice before a fair crowd, was close with the exception of the second period and was fairly free from penalties.

Steenburg combined with Locke to produce Keene's only goal in the first period while Apsley's Houle placed the team on even terms. But Keene overpowered the Aces in the second period with goals by Locke, McFarlane, Davidson, Colby and Whalen. The Aces replied with a single by Whalen.

Again in the third the play became close with each team scoring twice, Keene's goals by Davidson and Colby; Aces by Watson and Harris. Line-ups:

Keene—Goal, Mackness; defence, Houle, Kimball; centre, Whalen; wings, Davidson, Colby; alternates Locke, Bethune, Steenburgh, Kempt, Burns, McFarlane, Brown, McCarthy.

Apsley—Goal, Tindell; defence, Delahaye, Murray; centre, Watson; wings, Houle, Harris; alternates, Elcombe, Brown, Smith, Jacobs, Jeff, W. Tucker, McCagherty, D Tucker.

Kramer Beats Frank Sedgman

BALTIMORE (AP) —Promoter Jack Kramer beat Australia's Frank Sedgman, 22-20, in the longest set of their professional tennis tour here Sunday, but the 1½-hour performance prevented completion of the match.

Shortly before the 42-game court battle ended, Kramer and Sedgman agreed it would not count in the over-all tour standings, in which Sedgman leads, 6-3.

In the preliminary match Pancho Segura dumped Ken McGregor, Sedgman's compatriot, for the 10th straight time, 6-4, 6-4.

In Philadelphia Saturday Sedgman defeated Kramer 1-6, 6-3, 6-4. Segura defeated McGregor 6-2, 6-4.

Ralph Olin Wins Speed Skating Honors

EDMONTON (CP) — Olympic speed skater Ralph Olin, 27-year-old Calgary policeman, skated away Sunday with the major share of honors in the Alberta speed skating championships here.

Olin, a member of Canada's Olympic speed skating team last year, won three of five events and placed second in the other two to nose out last year's all-around champion, Bill Kastings of Edmonton.

Moiras Second Half Rally Defeats Marines 64-51

Doug McPherson's intermediate Marines were handed their first setback Saturday night in the YMCA gym when the Belleville Moiras on the strength of a last half rally won 64-51. This was the second game for the Marines who walloped the Oshawa Grads in the first exhibition game last Saturday.

The Moiras who have been playing this year in league play in the Boy of Quinte district broke fast, passed well, but for the first half had trouble finding the range. They began to hit the hoop in the second half and gathered in the decision.

Meanwhile the Marines were playing only their second game together and at times that was quite evident. Their passes weren't too accurate and their defence loose. Several more exhibition games should strengthen both these weaknesses.

Actually the Marines looked better than Belleville during the first half. While the Moiras were trying to become acquainted with the small floor, the Marines hustled to a 30-20 half-time score. It seemed that the Marines were away to another victory. But the Moiras, employing their fast breaking tactics, overcame the lead in the third and held the lead.

Bill Edger and Hugh Dibben with points from far out and close in, respectively, placed the Marines up 12-5 at the first quarter. Then the Marines, with Ab Stewart, Paul Frise, Edger and Dibben scoring, rolled with a 15-point margin in the second. But towards the half-time Moiras' Batchelor dropped in three baskets and made the half-time score 30-20.

Batchelor sparked the Moiras to their third quarter rally and quickly Soules, Dowsett and McClay joined in. Meanwhile only Paul Frise was effective for the Marines. The result was the lead changed to the Moiras 45-42 at three-quarters.

In the fourth the Moiras began to add to their lead with Batchelor still hitting the hoop. But at the same time they were helped by fouls, scoring on seven out of 11 in that quarter. Again the Marines' offence bogged down as they sank only nine points.

Moiras' Batchelor topped the scorers with 20 points while teammates Dowscett had 17 and Soules 16. Frise was the Marines best with 10.

Lineups:

Marines (51)—Stewart 8, Edger 7, Dibben 8, Frise 10, Northcott 4, Burns 5, Payne 9.

Belleville (64)—Spafford 3, McClay 8, Soules 16, Pappas, Batchelor 20, Dowscett 17.

Decide Mize Provided Biggest Thrill

NEW YORK (AP)—When big Jawn Mize strolled to the plate as a pinch-hitter in the last half of the ninth inning of the third World Series game last October 3, Brooklyn Dodgers had New York Yankees hanging on the ropes.

Mize promptly scorched a homer off Preacher Roe into the stadium's right field seats, but it was in a lost cause and the Bums won 5-3 to lead the series, two games to one.

However, that blast made up manager Casey Stengel's mind. Next day Mize replaced Joe Collins at first base in the Yankee lineup. Collins had gone hitless in 11 trips, and ol' Case, deciding he had to get some power, inserted Mize into the cleanup spot.

BIG SPARK

The 39-year-old Mize, in the twilight of a great baseball career, was one of the big sparks that brought a fourth straight World Series to Yankee Stadium.

So, for his play, Mize was voted the athlete who provided the sports thrill of the year in the annual Associated Press year-end poll of U.S. sports writers and sportcasters.

The big Georgian, now 40, came to the rescue with six hits in 15 trips, with three homers, a double and six runs batted in. His batting average of .400 topped players on both teams in the series.

Louise Suggs Captures Open

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Louise Suggs won the Tampa women's open golf tournament Sunday, tying the world record for a women's 72-hole event with 288.

Leading by one stroke at the start of the final 18 holes, the little Georgia pro, now playing out of Cincinnati, clinched her second Tampa open championship in a row with a smashing 68, six under women's par for the 6,093-yard Palma Ceia course.

The record 288 was set here in 1951 by Tampa's Babe Zaharias.

She had a six-stroke victory over another Georgian, amateur Mary Lena Faulk, who closed with a 73 for 294. Miss Zaharias took 300.

Second among the amateurs was Marlene Stewart, of Fonthill, Ont., who carried 303.

Miss Stewart, the Canadian amateur champion, blew to 79 Sunday for 303 and a tie with Betsy Rawls, Spartanburg, S.C. The Stewart girl's four rounds were 75-75-74-79.

Bruins Edge Leafs In 2-1 Tilt; Wings Tie Montreal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The National Hockey League net-minders have given the sport page readers a good reminder in the last few games that the goalie is still here and sometimes can squeeze into the limelight. Two shutouts were registered in weekend games for a total of five shutouts in the last nine games.

Harry Lumley scored his fifth of the season and his second within four days when Toronto Maple Leafs defeated last-place New York Rangers 1-0 Saturday night. Al Rollins, who filled Toronto's nets last season and now plays with Chicago, registered his third of the season when the Black Hawks gave new York its second whitewashing in two days by a 2-0 score.

In other week-end games, Montreal and Detroit played to a 1-1 tie Saturday night and Sunday night Boston edged Toronto 2-1 while Montreal downed Detroit 3-2.

GIVES TORONTO WIN

A goal by centre Phil Maloney, brought up from Pittsburgh of the American Hockey League when the Leafs needed reinforcements for the injured, gave Toronto its win Saturday night. The one-time accountant hit the mark at 14:57 of the third period with a hand from defenceman Jim Thomson. Lumley had 21 shots to stop compared to 20 for Gump Worsley, subbing for the injured Chuck Rayner in the Ranger nets.

Rollins' shutout came on Black Hawk ice with George Gee and Bill Mosienko scoring the game's only tallies in the second period. In Chicago's mid-week games against Toronto and Montreal, the Hawks had been shut out in both games. Sunday night Rollins had 21 saves compared to 30 for Worsley, called up from Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Hockey League.

BREAK LOSING STREAK

Boston's victory at home broke a five-game losing streak. Veteran Woody Dumart scored the deciding goal on a 45-foot shot. Previously Real Chevrefils had sent the fifth-place Bruins into an early lead. Toronto defenceman Fern Flaman scored the Leaf marker.

At Detroit, Ken Mosdell and Billy Reay scored in the final period to give second-place Montreal a victory over the league-leading Red Wings. Maurice Richard scored Montreal's opening goal in the second period. Marty Pavelich and Gordie Howe scored for Detroit.

Saturday night when the two teams battled to a 1-1 tie in Montreal, Howe scored his first goal in Montreal of the season. It came while Richard was serving a major penalty. Dick Gamble scored for Montreal.

Marlies Trip Three Rivers In 8-5 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tight battles have developed for second and third places in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Toronto Marlboros appear to be home free in first place as they lead the second-place Barrie Flyers by 11 points. The Marlies picked up two points Sunday by defeating Three Rivers Reds 8-5.

The Flyers' grip on second is far from firm with Toronto St. Michaels one point behind. The Flyers beat Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 5-2 Saturday and St. Michael's trimmed Windsor 5-2 Sunday to keep the race close.

The third-place battle involves Galt Black Hawks, who downed the rapidly-failing Guelph Biltmores 6-3 Saturday and Oshawa Generals who maintained their tie with Galt Saturday by walloping St. Catharines Teepees 9-2.

Montreal Royals forgot they were a cellar-dwelling club for long enough Sunday to trip Montreal Canadiens 3-2 in a Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association game.

FOURTH LOSS

It was Three Rivers Reds' fourth straight loss in their current tour of interlocking schedule games. Wally Maxwell, Parker MacDonald and Gerry James each scored two for Marlboros. Single goals were by Jack Bionda and Louis Bendo. The Reds' Gendron, Norm Grise, Yvon Houle, Leon Michelin and Harvey Lalonde tallied a goal each.

The Barrie win Saturday came on goals by Ralph Willis, John Martan, Larry Thibeault, Doug Mohns and Ken Robertson. Graha mJoyce scored twice against his old teammate Bill Harrington.

Mike Ratchford led St. Michael's Sunday with two goals. Murray Costello, Bill Lee and Bill Dineen scored the others. Marlin McAlendin and Bob Louttit shared Windsor scoring.

Galt had no trouble with the Biltmores Saturday after the losers lost the services of goalie Doug Lessor who cracked his head on the ice during a scramble. Lav Purola replaced him.

Jim McBurney shoved in two for Galt. Others were by Hillary Menard, Ken Wharram, Pete Kowalchuk and Maurice Mantha. Danny Blair, Chick Chalmers and Jim Connelly scored for Geulph.

GOAL SCORERS

Jack Armstrong notched three for Oshawa and Bob Attersley added two more. Fred Etcher, Stan Parker, Rich Collin and Carlo Montemurro accounted for others. Hugh Barlow and Pete Kamula scored St. Catharines' goals.

John McGillivray opened it up for Montreal Royals. Kenny Naylor and Scotty Bowman clinched it with goals in the third period. Les Lilley and Claude Vinet slapped home pucks for the Canadiens.

WEIGHT-LIFTING RECORD.

YORK, Pa. — (AP) — Norbert Schmansky of Detroit set a world's record of 412½ pounds for the clean-and-jerk lift Saturday night. The previous record, also held by Schmansky, was 408 pounds.

Vic Lynn Plays For All NHL Teams

CHICAGO (AP)—Vic Lynn, of Chicago Black Hawks, is the only player to perform for all the National Hockey League teams.

The circuit was completed for the 27-year-old left-winger last week when the Hawks obtained him from Cleveland Barons of the American League.

As a 16-year-old, Lynn had a one-game trial with New York Rangers in the 1941-42 NHL season. He played three games with Detroit Red Wings in 1942-43, two with Montreal Canadiens in 1945-46 and then had a four-season fling with Toronto Maple Leafs.

He was with Boston Bruins for little more than a year. Then after dropping to the minors, he got his chance with the Black Hawks last week.

Lynn, who hails from Saskatoon is a 178-pounder who skates fast and rough.

Indians Edge Kitchener 4-3; Lead League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dick Piatowski and a lucky shot put Stratford Indians back on top of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A race.

Stratford now is one point up on Owen Sound Mercurys and 10 points ahead of the third-place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

Saturday night Stratford defeated Kitchener 4-3. A fluke shot that bounced into the net off the skate of Stratford forward George Aitken made the difference.

Owen Sound might have maintained their one-point lead had it not been for the brilliant work of Dick Piatowski, who claimed his third shutout of the season as Chatham Maroons whitewashed the Mercurys 3-0. Piatowski made 38 saves.

TIGHTEN HOLD

Sarnia Sailors tightened their hold on fifth place by downing Hamilton Tigers 6-1.

North Bay Trappers split two games in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior southern group during the weekend. Saturday night Sault Ste. Marie Ont. Greyhounds took a decisive 6-3 win from the Trappers who bounced back Sunday to defeat Sault Ste. Marie Mich. Indians 6-2.

Besides the Aitken fluke in Kitchener, the flashy forward scored another goal and Ken Schultz and Billy Flick made the total four. Charlie Brooker, Al Buchanan and Harvey Jacklin tallied for Kitchener.

Ed Didone and Jim Campbell gave the Maroons a quick lead in Owen Sound. Piatowski turned back the Mercury efforts until the third period when Tommy Burlington scored but it was disallowed by referee Hugh Barlow who said Owen Sound players were in the goal crease. Ernie Dick scored the clincher for Chatham.

GET GOALS

Rolly Beauchamp scored twice in Sarnia and others went to Chuck Glaab, Jim Wilson, Ollie Haddon and Don Emms. Stan Ritchie scored the Hamilton counter.

Lorne Watters led the Greyhounds Saturday with two goals. Ron Lay, Johnny Offidani, Hec Pozzo and Jimmy Johnstone notched the others. Vic Jackson, Ab DeMarco and Don Hogan scored for the Trappers.

The six goals were spread six ways Sunday. DeMarco, George Gosselin, Chick Cecchini, Rick Hogg, Jackie Hill and Bo Elik each collected one for North Bay. Johnny Lumley and Gordie Kerr scored the two Indian goals.

LECTURE No. 3
TOMORROW NIGHT
8 P.M.
"ITALY TODAY"
FREDERIC CHRISTIAN

Frederic Christian, globe trotter, lecturer and artist photographer brings us one of his most interesting productions, "Italy Today."

We will start our journey in the Bay of Naples. There will be interesting shots of that once magnificent city Napoli. And the famous ruins of Pompeii will remind us of a great civilization that existed.

Then to Rome, the Eternal City. St. Peter's and the thousands of pilgrims, the Tivoli Fountains and views of the crumbling remnants of a dead Empire.

In the serene little city of Florence we will meet the people, their arts and crafts that have made Italy famous throughout history. And the leaning Tower of Pisa is a sight we will long remember.

Northward is the romantic city of Venice—untouched by time. Mountain climbers, the famous St. Bernard dogs, all in vivid color, will stir us with this constant display of beauty, excitement and action. And finally we join the Italians in their outdoor fun and games.

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Arts Council Sunday decided to postpone its arts conference until late in February. It had been scheduled for later this month.

The closed meeting also saw the resignation of the conference registrar, Douglas Drew, when the council voted against his motion postponing the conference indefinitely.

Mr. Drew, chairman of adult education at central YMCA, made the motion a week ago following the resignation of Ralph Cook, council organizer, former secretary and son-in-law of James Endicott, chairman of the leftist Canadian Peace Congress.

Mr. Drew said the council, which has no connection with the Canadian Arts Council, should postpone the conference "until such time as support of the general public and sponsors had been regained."

Henry Seguin Jailed 5 Years On 3 Counts

WILLIAMS LAKE, B.C. (CP)—Henry Seguin, wanted in Ontario to face a charge of murdering Leonard Hurd, Maxville, Ont., taxi-owner last August, was sentenced Saturday to five years imprisonment on three counts arising out of an attempted bank holdup here in December.

Seguin, formally charged as Henry James Redford, 34, pleaded guilty to the three charges. The sentences will run concurrently.

Seguin was captured by an RCMP posse in bush country north of here after bank manager Leonard Hillier was wounded during the attempted holdup of a Bank of Commerce branch.

NICKED BY BULLET

Hillier was nicked in the thigh by a bullet fired by Seguin as he fled the bank about midnight. Earlier, Seguin had abducted Hillier in his car and driven around town for nearly an hour

Seguin ran from the bank when two bank employees entered the building to see why the front door had been left open.

He was tracked down by footprints in freshly-fallen snow and was wounded in the chest during a gun-battle with the officers.

Urges Single Planning Seaway Agency

TORONTO (CP)—Fear and confusion in Southern Ontario towns has been generated by the St. Lawrence seaway and hydro proposals, Dr. Albert Rose, Ontario chief of the Community Planning Association of Canada, said Saturday.

He urged new legislation be enacted in Ontario setting up a regional over-all planning agency to smooth readjustments to the economic life of the region.

His proposals were made before the Ontario Association of Architects.

Dr. Rose spoke after Harry Tour, chief architect in the Tennessee Valley Authority, an American waterway development, had claimed that the success of TVA was due to one agency having over-all responsibility for the development.

NEED ONE AGENCY

"I notice that in the Canadian scheme the federal government has one area of responsibility and the Ontario hydro another. It is important that one agency be created to oversee both. Efficient planning and the minimum of disallocation depend on it," he said.

F. J. Lyle, director of the Ontario government's branch of trade and industry, said Saturday the only "negative force" which might end Canada's post-war expansion and prosperity is a diminishing influx of immigrants.

He asked the architects:

"The slack is pretty well out of our labor market now—so how are we going to build and man our future expansion without substantial manpower help from abroad?"

10 Twps. Study Annexation

BRANTFORD (CP)—Representatives of 10 townships met here Saturday to discuss annexation problems.

The townships were Trafalgar, Stamford, Barton, Yarmouth, Sarnia, Nepean, London, Westminster, Scarborough and Brantford.

A statement issued after the meeting said it had been called not to prohibit annexation, but to recommend formulation of a proper approach "to eliminate much of the bitterness from present-day applications to the Ontario municipal board."

A committee was set up to discuss details and recommend a pattern. John Hallinan of Scarborough was named chairman.

Osprey Farmer Dies In Markdale

DUNDALK (CP)—John Henry Priddle, 89, an Osprey township farmer for 25 years and one of this town's oldest residents, died Sunday at Markdale.

Born in Markham, he leaves his widow, six sons and three daughters. Dundalk is 35 miles southeast of Owen Sound.

Trapped In Hole 90 Mins Child Rescued By 40 Men

GILBERTON, Pa. (AP)—Five-year-old Laura Mae Heiser fell down an 11-inch wide strip mining test hole Saturday and screamed hysterically for 90 minutes until 40 rescuers yanked her free on their sixth try.

The little girl was playing with some friends on the floor of an anthracite strip mining project when she fell 10 feet down the hole.

The friends summoned rescuers who found Laura Mae wedged in the cone-shaped hole with her arms above her head.

Rescuers lowered a rope and yelled to her to grab it. She screamed, slipped a little deeper in the hole and failed to reach the rope. Several more times they tried without success.

The girl's father finally calmed her with: "Don't be scared, honey, put up your hands and grab the rope."

SLIDE BARS DOWN

Then the rescuers slid two long steel bars down the shaft. They called the girl to grip the bars. While she did this, the men looped a heavy rope over the two bars and let it slide down past the girl. When pulled tight, the loop was under the girl's feet and girl and bars came to the top, as if she was in an upright stretcher.

She was taken to hospital where attendants said her condition was satisfactory. They said she suffered brush burns and shock.

RIFLE RANGE SCHOOL'S TEMPORARY BUILDING was trucked from its site on Saturday afternoon to a new rink site at the junction of the Warsaw and Norwood Roads to provide an open-air rink change building. Purchased by the Warsaw Road ratepayers for $500 the moving and installation was accomplished by voluntary labor. The building is shown above on a transport float trailer as it swung on to the Warsaw Road from the 11th Concession Line of Otonabee township, half a mile from its destination. The whole rink was built by the volunteer work of the community with donations from several companies. All depends on the weather now.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Two Cars Skitter Away From Collision Slide On Ice Into Opposite Ditches

MARMORA (ENS). — An icy patch of highway, four miles east of Marmora, caused two cars to veer into the north ditch late Sunday afternoon. Nobody was injured.

An eastbound car driven by Joseph Zeisman, 49, of Claxton Blvd., Toronto, went out of control on Highway 7 near Davidson's Garage. It skidded on the ice and plunged into the north ditch, scraping the whole left side on a wire fence. Both left fenders and the left front door were damaged.

Ten minutes later a 1952-model car, driven by Mrs. Gwendolen Gilmore, 47, of Tamworth, struck an icy patch as it rounded a curve in the highway. The westbound vehicle also went into the north ditch and stopped only a couple of feet from the Zeisman car.

Damage to Zeisman's 1949 car was estimated at $150 and Mrs. Gilmore's car received a bent right fender, damaged estimated at $20.

OPP Constable Tom Lummiss of Madoc investigated.

Fishermen Saved From Ice Floe

CHATHAM (CP) — Two fishermen were saved Sunday minutes before an ice floe on which they were adrift broke up in Lake St. Clair.

Anthony Auk and Roland Goebel, both of Detroit, drifted on the floe for an hour before they were picked up in a boat by Oliver Cook of River Canard and Jack Yoell of Windsor.

Cook and Yoell saw the ice on which the fishermen were standing break free and drift out in the lake. They located a small boat, dragged it across a mile of ice and rowed half a mile to the floe. The wind kept blowing the shrinking floe away and several attempts were foiled before success was finally achieved.

Planes flying overhead circled above the stranded fishermen until the boat reached them.

Duplessis Suggestion Called "Dishonesty"

COATICOOK, Que. (CP) — Gerard Picard, president of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, Sunday night described as "inconceivable dishonesty" a suggestion by Premier Duplessis that some union leaders were "consciously or unconsciously" following the Communist line.

Mr. Picard told a union rally that Mr. Duplessis' statement, made during a debate in the Quebec legislature last week on a prolonged textile strike at Louiseville, Que., was "an indignity for a man pretending to be a statesman."

The union leader said communism was born not of union activities but of "an accumulation of injustices."

"When I am branded as a communist traitor like Tim Buck and Fred Rose by the premier I have no means to defend myself because he has parliamentary immunity," he added.

King Phoenix Wins Canadian Drama Award

OTTAWA (By Examiner Staff Reporter)—Two Peterborough play productions were taken to Ottawa Saturday as entries in the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival. Knox Theatre Group, directed by Peter McCombe, performed Barrie's one-act play "The Twelve Pound Look" Saturday afternoon. The Peterborough Little Theatre, directed by Robertson Davies, staged the director's three-act play "King Phoenix" in the evening, the closing performance of the festival. Adjudicator John Allen, of England, was sharp in his criticism of both performances, but gave the Kingston Cup for the best Canadian play in the festival to "King Phoenix."

In his criticism of the Knox group the adjudicator said that the players understood what they were doing, had a feeling for the play, but lacked style. He complimented Peggy McCombe for bravely taking, on short notice, one of the major roles.

The adjudicator found "King Phoenix" a "strange, sprawling, brilliant" play. It had "passages of memorable brilliance made useless for me by passages of memorable banality." He found a "lack of critical appreciation in the whole presentation. . . . Its secret did not emerge." He commented on the "brilliance and poverty of the performance." He said he did not understand the play. "I found great quality and great weakness."

He praised the laugh of King Cole (John Londerville) and said he had never seen a better ghost on the stage (created and acted by Douglas Warner). The Archdruid (Allan Bennett) gave a performance of "enormous gusto" but it was "altogether attitudinized." He thought the Princess (Jean Leach) charming. He criticized the speech generally for the "protracted vowel sounds."

Ottawa Little Theatre, Saturday Players, won the award for the best presentation of a full-length play—"The Madwoman of Chaillot". The Fulford Shield for the best one-act play went to the Ottawa Little Theatre Workshop presentation of "Rise and Shine."

Florence Fancott was named best actress for her role of Eurydice in "Point of Departure" by Jaen Anouilh. Richard Lambe of the Saturday Players of the Ottawa Little Theatre was named best actor for his role as deaf mute in Giraudoux' "The Madwoman of Chaillot."

The Peterborough Little Theatre, apart from the Ottawa players, was the only group to win any award at all.

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister W. J. Dunlop today announced the retirement on Jan. 27 of W. J. Morrison as superintendent and principal of the Ontario School for the Deaf, Belleville, and the appointment, as his successor, of Mr. J. G. Demeza, present assistant superintendent.

Mr. Morrison was superintendent for 17 years and had previous experience as principal of Dutton and Bowmanville high schools and as inspector of Brantford public schools.

The new superintendent and principal was appointed to the staff of the Ontario School for the Deaf in 1950 as assistant superintendent. He was previously superintendent of public schools for the township of Teck, with headquarters in Kirkland Lake.

Man's Body Found In Rail Coach

Former Resident Harry P. Kearney; Death Said Natural

The body of a former Peterborough man, Harry P. Kearney, 46, was found Saturday in an Ontario Northland Railway coach in temporary storage in the railway yards at Englehart, 100 miles north of North Bay.

ONR Inspecior Harold Hughes, North Bay, said that Kearney apparently died of natural causes.

Police in Englehart identified Kearney as son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kearney, 160 Rubidge St. They said he had recently been employed at Elk Lake. Kearney was believed seeking shelter from the cold.

IN LUMBER CAMPS

Two years ago Kearney left Peterborough for the west and since then has been working as a laborer in lumber camps. Recently he had been working for a camp near Elk Lake as he gradually worked his way home to Peterborough.

His mother said today that in cards received from him around Christmas time, she learned her son had planned on returning to Peterborough at the end of this month.

Prior to the Second World War Kearney worked in Peterborough and district as a painter. During the war he served with various units in the RCASC. He saw service in England, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany. He was a member of the Canadian Legion.

After the war Kearney worked for a short time in Peterborough as a painter. Then he followed a life-time desire to go west. Once he was going to return home but was advised that work wasn't too plentiful in this district and to stay in the northwest if he had a good position.

Besides his father and mother, he is survived by three brothers, Frank, Bernard and Emmett, all of Peterborough, and three sisters, Mrs. T. J. Cavanagh (Mary), Mrs. Max Glover (Kay), both of Peterborough, and Mrs. George Charlton (Hazel) of Toronto.

The funeral will be held Tuesday from the Anglesey funeral home to St. Peter's Cathedral for requiem mass at 9 a.m. Burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

James Lawless Oratory Winner

Helen Holmes of Campbellford came second with her address on Joseph Karsh and Anne Gilbert of Immaculate Conception School placed third with her speech entitled, My Favorite Book.

Mrs. Joseph Collins of Hastings, convener of the education committee of the council, was chairman. The prizes were donated and presented by council president, Mrs. J. H. Smith of Campbellford.

The judges were Mrs. Redmond Walsh of Norwood; Mrs. G. Moore and Mrs. G. Torpey, both of Peterborough.

Turn On Street Lights In Gore's Landing

GORE'S LANDING (ENS) — The installation of street lights throughout this village was completed this week with the hydro turning on the lights on the main street and down east of the main thoroughfare. From the public library to the north end of the village there are five large lights spaced at intervals, another one at the entrance to Herald's Park, and also at the Rice Lake Boat Works corner. It is understood that two lights will also be installed on the "back road" of the village and on the side road running south from the Harwood road.

Mother, Two Sons Rescued By Firemen

TORONTO (CP)—Firemen carried a mother and her two sons from the second floor of their smoke-filled home in suburban Leaside Sunday night. Mrs. G.B. Brown, Donald, 20, and David, 12, were trapped on the upper floor when a short circuit in a refrigerator started a smouldering fire. They suffered no ill effects.

BELLEVILLE ACTS

Planning and housing committee of Belleville city council has arranged for a public meeting Tuesday in Queen Elizabeth school to inform taxpayers of the purpose of a proposed zoning by-law. It will be the first of a series to explain to the public the details and scope of a land use plan for Belleville. Peterborough council had talked about a similar series, but nothing concrete has come of the proposed zoning by-law to give effect to the city planning scheme which was set up here by Dr. E. G. Faludi.

TRIGGER-HAPPY 'TEEN-AGERS

Provincial Police have issued a warning to trigger-happy 'teen-agers that in future any of them sniping at hydro insulators in Jackson Park will be charged and their guns confiscated. A group of five have already been warned. Their hobby was sauntering through Jackson Park and shooting with a .22 calibre rifle at the hydro insulators. But the OPP, in conjunction with Bruce Menzies of the hydro police, have put an end to their little game. Future offenders are going to be rapped hard.

Light Truck Rolls End Over End One Badly Hurt

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—One man was seriously injured and two others escaped with shock and bruises when a light truck went out of control on the Hastings Road, sideswiped a telephone pole and overturned, end over end, Saturday night.

Claude Paul, 31, of Campbellford, is in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, with possible internal injuries, concussion and undetermined head injuries.

His condition is said to be improved today.

The pick-up truck, driven by Don Forestell, 28, of Campbellford, was travelling east towards Campbellford.

Three miles west of Campbellford, while meeting another car, Forestell is reported to have pulled to the right to give the oncoming car room to pass, and the truck slewed off the road into the ditch.

SIDESWIPED POLE

It travelled some distance in the ditch, then sideswiped the pole, before overturning end over end. It came to rest on its roof, facing the opposite direction from which it had been travelling.

Forestell and Arthur Reeves, 22, another passenger in the truck, climbed out. Paul remained pinned in the wreckage of the cab.

The accident occurred on a hill, in front of the farm of Ross McComb, who heard the crash and called Dr W. W. Baker in Campbellford.

Seeing that one of the victims was trapped inside, Mr. McComb drove his tractor to the scene and hooked the tractor to the overturned truck.

He then waited until the arrival of Dr. Baker before upending the truck so Paul could be pulled out of the cab.

Paul was taken to the hospital in Peterborough and Reeves and Forestell, who were shaken up in the accident, were given outpatient treatment at Campbellford hospital.

Railing Breaks Skier Tumbles

A Peterborough ski jumper, Ian Blaiklock, Engleburn Place, escaped serious injury Sunday when he fell from the ski tower during Huntsville's four-way ski meet.

With other Peterborough skiers, Blaiklock had entered the Huntsville meet and planned to enter the senior jumping competition. He attempted practice jumps, flying through the air for about 70 feet. Then while waiting for competition jumps, he leaned against the tower railing and it gave away.

Blaiklock was sent tumbling some distance to the ground, landing on a small tree stump. The drop ripped his clothes and the stump pierced his leg. The doctor said the leg was fleshy where the stump jabbed Blaiklock and instead of stitches a tight bandage was applied.

Today Blaiklock was able to go to school, but his leg was still quite stiff.

Lindsay Man Dies Of Injuries

Pedestrian, 71 Dies 24 Hours After Accident

LINDSAY (ENS)—In the first traffic fatality here in more than a year, William Sylvester (Chippy) Duke, 71, of Lindsay, died in Ross Memorial Hospital Sunday night from injuries received when hit by a car Saturday night as he walked along Highway 35 inside Lindsay town limits. Duke was a lifelong resident of the town.

According to police, Ivan Rodd, of RR 1, Lindsay, the driver of the car, said that he had sighted Duke on the shoulder of the highway when he was 400 feet away. He was then blinded by the headlights of the approaching car, he said, and the next time he saw the pedestrian was when Duke appeared in front of the car. Rodd said he tried to swerve out of the way, but could not avoid hitting the man.

Duke was admitted to Ross Memorial hospital, attended by Dr. W. R. Crowe, with broken legs, ribs, shock and other undetermined injuries.

He was unconscious when he died Sunday night. Crown attorney Lorne Jordan said this morning that an inquest will be held in the case. Coroner is Dr. L. V. Shier.

The accident was investigated by Constable Percy Mark of the Lindsay police. The Lindsay police said today that about 40 more accidents were reported on Saturday night, at the height of the ice storm in the town. Most of them were of a minor nature.

Car Skids On Ice Crashes Into Pole

An estimated $500 damage resulted to the front end of a car driven by Stanley W. Downes, 559 Arndon Ave., early Sunday morning when it skidded out of control and crashed into a telephone pole.

Downes was travelling south on Park St., when the car went out of control and started skidding sideways. It went from the west to the east side of the street before striking the pole.

The driver's wife, Mrs. May Downes, was a passenger and received a slight injury to her right hand. Miss Erslin Tunner, another passenger, is reported to have had her head hurt in the accident.

Constables Harold Andrew and Vic McConnell investigated.

Jane, Marilyn Good Friends Despite Rumors

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Predictions of fireworks when Jane Russell and Marilyn Monroe squared off to act in the same picture have fizzled. Jane even has become Marilyn's sisterly adviser in matters of love.

Jane says she voiced to Miss Monroe the view that it's a good idea for an actress to marry a man in another field, such as sports.

Jane is married to a retired football star, Bob Waterfield. Marilyn says she and retired ball player Joe DiMaggio are "good friends." Jane's reasoning goes like this:

"It's great to have somebody like that to go home to. If you have blow-up ideas about yourself, he talks you out of them in a hurry. If you sound unhappy with your job, he tells you to quit."

NO RUBS

The forecasts of rivalry between Monroe and Russell were perhaps reasonable.

A Paramount producer told Jane when she set out for 20th Century-Fox and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" — "Shake hands with Marilyn, flip a coin to see who'll make the first catty crack, then let the fur fly."

But after two months' work on the picture, Jane calls Marilyn "a real nice, sweet kid. She works a lot harder than I do." As for scene-stealing: "In all the years I've been in pictures, I have not run into that."

Marilyn expresses equal esteem for Jane and calls her "a good actress in the kind of thing she likes to do." Miss Monroe prefers more serious vehicles for herself.

Others on the set confirmed that there have been no temperamental outbursts.

Director Howard Hawks is even advocating a Russell-Monroe series like the Crosby-Hope "road" pictures.

Churchill Gets Keys Of City

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill, perched high on the back of an open car, drove through cheering crowds Saturday to receive the freedom of Kingston.

Mrs. Churchill sat next to the 78-year-old prime minister as they drove through the sunny streets—their first public appearance since starting a quiet holiday on this tropical island eight days ago.

A crowd of citizens, estimated by police at 40,000, heard Churchill make his speech of thanks after receiving the keys to the city from the mayor, councillor Dr. Edward Henry Fagan.

Churchill thanked Jamaica for "a lively, cheerful and warm-hearted welcome."

SYDNEY MINES, N.S. (CP) — Two teen-age boys were drowned at nearby Little Pond Sunday when ice broke under them while they skated on thin channel ice. The bodies of Lorne W. Peck, 18, and Henry Dawe, 17, both of Little Pond, were recovered.

CARDINAL RECEIVES HAT — Paul Emile Cardinal Leger (right), Roman Catholic Archbishop of Montreal, receives his red hat, special emblem of a prince of the church. The broad-brimmed hat never will be worn and will not be seen again in public until the cardinal dies, when it will be placed on his bier during the solemn high funeral mass and then will be hung from the ceiling of his cathedral. Presenting the hat is papal secretary Msgr. Mario Nasalli Rocca. Prelate at centre is not identified. The ceremony took place in the student hall of Rome's Canadian College.

Wants Way Made Easier For More Home Building

By FORBES RHUDE

MONTREAL (CP) — The way should be made easier for people to build homes, P. G. Wilmut, president of the Canadian Construction Association, said today.

Addressing the association's annual general meeting, he said:

"More liberal regulations in the United States concerning down payments and interest rates are main factors in explaining why the housing program there is on a relatively higher scale than in Canada."

It was not just a question of terms of the National Housing Act —the availability of serviced lands and mortgage money were other important factors—but "greater credit opportunities would enable more people to invest in housing and, incidentally, reduce the pressure for subsidized accommodation."

LOSSES NEGLIGIBLE

Losses under the act had been "negligible" and its regulations likely "could afford to be less restrictive and assist in the erection of additional houses at no great financial risk."

One of every seven Canadians was living in a house or apartment building built since 1946, but housing production had been tapering off, and demands from a growing population, past postponements and continuing prosperity, "should dispel any feeling of satisfaction or complacency."

"Construction of from 100,000 to 125,000 dwelling units a year should be considered a normal minimum national target by all parties concerned." (In 1950, a record year, 91,000 units were completed. In 1951, 85,000, and in 1952, an estimated 75,000.)

SEES RECORD YEAR

Mr. Wilmut predicted a record year of construction provided "all members of the industry continue action to obtain greater production and to exercise restraint concerning cost increases.

"It is expected that the levelling off of consumer prices will stem the demand for higher wages, for a stabilization of labor costs will be a basic necessity in keeping construction costs at present levels."

Factors favoring construction, said Mr. Wilmut, include removal of deferred depreciation regulations and steel restrictions, which had discouraged commercial building, general greater availability of materials, more stable prices and keen competition throughout the industry for new work. He predicted:

"Commercial construction will likely increase. Building of schools, hospitals and other institutional structures will probably continue at the 1952 level. Industrial construction will again likely be spotty with some industries requiring new plants and additions, and others curtailing expansion programs as they find difficulty in selling their products."

Early reports, said Mr. Wilmut, indicate that the provinces expect a record road-building program in 1953 and that municipal activity will continue at a high level. However:

FANTASTIC STATE

"The volume, speed and weight of modern traffic requires much higher road standards, and yet less money is being spent today per motor vehicle registration than before the war. This is a fantastic state of affairs."

Mr. Wilmut said opportunities in Canada have attracted not only American industrialists and investors but also American contractors.

The CCA welcomed foreign capital, technical skill and fair competition, but some "foreign" contractors appeared interested only in a "quick profit which is taken out of the country."

Concerning possibilities of "increased productivity" and "incentive pay," Mr. Wilmut said he will not suggest "piece work," which had been subject to abuse when tried, and he was "a firm supporter of collective bargaining under which a minimum of wages is agreed upon as obligatory."

"But I do suggest that a way can be found whereby workers, while guaranteed a minimum amount per hour, can materially increase their earnings by putting forth their best efforts."

Report Fights At Durham Plant

DURHAM (CP)—Fights broke out here Friday night between striking and working employees at the Durham Furniture Company.

Some 60 members of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) from nearby Hanover joined with 40 Durham strikers in the fighting. Police said the union members kicked in the panels of employees' cars as they attempted to leave the factory.

A strike of members of Local 152 was called at the plant last July. Some 150 employees walked out and since that time the company has resumed work with some 80 workers, most of them new employees.

Police Chief Ted Zimmer said that he and Constable Neil McNabb broke up the fighting.

Mrs. John Fleming

The funeral of Mrs. John Fleming was held Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. from the McConnell-Warner funeral home with the Rev. H. K. Wright officiating. Burial was in Trent Valley cemetery, Hastings.

Pall-bearers were: William Preston, Willis Preston, William Buck, George Richardson, Max Scott, William Fleming. The flower bearers were Roy Bower, John Richardson, Eldon Preston, Gerald La Brash, G. B. La Brash and Jack Sullivan.

Tiny Revolution May Better French Relations

By HENRY BUCKLEY

CASABLANCA (Reuters) — The "shoe-horn revolution" here last month may prove to be the turning point toward better relations between France and her Moroccan protectorate.

The outbreak was a strangely unheralded explosion of passions and one which had curiously little sequel in the way of further acts of violence.

Without warning ugly riots erupted Dec. 7 and 8 in which eight Europeans were killed, and their bodies, in some cases, savagely mutilated. The bodies of 53 Moroccans were recovered and probably another score of Moroccan dead were never found because their friends hastily buried them in secret.

Yet when reporters arrived a few hours later the seaport town could not have seemed more normal.

Bored troops were smoking cigarets, with their guns piled in stacks, at main squares and crossroads. But, apart from that, life in Casablanca was full of its usual commercial bustle.

The French explanation of the outbreak was that "Nationalist extremists" and Communists combined to stage a riot to coincide with the discussions on Morocco in the United Nations general meeting in New York."

The Moroccan version is different. They say: "It occurred quite spontaneously when the European owner of a street fair refused to close when asked to as part of a peaceful demonstration over the shooting of a Tunisian trade union leader. The crowd attacked his stand. The police attacked the crowd. The crowd reacted and the whole thing spread spontaneously."

The forthcoming trials of the alleged ringleaders may shed some light on what did happen. Or it may be that no one ever will be certain how the riots originated and spread.

One unusual feature of the riots was the fact that the leaders each carried as a means of identification a shoe horn—and that in a country where the majority of the natives go without shoes or wear backless slippers.

Less picturesque and more serious was the failure of police to act soon enough to avert the need for calling in the army to quell the rioting.

Responsible Moroccans were horrified at the barbarity of the attacks and now chastened Moroccan leaders who have seen to what extremes violence can go, appear to be in a mood to listen to words of reason.

Professor Finds Pygmy Tribe Migrated 10,000 Years Ago

MANILA (AP).—An American professor Saturday reported the discovery of a pygmy tribe which may have migrated to the Philippines some 10,000 years ago and become its earliest inhabitants.

Dr. Tage Ellinger, Danish-born Harvard doctor attached to the University of the Philippines, tracked down the tiny people—known as Abenlens—in the Zambales mountains during a Christmas vacation.

They were located on the west coast of central Luzon Island about 70 miles northwest of Manila—the same area occupied for thousands of years by the Negritos of the Aetas tribe.

Ellinger reported his finding to Professor H. Otley Beyer, American anthropologist and lecturer at the University of the Philippines, who described the tribe from pictures he saw as "typical proto-Malayan."

ANCIENT MIGRATION

If Beyer's identification is correct, Ellinger said the tribe could have migrated to Luzon from the Asia mainland thousands of years ago when the islands were still part of the continent.

"The adult girls measured 4 feet 4½ inches, the men about 4 feet 8 inches," Beyer said. "But they were entirely different from the Negritos among whom they have lived for thousands of years.

"The Abenlens have long, straight or curly hair, never the frizzled hair texture so characteristic of the Negritos."

Brazil Playing Big Role In Leading South America

TORONTO (CP) — Brazil in South America, like Canada in North America, will play an increasingly important role in world affairs, Henry Borden told the Canadian Club today.

Mr. Borden is president of Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Co., Ltd., the Canadian company which is Brazil's chief public utility.

Illustrating the "explosive force" of the growth of Brazil's industrial heart, Sao Paulo, the fastest growing city in the world, Mr. Borden said:

"In 1890 Toronto had a population of 181,000; Sao Paulo had 65,000. Today, greater Toronto has 1,118,000, while Sao Paulo has 2,500,000."

54,000,000 PEOPLE

All Brazil now has some 54,000,000 people, compared with Canada's 14,000,000, and Mr. Borden said it is reasonable to expect that Brazil will have 75,000,000 to 90,000,000 people by 1975.

In 1938, Canada sold to Brazil goods valued at only $3,500,000. By 1951 this had risen to $53,500,000. In 1938 Brazil sold to Canada goods valued at about $750,000. By 1951 this had risen to $40,000,000.

Brazil, first colonized by Portugal in the 16th century, has a population of several racial origins, and Mr. Borden commented:

"In no other modern country have the problems of racial relations been solved in such a Christian and democratic manner as in Brazil, where racial prejudice is of no real consequence. Brazil is, in fact, evolving a new and distinct ethnic strain."

4 Skip Reformatory

BRAMPTON — (CP) —Four youths "ran away" Sunday night from the Ontario reformatory here. Superintendent W. J. Eastaugh said the boys arrived from Guelph reformatory only five days ago and would have started their trade training today. The Brampton institution is of the "open" type. There are no bars, fences or armed guards, the superintendent said.

Grant Extradition Order Against 2 Men

HAMILTON (CP)—An extradition order against two Hamilton men, indicted by a grand jury for the murder of a Buffalo, N.Y., jeweller and the armed robbery of his store Dec. 9, was granted Saturday by Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven.

Maurice (Digger) O'Dell, 27, and Walter F. Griffen, 26, will be turned over to Buffalo police in two weeks time unless they are granted a writ of habeus corpus.

The jeweller, Donald F. Hurd, was killed by a single shot when three gunmen walked into his inner office during a holdup that netted $32,000 in jewelry.

RING BROKEN

Buffalo police believe the capture of the men breaks up a ring specializing in holdups in the Buffalo area. A third man, Ralph Grubisich, 33, a native of Windsor, is still on the wanted list.

During the extradition hearing, Mrs. Hurd testified that O'Dell walked into the store to see some rings. She went to another room to bring a selection, then heard a shot. "I knew it was my husband," she said.

The clerks were ordered into the back room, she continued, and robbed of their wallets. She identified as her own a ring said by O'Dell's fiancee to have been given her.

13 Fatalities Reported Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An eccentric 104-year-old millionaire who died in the squalor of his gas-filled Toronto home, was one of 13 persons to die violently in Eastern Canada during the weekend.

Eight persons died in Ontario, a survey showed, three in Quebec and two in Nova Scotia.

John Laughlin, one of Toronto's first dairy owners and a retired home builder, was found in a second-floor bedroom. Two gas jets of an ancient stove in the kitchen were on and the house was filled with fumes.

Police reported that Wally Edwards of Ravenscliffe shot his 14-year-old daughter to death and then killed himself.

Annie Sanders of Exeter died of exposure near her home after wandering out during an ice storm.

OTHER ONTARIO DEATHS

Other Ontario deaths: Jacqueline Harrison, 5, of Toronto, struck by a taxi cab when she ran from behind a parked truck; the five-month-old baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Britten of Hamilton suffocated in her crib; Darlene Ray Hackey, 18 months, near Geraldton, was drowned when she slipped through the ice of the Sturgeon river; Jaen Janssen, 22, of Raleigh township, struck by a car during a rain storm.

Communism Destroys Christianity-Dr. Cook

TORONTO (CP)—An audience of 9,000 Toronto young people was told Sunday night that communism counterfeits Christianity right down the line.

Speaking to the first of a series of Youth for Christ international crusade meetings, Dr. Bob Cook of Chicago, president of International Youth for Christ, said from conversion through consecration to a world vision the devilishly inspired communist way of thinking follows Christianity.

He termed communism a politico-religious way of life founded on clearly defined beliefs and said Communists are not afraid to make sacrifices for their cause or even die for it.

He said Christians must make a life-or-death stand for their beliefs.

Federation Criticizes Toronto Streetcars

Windsor, Ont. (CP)—The Toronto Transportation Commission's "sardine can" streetcars were criticized Friday at the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Labor.

Delegates of local 113 of the Street Railway Union from Toronto urged the federation to press for provincial legislation banning packed streetcars.

"It is an absolute crime to see how they are packing people into the street cars," one delegate said. He added that traffic problems are aggravated by holding cars while packing passengers into them.

GENEVA (Reuters) — Britain, with one automobile for every 20 persons, led Europe in cars per capita in 1951, a report of the United Nations economic commission for Europe said today. Young Royalty's Part Discussed

LONDON (CP)—High-level discussions are in progress on the part younger members of Royal Family will take in the Coronation ceremony June 2.

Although the Coronation joint committee headed by the Duke of Norfolk is responsible for organizing ceremonial details, the Queen is expected to decide whether Prince Charles, 4, and Princess Anne, 2, will be present in Westminster Abbey.

The 17-year-old Duke of Kent probably will be among the first to offer homage to the Queen after she has been crowned. First by tradition will be the Archbishop of Canterbury. Next is likely to be the Queen's husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, followed by the Duke of Gloucester, the Queen's uncle and then the Duke of Kent.

The young Duke's sister, Princess Alexandra, 16, is expected to take her place in the Coronation procession.

One thing is regarded as a certainty. Even if Prince Charles and Princess Anne are not present during the Coronation ceremony, they will be given a place of prominence on the main balcony at Buckingham Palace at the conclusion of the Coronation procession.

Find Living Fossil Fish Plentiful Along Atlantic

By JOE WING

NEW YORK (AP)—If you got excited over the discovery of that "living fossil" fish in African waters, here are some facts of life you should know.

Another kind of living fossil is a dime a dozen along the Atlantic coast of North America.

Lurking in the globe's few remaining "lost world" regions there may be, according to one researcher, living fossils that would knock your eye out.

You can choose your own definition for a living fossil, but the popular idea probably would be an animal alive today and quite similar to one known also through fossil remains.

That is the way it was with the South African fish obtained by Dr. J. L. B. Smith, famed ichthyologist. In the Jurassic Age, some 130,000,000 years ago, this fish, classified as a coelacanth, had reached an evolutionary peak that enabled its distant offspring to evolve into the familiar forms of higher animal life that people modern continents. But somehow a few coelacanths were left behind.

NOTHING RARE

In contrast, the living fossil of the Atlantic coast is anything but rare. Known as the horseshoe crab, although no actually a crab, it, too, is a relic of the Jurassic Age.

Stories of sea serpents sighted in Scandinavian waters in the Middle Ages came early under suspicion. But by 1892 a Dutch professor, A. C. Oudemans, was brave enough to round up the evidence in a 592-page book. In recent years reports on sea serpents have been even more common.

On ancient Babylon's gate of Ishtar a "dragon" was depicted in has relief that might have been a form of dinosaur. About the time the bas relief was uncovered, an explorer brought back from Africa a report that a beast "half dragon and half elephant" lived in the swamps of Liberia and preyed on hippos. In 1913 a German expedition in the Cameroons heard about an elephant-sized monster with long neck and tail.

GIANT SLOTH

In South America, fossils attest the former existence of the giant sloth, a heavy-boned beast far larger than the slender, sleepy animals that are the present-day sloths. It is supposed to have become extinct thousands of years ago.

Imagine the amazement, therefore, of a scientist when he received from Patagonia a chunk of hide not more than a dozen years old and reinforced with tiny bone discs—the hide apparently of a giant sloth.

Ottawa Carries Off Most Drama Awards

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa Little Theatre Saturday night carried off the bulk of awards in the Eastern Ontario drama festival and at the same time was urged to lend a helping hand to less-experienced little theatres elsewhere in Eastern Ontario.

Adjudicator John Allen, who awarded the Ottawa group four of the five top prizes, said he hoped it would feel "an immediate responsibility" to correct the inexperience of out-of-town companies.

Ottawa actors had given "three absolutely first-rate performances" in the five-day festival, Mr. Allen said. His adjudications during the festival found most fault with the productions of five visiting groups especially their speaking standards and technical experience.

The 40-year-old British adjudicator, a writer-producer for the BBC, next visits the Western Quebec festival at Montreal, which opens tonight and continues until Saturday.

The Saturday players of the Ottawa Little Theatre won the (Calvert) Challenge Trophy and $100 for the best production of the festival. It was "The Madwoman of Chaillot" by Jean Giraudoux. Richard Lamb, 18-year-old actor who played the deaf-mute in the play, was named best actor of the festival.

The best-actress award went to Florence Fancott for her role as Eurydice in the Ottawa Little Theatre's "Point of Departure" by Jean Anouilh. The OLT Workshop also won the Fulford Shield for the best one-act play with "Rise and Shine," written by Elda Cadogan of Durham, Ont.

Among the five visiting groups, only the Peterborough Little Theatre won an award. That was the Kingston Cup, given to the best Canadian-written play.

Its winning production staged Saturday night was "King Phoenix," written and directed by Robertson Davies of Peterborough. Mr. Allen criticized both the play and its production but said it merited the award for "certain brilliances."

He added, however: "Moments of memorable brilliance were spoiled by passages of memorable banality." The plot, which concerned merry old King Cole and a scheme to overthrow him, resembled "the libretto for a 19th-century opera to which the music had never been supplied."

Mr. Allen praised the Elda Cadogan play "Rise and Shine," staged Saturday afternoon, as "simply and genuinely written. . .It's not a copy of anything, but within its own idea, full of invention."

The adjudicator also had high praise for the acting without words of young Lamb. The deaf-mute performance "will linger in my mind for a very long time."

Truman Happy About Release From Long 17-Hour-A-Day Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — A gray, 68-year-old Missourian, radiating cheer and voicing deep satisfaction with his stewardship, today puts in his last full day at the world's biggest job.

At noon Tuesday he will become private citizen Harry S. Truman.

Leaving the White House, he will see Dwight D. Eisenhower sworn in to succeed him as President of the United States. Then he will head back to Missouri.

Truman will be out of a job for the first time in more years than he can remember, and ready to try his hand at loafing after working about 17 hours a day for nearly eight years. He gives the appearance of being in excellent health.

Truman will not loaf for long, however. He has already made plans to open up a private office in Kansas City, near his home at Independence, Mo., to serve as headquarters for his future undertakings, whatever they may be.

Truman will get his first taste of his new freedom when he boards the White House private car — by courtesy of Eisenhower — at Washington's Union station. There secret service protection comes to an end.

And for the first time in nearly eight years, anyone who wants to can go down to Union station and right onto the platform to see Truman off on a trip, without any credentials.

Truman recently has been granting exclusive interviews to some of the veteran reporters assigned there. Accounts of two of them were broadcast over the week-end by Bryson Rash of ABC and Bill Costello of CBS.

Rash quoted the President as saying that at the 1945 Potsdam conference he gave Premier Stalin a broad hint that the U. S. had perfected the atomic bomb and would use it to end the war. Rash quoted Truman: "I am convinced that Stalin did not know what I was talking about. . . ."

Costello said Truman declared that in the last 20 years the Democrats have sought to level out the peaks and valleys between the very rich and the very poor. Costello said he asked whether the balance could be maintained and that Truman replied:

"That depends. The Republicans could very well change the distribution of income by new legislation. Remember, I don't say they will change it. I don't know — and I hope not."

In an interview with the Miami Daily News' correspondent, Truman was quoted as saying he would be happy to serve again in Congress—either as a senator or as a representative.

The future holds no finncial terrors for Truman since he has banked some of his $100,000 salary as President, although no one can say how much he has put away. And he can have his pick of a mounting accumulation of offers to write, lecture and perform other services.

CORONATION BUNTING KEEPS TINY TEXTILE FACTORY ALL A-FLUTTER — They're busy with the coronation bunting at William Parrack's textile printing firm in Rochford, Essex County, England. With the help of only 17 employees, Parrack hopes that by April he will have completed the job of turning out 10 miles of bunting and banners. They will decorate the route Queen Elizabeth will travel on the way to her coronation. At left, employees hand-print three-foot-wide wool flags on the long production line set up in an abandoned hospital building. Completed banners hang overhead. At right, four women begin hanging up the first long lines of a monumental wash. All of the flags must be dried outside, as the plant has no drying room. For the next few months, neighbors will see Union Jacks, red-and-white ensigns, and the colors of Scotland, Ireland and Wales flutter from the long clothes lines each day.

Nova Scotia Girl Acclaimed Leading Figure in Ballet

TRURO, N. S. — (CP)— A Nova Scotia girl who had mastered the highland fling at the the age of seven has become a leading figure in ballet in Peru.

Friends here said Kay MacKinnon, director of the Peruvian national ballet, acquired her love of dancing from a great-great-grandfather who was a champion dancer in Scotland years ago. Kay was only seven when she toured Eastern Canada with a theatrical troupe.

Later she attended Tufts College in the United States and then went to Paris to study under ballerinas of the Russian imperial ballet. She made her debut in Paris with a Russian company.

In France she married a composer and symphony conductor from Peru, and went with him to Peru on the outbreak of the First World War.

Since then she has founded a school of dancing and organized Peru's first ballet. Reports in the Lima press said her ballets are a great artistic achievement.

Getting In House At Night Means Trip In Old Madrid

By EMILIO MOYA

MADRID (AP)—If you live in Madrid and want to get into your house after the theatre, you'll need help.

From 11 p.m. until dawn, the city's night watchmen, called "serenos," are boss. They have the keys to all front doors.

They come on duty, all 1,500 of them, at 10:30 p.m. and make the rounds of the houses in their district, telling the janitors to shut the front door. The sereno is in charge until the janitor gets up to sweep off the sidewalk in front of the house.

And every night, all over Madrid you can hear homecomers screaming "sereno" and clapping their hands to urge him to come more quickly, especially if it's a raw winter night.

Each time the sereno lets you in he wants a tip. If you try to be smart and have a duplicate key made, you still have to pay off the sereno, only now it's a flat monthly toll of 10 or 15 pesetas, about $1.

SERENOS ARE BOSS

In addition to opening front doors, the serenos are charged with maintaining order, preventing robbery, watching for fires and assisting the sick. In Madrid at night, the police only venture out if called by the serenos.

The sereno is a direct descendant of the night watchman of feudal days. His title comes from the old practice of calling the hours: "Twelve o'clock and all is serene."

In most cases, the job is passed down from father to son Sometimes a post is sold, bringing $500 and even $600.

LIVE OFF TIPS

The serenos live exclusively from the tips they get for opening doors or guarding shops. In some aristocratic sectors, a sereno may make as much as 5,000 or 6,000 pesetas a month, as much as the director-general of a government department. The lowliest of serenos will make 2,000 pesetas—more than an army major.

According to unofficial estimates, 950,000 Madrilenos live in apartments, the remaining 350,000 in private homes or hotels But it doesn't make any difference; all doors must be closed and the sereno is there to take his toll.

Damaged Church Rebuilding, Third Completed

By STERLING SLAPPEY

LONDON (AP)—London's supreme effort to rebuild war-damaged churches and remount their stately spires will be one-third complete when Coronation visitors flood Britain.

Nazi airmen and buzz bombs, whether or not they were aiming for London's churches, struck 624 out of 701 Anglican churches.

The damage still is evident in every section of the city, but after five years of labor, 200 restoration and repair jobs are nearly finished.

Among them are 15 famous churches—some of them huge and some just parish meeting houses—standing again in the heart of London's sightseeing districts

Canadian, American and European visitors at Coronation time can't miss seeing at least two or three of the 15 if they do any sightseeing at all. Distinguishing restored churches or restored sections, however, will be difficult. Restoration work looks almost exactly like the original masonry and carpentery of four and five centuries ago.

St. James, Piccadilly, cost £125,000 to restore and All Saints, Langham Place, cost £120,000

WILL COST MORE

Several other restoration projects eventually will cost far more than construction of the original buildings. In many instances, extensive research and study were needed before artists, master carpenters and masons could begin their work.

The bill for restoration of war-damaged churches in London alone —not counting huge jobs in Coventry, Plymouth, Southampton and dozens of other large British cities will cost nearly £4,000,000.

The British government eventually will mee about £3,000,000 of the London bill. Public subscription, church donations, bequests, fund-raising stunts and foreign contributions must raise the remainder.

High Pressure U.K. Con Men Due For Rude Awakening

By ROBERT JELLISON

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's fraternity of high-pressure conmen, dreaming of easy pickings when the suckers arrive to see the Coronation next June, will get a rude awakening when they run into special Scotland Yard precautions.

The spivs, hustlers who live by their wits on the fringe of Britain's underworld, get short shrift from police every day of the year but at Coronation time they'll find they never had it so bad.

Backroom boys at Scotland Yard have drawn up lists of undesirables, pinned photographs to them and have distributed them to London police stations. Forces of anti-con men will circulate through city crowds.

With standing or sitting room along the Coronation route already selling on the legitimate market at fabulous sums, the spivs can be counted on to become super salesmen. A gullible foreigner looking for a vantage point, may find he has bought the British equivalent of the Brooklyn Bridge if he runs into the "wideboys."

SHORT SUPPLY

The motto of the spivs is "wideboys never work" and their uniform is "American-styled clothes with wide, padded shoulders and drape shapes. Their wares are whatever is in short supply—nylons, bananas or tickets to major sporting events."

They became a feature of the British scene during the war, when blackmarketeering was a thriving occupation.

The spivs often spend enough energy to bring them a decent legitimate living simply by trying to avoid a regular job. They start to work at dawn and often are going after dark, pushing cartloads of precious commodities through the streets. They never bother with price tags, charging whatever the traffic will bear.

VERY RESOURCEFUL

They are also resourceful and quick off the mark. When the King died last February, they thronged the steets along which the funeral cortege was to pass, selling black armbands and bits of crepe to mourners at handsome prices.

It was soon after the war that the name spivs came into use. Whenever they were arrested, they were usually booked in as "suspected person—inveterate vagrant" such arrests soon became so numerous that police sergeants simply abbreviated the entry—spiv.

Song Quality Poor For Coronation

By GARTH RAWLINS

LONDON (Reuters)—Coronation songs are flooding London's Tin Pan Alley, but it's mostly quantity instead of quality.

Every buding song writer from village choirboy to retired music teacher is trying to write the year's top song. Mountains of manuscripts range from marches and classical odes to polkas, waltzes and straight "pop" tunes.

If the tunes are old, at least the words are new. Moon-June have given way to coronation-adoration.

The amateurs' rehashing and scalping of the old favorites hasn't rung the bell yet. Some publishers are going right back to the old-time songs and issuing them unchanged, except for a new set of up-to-date Coronation lyrics.

MUST BE HIT

"Any new song with the Coronation theme, no matter how good, will have only a short life so it must be an immediate hit for it to make money," said one publisher. "On historic occasions the established songs expressing true sentiments hold the imagination."

The publishers say the people will prefer traditional ballads and such numbers as Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory" around the time of the Coronation next June.

ARTIST JOSEPH CHRISTOPHE and portrait of Queen Elizabeth II. The old socks on his arm are his woollen "painter's" palette.

Artist Paints With Tweezers Old Discarded Sweaters

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS (NEA)—Working with an eyebrow tweezer for a brush and any old discarded sock or sweater, traveling salesman Joseph Christophe can lay claim to having invented something entirely new in the realm of art. Right now 33 of his works, portraits, studies, landscapes—all guaranteed 'pure wool' and as tenuous as a spider's web—are being shown on the Left Bank.

Unlike brother artists, Joseph has never attended art school. He knows absolutely nothing about drawing or perspective. For the notable people he has portrayed, he works from ordinary photographs which have appeared in magazines.

"My mother owns a wool store at Vernet-les-Bains in the Pyreness," Christophe explains. "One day I happened to be fingering some samples of yarn which were lying around and mechanically I began making patterns of them on the table before me. Then I tried to make a portrait of my father asleep in his easy chair. It worked and I decided that this would be an amusing hobby in my spare time."

Christophe's wool portraits are extremely lifelike. He has done all the great of today—Pope Pius XII, President-elect Eisenhower, Queen Elizabeth II, the Duke of Edinburgh, Generals Ridgway and MacArthur, Winston Churchill, President and Madame Vincent Auriol, Prime Minister Pinay as well as Pablo Picasso and Pablo Casals. He also shows studies of an old Catalonian peasant and even a seascape.

"I prefer doing portraits because a portrait presents more of a challenge," declared Christophe.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, flanked with roses and pink and white candles in silver candelabra.

Previous to leaving for their honeymoon, the bride presented her bouquet to her 82-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Maggie Adams. Fenella.

DOROTHY DIX

No Home, Lacks Ability Student Sticks To College

DEAR MISS DIX: Our problem is our 21-year-old son who married recently. We asked him not to marry until next year when he will finish college, but he wouldn't listen. Naturally, he has no job, and his wife was to continue working to help support herself, but now she is pregnant. He refuses to quit college, although he has never been a good student. However, he is staying to keep out of service, which is, in itself, cowardice.

We are not in a financial position to help them much, and at present he is with us and she is with her people. They see each other week ends; he has all the privileges of a married man and none of the responsibilities. We feel he should leave school and get a job to support his family. Somewhere along the line I guess we failed or he would not be so lacking in consideration of his wife and parents. ELLEN

NO WALL FLOWER—Humpty Dumpty sat on a wall and as everyone knows, he had a great fall. If pretty Mary Sullivan, budding film star, had been around, there wouldn't be much mystery over why Humpty fell. It wouldn't take much to make a guy call him an egghead if he did. Better not fall, however, for with Mary around all of the King's men wouldn't find time to help a mere man with a cracked head.

ANSWER: You aren't so much to blame in this situation as you think, Ellen. The times we live in do not inspire stability in young men. Few of them can plan too far into the future, and many of them need a girl who is willing to gamble on a precarious present to supply the impetus for situations like your son's. Involved in his general lack of responsibility now are himself, his wife, his wife's parents, and his own family. All of you are aiding and abetting him, consciously or not, to avoid the obligations of his family.

DON'T AID HIM FINANCIALLY

If the boy had a serious interest in his education, and maintained good grades, I would urge you to make the necessary adjustments to keep him in school till he graduates. However, in view of his attitude toward college, the effort would be wasted. You should withdraw all financial aid from him, at least as far as furthering his education goes, and insist that he establish some sort of a home, either with his in-laws, with you, if you're willing to take the young couple and have room for them, or, by themselves. He is making a very poor foundation for family life and, if he hasn't the gumption to stand on his own feet, someone will have to set him up on them.

Twenty-one is a very early age for a young man to assume the tremendous responsibility of a family, but, since he and the girl embarked on the venture of their own free will, it's up to them to prove their maturity by establishing a home for their child. Once they have shown their willingness to face the obligations of parenthood, I do think both their families should give what help they can—material or otherwise. However, if the assistance is offered before the young folks make the attempt to tacke their own problems, they'll be inclined to lean on everyone else forever.

It would be a good idea for you to talk the matter over with a marriage counsellor — presenting a more detailed picture of the problem—to get concrete advice as to the best way to convince your son that he is no longer a dependent child of your household, but a man who should be presiding over his own home.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A few nights ago my girl friend and I went for a ride with two boys, one a friend of hers and one a stranger to both of us. The stranger and I paired off, and he was very pleasant. When we got home he kissed me good-night and asked if he could see me Sunday, but henever showed up. I liked him a lot and am worried that perhaps I did not behave properly. P. S.

ANSWER: Such masculine vagaries you must learn to take in stride. Your life will be full of men who will promise to call, write or see you, then never reappear. They seem to think it's a gentle way to give a girl a brush-off. The solution is: don't become too attached on just one date.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I separated two years ago over another woman. Now he is asking me to go back to him. His mother says she feels the only way he will straighten out is to be back with me. I was happy by myself, but I still love him and would do anything to help him. F. M.

ANSWER: Your own conscience alone must be your guide. Apparently you are looking for justification in going back to your husband, and since you're willing to take the chance, it might work. I hope so.

New Shows Awaken Broadway Interest

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK (AP)—For three weeks Broadway has been as lacking in new, exciting shows as a desert.

Now comes the deluge and the last two weeks of January bring a series of new shows which promise much with stellar casts and outstanding playwrights. Also, there is a revival of an ancient hit.

The procession started with "Be Your Age" in which former screen star Conrad Nagel plays a leading role. A play with laughs, it has Nagel trying to escape the romantic interlude that a girl much younger than he demands.

Next came "The Love of Four Colonels," a comedy by Britain's Peter Ustinov, which has the husband-wife team of Rex Harrison and Lilli Palmer in feature roles.

Harrison, as the devil, conducts four colonels of the occupying powers in Germany to a castle in which Miss Palmer is a sleeping beauty. Each colonel tries in his own way a romantic conquest.

The revival among the new group is "The Bat," a hit of 1920. The story concerns a banker who leaves his office at the same time a fortune in cash disappears from his bank. "The Bat" returns with an exciting cast including Zasu Pitts, Lucille Watson, Sheppard Strudwick and Harry Bannister.

Vina Delmar, the fiction writer, turns up as a playwright at the Vanderbilt Theatre Jan. 21 with a play called "Mid Summer," with an excellent cast headed by Mark Stevens, Geraldine Page and Vicki Cummings. Miss Delmar sets her action in a hotel room in Manhattan of 1907 as she tells of a school teacher who wants to write for show business.

"The Crucible," arrives at the Martin Beck Theatre the next night. It is the new work of playwright Arthur Miller, author of "Death of a Salesman" which in the 1948-49 season won both the Pulitzer Prize and the New York Drama Critics Circle award.

In "The Crucible" Miller turns to a study of witchcraft in Salem, Mass., in 1692. Arthur Kennedy, Beatrice Straight and Walter Hampden head the cast.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Serving Hot Breads Hot

My sister received the most intriguing Christmas gift. Say it slowly: "Bun warmer." If you ripped it off quickly you might come a cropper.

It is a large spherical affair of hammered aluminum with a lid as large as its lower half. Inside at bottom is a trivet. On top is a handle that turns to allow steam to escape.

You can do countless things with it, but it is especially useful for warming buns on top of the stove over very low heat. If your stove is not electric use an asbestos pad to keep dish clean (if you are lucky enough to acquire one). You can even "bake" potatoes and apples on top of the stove in it, if you leave them on long enough.

It is attractive, too, and of course may be carried straight to the table. Stand it on a pad. If the lid is replaced contents keep hot during entire meal.

The other morning my sister made French toast and kept it hot in the bun warmer over very low heat as she made it. Then whisked it off to the table as soon as the bacon was ready. Pretty slick.

FRENCH TOAST (with Variations)

Six slices stale white bread, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, about 2 tablespoons butter. Cut bread ½-inch thick. Beat eggs, then add milk and other ingredients and beat. Soak each slice of bread in this mixture about 1 or 2 minutes. Have butter in frying-pan bubbling but not brown. Panfry slices in it, turning when underside is golden, and brown other side. Serve hot with bacon or sausages. Pete has to have jam or maple syrup on his.

Variation: (1) Put 2 pieces of buttered bread together with sliced cheese between. Soak in the egg-milk mixture 3 minutes. Panfry as above. (2) Use tomato juice instead of milk. (3) If sweet toast is wanted for dessert add 1 tablespoon sugar to the egg mixture and serve with strawberry preserves.

LEMON MUFFINS

These are wonderful for a luncheon where you are featuring a salad or for a Sunday high tea.

Cream ½ cup butter until light and fluffy, then gradually beat into it ½ cup sugar. Add 2 egg yolks and beat well. Sift flour and measure 1 cup. Sift flour with 1 teaspoon baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt. Add these alternately with ¼ cup lemon juice to the creamed mixture. Mix well, then add grated rind 1 lemon. Fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into small greased muffin tins, filling them ¾ full. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Serve hot in covered dish.

SOUR CREAM ROLLS (Yeast)

(Since I discovered I could buy sour cream for 18 cents for ½ pint I've been using it frequently. I'll give you my recipe for sour-cream and horseradish sauce to use with beef later on — maybe next week.)

Two cups thick sour cream, 1 package granular yeast, ¼ teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ cup sugar, 4 cups flour, melted butter. Scald the cream and cool to lukewarm. Take out ½ cup and sprinkle yeast over and add 1 teaspoon sugar. Stir and let soak 10 minutes. Add the soda, salt and sugar to remaining cream, and mix. When yeast mixture is foamy add it and the flour, stirring constantly until smooth. Brush top of dough with melted butter and allow to rise to about 2½ to 3 times its original volume. Then knead lightly for 1 minute and divide dough into 2 parts. Roll out 1 part at a time into rectangles ⅛-inch thick. Brush with melted butter and cut into lengthwise strips 2 inches wide. Place strips on top of each other and cut off pieces 1½ inches wide. Pleace these pieces in small buttered muffin tins with cut edges up. Let rise until doubled. Bake at 425 deg.

Cavan Club Completes Two Quilts

CAVAN — (ENS)—The Cavan Club held their January meeting at the home of Mrs. W. Elson.

A pot luck dinner was enjoyed at noon. Fourteen members were present and two quilts were quilted. During 1952 eight regular meetings were held at the homes of Mrs. Lloyd Sutton, Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. H. Dawson (two meetings), Mrs. Marshal Larmer, Mrs. W. Elson, Mrs. Jas. Nelson and Mrs. Edgar Fallis. Eleven quilts were quilted. Four were donated to the Red Cross Society, Millbrook. Proceeds from sale of quilts, custom quilting, pot luck dinners, afternoon teas and a euchre held in Whitfield's School amounted to $159.56. Expenditures for quilting supplies, gifts for hospitalized members. Donations were $15 to the Red Cross Society, $25 to the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, and $5.90 toward a layette amounting to $125.09 leaving a balance of $34.47. The officers for 1952 are again slated for 1953 and are president Mrs. W. Elson, vice-president Mrs. H. Dawson, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Hal Argue.

ANDREWS.—In loving memory of Roy M. Andrews, who passed away January 19, 1946.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Florence, son-in-law Bev. and grandson Le Roy.

CLANCY.—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Daisy Clancy, who passed away January 19, 1946.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.
—Ever remembered by husband, Joseph; Gerald, Marie, Peter, Patsy and Joan and Bill Thomas.

RUSSELL.—In ever loving memory of our beloved mother, Eliza Ellen Russell, who entered the presence of her Lord, January 19, 1952.
We watched her suffer, day by day,
It caused us bitter grief
To see her slowly fade away
And could not give relief.
Her weary hours and days of pain,
Her troubled nights are passed;
And in our aching hearts we know
She has found sweet rest at last.
'Tis sweet to know we will meet again,
Where parting is no more,
And our dear mother we loved so well
Has only gone before.
God knows how much we miss her,
He counts the tears we shed,
And whispers, "Hush, she only sleeps,
Your mother is not dead."
Someday, sometime, our eyes shall see
The face we loved so well,
Someday, sometime, her hand we'll clasp
And never say farewell.
—Sadly missed by her family.

Picketer Has Window Broken

WINDSOR (CP)—Windows were broken Saturday night in the home of one person who took part in the picketing of the U. S. consulate here earlier in the day, and a second member of the picketing group reported to police that he had received a threatening telephone call.

Police said six panes of glass in the front window of the home of Mrs. Roscoe S. Rodd, were broken. Mrs. Rodd notified police and a search of the area was made. No suspects were captured.

Mrs. Rodd was one of a group which picketed the Canada Trust building, where the U. S. consulate here is located, on Saturday morning, carrying signs urging commutation of the death sentence imposed by a U.S. judge on Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, convicted atom spies.

Another member of the picketing party, Lyle Dotzert, reported to police Saturday night that he had received a threatening telephone call. The unidentified caller, Dotzert reported, said that the Dotzert home would be "paid a visit" later in the evening.

There was no labor report of violence at the Dotzert home.

Ascorbic Acid In Citrus Fruits In Vitamin C; Prevents Scurvy

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Tht expression "limey" as applied to the British, and particularly to British sailors, has an interesting origin.

Years ago many sailors in the British Navy and Merchant Marine had to be at sea for many months at a time, during which they were often completely deprived of fresh fruits and vegetables. As a result, many suffered from a disease known as scurvy.

Someone discovered that if a sufficient quantity of limes (or lemons) was carried on board ship and the sailors made to suck these at reasonably frequent intervals, scurvy became far less frequent. Hence the name "limey."

It is, of course, known now that scurvy is brought on by an insufficient supply of vitamin C, or ascorbic acid in the diet. It can be prevented, consequently, by citrus fruits, which contain large quantities of this vitamin.

The vitamin is also present in green vegetables, fresh fruit juices, tomatoes, some root vegetables, and in small amounts in milk. The disease can be avoided by including enough of these foods in the diet.

Scurvy comes on slowly. Loss of weight, a feeling of weakness, vague pains in the legs, and paleness of the skin are typical. Soon the gums begin to become swollen and spongy, and bleed easily when brushed or rubbed. The changes in the gums may become so bad that the teeth loosen and fall out. If vitamin C remains away from the diet for a long time, the bone of the jaw can actually decay.

The breath becomes foul and the tongue swollen and red. Bleeding under the mucous membrane of the mouth is common. Gradually the skin becomes more dry and rough.

Swelling around the ankles is common, the heart palpitates and its beat becomes more feeble and irregular; mental depression is characteristic. These symptoms come with advanced scurvy and are not seen so often now that we know how they can be prevented.

WOUNDS HEAL POORLY

In mild forms there may be only inconspicuous signs, such as poor healing of wounds, a tendency to certain infectious diseases, easy bleeding when cut, and increased susceptibility to ulcers of the stomach.

This type of scurvy can be discovered only by making chemical examinations of the blood or the urine for ascorbic acid.

When insufficient quantities are found, the condition can be remedied readily by supplying more vitamin C in the diet. Today scurvy, at least of the severe variety, is a vanishing disease in all countries whose inhabitants eat a reasonably balanced diet.

Drinks Tobacco Water Quebec Child Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Rejean Belisle, 2, of Ste. Therese de Blainville, Que., died in hospital here Sunday after drinking water in which chewing tobacco had been shredded and boiled.

Diane Belisle, 6, his sister, who also drank the concoction was reported "out of danger" today by hospital authorities.

Provincial police said the mother had been told the liquid had medicinal qualities.

Crack Down On Husbands

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario husbands who desert their families are going to find things tougher in future.

Welfare Minister Goodfellow said his department, concerned, by the fact more husbands have disappeared since the Second World War than during the depression, is studying ways of strengthening desertion laws.

Last year 945 wives and 2,163 children received monthly government allowances in lieu of the support normally obtained from their delinquent family heads.

A special investigator appointed last year said most men who leave their families in the lurch must expect to be caught sooner or later.

One man missing for five years was traced through liquor and driving permits. He readily admitted his identity and quickly agreed to a $20-a-week settlement with his wife.

Gaspe Man Dies Of Wound In Head

GASPE, Que. (CP) — Julien Coulombe, 25, died in hospital today of a bullet wound in the head. Police in nearby Perce held an unidentified man in connection with the shooting Saturday night.

Police said Coulombe was shot in a quarrel over the affections of a woman at Cloridorme, small Gaspe peninsula village.

Coxsackie Virus Affected 2,000

BRANTFORD (CP) — Two thousand victims of an unusual epidemic in this district last summer may have been suffering from a disease caused by coxsackie virus.

The current issue of the Canadian Public Health Journal, reviewing the epidemic, says studies of the virus are being conducted at the University of Toronto.

The story says about one person in 20 was affected by the ailment, dubbed "Brantford fever." The symptoms, similar to poliomyelitis, were severe and unremitting headaches, fever from 101 to 103 degrees, stiffness of the neck and pain in the back.

Scientists noted that a germ known as the coxsackie virus produced infections similar to those of non-paralytic polio, and the general characteristics of the outbreak here suggest it may have been a coxsackie virus infection.

RED CHINA REFORMS A LANDLORD — Two smuggled photographs from Red China reveal a Communist trial and execution of man whose real crime was owning two-thirds of an acre of land. In the picture at top, Huang Chin-chi kneels before a crowd of his neighbors and friends, in the province of Kwangtung. He is held, bound, by a leash. He has been discovered as a land owner in the face of Red land reform, and convicted before a "people's tribunal." In the bottom picture, he receives his punishment—execution by rifle bullet at the hands of a Red sharpshooter, part of a group sent into the area to "reform" conditions. The action took place in July, and was recorded by the Reds' own photographer. The film was smuggled into Hong Kong this month by a disillusioned Red.

Seguin To Stand Trial In Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—Henry Seguin, sentenced to five years in penitentiary last week for attempted bank robbery in British Columbia, will be returned to Ontario shortly to stand trial for murder.

Seguin, captured by RCMP near Williams Lake, B.C., is wanted in connection with the slaying last August of Leonard Hurd, a taxi-company operator in Maxville, Ont.

Provincial police headquarters here said arrangements are being made to send an escort for Seguin, probably within two or three weeks.

Hurd was found shot to death Aug. 18 in one of his taxis. He was believed robbed of more than $1,000. Police said at the time that Seguin's name was found on a discharge certificate in a club bag found in the back of the death car. They said Seguin was seen in Maxville the night of the slaying and later near the spot where Hurd's body was found.

Officer Pleads Innocent To Front Line Charges

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP) — Lieut. John Robert Dufton, St. Thomas, Ont., today pleaded innocent to two charges arising out of Christmas Day happenings on the front line in Korea.

At a court-martial before Col. Robert Clark, Lieut. Dufton pleaded not guilty of drunkenness on active service and secondly to abandoning command of his platoon and without orders of superior officers proceeding forward of the front line and endangering the lives of a search party sent out to bring him back.

The incidents allegedly happened on what was then the sector of the United Nations line occupied by the Royal 22nd Regiment. Col. Clark, commandant at Camp Borden, Ont., was flown to Korea to preside over the court.

In another, unrelated incident, reported by Boss on Dec. 30, four Canadian soldiers who loaded up on rum staged a private war of their own in no-man's-land, killed at least three Chinese soldiers and landed in jail when they got back to the Canadian lines.

Prosecutor Capt. Rene Hamelin, Montreal, rested his case after producing six witnesses. The trial resumes Tuesday.

Much of the court's time today was taken up with a technical discussion defining the Van Doos' "forward defended localities" and whether the point at which a search party found Dufton was within or beyond them. The party was led by Dufton's company commander, Maj. Andre Letourneau of Quebec.

Lieut. G. M. Fornier, Verdun, Que., testified Dufton visited his bunker Christmas afternoon, had a drink of whisky, joked about patrolling in the day time and tried to persuade several of Fournier's men to accompany him.

Fournier said he ordered them not to go.

Fournier said: "He was in a Christmas mood but not drunk."

SAFELY TRAVERSED

Maj. Letourneau told the court that while the spot where Dufton was found was well ahead of the platoon localities, it was safely traversed daily by his company providing they obtained his permission first.

The prime danger was from his own troops when they spotted movements. Letourneau said Dufton wasn't intoxicated though he apparently had been drinking.

He added: "However, in view of his previous actions, I considered it safer to place him under arrest. I couldn't take a chance and I won't take a chance with the lives of troops."

Dufton's "previous actions" were not explained in testimony, apart from evidence by Cpl. Conrad Belanger, Montreal, and Ptes. G. Demers, North Bay, Ont., Roland Roulet, Verdun, Que., and L. Theriault, St. Amateur, N. B., that Dufton tried to persuade them to patrol No-Man's-Land with him.

They said he told them it was "to see whether the river is frozen."

Evidence was that two parties searched for him, the first under Fournier and the second under Letourneau.

Pipeline Project To Start Across Michigan

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Work is expected to start this spring on a major pipeline project that will bring Canadian oil across the entire length of Michigan's upper peninsula and down through the lower peninsula to Port Huron.

Canada's Interprovincial Pipeline Co. is completing plans to extend its crude oil pipeline system from Superior, Wis., to Sarnia, Ont., across the river from Port Huron.

The company plans to lay a 30-inch pipe with an ultimate capacity of 300,000 barrels of oil a day.

The existing pipeline now ends at Superior. The proposed 635-mile route would cut across northern Wisconsin, enter Michigan at the upper peninsula near Ironwood, cross the straits at St. Ignace, and cross the St. Clair river from Port Huron to Sarnia.

The new link will be built and operated by Interprovincial. President T. S. Johnson said the extension is scheduled for compietion before the end of 1953.

Initially, a single pumping station is planned at Superior that could deliver 83,500 barrels a day to Sarnia. Future installations of additional pumping stations along the route would boost the capacity to 300,000 barrels a day.

Purpose of the pipeline is to provide a year-around outlet for crude oil from the Western Canadian oil fields.

At present, during the open shipping season, Interprovincial delivers about 82,000 barrels of oil a day on tanker runs from Superior to Sarnia and the Toronto area.

During the four months of the year when the Great Lakes are frozen deliveries must be halted.

So far, the company has had only informal talks with the Michigan public service commission, which must issue a certificate of convenience and necessity before actual work can begin.

Commission spokesmen said when the company does make formal application for such a permit it should be speedily granted.

Only token resistance may come from oil tanker interests.

The U. S. subsidiary already has approval from the federal petroleum administration for defence for delivery of 45,000 tons of pipe.

The company has asked the state highway department for permission to cross Michigan highways at 33 points. The company also may ask permission to lay the pipe parallel to Michigan highways at some points if there is any trouble getting right of way on private land.

From the upper peninsula, it is reported that the company is already moving in heavy equipment and hiring men to clear land in preparation for the start of the project.

Blower-Filter Furnace Units Spell Economy

Two ideas are uppermost in the minds of average home owners. One is to save space, the other is to save—need it be mentioned? — money. These ideas often apply to home appliances.

In home appliances there are two ways to save money: (1) you sacrifice your comfort and don't buy them—this is the negative approach—or (2), you buy the ones that reduce existing expenses and have your comfort at the same time.

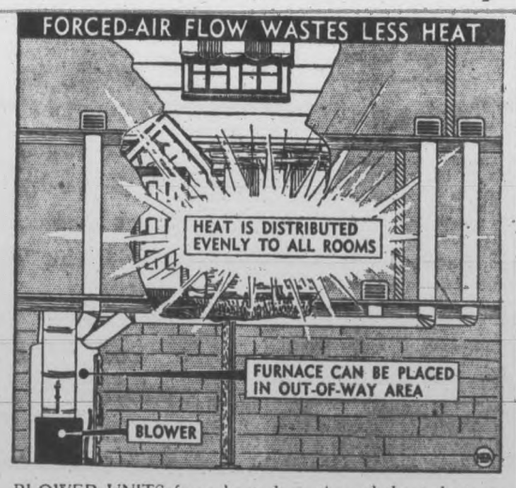
One such appliance that comes to mind can save home owners money according to Method No.2, and save space, too. It's the blower-filter unit designed for attachment to gravity warm air furnaces.

Tests have shown 34 per cent more heat can be obtained from the same amount of fuel after conversion to a forced warm air system by attaching a blower-filter unit.

It adds that many home owners who have converted to the forced warm air system have reported up to 25 per cent saving in fuel bills over the heating season.

As for its space-saving feature, the forced warm air furnace—unlike the gravity furnace — does not need to be placed in the centre of the basement. It can be located anywhere in the basement or utility room, making it possible to utilize available space to the best advantage.

As you well know, this feature is especially desirable in the small compact home of today. Smaller ducts may also be used with the forced warm air furnace, a factor which helps to conserve head room in the basement.



The blower-filter unit helps to solve heating problems of the long, rambling ranch-type home as well. Rooms far from the furnace, which might ordinarily be hard to heat, are easily and comfortably heated by forced warm air.

In an average-sized home employing this system, the air is changed completely about 75 times daily. Each time it is changed, the air passes through filters of the blower unit which rid the air of 85 per cent of all its dust, dirt and lint. This helps prevent dirt damage to the house and its furnishings.

Not only does this air-cleaning feature of the blower-filter unit aid in keeping redecorating costs down, it also saves the keeper of the house regular housecleaning time and energy—a saving devoutly to be wished by every housewife.

The unit ensures that heat will be evenly distributed and temperatures will be kept as nearly constant as possible in all rooms of the house. Forced circulation eliminates chilly zones, drafty corners and heat stratification, according to the experts who should know.

Blower-filter units can be attached to any type of gravity furnace whether it is fired by gas, oil or coal. A heating dealer can make the complete installation in from three to four hours, during which time the furnace is cleaned.

BLOWER UNITS force heated air through heat ducts so that less heat is lost in transfer of heated air to rooms of the house.

Weather Ship Keeps Vigil In Pacific Ocean

OTTAWA (CP)—Every day of the year a converted wartime frigate steams in a 10-mile square in the Pacific ocean about 1,000 miles west of Vancouver. Behind this routine voyage is the story of Canada's floating weather stations.

The 10-mile square is the centre of station P, an area 210 miles square where the frigate, fitted with the latest recording instruments and manned by meteorologists and sailors, collects the data on which weather forecasts are based.

This perpetual vigil is shared in 42-day patrols by two vessels—Canadian government ships St. Catherine and Stonetown. Their 57-man crews report weather condition on the surface and at various altitudes.

The reports advise airmen and mariners of storms or of favorable winds. →

READY FOR TROUBLE

Although collecting the weather data is the primary job, the ship at station P also is equipped to go to the help of distressed ships and aircraft.

Station P is one of Canada's chief responsibilities to the International Civil Aviation Organization whose members signed treaties to provide a network of ocean stations for weather information.

A day aboard the 300-foot ship at station P is divided in much the same way as on land—work, recreation and sleep.

Wind reports require the release of a hydrogen-inflated balloon with a reflector attached so that it can be tracked by the ship's radar and its course plotted on the map.

COMPLICATED APPARATUS

To find out the temperature, pressure and humidity in the upper air requires more complicated apparatus. Attached to the balloon is an instrument known as a radiosonde which records and transmits back to the ship the required information.

The weather men aboard ship code the data and transmit it to the mainland where it is relayed by teletype to weather services throughout the world.

Living quarters on the frigates are roomier than a frigate in wartime could boast. There also is a well-equipped recreation room where all ranks may watch movies twice weekly, join in sing-songs, play table tennis, cards or games, read or listen to the radio-phonograph.

COMMANDS STONETOWN—Capt. J. McMonagle, of Victoria, B.C., is commander of the Transport Department's weather ship, the Stonetown. The vessel is one of three floating weather stations which take turns at patrolling Station P, 1,000 miles west of Vancouver in the Pacific Ocean, collecting weather data and making forecasts.

STORM SENTINELS—Two of Canada's floating weather stations lie at anchor at their base at Esquimalt, B.C. The Stonetown and the St. Stephen, owned by the Department of Transport, are two of three ships which patrol Station P, an area 1,000 miles west of Vancouver in the Pacific Ocean, collecting weather data and making forecasts. They also are equipped to go to the aid of distressed ships and aircraft. The third ship is the St. Catherine. The St. Stephen is a standby vessel.

Currie Report Conflict Likely Will Go On And On

OTTAWA (CP)—The smoke of battle is still swirling too thickly to tell just where the parliamentary conflict over the Currie report is going to lead—except on and on.

The past week enhanced its reputation as the toughest scrap in which the Commons has engaged in recent years. It was a week of accusations and counter-accusations, of bitter exchanges and roundhouse oratory.

Nobody knows just when the debate will end—it resumes Tuesday—but it may be this week. The the whole thing moves into another sphere where it is bound to blossom forth.

GET OPPORTUNITY

For it is then, when the report goes before the committee on defence expenditures, that members will have a chance to fire questions at two important men who have figured prominently in the debate itself—pivoting on a motion for establishment of the committee.

They are George S. Currie, the former deputy defence minister and Montreal accountant who signed the report, and Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, chief of the general staff, who has been criticized in the House on the grounds he publicly intervened in the controversy.

Mr. Currie signed a report which pictured a "general breakdown" in the army works services, and criticized indifference to administration among defence "higher-ups," and "serious" weaknesses in army security. Gen. Simonds, in a memo tabled by Prime Minister St. Laurent, took exception to certain parts of the report. He also replied publicly to critics of the army.

BRANTFORD (CP) — Stanley and Ronald Pierce were fined $5 and costs Friday for painting a house on a Sunday, outside the regular hours set by the Industrial Standards Act.

If Candidate Loses Hees To Eat Shirt

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — George Hees, Progressive Conservative MP for Toronto-Broadview, made a bet here Saturday.

He promised to "eat my shirt in the public square" if Elizabeth Janzen, Progressive Conservative candidate for North Waterloo, loses out in the next federal election.

"And that's a promise I'll keep," he told a conference of the Western Ontario Young Progressive Conservative Association.

John R. C. Moffatt Dies In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—John R. C. Moffatt of Toronto, assistant secretary of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, died Saturday.

Born in Scotland, he first joined the Bank of Commerce in Winnipeg. He served overseas in the First World War and was awarded the Military Medal.

After the war, he went to Fort Frances and was later bank manager at two Toronto branches and at Exeter.

Ceylon Deal Worries U.S.

WASHINGTON— (AP) —The retiring U.S. foreign aid chief, Averell Harriman, expressed "critical concern" Saturday over a deal by Ceylon to ship 250,000 tons of strategic rubber to Communist China during the next five years.

In a farewell report to Congress, Harriman said the Ceylon government concluded the deal with the Reds after spurning a United States offer to buy the rubber at existing world market prices.

Ceylon preferred to negotiate a five-year rubber deal with Peiping, he said, because the Communists consented to pay 40 per cent. higher than market prices.

Ceylon, an island in the Indian Ocean, is a self-governing dominion of the British Commonwealth.

Harriman cited the Ceylon rubber shipments in an 89-page report telling of the problems involved in blocking shipments of strategic materials to the Communist world.

LTC Superintendent Harold Boyd Dies

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Harold C. Boyd, superintendent of the London Transportation Commission, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Saturday night after an illness of several months.

Mr. Boyd was widely known in London. He was with the London Street Railway and the LTC for 38 years.

States Switch To New Index

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States government today discarded as outmoded its cost-of-living index and brought out a new model shaped to changed spending habits in the U.S.

The last of the old-line indices, measuring price variation from a 1935-1939 base period, was published Friday. It showed a drop of two-tenths of one per cent between mid-November and mid-December. The index was 190.7 per cent of the 1935-1939 average.

Starting with the next index, due in late February, the cost of living will be tied to a 1947-1949 base.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics, said the new index will give the "right price picture" from now on.

Canada switched to a new index last October, moving the base period up to 1949 prices equalling 100 from the old base of 1935-1939.

Ice Storm Claims Life Of Older Woman

EXETER, Ont. (CP)—Saturday night's ice storm claimed an elderly victim here. Annie Sanders, former well known local and district newspaperwoman, who has been in poor health for three years, wandered out of her home and some time later was found dead by her sister, Mrs. Amelia McAvoy, who lived with her.

Coroner Dr. J. G. Dunlop of Exeter stated that death resulted from exposure. No inquest will be held.

Miss Sanders began her newspaper career on the Exeter Advocate. Later she worked on papers at Clifford, Kitchener, Jarvis and Stratford. She retired to Exeter 35 years ago.

Hamilton Teachers Ask For New Bonus

HAMILTON (CP)—A higher cost-of-living bonus, salary adjustments in certain categories and the creation of one new category for teachers with advanced qualifications have been asked by Hamilton's 750 public school teachers.

In a brief submitted to the board of education, the teachers asked for an increase in the living-cost bonus to the extent possible "in the light of its other commitments."

The bonus last year worked out to $354 for each teacher.

Books, Records Aiding Patients

IOWA CITY, Ia. (AP) — Books and musical records are among new adjuncts to modern medicine which are being used with success at the state University of Iowa hospitals here.

Even persons unconscious from a severe injury such as a skull fracture are subjects to whom volunteers read aloud as part of a mental conditioning procedure.

Mrs. Leota Stagg, Librarian in charge of the "reading therapy" program, says it is based on the idea that "a cheerful, happy patient is a better patient" and more likely to respond to treatment.

Doctors and nurses were quick to recognize the value of the program, says Gerhard Hartman, superintendent of university hospitals who explains "its successful application involves close co-operation" and study of individual cases.

ESPECIALLY SUCCESSFUL

"Reading therapy"—known formally as bibliotherapy—is especially effective with patients who are depressed prior to major surgery, with those who have lost use of their legs or arms and with the blind, Mrs. Stagg says.

For its pioneering work in this field, the hospitals have built up a library of 7,500 volumes and a staff of 64 volunteer workers.

Special equipment includes three "talking book" machines on loan from the library of Congress, projectors which throw micro-filmed books on the ceiling, page-by-page, for paraplegics, and reading frames which are attached to the respirators of polio patients.

There are also books in Braille for the blind, books in large type for persons with impaired vision and numerous musical and "talking book" records.

A young woman may read aloud at the bedside of an unconscious patient. Mrs. Stagg explains that often such patients when they regain consciousness, remember parts of the story and ask for the "library lady."

PSYCHOLOGICAL ASSIST

The major use of "reading therapy," however, is for conscious patients who need a psychological assist. The reading helps banish fear.

Paraplegics—those who have lost use of their legs or arms as a result of polio or injury — often pose the greatest challenge.

"Such patients often lose the will to live because their lives have been shattered," Mrs. Stagg points out. "Their therapy program must be well organized, geared toward helping them accept and adjust to their handicap."

The basic thing, says Mrs. Stagg, is that the reading or music — and sometimes even the personality of the person administering the "reading therapy"—be suited for the patient and his particular illness or handicap.

Develop Deposit Of Nickel In Oregon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government announced Friday that two subsidiaries of the M. A. Hanna Company, Cleveland, O., have agreed to undertake production of between 95,000,000 and 125,000,000 pounds of nickel from a deposit in Oregon.

Jess Larson, defence materials procurement administrator, said the agreement means the U. S. supply of the critical metal will be boosted substantially during the next several years.

Hanna Coal and Ore Corp., and the Hanna Nickel Smelting Co. will undertake development of the big deposit in southwestern Oregon known as Nickel mountain, Larson said. He said this was the only major known deposit of the metal in the U. S.

Living Costs Biggest Worry In France

By HAROLD SIEVE

PARIS (Reuters)—For most of the 48,000,000 Frenchmen, the main concern today is not the cold war, the Korean war, German rearmament, ephemeral cabinets but the soaring cost of living.

The problem of meeting, and keeping up with, continually rising prices has taken much of the gaiety out of gay Paris, and raised new wrinkles on the brow of a nation once famous for love of fun and devotion to the arts.

Day-to-day questions of buying food, clothing children and meeting bills harass Frenchmen, and particularly their wives, in almost all sections of the country.

Suffering the worst effects of one of the steepest cost-of-living spirals in the world are the white-collar workers and pensioners. Best off are peasants—whose interests and prices are safeguarded by powerful parliamentary lobbies—the vast army of middlemen, shop-keepers and industrialists.

One of the first questions asked by the visitor to France is "how do the French manage?"

In this country of traditionally good cooking and good eating, food comes first notwithstanding the price. A family of three spends an average of 1,000 francs (about $3) a day on eating—or between 60 and 70 per cent of the breadwinners' earnings.

WINE CHEAP

Wine, indispensable to the French main meal, is cheap. A bottle of "vin ordinaire" costs only 100 francs (30 cents).

The average wage of a French worker is between 35,000 and 40,000 francs (about $100 to $115) a month, to which must be added family allowances which, in the case of three children, come to over 10,000 francs ($28) a month.

But after the food bills are paid, the balance of the budget becomes precarious. Gas and electricity are expensive items which may account for as much as 5,000 francs (about $14) a month during the winter.

One saving grace for most Frenchmen is a small rent. The bulk of unfurnished accommodation in the country has rents strictly controlled at pre-war figures, which are as low as 2,000 or 3,000 francs ($6-$8) a month.

But these low rents mean that buildings are falling increasingly into disrepair because landlords cannot afford repairs, and new building is only done for outright sale.

Whenever unfurnished apartments or houses become vacant, hard-pressed landlords move in a few sticks of furniture and demand—and receive—as much in a month as they previously got in a year.

The search for a roof over their heads is causing anxiety to thousands of young Frenchmen who wish to marry or who, already married, have to suffer discomforts and disruptions of life with "in-laws."

Barb-Penned Beerbohm Insists On Own Privacy

By NANNI SPETIA

RAPALLO, Italy (AP)—Britain's barb-penned Sir Max Beerbohm, who lampooned the public lives of the famous of his time, now insists on his own right to personal privacy.

The fabled "Max" lives within the walled fruit an dflower gardens of his villa Chiaro, a mile outside this tourist haven on the Italian Riviera.

Tourists seldom are aware he is here. He encourages no callers, spends most of his time basking in the sun reading, or rarely, trying out the pen hand that made his caricatures the talk of the early 20th century.

At a vigorous 80, Sir Max thinks he is older than the world and the world is far too old.

LISTENS TO BBC

Absent for 40 years from his native England, he listens nightly to the BBC—and never has troubled to learn Italian.

Recently he received his first news reporter in many years—and then only to provide information for a biographical sketch.

He permitted no pictures—not even of his study, with its rows of books and its originals of many of the cartoons in which he lampooned almost everyone, including the British Royal Family which finally knighted him.

His secretary explained: "He gave the world his books to read and his sketches to smile over. He feels that's enough. He asks only that the curious refrain from prying into the quiet happiness of his private life. It's no use to insist. He is very firm about it."

NO ANGEL

Sir Max was born in London Aug. 24, 1872, and attended fashionable Charterhouse Preparatory School, where he opposed hazing and detested sports. He entered Oxford at 18.

A contemporary described him as "an exquisite r o u n d-faced, small-mouthed, large-eyed, quiet-voiced an wise child, like one of Joshua Reynold's angels. "

No angel, Max set his pen to satire and his acute watercolor sketches to caricature leading personages and the social customs of his times.

He succeeded George Bernard Shaw as dramatic critic for the London Saturday Review—and in his off-work hours set fashion patterns for London dandies with his wasp-waisted suits.

At 40 he apparently decided he had enough of it.

He married American actress Florence Kahn in 1910—left England, and found his "peaceful retreat" here in the sun. His wife died two years ago.

Twice he went back to England—briefly and from necessity

POST-WAR KNIGHT

The first time he made radio broadcasts which, one critic said, owed their popularity to the fact Beerbohm was "so pleasantly out of touch with the times"

He returned again during the Second World War. It was then he was knighted.

He liked a good keen laugh—especially at himself.

On his library desk his books and others—are bound in soft leather stamped with the single gilt "Max" in capital letters.

He likes Windsor Churchill—but never spared him in his sketches.

"I sympathize with him," Sir Max said. "Poor man! We are forever calling him back to work for us."

Heard, head of the astronomy department at the University of Toronto and director of the David Dunlap Observatory at Richmond Hill, has been elected president of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada. Scientists Seeking New Keys To Solve Growth Of Life

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

DENVER (AP) — New keys to the growth of new life are being sought at the University of Colorado medical school.

Life, whether human, bird or animal, starts with the fertilized egg of the mother. This single cell becomes two, the two four, then eight.

The newborn infant is billions upon billions of cells. Some become nerves, some muscle, some hair—yet all start from one cell.

Knowing what controls make these cells change or develop to do these special jobs could be helpful in understanding congenital defects—due to interference with normal controls—and in helping development of premature babies.

The search for keys to these controls is being carried on in the laboratory of chemical embryology headed by Dr. Heinz Herrmann.

MUSCLE CELLS

His team is starting with muscle cells, how and when they first appear in the embryo.

Chicken embryos from one day of development on are used in the studies.

At this early age, the chicken embryo has little buds (limb buds) which will become muscle, cartilage and connective tissue.

The cells inside the bud show no detectable differences at first. Any one of them apparently can become either a muscle or bone or connective tissue cell.

Dr. Herrmann is trying to find the controls, chemical or otherwise which make bud cells make their decision. Dozens of eggs are used weekly, seeking the sequence of vents and trying to fix the time of this change.

The cells destined to become muscle cells can be transplanted to an egg membrane, and they will develop to a point even without nerve supply.

Nerve supply is necessary to keep the muscle cells alive, as well as make them able to contract.

Some troubles of premature babies are due to being born before full development is completed. This kind of research may help show what kind of care and treatment premature babies need in order to catch up with normal growth.

The chicken embryos also are a tool for study of congenital defects. Chemicals are being tried on embryos to learn what effects they produce.

During the first days of development, the chick embryo resembles a tadpole. At the head are little bulges which will become the eyes and brain. Below the head is a bulge on one side containing the embryonic heart, already pulsing with life.

The oblong body contains two rows of somites, little block-shaped cells which will become bone and muscle. Nerve tubes run between the two rows.

The embryos can be transplanted from the chicken egg onto plates of nutrient material, where they will grow for about a day more.

Addition of some chemicals to the nutrient food changes normal development. Some of the blocks or somites may join together, preventing normal division and segmentation of the body. Another chemical may make the nerve tubes change to a zig-zag instead of straight shape.

Germany Setting Sights At New Trade Conquests

By BRACK CURRY

BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany, riding a boom that produced its first foreign trade surplus since the war, is aiming at new trade conquests in 1953.

The Germans are planning to invade the Oriental car market, expand their trade with South America, Africa, and Middle and Far East, and push deeper into the rich Canadian and United States markets.

A spectacular world-trade comeback has been scored by the Germans while Britain and France—their wartime conquerors—have been grappling with serious trade deficits.

In just four years, West Germany bounded up from nothing to a favorable trade balance of about 600,000,000 marks ($142,800,000) in 1952.

Before 1948, the Germans had virtually no foreign trade. Now the "Made in Germany" label is familiar again from Singapore to Saskatoon and from Rome to Regina. The Germans are exporting everything from needles to locomotives.

BRITONS ALARMED

Their chief weapon in their planned invasion of the Oriental car market is the little Volkswagen—people's car—which already is being sold in 43 countries. Selling prospects in Japan, Siam, Burma, Hong Kong and Indonesia are considered good for 1953.

Britons are openly alarmed at mounting German sales in foreign markets. British goods are under pressure in many markets in Latin America, the Middle East and Far East from fierce German competition.

A British trade mission just back from Latin America reported many German exports are subsidized by the government and in some cases German prices are 10 to 15 per cent lower than British prices.

In India and Pakistan, which rank with Australia and South Africa as Britain's largest overseas markets, German competition also is worrying Britons.

Like other European countries, West Germany's biggest foreign trade problem is the dollar area. But German imports from the dollar area are dropping while exports to the dollar area are at an all-time high.

Warns Administration

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Alan F. Haywood, executive vice-president of the CIO, warned the new administration Friday "there will be hell to pay" if it tries to destroy the present national union bargaining set-up. Haywood said he referred to recent Republican attacks on country-wide union bargaining agreements.

Fox Hunt Irks Animal Lovers

DORCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters)—A fox hunt that wound up in two homes here has aroused the ire of animal lovers, even though the householders and the fox are happy.

The hunt began in the country but the fox tired of the open chase and ran up Queen's avenue here. English fox hunting laws forbid the sport in populated areas, but the hounds were too hot on the trail to stop over a technicality.

The fox slipped into one house and the hounds followed, baying from one room to another until they left for another house. There they spent a boisterous half hour, upsetting chairs and tables.

The League against Cruel Sports and the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said they would prosecute if they found that the law governing the pursuit of captive animals had been broken.

The Cattistock Foxhounds Hunt Club denied cruelty to any animal.

"I've spoken to the people in the houses concerned," said Mrs. John Cressell, secretary of the club, "and they thought it was rather fun."

P.S. The fox got away.

Hamilton Twp. Council Holds Inaugural

COLDSPRINGS (ENS).—After taking their oaths of office, the reeve, deputy reeve and councillors of Hamilton township assembled for their first 1953 meeting.

The Rev. A. W. Smith of Gore's Landing addressed the council and reminded the members of their responsibilities as elected representatives of the township voters. He pointed out they would be serving in a significant year in the history of Canada, the British Commonwealth and the world.

Following Mr. Smith's remarks, reeve Charles Burrison, deputy-reeve M. Sandercock and councillors A. Jamieson, K. Halstead and E. Cochrane spoke briefly.

Roadmaster Jack Staples, treasurer W. Baker and secretary W. Kennedy outlined the work accomplished in 1952 and brought council up to date on the township's affairs.

After transacting the business on the agenda, council adjourned for lunch at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. McIntosh.

Top Malay Terrorist Killed By U.K. Patrol

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—A high-ranking Malayan Communist terrorist was killed Friday near a road along which High Commissioner Gen. Sir Gerald Templer and his wife had driven an hour before.

He was Choong Nam Wah, commander of the Malacca Independent platoon of the Communist terrorist organization. British troops shot him in the Jasin district of Malacca, where the high commissioner had been inspecting new villages.

No Appeasement Eisenhower Pledge As New President

WASHINGTON (AP) —Dwight David Eisenhower today took office as President of the United States with a pledge to strive for peace but to reject any appeasement of Communist aggression. Right hand uplifted, the 62-year-old general repeated the solemn oath of office at 12:32 p.m. EST and launched his administration with a declaration of "faith that the future shall belong to the free." In a brief inaugural address, Eisenhower promised continued aid to all free nations willing to contribute their fair share to the common defence against Communist expansion.

But he warned:

"We shall never try to placate an aggressor by the false and wicked bargain of trading honor for security. For in the final choice a soldier's pack is not so heavy a burden as a prisoner's chains."

Cloudy skies gave way to the thin sunlight of winter just as the Texas-born, Kansas-reared Eisenhower and President Truman left the White House for the ride to the Capitol and the noon swearing-in of the new President and of vice-president Richard Nixon They rode bare-headed through cheering crowds.

Nixon took the oath at 12:23 p.m. and Eisenhower followed nine minutes later.

ON SPIRITUAL PLANE

Eisenhower's prepared address, only 2,250 words in length—was cast strongly on a spiritual plane. He said nothing of specific plans.

There will be a later State-of-the-Union speech to Congress to set out his legislative program.

Today, he listed nine "fixed principles" which he said must guide the nation "in pleading our just cause before the bar of history and in pressing our hope for world peace."

First and foremost he listed a determination "to develop the strength that will deter the forces of aggression and promote the conditions of peace."

Second, he rejected any idea of appeasing aggression.

PUT COUNTRY FIRST

Third, he called for every citizen to make the U.S. ever stronger and more productive, placing the cause of his country before the comfort of himself.

Fourth, he ruled out any attempt to oppose the country's cherished institutions on others.

Fifth, he pledged further aid to all "proven friends of freedom"—and asked them to put forth "their full and just burdens in the common defence of freedom."

Sixth, he promised American aid to "encourage productivity and profitable trade" among other nations.

Seventh, he gave encouragement to "regional groupings of free nations"—of which the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, formerly headed by himself, is an example.

Eighth, he proclaimed a firm

Farmer Ordered Pay $500 In Back Wages

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A North Dorchester farmer was threatened Monday with a jail sentence if he failed to pay more than $500 in wages owing to new Canadian farm help.

Elmer Williams, who operates a 200-acre farm, was convicted in county magistrate's court of failing to pay due wages and monies owing to Roelof Dekker, a young Dutchman. Dekker, through an interpreter, said he started to work for Williams last June, shortly after he arrived in Canada.

The farmer gave him money for cigarettes and haircuts, bought him two pairs of shoes and occasionally gave him $5 or $10. The immigrant said he was never paid a regular monthly wage which he understood was $80 a month.

For this reason he quit working on the farm Jan. 3 and the farmer gave him a $350 cheque which was not honored by the bank.

Williams said he had forgotten to date the cheque and admitted there were no funds to meet it.

"I think you've been just making a victim of this poor chap who has just come to this country," said Magistrate F. G. McAlister.
